Kingston Defeats Beavers 5-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston Frontenacs are back as co-leaders of first place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League and Harry Sinden has picked up a scoring record for defencemen.

Sinden counted three assists and Orval Tessier, the league's top scorer, tallied two goals last night as the Frontenacs defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers 5-3.

Each club now has 71 points and the Frontenacs have a game in hand. Both are in danger from Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, who have one point of the pace and meet the fifth-place North Bay Trappers in Hull tonight.

Sinden now has scored 40 points on eight goals and 32 assists, one better than the previous mark set by Cy Thomas. He may play two years ago. Three weeks ago he surpassed the previous record of 41 assists for a defenceman, set last year by Pat Stapleton of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds.

The Frontenacs were ahead all the way, leading 3-1 after the first period and 4-1 at the end of the second.

Bobby Attersley, Gordon Miller and Tom McCarthy, with his 43th of the season, got Kingston's other goals. K-W scoring was by two graduates of last year's junior Guelph Royals Ned Gilberg getting two and Jean Ratelle one.

In tonight's other game the fourth - place Sudbury Wolves visit the last-place Thunderbirds.

Commuters Out; Ethics Shelved

Curling Body Clamps Down

KITCHENER (CP)—The Dominion Curling Association clamped down hard Wednesday on commuting curlers.

At its annual meeting the association ruled that competitors in provincial playoffs must live within 25 miles and continuous residents of the playdown area they represent since Aug. 1 of the previous year. But delegates shelved for another year any action on the controversial code of ethics concerning professionalism.

The residence rule was brought in to head this year when three transplanted westerners—skip Hayne Secord from Richter Rash, and vice-skip Vern Larson and Russ Lindberg from Brantford, Ont.—competed in the current Canadian championships for Ontario.

All three are assistant curling managers at the Toronto Tam O'Shanter Club eight months of the year and return home for four months to manage their curling farms.

Exceptions to the rule include government, military, industrial and business transfers, armed services personnel and college students.

A notice of motion for a Code of Ethics was given by Ottawa by past president Collin Campbell. Action on the code, changing this thing forward now so that a vote may be taken at the next annual meeting, he said. This will be held in Brandon, Man., next March.

CAN'T TAKE MONEY

The Code of Ethics, almost word for word with the one adopted by the Ontario Curling Association in 1950, states that a curler to be eligible for provincial competition cannot accept money in a certain and cannot accept any prize valued at more than $150. A rink cannot accept prizes valued at more than $600.

The proposed DCA code also places a reasonable limit on the amount of expense money which a curler may accept for competing in provincial, national and international events sanctioned by his provincial group or the DCA.

A curler classed as a professional could be reinstated only once. He could not be reinstated if he has been a professional for five years or more. He could not be reinstated for at least one year after his violation against the code.

The code would also seek to discourage gambling connected with the sport.

The DCA rejected a change in the sliding rule proposed by the Royal Caledonia Curling Association of Scotland. The new rule would allow a player to put a foot sliding line seven feet behind the hog line with a curler being forced to release his rock before his front foot crossed the line. The DCA will continue to operate with the existing rule under which a player must release the rock before his front foot reaches the hog line.

Officers elected were: J. G. (Ted) Patte of Montreal, president; Dick Topping of Oliver, B.C., first vice - president; Art Richard of Edmonton, second vice-president; Frank Sargent, Port Arthur, third vice-president; Gordon Bennett, Charlottetown, fourth vice-president and Wm. S. Sharpe, Hamilton, honorary treasurer. The executive was expected to reappoint C. H. Scrymgeour of Winnipeg as secretary.

Chess Star Says Award Too Small

STOCKHOLM (CP — AP)—Bobby Fischer of the United States, at 19 a strong contender for the world chess championship, receives first prize, the equivalent of $250, today for his victory over 72 other competitors in the inter - zonal chess tournament.

Fischer made it known Wednesday that he believes the prize to be far too small. Otherwise, he said, he was satisfied with the tournament here, in which he emerged undefeated.

The tournament formally ends today, although sixth place remains to be decided. This is the last qualifying spot for the chess semi-final, late this spring that will determine the challenger for the world chess championship.

Fischer clinched first place with 14½ points out of a possible 18. Polish Grandmaster Filip received 13½ points, with 13 points.

The team entered the COSSA "A" finals at Oshawa by defeating the city's O'Neill collegiate team for a $5.00 score.

They lost the championship to a strong Fort Hope Collegiate squad 34-31. It was a hard fought game throughout with the Quinte girls rallying strongly in the final quarter.

They ran in ten points to cut down the Fort Hope margin but time ran out on them and, as one put it, "so did the guards."

Top scorers for the Quinte team were Lynn Kirkham, who hooped 28 points in both games and Gail Millar with 23 points.

Cheering the team to victory was a number of student supporters.

Minor Hockey

The Barons advanced to the peewee hockey league finals against the Red Wings last night when they defeated the Maple Leafs 5-3 to take the semi-final series 10-6.

The first game of the finals will be played Saturday morning at 10.30 with the second slated for Tuesday evening at 7.15.

Ed Seigle and D. Loder combined to spark the Barons' victory last night, each with two goals and two assists. B. Mulvihill scored the other goal while T. Hutchinson got an assist. Maple Leaf goals were scored by P. Young, P. Sharpe and J. Barrett. A Bradley drew one assist.

Meanwhile, in the bantam loop, the Maple Leafs and Queens fought to a 2-2 tie in the first game of their semi-final series. The second game will be played Saturday morning at 11.30.

D. Bercsiorai fired both Quinte goals last night, assisted on both occasions by D. Dickey, J. Blakely and D. Mallahoon scored for the Leafs while G. Lucas had one assist.

The bantam finals will be played Sunday afternoon at 4.15 and on Tuesday night at nine o'clock.

Boyer Brood All Top Ball Players

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) Baseball, beware. There are more Boyers on the way. Maybe the best is yet to come.

Three brothers now are active in the game. There's Ken, the slugging third baseman of St. Louis Cardinals; Clete, the stick - fielding third baseman of New York Yankees, and Floyd, a pitcher formerly with the Cardinals and now a player-coach with Indianapolis.

Back in Alba, Mo., there's another Boyer doing a fine job also at third base as a high school senior, and Leonard, a 6-foot-4 freshman pitcher who pitches and plays some infield.

Eight other Boyers didn't go in for baseball. Six are girls—Juanita, Delores, Fansy, Shirley, Barbara and Marie. The first girl is the oldest of the family at 38, and the last the youngest at 9. Two other brothers are in other fields. Wayne is a dentist in Kokomo, Ind., and Kern is high school basketball coach at Walker, Mo.

The proud parents of this brood are Chester and Mabel Boyer.

"I guess father gets the credit for our interest in baseball," says Ken.

"He's a born baseball fan and when I was young, even during the depression after working hard all day, he would come home and hit fly balls and catch with us."

Chatham Ousts Strathroy

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons moved into the semi-finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League playoffs here Wednesday night as they scored a 3-2 victory over Strathroy Rockets.

The win gives Maroons the best-of-seven quarter - final series by a 4-2 edge. They now will meet Woodstock Athletics, who eliminated Waterloo Tigers earlier this week.

Maroons had to come from a 2-1 deficit in the third period. George Aitken scored the winning goal at 12:36, slamming in a rebound by defenceman Copper Leyte after Bob Pole had tied the score barely a minute earlier.

Argos To Train in Waterloo

KITCHENER (CP) — Head coach Lou Agase of Toronto Argonauts visited Kitchener Wednesday to talk about a pre-season training camp site and discuss a possible postponement of Bobby Knuts' retirement plans.

He said he was pleased with the University of Waterloo's Seagram Stadium and with local facilities, but a few things had to be worked out before final arrangements could be made.

As to Knutz, Agase said the Eastern Conference club's rugged fullback and linebacker "didn't commit himself."

Knutz announced his retirement at the end of last season because of business pressure. It was his sixth season with Argos.

Agase said he hopes to open his training camp in the Waterloo stadium the first week of July. He said he would bring about 60 players.

Deliberate 'Dirty Play'

Pollock Raps Falls Team

MONTREAL (CP)—Sam Pollock, general manager of the Montreal junior Canadiens, said Wednesday he has complained to the Ontario Hockey Association about "dirty play" by Niagara Falls Flyers in the first game of a best-seven junior semi-final series here Tuesday night.

Canadiens won the game 4-3 but lost two players, defenceman Jacques LaPerriere and left-winger Réjean Richer, carried from the game unconscious during a rough third period.

Pollock said "it is quite obvious that Flyers coach Hap Emms has instructed his players to hipstitch, butt-end, elbow and do everything else that is illegal which will cause our players to be hurt."

He said he was "disgusted at the way Tuesday's game was handled."

"Emms was the chief instigator, but the OHA meeting for asking for certain referees to handle the games. He was also very adamant in his demands that the league use these particular referees in all games."

Last night's referee was Gord Harvey of Toronto. League games played in Montreal are refereed by Montreal officials.

Pollock said Niagara Falls have been practising these dirty tactics all season long and ended up the season in Montreal last Sunday trying to injure some of our players with their dirty play.

"They continued the same style of play on Tuesday.

"They injured LaPerriere and Richer on Tuesday and last Sunday Ron Roberts was crosschecked in the face and Ted Houston was highsticked in the same place. Both players missed most of the game after medical attention."

LaPerriere and Richer, the two Canadiens on the league mid-season all-star team, were not seriously injured.

LaPerriere suffered a charleyhorse in the thigh and may sit out the second game of the series in Niagara Falls Friday night. Richer was cut above the ear, but will play Friday with a protective helmet.

Emms wasn't immediately available for comment on Pollock's allegations, but he had something to say earlier regarding fallow; at Montreal Forum.

"I told his boys, were bombarded with rubbers, pennies, golf balls, tennis balls and programs from the stands.

Hap's solution: The Flyers will wear construction workers' helmets while they're on the bench in Sunday's third game in the Forum.

President of Canada's Largest Lumber Firm Started Work At Eleven at 11 Cents Hour

VANCOUVER (CP) — E. G. Shorter, president of Canada's largest lumber firm, started in the industry in 1915 as an 11-year-old boy loading dressing into wagons for 11 cents an hour.

He spends only four words to explain his climb from a school boy working part time to president of MacMillan, Bloedel and Power River Limited.

"I was determined to."

For the next 17 years he attended night school, taking bookkeeping, accounting and mathematics courses while working a 70-hour week at the mill.

While other students learned their multiplication tables up to 12 and called it quits, he didn't stop until he got to the 40s and 50s.

His promotions came slowly at first, from a laborer loading lumber onto sailing ships to shipper, to foreman and finally lumber inspector.

He worked at several sawmills before he joined the H. R. MacMillan Export Company in 1936, the year before he became the province's champion lumber grader.

Mr. Shorter's climb through company ranks speeded up after MacMillan Export merged with the Bloedel Stewart and Welch companies and later united with the Powell River Company.

He became executive vice-president in November, 1960, then climbed to the top of the huge forest products company in 1962.

Mr. Shorter thinks a young man today could duplicate his rise but concedes that it would be harder.

"You have to do the job better than anyone else and do more than is expected of you to succeed."

Grade Stamping of Lumber Of Interest to Tweed District

W. W. HALL
Dept. Lands and Forests

TWEED — Central Mortgage and Housing recently announced that lumber used in CMHC homes must be grade stamped. That is, the lumber grade must be stamped on each board before it may be used. This announcement is of interest to all lumber operators and forest managers in the Tweed District, since one of their main products consists of pine lumber for the construction market.

Pine lumber is generally classified in seven grades as follows: —

C — select and better. The very finest pieces of lumber, interior trim, pattern stock, etc.

D — select.

No. 1 to 3 common (incl.) — Yard lumber ranging in quality from such high clear stock down to pieces suitable only for rough construction.

The price between grades is considerable. For example C select lumber may sell for 8¼ cents per board foot while the price of number 4 common. Also it is often difficult to find markets for the lower graded stock at rock bottom prices. In order to compete with lumber from other areas and with other construction materials, lumbermen must produce a high proportion of the top grades.

With these facts in mind let us examine the factors which affect lumber grade and see how we can increase our yield of the better grades.

The grade of a board is determined primarily by the number, size, and location of defects which exist in the board.

These defects may be classified in two groups

MANUFACTURING AND SEASONING DEFECTS

This group includes defects resulting from improper sawing and trimming, improper drying or machining, and improper seasoning. It includes such defects as warp, wane, cracks and splits. Modern machinery operated by skilled workers can reduce defects of this class to a minimum.

INHERENT DEFECTS

This group of defects are present in the tree before it is sawn into lumber. Included are the knots, knots, pitch pockets and cross grain.

Defects of this class are beyond the control of the lumberman and can be reduced only by proper forest management.

Since a board is only as good as the log or tree from which it is sawn, the lumberman must have high quality trees in order to compete with the numerous other construction materials presently on the market.

The Department of Lands and Forests as manager of roughly one-half of the forest land in the Tweed District is presently employing a number of lumber management practices designed to produce the high quality trees necessary to sustain and expand the pine lumber industry.

Since knots are one of the chief sources of defect, selected crop trees are pruned at an early age so that they will produce a high proportion of knot free lumber. Removal of the dead branches also reduces the incidence of decay and stain.

By harvesting trees when they reach maturity and by not allowing them to become over-mature the Department reduces the amount of rot, stain and shake to a minimum.

Properly timed and regulated thinning have the effect of improving the average quality and accelerating the growth of the uncut trees.

Many serious lumber defects are a result of failure to trees by fire, insects or disease. To produce high quality pinelogs, trees are protected throughout their lives from these agencies.

In summary, two main conditions are necessary to produce the high quality lumber needed to compete in today's market: —

(1) Efficient manufacturing plants capable of producing a high quality lumber product.

(2) A supply of high quality raw materials produced by modern forest management.

Local lumbermen and the Department of Lands and Forests each have a role to play in maintaining and expanding this important industry.

Sports Snapshots

By JIM WHEELY

EDMONTON (CP) — When the rings and bars for the 1962 world gymnastic championships go up in Prague, ex-Europeans probably will perform on them for Canada.

But Bill Listerman, coach of the Edmonton YMCA team hopes in enter the July 24 meet, says native - born Canadian soon will share the limelight.

"The days when gymnasts meant throwing a ball through a hoop are soon over in Canada," he said.

He blames failure of schools and universities to provide good instructors for Canada's lowly standing in international gymnastics.

The 32 - year - old Listerman said he was "disgusted" with the Canadian gymnastics situation when he returned from Holland seven years ago. Teachers of physical education at universities had little idea of what they were trying to do.

BETTER PROSPECTS

Now the picture is improving, he says. Young people are being attracted to gymnastics by an increasing number of qualified instructors. Listerman, whether has improved or, as in the case of Edmonton YMCA, is being coached from Europe.

Canada very soon could place a team in competition, he thought.

A scientific coach and trainer, Listerman himself was chinning the bars at five, and he thinks that's the ideal age to start.

But an early beginning is wasted without a coach who has technical insight and the ability to transmit it to the pupil, he says. There is a scientific breakdown of gymnastic disciplines into simpler forms, gradually scaled up to the peak of the student's ability.

Listerman sees enthusiasm as the first necessary quality of the gymnast. "Without it you might as well go home." Next comes the trained instructor and then development of a "healthy, stimulating, competitive spirit."

EXPERIENCE

He sharpened his own love of challenge on Northern Holland's six-man team, competed in the national championships and made the all-star all-wrestling team, all before entering university.

Graduated from the Physical Education School in Overveen, Holland, and private gym clubs, directed sports for the Zandvoort police force and entered more national meets. He was a coach of the Holland Women's Gymnastic team at Helsinki in 1952.

He has worked with the YMCA since coming to Canada, twice winning the association's national C. F. J. Crocker award for outstanding contributions to physical education.

The Edmonton YMCA took up his idea of a chartered flight to Europe when he won championship. The flight is booked and already there's a waiting list of YMCA members.

SEEK PLACES

The team faces Manitoba championships March 10, Saskatchewan championships March 17, Western Canada competitions April 14 and must win the Canadian events at Montreal in June to get into Prague. Members already are aiming for the Olympic Games in Tokyo in 1964.

A spinal injury suffered recently by Ken Campbell of Peterborough, who came to Canada from Budapest, has knocked the team temporarily out of women's events, Listerman considered her a strong contender for national honors.

Carsten Carlsen, 28, who came from Oslo, carries Listerman's hopes for world laurels on the stationary rings and in free exercises.

Werner Diez, 31, formerly of Freiburg, Germany, holds the Western Canada junior title, which he took in Vancouver against a field which included United States entries.

Third member of Listerman's Prague team is Ernest Witte, 23, who began his training in Herford, Germany, and now teaches gymnastics in Edmonton schools.

A hot supper was served in St. Paul's Sunday School rooms with the River Valley unit of the United Church women catering under the direction of Mrs. Jack Bush, when 53 people enjoyed the meal.

The guests were welcomed at the church by Jack Bush, president of St. Paul's A.O.T.S. Men's Club, the Rev. F. J. Hennessey, minister of St. Paul's and Mrs. Hommerson.

The group also visited the various stores previous to the supper and had a glimpse of what a small village displayed in their local shops.

They introduced themselves at eight p.m. and a 30-voice mixed choir, consisting of various selections, well-known hymns, and a stirring rendition of Jubilee Hour all made enjoyable entertainment.

Frankford Farm Is Example Of How to Improve Land

By ED EDSON
(Dept. Lands and Forests)

TWEED — Much of the land around Belleville, Kingston, Picton has substantially deteriorated during the last 100 years or so. Heavy logging a century ago, subsequent fires and progressive wind and rain erosion resulted in considerable loss of productive soil in many places in the area, and particularly in Tyendinaga, Pittsburg and South Marysburg townships.

Insufficient drainage is another cause of low production both in agriculture and forestry. Poor shallow soils can be soon liberated, though only slowly (mainly) by planting forest trees which by shedding needles gradually improve and deepen the soil layer. Wet fields and forest sites, however, can in many cases be quickly and greatly improved by proper ditching, and this has actually been done in some places in our region.

However, these drainage works have, so far, been carried out locally only on promising agricultural land, seldom on forest sites, though many of otherwise sound wooded stagnates because of a surfeit of moisture.

In Northern Europe more than four million forest acres were improved by extensive drainage works. Foresters calculate that the growth rate on drained land is increased between 15 and 60 cubic feet per acre per year. On very good sites this increase even exceeded 100 cubic feet per acre per year.

It is very interesting therefore to observe such ameliorations works here, right in the vicinity of our towns and cities on the southern shores of Lake Ontario.

Not long ago we had an opportunity to inspect the property of Mr. Paul Heisler near Frankford. Paul and his father established on their farm which they acquired about 10 years ago. At that time it was one of those run-down farms we all know and the fields as well as the woods grew just the usual minimum of food and timber.

First the Heislers improved their fields by better ploughing and by applying natural and artificial fertilizers so a much greater extent than customary in the area. Today they grow successfully a great variety of excellent farm and garden produce which Mr. Heisler finds marketing at nearby Trenton.

Those fields where the prospects of growing agricultural products were not favorable enough, Mr. Heisler reforested with spruce and pine.

The small wooded containing a number of mature and semi-mature pine, hemlock and hardwood Mr. Heisler improved by removing the dead, dying and unproductive trees. In the near future a thorough marking of the woodlot is to be carried out and all sick defective, damaged trees and over-mature timber will be cut in order to give the young growth a better chance. Underplanting will be carried out in larger openings.

In order to ameliorate not only his fields but also the young stands of mixed timber, Paul Heisler laid out a system of ditches to a depth of between two and five feet, criss-crossing low lying areas of the farm. There are today over 5,500 feet of drainage ditches there and a large artificial pond, all of which was completed by Mr. Heisler in recent year with the help of a tile bulldozer.

The beneficial effect of drainage is, of course, evident much faster on fields than in the forest stands. However, a few years after the ditches have been evacuated one can see that tree tops and leaders are longer, the foliage is healthier and measurements will undoubtedly show that the growth rate in trees is better where good drainage has been provided.

It is estimated that the cost of ditching per acre in the forested area does not exceed $5.00 and thus it appears that even a small increase in productivity will make the Heisler amelioration project an economically sound investment.

Preservation of French Language Receives Special Attention by 3 Experts

By JOHN TOUSTON

QUEBEC (CP)—The problem of making the young use their language properly and fully is common to many regions and French Canada is no exception. But it's sharpened here because the French are relatively isolated in a predominantly English-speaking continent.

Preservation of the language is an issue that has occupied Quebec educationists for many years. Now it has received special attention from three experts at Laval University.

Their work has resulted in a new course in spoken French being taught to Grade VIII students in 118 classical colleges around the province that are affiliated with Laval.

The course makes use of tape recorders, language laboratories and some new ideas about imparting a language to a student who probably would prefer to be outside the school doing something else.

CENTRES OF INTEREST

"We attack him on his own ground," says Rev. Lucien Gagne, one of the three who designed the course. The others are Prof. Jean-Denis Gendron and Rev. Gilles Soulet.

"A student does not talk about everything," says Father Gagne. "He has about 60 subjects in which he is interested — the house, clothing, sport, television, the church."

These are what the designers call "centres of interest" and each week the course is built around a different centre.

There are four basic steps to a unit: verbo-French—phonetics, reading, vocabulary and grammar.

"It is the feeling of the authors that not one of these parts has precedence over another," says the teacher's guide to the course. "To leave aside one of its aspects to concentrate on another would completely warp the proportions and definitely risk the remaining chances of teaching our students their language."

The course was designed in 1961 as part of Laval's program to bring courses in its arts and letters faculty up to date.

"FAVORABLE MOMENT"

"It falls at a favorable moment in the context of the Quebec situation," says Father Gagne, noting renewed pride in the language and culture and a more confident attitude about the survival and growth of French Canada.

The authors say students are equipped to read and understand any French writer.

"But when they move to the level of personal use of the language, of linguistic activity, we are in the presence of truly disturbing ignorance. The language used by our students in their writing is poor. Their spoken language simply cannot be described.

"The error up to now has been a belief that this weakness in the French language among our students comes only from ignorance of phonetics or diction. The language itself has been ignored."

Father Gagne, whose own French flows and bubbles like quality champagne, says the course is aimed at ridding French of faults in vocabulary, Americanisms, outdated pronunciation, imprecise use of words, and Anglicisms—words or expression from English adapted into French although a perfectly good French equivalent exists.

NEGATIVE APPROACH

The authors decided to approach the problem of correcting faults from "the negative side" by showing through tape recordings in the language labs what poor French sounds like. The voice of a student-aged CBC actor saying simple sentences is used. Then the same sentences are repeated in precise French by older CBC actors.

"The student learn what their faults are by repeating the sentences themselves on tape recorders. Prepared by les Presses de L'Universite Laval, the tapes have blank spaces for the student to follow the actors. Then he can compare his French with that of the actors.

"The problem of establishing language laboratories, however, is the cost—about $500 for each booth with tape-recorder, earphones and a telephone system between student and teacher.

Only a few of the colleges using the course are equipped with labs. But they are still able to use the course with the aid of a single tape-recorder although this doesn't give as much individual attention or practice.

Requests for information about the course have come from French schools in the Maritimes, Ontario and the West.

Population Up By 4,228,818 To 18,238,247

Increased 30.2 Per Cent For Second High Mark

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's population reached 18,238,247 last June 1 after a decade of the second-fastest growth rate since Confederation.

The first complete reckoning of last year's census, issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, showed the country added 4,228,818 new residents since the 1951 decennial census for an increase of 30.2 per cent.

The country hadn't grown at such a fast clip since the 34.2-per-cent gain during the 1901-11 decade when a wave of immigration helped open the West.

Two thirds of the population increase occurred in Ontario and Quebec. But the fastest-growing provinces were Alberta and British Columbia. Among the Atlantic provinces, Newfoundland had the highest growth rate. Slowest - growing provinces were Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan.

In the 1951-61 decade Canada's population grew from 14,009,429 to 18,238,247. The 1956 special census count was 16,080,791.

The breakdown by provinces:

GROWTH TAPERS OFF

There was a 14.3-per-cent increase during 1951-56 and a gain of 15.9 per cent in the five-year period.

The bureau said the lower growth rate in the latter part was due mainly to less immigration and a lower birth rate.

But the increase in population numbers was about the same in the two periods—2,071,362 during 1951-56 and 2,157,456 during 1956-61.

The over-all rise of 30.2 per cent compared with the 21.5-per-cent increase during the previous decade 1941-51. Non-permanent residents were not enumerated before 1951.

Canada's natural rate for 1941-51 was 18.6 per cent.

GOT LION'S SHARE

The two biggest provinces Ontario and Quebec, got the lion's share of the population increase since 1951. Together they accounted for 57 per cent of the increase. Ontario's gain of 1,638,550 in the 10 years to 6,236,092 and Quebec added 1,622,530 people to reach 5,250,811.

But they were outdone in rate of growth by British Columbia which together accounted for 20 per cent of water down a Miami Beach street. Workmen in the background try to prevent a party from the high water. (AP Wirephoto)

Judgment Fund Under Attack.

TORONTO (CP) — Transport Minister Rowntree predicted Thursday that only three per cent of Ontario motorists will be driving without insurance this year, compared to nine per cent in 1961.

This is a result of the recent increase—to $20 from $5—in the fee paid by uninsured drivers, he said.

Mr. Rowntree, speaking before the legislature began study of his department's estimates, based his forecast on up-to-date figures provided by current vehicle registration applications.

Mr. Sopha said he couldn understand why the payment of $2,800,000—the amount budgeted for 1962—should be left in the hands of a minister who is responsible only for "paying out."

The fund is administered by the transport department but litigation involving claims is the responsibility of the attorney-general.

Mr. Sopha, a lawyer, cited two cases in which solicitors for the fund had just acted to protect public money by helping the plaintiff prove that a private insurance company was responsible for payment.

The minister replied that his department checks every judgment before payment is made.

"Then he announced—"it is no secret—that legislation will be introduced shortly placing the fund entirely under his department.

Later, during the night sitting, Mr. Rowntree announced that the new legislation will increase amounts paid to accident victims.

Army Officer Under Fire Over Narcotics

OTTAWA (CP)—The opposition is expected to press today for details into an alleged case of acceptance of a bribe by a Canadian Army officer to smuggle narcotics from the Far East into Canada.

External Affairs Minister Green conceded in the Commons Thursday under questioning by Erhart Regier (CCF—Lethbridge-Coquitlam) that at least one Canadian serviceman in Indochina with the international truce supervisory commissions has been brought home for violating Canadian law.

Outside the Commons, a reliable source said the case involves acceptance of money by an army officer to smuggle narcotics into Canada. The source said that possibly other army officers are involved.

It could not be learned whether anyone has been actually smuggled into Canada in this way.

It is understood that Canadians in Viet Nam have frequently been approached by the underworld with offers of up to $50,000 to take home with them at the end of their year's tour of duty packages of narcotics for delivery to a contact in this country.

28 Killed In Mine Blast In Ruhr Valley

Two other men, previously reported killed in the blast, are missing. "If mine spokesman said. Eight miners were injured.

A spokesman said the cause was unknown relatively few because only skeleton night crews were working.

The explosion occurred just 30 days after a fire-damp blast in the Lisenthal mine in the Saarland to the south took 299 lives.

The mine spokesman said the miners appeared to be suffocated and the death toll is not expected to rise unless some of the injured men do not survive.

He said the explosion occurred in a horizontal tunnel connecting various mining locations more than 3,000 feet underground. The blast was apparently caused when blasting ignited a pool of methane gas or fire - damp which had collected in the tunnel.

The explosion did not start a fire, and the men not directly killed by the blast were not endangered

Officials Start Coast Cleanup After Storm, 36 Left Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—Residents, and authorities of the storm-battered U.S. East Coast, belittered by prospects of massive government aid, have begun mopping up operations after a three-day rampage of wind and water.

The death toll stood at 36, with a number of persons missing. Property damage has been estimated at more than $165, 000,000.

The coastal sections of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina have been declared disaster areas by the U.S. Small Business Administration, which grants special, long-term loans to property owners.

Outright federal grants must be approved by decision of President Kennedy, who is expected to take prompt action.

These grants would go to state and local governmental units for the repair of roads, bridges, schools and other facilities.

The department of agriculture said emergency food supplies were being distributed to storm victims.

Predictions of food shortages menaced survivors, with practically all food supplies and sewage facilities wiped out in the hardest-hit centres. Drinking water was a major problem in many areas.

State and local police continued special patrols of all the affected coastal areas to keep order, and guard looting.

In the resort of Ocean City, Md., 90 per cent of the boardwalk is gone and a number of homes and hotels were washed away.

A three-way conference (two days) between their forces along the Tunisian-Algerian frontier was directing the negotiations.

One informant said the talks in a hotel here Geneva were "making slow but steady progress toward a full agreement, including a cease-fire, to put Algeria on the road to independence."

Both groups at Evian refused to comment on the sudden upsurge of fighting in Algeria just after a long period of virtual truce during which the post-sign light had shifted to terrorist attacks by the right-wing European Secret Army.

French Warplanes — American-built B-26 bombers and French Mystere jets roared from into the frontier fight Thursday to back up the gunners with These planes were shot down by anti-aircraft fire and others were damaged The spokesman said the aerial attacks killed and wounded scores and wreaked heavy property damage.

French Army headquarters said the rebel artillery bombardment at least 18 persons and wounded 20 on the Algerian side of the frontier.

A French army spokesman in Algiers charged the artillery attacks were launched sudden Tuesday night by Tunisian forces and a number of were a show-of-strength politics maneuvers.

The rebels have an estimated 30,000 heavily armed and well organized troops in the frontier the French army said they made no attempt to break through the border.

Government Ship Ignoring Order Said Factor in Shelling U.S. Town

VICTORIA (CP) — An unauthorized vessel entered the firing area of the Juan de Fuca Strait Jan. 29, shortly before the HMCS Skeena raised shell fragments on the lawn of the community of Clallam Bay, Wash., a U.S. coast guard official said today.

Cmdr. R. H. Leir, skipper of the Skeena, is charged with negligence and "an act to the prejudice of good order and discipline" as a result of the incident. He pleaded not guilty to the charges.

The five-man court, was told that closure of the firing area by the federal government ship Ottawa ordered the firing area closed subsequently by radio message to return to the area. The vessel was aboard the Ottawa when it left Esquimalt for Nanaimo on Vancouver Island.

The "hypothetical incident" outlined by Mr. McKenzie had stemmed from the presence of two destroyer escorts and two frigates carrying out simultaneous surface and anti-aircraft shoots in the 20-mile-wide strait.

The frigate carried out a surface shoot at the eastern end of the firing area, while Skeena and her pitership Saguenay positioned themselves in the southwest corner, near the international boundary, which splits the strait.

The unauthorized presence of the Ontawa, said Mr. McKenzie, "could have been a most critical factor" to ensure that the government vessel didn't come within range of the warship's guns.

He asked Cmdr. J. B. Folberingham, skipper of the HMCS Ontario, whether it was normal procedure for merchant traffic to ignore orders contained in Notices to Mariners to stay clear of firing areas during gunnery exercises.

"It most assuredly is," said Cmdr. Folderingham. "It has happened virtually every time I have conducted a shoot in this area."

He said the area is "unsatisfactory" for gunnery practice because of the "proximity of the land" to the south coast and the amount of traffic that continuously goes through it."

Earlier, Mr. McKenzie said the defence was basing its main case on the contention it is impossible to carry out a gunnery shoot in the area while observing all the regulations contained in the Pacific Command standing orders.

"The best position for the skipper would be to pick up and go home," he said, "but that would not be in the best traditions of the naval service."

Speaker Turns Down Plea For Doukhobor Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—A plea for the country to be allowed an emergency debate on the "civil war" in British Columbia's Kootenay region was turned down by Commons Speaker Roland Michener Thursday.

"The urgency of the situation in the people of the Kootenays is the fact that it has almost reached the stage of a civil war with their continuing bombings, acts of terrorism and sabotage," said H. W. Herridge.

The CCF — New Democratic Party House leader urged the government to suspend regular business and discuss the "extremely serious situation."

Mr. Herridge represents the riding of Kootenay West and opposite it farm at Krestova in British Columbia constituency.

He was seconded in his plea by Progressive Conservative Murray McFarlane, the member for Kootenay East.

Mr. Herridge said there is a need for federal assistance to B.C. law authorities, especially since the explosion at Nelson Tuesday night that caused $200,000 damage to a power installation and put 1,000 miles out of work for two weeks to a month.

There have been demands from B.C. centres for federal

MISSED WORLD WAR THREE BY HAIR'S BREATH

— Pearson

Foreign Policies Debate Subject

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson drew a parallel Thursday between unfolding events in South East Asia and those which led up to Communist Chinese intervention in the Korean War.

And he said, referring to the situation which that intervention produced: "We missed World War Three by a hair's breadth."

The former external affairs minister was speaking during Commons debate on a $10,000 expenditure item — subsequently approved—covering Canada's participation in the Indochina truce commissions.

Other members of the commissions, which operate in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia are India and Poland. War now is raging in South Viet Nam between government forces and Communists.

External Affairs Minister Green said that "looking at the broad picture," he believes the presence of the commissions has prevented a big war from breaking out. They had exerted a restraining influence.

The commissions were provided, Mr. Pearson said, presented a "very difficult situation" to Canada, India and to the Polish members, Mr. Green said they operate "with the reputation of being an impartial, fearless body very close with the Communists."

SITUATION DANGEROUS

Mr. Pearson said the situation in Laos is dangerous. He held the North Vietnamese forces operating against pro-Western South Viet Nam are the Chinese Communists. And behind the South Vietnamese were United States forces.

"If this civil war can be confined to the forces of Viet Nam, on one side or the other, perhaps there is not going to be any widespread trouble. But if in fact, the war broadens out to the point where the forces are helping each side get in conflict, with each other, then anything can happen."

Mr. Pearson noted a statement by the Chinese government that it would have to consider the presence of the U.S. continued sending troops into South Viet Nam.

"That has not happened in Korea," he continued. "At the beginning there was no Chinese intervention. It was felt by a lot of people that there would be no Chinese intervention but the Chinese government said that if the United Nations forces crossed the 38th parallel in Korea, they would intervene and they did intervene. We missed World War Three by a hair's breadth. Let us hope that does not happen in Viet Nam."

Mr. Green: "I think there are United States military training purposes. There are 4,500 according to the

KILLED IN STORM

Vigilante Raid May Be Staged On Douk Capital

Angry Nelson Citizens Demand Martial Law

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Hostile citizens Thursday night demanded an end to 30 years of terror in southeastern British Columbia as RCMP searched the surrounding Kootenay district for the men who blasted a power tower.

A public meeting of 150 citizens urged steps ranging from martial law to sterilization of terrorists who have plagued the countryside with bombings and burnings.

Much of their anger was directed at the Sons of Freedom, a radical sect of Doukhobors often blamed in the past for acts of terror. There was talk of a possible raid on Krestova, a Freedomite village town 25 miles west of here, but Mayor T. S. Shorthouse of Nelson cautioned against such action.

Meanwhile, RCMP kept up their investigation of the Tuesday night bombing of a 300-foot, 366-foot power tower which crippled industry in the area and left 1,000 men without work. The British Columbia government provided a $10,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of each of the tower bombers.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada, which owned the tower and was forced to lay off 1,000 men when production problems caused by the bombing, in a telegram to Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Thursday asked for protection.

BOMBING SEEN IMPERSONAL

Police said the bombing was possibly a reprisal for jail sentences ranging up to 20 years against Freedomites for recent acts of violence.

To many, the blast was the last straw in three decades of burning and bombing. Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Thursday he would not hesitate to call in troops from the Canadian army if needed.

The Freedomites are a wing of the Doukhobor religion that has stian persecution 63 years ago, making their homes in Western Canada. Many remained to farm on the Prairies, others moved to the mountains to escape law-abiding citizens, but the Freedomites, numbering about 4,000, cling to their ancient teachings.

Their civil disobedience and feelings against military service were manifested in nude parades and refusal to register.

After the citizens' meeting, Mayor Shorthouse said: "What we do is talk, talk, talk. They better get the militia in here by Saturday, Sunday at the latest, or going to drink Saturday night, and then, watch out Doukhobors."

NATO PLANS EXERCISE

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

THURSDAY, March 8, 1962

A bid by two MPs for an "urgent" debate on terrorist acts in the Kootenay area of B.C. was turned down by Speaker Roland Michener.

External Affairs Minister Green said he doesn't think it vital that a nuclear test ban get priority at next week's Geneva talks.

Mr. Green declined "in the public interest" to detail the case of a Canadian sent home from Laos truce work for violating Canadian law.

Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) said Canada should persuade the U.S. that only a social change can beat Communism in South Viet Nam.

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) tried unsuccessfully to get approval for a move to speed up the calling of by-elections.

Capital Outlay Likely to Rise By 6 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—A total $6,596,000,000 in capital expenditures is expected this year, more than in 1961—is expected to be funelled into Canada's economy this year, Trade Minister Hees reported today.

The capital investment plans in all sectors of the economy, tabled in the Commons, show that new outlays in mining processing plants and a big pipeline building program are major factors in the growth from last year's $6,109,000,000 capital outlay.

The report said the capital projects at the end of 1961 "indicated" provide strong support towards a higher rate of general business activity in 1962.

TANKER SNAPS IN TWO OFF CAROLINA, ALL BUT ONE MAN ABOARD RESCUED

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—A luxury ship and a U.S. Navy destroyer neared port today with the 34 crew members of a tanker Gem who were rescued on the stormy Atlantic after their vessel snapped in two.

Only one man aboard the Liberian tanker was missing and he —was lost when she broke apart Wednesday in heavy seas about 110 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Twenty-seven men were removed from the wallowing stern of the Gem by the destroyer Steinking. Seven others, including the captain, were plucked from the bow section by the Coast Guard buoy tender Jonquil was due to take the Gem's stern section in tow. The crew was aboard the derelict, which the coast guard pronounced a menace to navigation.

Terse exchanges of radio messages between the rescue ships, the coast guard and the navy told of the fate of the Gem and accompanying the rescue of the 34 crew members. Ten official here said the rescue was accomplished in heavy seas.

Other ships in the area ordered by the heavy seas off the Virginia and North Carolina coasts.

The A. H. Dumont, which left Norfolk Wednesday regularly fear, made temporary repairs 300 miles off Virginia and proceeded toward the Delaware breakwater under escort by the Coast Guard cutter Cherokee.

Film Festival Attendance Encouraging

A meeting of the Belleville and District Film Council was held at the Corby Public Library on Thursday with Mr. Bernard Wyland, the president, presiding.

Mr. J. D. Bacon, representative of the Belleville Public School Board was welcomed by the meeting.

Miss Olive Delaney expressed the appreciation of all in connection with the recent Film Festival. It was most gratifying and encouraging to all responsible for the Festival to note the splendid attendance. Such a successful festival should show all interested in films and the use of such for various purposes, that the local Film Council needs to be of satisfactory. If plans be given to procure needed films, there will be no disappointment.

A special vote of thanks was given to Mr. Eles and his interested projectionists. These boys are to be commended for their work during the festival.

BUSINESS

Different items of business were discussed. A letter had been received from the secretary-treasurer of the Federation of Film Councils of Eastern Ontario. A meeting will be held in the Midland Public Library, Oshawa on March 16. Miss Olive Delaney and Mrs. Berube are the delegates to attend from Belleville.

An official invitation will be extended to the Council to meet in the Canty Public Library for the meeting in May.

An increase was noted in the use of films and the rental of projectors for the month of February over last year. Both have been received as well as many renewals.

Some discussion followed regarding an operator's course. A committee is set up to look into this and it is expected another meeting course will be given in the near future.

Understestimated Drawing Power Of 'The Rocket'

The Belleville Shrine Club publicity apologized today to the many people who had applied but were unable to secure admission to the Memorial Arena for the Police-Firemen hockey game Tuesday evening.

It was estimated by arena officials that well over 3,000 were seated with a large crowd of adults and youngsters turned away because of lack of space.

A spokesman for the Shrine Club said today that President E. Z. Way and members of the Shrine Club were profoundly sorry that the situation developed and that so many people, especially the youngsters, were not able to see the game and particularly "Rocket" Richard.

"We sold the same number of tickets that we did in the past years but on previous occasions hundreds of people bought tickets to help out and then didn't arrive. We had no idea so many people would turn out to see him. In other years with the same number of tickets sold there was always room in the arena for spectators.

"Again," the spokesman said, "the Shrine Club extends its regrets that the situation developed and that so many people and youngsters were disappointed."

CAS One of Best Examples Of 'Democracy at Work' Annual Meeting Is Told

"The Children's Aid Society represents one of the finest examples of democracy at work," was one of the views expressed by Most Rev. Francis A. Marrocco at his address to the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of the City of Belleville, County of Hastings and the Town of Trenton, held last evening in the Bridge Street United Church.

Bishop Marrocco, who was introduced by Mr. Stanley Wiggins as the Director of Charities, Council of Catholic Charities of Toronto and is no stranger to these parts, being born in Peterborough where he received his formal education. He later attended university in Antigonish, N.S. and then St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto. He was ordained and inducted in Peterborough in 1938 and after five years of parish work he became director of social work.

He opened his address in a humorous manner after which he proceeded to discuss the fate of the C.A.S. and said it was appears to be on trial and subject to criticism and their weaknesses. "Few other organizations draw together such a cross section of the whole community as does the C.A.S. and the many people who dedicate themselves to these welfare services, and willingly give time and talent to the betterment of Society's." Then, is also a large body of volunteers including nurses, psychiatrists, and others who help in this work," said the speaker.

Bishop Marrocco continued by saying that there had been a great deal of criticism of the C.A.S. and that this organization had been accused of costly administration, but this was not the case, even though their staff must be looked upon as expensive with specialized workers in child care, home services and administrative staff. There is no source from which funds may be collected as 80 per cent of the children involved are not parties directly to digent. Therefore administration is costly because clients are not paying for the service. The C.A.S. is definitely trying to obtain funds.

CASE WORKERS NEEDED

The question of efficiency was dealt with and the speaker explained that the work involved is as equally complex as that in the legal, medical and scientific field. He also urged more young people to become interested in this field but stressed the fact that one cannot take a course (perhaps six-seven weeks) and become a case worker. He said that a case worker should consider the position as a profession and to act as a unit. The Welfare Council Children's Aid Society and Child Welfare League of Canada may city welfare administration and member of the board of directors.

Retiring members of the board, Mrs. A. McCormick, Mr. E. Wood and Dr. James Wilkie were presented with plaques and a number of the Boy Scouts services by Mrs. A. J. Lewis secretary. Mr. Bailey Maker presented Dr. S. C. Rose with a little memento in appreciation of his services and on the C.A.S. panel group.

Mrs. Lewis, Miss Clare Morgan called on Mr. B. Hurley to read the list of slate of officers reported elsewhere in this edition.

Appropriate thanks for the fine dinner were expressed by Reeve Harleigh Hamilton.

Only Four More Shopping Days For Licences

With only four more shopping days until deadline, motorists started to pick up today at the local auto licence bureau.

Mr. George Olsen noted today that, there were still approximately 2,000 passenger licence plates still to be sold at the local office, out of a total of around 9,000. About the same proportion of trucks, and buses of their licences also remained unsold.

The deadline for 1962 plates is March 14th (next Wednesday).

Indications of the customary last minute rush started to show up at the licence bureau this morning.

Until today there had been little activity this week but the office this morning was well crowded with up to 25 motorists at times standing in line.

Different Show To Be Given Each Fair Night

An entirely new approach designed to provide a most interesting and varied series of entertainment features for the 1962 Belleville Fair was approved by the fair board during its session in the county building yesterday evening.

It was decided that the policy of having one featured stage show would be discarded for this year and a different stage show would be featured each night of the fair.

The return of the Ontario motorcycle championship event will be held on the opening night of the fair. This promises to be an exciting affair, similar to the same event held at the conclusion of the fair last year.

The second evening event will feature a wrestling card highlighting a middle weight wrestler and a couple of bouts by the top name wrestlers in North America.

Horse racing with betting privileges will be the grandstand attraction for the Wednesday evening. This evening will feature a race for many years were on one evening's racing program in Belleville.

BAND TATTOO

For the final evening plans provides for a band tattoo. The attraction committee is also making every effort to obtain the best bands in Eastern Ontario for this event, which should prove to be a most outstanding attraction.

Other discussion centred on a proposal for a cattle judging contest to allow exhibitors to make as many entries as they desire but to limit the number of awards to any one exhibitor to a total of 3 in any one class or section. The board gave the committee the authority to investigate the policy of the fair fairs.

The resignation of Harvey Homan from the board was accepted with regret. Mr. Homan's retirement was due to the fact that business commitments required his full attention to make extracurricular activities but that he hoped he would be able to again join in the work of the fair board some time in the future.

President Carl Thompson asked the directors to consider the possibility of raising the general admission price for the 1962 fair. Pointed out that the Belleville Fair was but one of the two fairs left in Ontario which only charged a fifty-cent admission. He asked members to be prepared to discuss and vote on this matter at their next meeting.

Reject Report, Local Hydro Workers Urged

A meeting of all Ontario Hydro employees in the Belleville area last night at the K.I. Hall was held to discuss the possibility of strike action by the Ontario Hydro Employees Union in connection with dispute with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

E. Cummings, president of the union told the members of the meeting in the Belleville area that strike action would only be taken as a last resort. He urged "if a strike should prove necessary" Mr. Cummings said, "the union has offered to maintain all essential services such as those for the homes, hospitals, schools and stores."

Doug Free, chief steward of the union for Belleville and district urged the union membership to reject a majority report of the conciliation board appointed to settle the Hydro dispute. "The report is not in the best interests of the public," Mr. Free claimed. He urged the meeting to reject it saying:

"These recommendations are made in the spirit of compromise but are not in the best interests of the public." He claimed that the 8 per cent wage increase proposed by the Conciliation Board would leave Ontario Hydro rates still the lowest in Canada. Employees of many municipal hydro utilities, who were doing comparable jobs.

Mr. Free told the Belleville area membership that the union that they perform the most essential service to the public in the community. "Your work requires great skill, efficiency and responsibility," he said. "It deserves the highest wages in the industry," Mr. Free said that the unions wage demands were not unreasonable and would not increase the cost of Hydro to Belleville consumers.

"Hydro rates are still at 1940 levels," Mr. Free stated. "What else can you buy in Belleville for 1940 prices?"

Mr. Free urged the union membership to stand united in the rejection of the majority report of the conciliation board.

Madoc Getting New Industry Within Month

The village of Madoc is getting a new industry with the location of the H.O.W. Wood working Co. Ltd., of Killaloe, in Madoc. The new establishment is present plant at the Centre Hastings, Ont. It will be in operation within a month.

Announcement of the new industry coming to Madoc was made this week by the village Reeve Thomas Burnside.

The H.O.W. Woodworking company was formed three years ago by Howard Wright, Orval Hornung and Joseph Werner who pooled their knowledge and experience to establish their own outgrew its original premises. It now employs 45 men and its present shop operation at Killaloe is again too small.

The site has been purchased, the large building on the site of a former box factory from Mr. J. Spencer Woods. Reeve Burnside the move was the desire for a location closer to their established markets in Toronto and Montreal, without being too far from the source of supply.

Employment Picture Better In February

"One of the best Februarys in recent years," is the way civic employment office officials described the local employment picture for the past month, this despite the fact that at the month end there were 2,590 job applicants in the Belleville and surrounding county area.

During the month there were 444 placements made as compared with only 154 a year ago.

The reason for the brighter employment picture is that many a number of local plants had no layoffs this winter, while the unusual snowfall meant calls for snowshovellers and other winter working programs and the construction industry assisted in keeping the picture brighter.

The 2,590 job applicants at the end of February compared with 2,947 at the same period of year ago. The current claim load is 2,368 as compared with 2,932 at the same time a year ago.

At last night's meeting of the Trenton Lions' Club, guest speaker W. J. Patrick, principal of Trenton High School, expressed his appreciation of the club's community spirit when President Robert Reid presented a cheque for $275 to Bart Boers (right), building chairman, with the Trenton-Brighton and District Association for Retarded Children. The money will be used for furnishings for the new area school for the retarded, near Smithfield.

Problems Facing Educators Outlined to Lions Members

TRENTON — A warning that education costs will continue to rise and that any hope that teachers' salaries would go down within the foreseeable future, was not founded on fact was given to Trenton Lions at their luncheon meeting today last night by W. J. Houston, retiring principal at Trenton High School.

Mr. Houston said that "teachers were not to be blamed for teach," and that they were not being overpaid. "There is just enough to keep up with Canada's exploding school population.

Mr. Houston said that this situation was only one of the many problems facing educators today.

He said that changing patterns of employment was one of the factors entering into Canada's unemployment picture. Large numbers of the unemployed are "virtually unemployable," inasmuch as they have little or no training, he said. Government agencies re-training programs are virtually meeting their needs by the fact that the men they seek to re-educate have had very little basic education in the first place.

To help solve this problem, the speaker said, the government has embarked upon a "crash program" for supplying technical training for those who will not or cannot go any distance with academic courses.

An estimated 175 million dollars is being spent this year by federal and provincial governments in the construction of technical schools or technical additions to existing schools, where students may learn a variety of mechanical skills. Some academic work will be integrated with the technical courses.

"After all," said Mr. Houston, "the flexible man is still the 'handyman' who can obtain amount of academic background, at least."

Commenting on social and economic factors which influence the life of the student and hence the school itself, Mr. Houston said that the ever increasing demand for women to enter employment created problems.

"Now-a-days it's considered quite respectable for a woman to leave her home and children and go out to work," said Mr. Houston, "with the consequences of 'keeping up with the Jones'. Sometimes both parents are bored at home. Sometimes it's an unemployed or shiftless husband. Despite the fact that truly professional women and middle-aged women with a grown family help to swell the labor ranks."

Mr. Houston said that whatever the reason for a mother of school aged children working, the fact that she is worked and was away from home, gave rise to a variety of problems with her child's spring. The children of working mothers tend to have more problems than an ordinary child. They quite often feel lonely and insecure. Emotional maladjustment prevents them from making full use of their native ability. They are impudent, argumentative and defiant at home and at school.

Mr. Houston said that guidance and vocational advisory committee staffs are becoming increasingly involved with the problems of such children and in some cases an appeal must be made to social workers to get to the family situation straightened out.

Mr. Houston appealed to those present who were parents to see that their children continued their education in order that they might learn skills in a society where skill is demanded.

Mr. Houston was introduced to the club by Thorne Spear and thanked by V.P. Carswell.

Overall Loss Said $82,000 By Fire Chief

TRENTON — Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said yesterday that the tentative estimate of losses sustained Tuesday night's fire at the Front Street shop of Quinte Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Supplies Ltd. has been made and that the overall loss was now thought to be $82,000.

The chief said that the building, valued at $80,000 and insured for $40,000, had suffered damages assessed at $35,000.

The contents of the business section of the building, valued at $58,200 and insured for that sum, were damaged to the extent of $40,000.

Uninsured furniture in the three apartments above the shop, lost in the blaze, was valued at $7,000).

Chief Ellis said that at the height of the blaze, he had ordered all three occupants to be removed from the shed at the rear of the burning building. Engineer Maurice Mills took charge at the operation and he was assisted by Archie McNeill etc., the men in one of the owners and a spectator.

Chief Ellis said that saving the trucks had lessened the fire's toll by a considerable amount.

Lions Present $275 Cheque For Children

The money is to be used towards the purchase of a new stove or refrigerator for the recreation room in the new area school for the retarded near Smithfield.

Howard Orr was inducted into the club by secretary Nostrand Burton. Russell Lodge of Belleville was a guest at last night's meeting.

COST IS $12,800

At the cost of February, the 41.5 inches of snow which have fallen on the town this season, cost, in round figures supplied by town engineer Eric Aldersey, $12,800.

This sum total can be broken down into $5,000 for removing the snow from streets; $1,700 for plowing; $4,300 for sanding and salting, including the cost of the sand and salt, and $1,600 for clearing sidewalks.

Second Bridge Across Trent Would Cost Town $243,000 Special Meeting Is Told

TRENTON — Where should a second bridge for Trenton be located?

Can Trenton afford a second bridge at this time?

Could the Ontario Department of Highways be persuaded to find the bridge worth a form part of a connecting link between Highway 401 and Highway 2?

These and other questions formed the basis of discussion between Mayor Macdonald, who did, clerk-comptroller, O. W. Lennox, solicitor, Harold Gad C. V. Graham, B. A. Hart, joint municipal project supervisor, Gordon Wetherall, district engineer from Port Hope, A. A. Ward, district municipal engineer and Grant Bacchus, of the traffic consultant firm of A. D. Margison, when they met in Trenton council chambers yesterday afternoon.

"We'd like to get a concrete idea of what is involved, from a financial point of view", said the mayor at the outset of the meeting.

In other words, we're interested in the net cost of the bridge to the town", said Mr. Larry.

Mr. Bacchus said that according to a tentative estimate, if the bridge were located at the augmentation of Ford-Bayshore Street location, the structure itself would cost $365,000. Of this, the provincial government would pay one third, leaving the cost to the town at $243,000.

He said that road work on Ford Street, Bayshore Road would come to roughly $65,000 of which the Ontario government would pay one half or one third grant.

The consulting engineer said that acquisition of property on the north side of Ford Street would involve $20,000 for land allowance on Bayside Street, which would cost approximately $104,500. Recoverable from the province would be one-third of the cost of this item, which would be devoted to road allowance purposes.

On overall figures, the entire cost of the project would run to $500,000, of which the town might be expected to raise a sum approximately $280,000.

It is generally felt that the bridge in some way, formed a link between two main highways, the Ontario government would be expected to pay a greater share in some cases; less in others.

As to the bridge forming a link — a connecting link — Mr. Hart said that a connecting link could be defined as "the most logical route," and he intimated that the suggested location for the bridge could not be termed thusly.

He said that he thought the bridge would be a benefit to Front Street location would fill a local need and would relieve the traffic situation on Dundas Street.

"Is there any way in which we could locate the bridge so that it would qualify as a connecting link between two highways", or, "Would the 50 per cent grant apply if we widened the present bridge?"

"Yes." was Mr. Hart's answer to the latter question.

"Well," said the mayor, "I can't see the advantage. We'll get no grant for the job."

"If highway 33 is re-located on Sidney Street in the future might the bridge then qualify as a connecting link?" asked Mr. Bacchus.

"That's a long way off in present planning," interjected Mr. Lennox. "I'd say at least five years off."

"But is this (Ford and Bayshore) location ideal?" asked the mayor.

"We're going along with the consultant recommendation," said Mr. Wetherall, "A bridge across the present mouth would probably qualify as a connecting link. You'd get a 50 per cent grant on that if it were approved by the department."

Upon sober reflection, municipal heads and department representatives agreed that the added cost of building a bridge in this location, would be a good investment although Councillor Graham thought that the proposal had some merit.

Why Not Pay Our Own Way?

It is said that there is nothing so powerful as an idea, whose time has come.

It is equally true that nothing may appear so futile as advocating an idea which is in advance of its time.

Sometimes, though, the futility is more apparent than real. The way is paved for later acceptance of the idea.

We are not so certain that this is what is going to happen with regard to an idea advanced by a certain school trustee some twenty years ago. At that time the world was at war. There was a shortage of men and materials. This school trustee suggested that the board of which he was a member budget for a surplus, this surplus to be set aside for necessary repairs and expansion after the conclusion of the war. But the law forbade such action. All right, then, get the law changed, he urged. His proposal even got so far as consideration by the Urban School Trustees' Association. But nothing came of it.

After the war, of course, came a flood of babies and a mad rush to build enough schools to accommodate all the pupils. We are still rushing to catch up. And every school we build costs us much more than it needed, because we borrow the money to build it and pay interest on this borrowed money.

Of course, the situation would have been very little changed if all the school boards in the province had established building funds during the war. Nobody then would have foreseen the extent of school expansion which would prove necessary. But it would have been a start.

This earlier proposal was recalled to mind by a recommendation of a group which studied vocational and technical education at the Ontario Conference on Education in Windsor last November, the printed reports of which conference have just come to hand.

"Machines and other types of equipment in vocational departments often become obsolete before they are worn out," this report says. "To keep pace with changes in business and industry they should be replaced more frequently than they are at present. It was recommended that legislation might be enacted to permit boards to carry depreciation funds for this purpose."

In a slightly different field, this suggestion is in exactly the same spirit as that advanced twenty years ago regarding saving in advance for new school buildings.

Is this an idea whose time is shortly to come? One might be pardoned for doubting it, in this age of instalment buying. And yet nobody can deny its real merit. Which people already completely dutifully attend the cycle of education, it would be tremendously difficult, politically speaking, to inaugurate such a scheme. But once established, it would reduce the cost of education by a tremendous amount, perhaps by as much as a third or a half of the cost of providing school plant and equipment.

Moreover, what is true of the cost of schools is true of any other "social capital" expenditures, for highways, bridges, governmental buildings, wharfs, airports, and hospitals.

The argument advanced against immediate payment is that these institutions will serve for many years and that it is not fair for this generation to have to shoulder the burden of the full cost of facilities which tomorrow's citizens will use.

There was a time when men took pride in leaving their children a rich heritage. Today, though, we seem reluctant to sow what we know we shall not live to reap.

If this reluctance resulted in no worse than burdening the future generations with the full cost of their own necessities, perhaps it might be considered fair. In practice, though, what may very well happened is that every generation will pile up debt for the next until the breaking point is reached.

At this point something unpleasant is certain to occur—debt repudiation through the burden on the shoulders of a relatively few bond holders who may, or may not, be best able to bear it, a capital levy with innumerable unpleasant consequences or, worst but most likely, a severe depreciation in the value of the currency, with all the chaos and suffering which it would be certain to entail.

We are not rich enough to start paying our own way?

Two men I honor, and no wonder. First, the toil-worn craftsman that with earth-made implement laboriously conquers the earth, and makes her manly. . . . A second man I honor, and still more highly: Him who is seen toiling for the spiritually indispensable: not daily bread, but the bread of life.—Thomas Carlyle.

Word Alters Its Meaning If Misused

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

A woman who says that she has been "in dancing and exercise work for 15 years,", writes to complain about the widespread misuse of the word "leotard," when people mean an "tights."

Properly speaking, a leotard is a skin-tight garment something like a bathing suit, which is worn over tights. But now the tights themselves are becoming known and advertised as "leotards."

"How are we going to know the difference if they mess up this words?" indignantly inquires my correspondent. I sympathize with her view, but this has been the unfortunate history of language, which does no logic, and seems to have a perverted life of its own.

I have no doubt that, a few years hence, leotards will wholly lose their original meaning, and the whole ensemble will be known by that name. Stranger things have happened in words — and in the field of costuming, itself.

The word "pants," for instance, comes from the name of a skit, three centuries ago, of Italian comedy of a clown named Pantaleone, with a role of "pantaloons," which was soon shortened to "pants."

And "dungarees" were originally trousers worn in the harems of the Near East. Even more to the point, people used to wear "breeches" with "upper stocks" and "drawers" under them, but the aethersticks took over from them the term "underwear" the "stockings" we know today.

A "negligee" used to be a long necklace of the Middle Ages, and somehow it became transformed into the sexy garment we know. And what a woman today calls a "corsage" originally meant the trunk or "corse" of the body — the bodice of a woman's dress, and then the bouquet that should be worn on the waist, rather than on the shoulder.

Actually, the dictionaries themselves cannot keep up with changing meanings in words. My Webster's Collegiate for 1937 does not even include "leotard"; in fact, it does not even include "slacks" as a pair of trousers worn by men or women. Neither does the large Second Edition of Webster's New International, published a quarter of a century later.

Nothing is harder than policing the proper use of words; this is why the logical French have set up a special academy for the purpose. But English is a permissive and almost anarchic language — which accounts both for the wild glory of our poetry and the exasperating imprecision of our prose. But this argument for "slacks" that are too tight, and "tights" that are too slack?

Compromise Is Essential

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

Compromise has come to be an ugly word in our day, with a tendency to regard it as a synonym for surrender. This is particularly true in any consideration of racial relations. Because of the popular clamor against any spirit of compromise, there are few who will use the word.

The result is that we are prepared to take some calculated risks in the interests of peace. Right now, there can be no reflective guarantee that any progress may be made. But it is reasonable to argue that if there is to be any understanding, there must be some compromise. If the Western powers do not wish to appear to surrender to the Communist way, it is equally certain that the Communists do not want to appear to give in to the West.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD (EXERCITUS)

How long has it been since you attended church? Do you pray regularly and intelligently every day? Are you like the youngster, who wrote out the Lord's Prayer, tacked it up at her bedside and said every night as he jumped in pointed to it and said, "Lord, there's my sentiments?"

There are not only two sides to most questions; there are a few twenty sides to many of them. But there are only two sides to the question as to whether God does or does not exist. He either does exist or He does not. There is no middle ground. If He does not exist, then everyone has religious faith is naive and churches are an unnecessary expense. If He does exist, then there is no greater reason for you and me to render Him. Our devotion must be complete.

The word "exercitus" means "retired from office or active duty on account of infirmity, or long and faithful service." Have you given God this ruling? Or, to be sure, your parents and grandparents were devoted to their religious duties, God meant something in their lives. He was not just an idea, or an idol, or an honored name. He was the Creator and Sustainer of the universe, King and Lord of all.

How Little Is Title?

Hamilton Spectator

A defence lawyer said in court the other day that there was "not a title" of evidence against his client. We are happy to be assured that titles are still in vogue in some courses of law. We had come to believe, almost, that these minute gradations of evidence had been neglected perhaps through deference to women lawyers who might not appreciate, or had been lost in the desuetude of the "high court house on Prince's Square."

The dictionary says the obsolete word "title" means "anything more than a particle, so that when not even one of them can be mustered, as effective evidence against an accused man." Whether our system of justice, he should be as good as free. All the same, we have been waiting for the judge or magistrate who will apply to defence counsel along these lines:

"I congratulate you on your defence, but I must disagree with you. There is at least the little of evidence which does associate your client with this crime. In fact, there may be several bits. What about that little in which Mrs. Mooney makes positive identification of your client as the man who went to the city hall and demanded at the point of a pistol point of a nickel-plated revolver? You would you call that a mere jot, and you call that a ultimate title? Then there's the signed confession. Little do you consider this a little hindered under duress! Surely you realize that all these add up to a veritable title tangle of testimony . . ."

Anyway, if gasoline comes in gallons, coffee by the pound and peace by the treaty, certainly won't object if evidence is measured in titles.

Ald. Jarvah's Remark Brings Prompt Reply

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

Your edition of Wednesday the 7th of this month quotes municipal councillor Jarvah as having expressed the view that any person reaching the age of 70 had "outlived his usefulness on any property."

I thought it interesting to note that your same edition carried a photograph and article of rural milkman Allan Wheeler, aged 75 who still delivers a horse and buggy to a car, page 11, a story on page 15 that His Holiness Pope John (aged 80) will walk with the priests and people of Rome in Lenten processions this year and tapping them all on page 13 a letter captioned "oldest" daily paper publisher on Job on his 90th birthday.

There is also on page 10 a photograph and story about The Honorable Mr. Justice C. H. Locke retiring from the Supreme Court of Ontario, aged 75.

I am sorry that your paper did not in that particular issue also carry the Dominion Government's Old Age Pension which is worded "don't judge a man's worth by the date of his birth."

I am sure Councillor Jarvah spoke only out of haste and youth, for he is certainly definitely a curable disease.

Poacher Uses Helicopter

Diesat aus Deutschland

Bonn's Federal Republic in Germany richest in game of all sorts. There are no fewer than 10,000 different hunting ranges and districts, in which no fewer than 650,000 deer are known to exist. Although 175,000 deer are permitted to be shot every year, their number is on the increase. Even in Bavaria alone has yet increased by no less than 30,000. The romantic world of poachers is of the past, but poaching still persists, and in fact it is considered to be a sort of cavalier offence and a national sport. There are many people hunting without hunting licences. The authorities propose do not consider poaching to be a joke, and a poacher who is found to have shot a deer in a range that was not his, or out of season, will have to pay a great fine.

However, the sportsmen poachers do not cause as much headache as the Bavarian authorities as does that other kind of poacher who uses the new activity out of very low motives, for just wanting to provide food, for the sake of killing. Only recently a great industrial concern in the area around Lake Chiemsee, north of Munich,when the young son of a wealthy and influential farmer was revealed to be a poacher and had been arrested. His father owns one of the largest hunting districts of Bavaria with many hundreds of stag and deer and boars. And it was the son failed three times in his hunting for qualification. Therefore he hunted in other areas, and in a few months killed 64 stags, many of them fawns. He used a small calibre gun which did not kill the animals instantly, but wounded the deer must have suffered before being dying. In the official reasons given for the sentence the court mentioned that the young man's conduct which has made him lose the respect of everyone, even that of his own parents, and added the the court even recognized poachers as "honorable" men.

The Bavarian Association for Forestry has coined a new expression for an upstart group of poachers, from it calls "prosperity poachers", which, however, the authorities has arisen due to the high standard of living in Germany. These "prosperity poachers" use the most modern technical devices. The well-watered farmer's son of the Chiemgau, for example, had used his father's cars or tractors to drive into the other hunting areas. There are so many poachers in Bavaria who are known to go poaching in super deluxe limousines.

To Your Good Health

Bedtime Snacks Sometimes Offset Low Blood Sugar

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Until a few years ago I was a sound sleeper. Now I awaken in the wee hours of the morning and find it difficult to go back to sleep. It sometimes involves more than simple insomnia.

When I awaken, I am aware that I am hungry. There is a vague, flattery sensation in the abdominal area and the palms of my hands perspire. This is sometimes accompanied by shortness of breath. I feel light-headed and fuzzy-minded although there is no pain. The long ordeal leaves me weak and thoroughly exhausted. Is this another case of nerves? — R.S.

Maybe, but maybe not. I can, at this moment, imagine what other physicians are saying to themselves if they are reading this column: "Old Doctor Molner has that pattern for 10 minutes and ask a few questions." Or, "I wish I knew that person, or just a few subtle facts would give us a really good diagnosis." Or, "It could, just maybe, be what we call depression — but we'd have to know a few things the person didn't think were important."

There are varied possibilities. Perhaps it is a complex matter of taking some medication, failing to mind the various things they might be doing, smoking, drinking, club by clue, the facts that you think that it is this or it isn't that.

As a column writer, I am aware of how many people say, because I can't pack ten or twelve rapid questions into a face-to-face examination, that I can I prescribe some probable cause and perhaps a remedy, and say, "Come back in two weeks." knowing that, if it does not I shall have invented my entire broad category of troubles.

Forgive me if I give away "trade secrets," but this is the case. Logical and reasonable (for the patient!) way of getting to the heart of the matter without recital of the typical ailments of mankind. We mustn't and don't.

Of course, apply the economical rule of "first" or "second" when any sign indicates immediate danger.

Violent dreams, not remembered on waking, which is possible, may be the cause of a feeling. That gets into psychiatry, however.

From the purely physical aspect, and this is not exactly what you want to hear, the patient might have some degree of hypoglycemia — that is, periods of low blood sugar.

If this is it, the trouble can be effectively offset by a bedtime (just before retiring) snack that will increase its food value gradually: a glass of milk; some crackers and cheese; a small sandwich containing meat or cheese. It's worth a try and cannot do harm. Additionally, a mild sedation prescribed by your doctor may be helpful. One or both of these have solved many a case like this. But remember, I don't gauge my answers to fit each factor. I use hundreds of basic premises that have been omitted in giving.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 57 and my only complaint is a slightly oversize prostate gland that, fortunately, does not call for immediate removal. I believe, though, that this condition impairs my sex life, and I use half of a glycerine suppository every night. Is this harmful? — R.M.

It is possible for an enlarged prostate to affect sexual desire at times with either bowel or bladder irritation. Glycerine is which aids the prostate gland is enlarged.

Your solution — the half a suppository — is both practical and safe.

To R.J.: There's a half-truth behind the ragweed — plus b-wgrass, timothy, mullen, Bermuda grass, cocklebur, marsh elder, lamb's quarter — as responsible for "hay fever." Some others are varieties of sage, hemp, thistle and plantain.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NOISES

I seriously doubt if I shall live to see the day when noises — all noises — are lessened. A large part of all the noises in the world are unnecessary.

Even human beings make too much noise. The quiet moving, silent, talking person attracts immediate attention.

In the great cities, the sound of automobile horns and of motorcycles is deafening. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most old soldiers, sailors and airmen I am sure, have certain profound stirrings of recollection as they watched Col. John Glenn marching in his capsule, and during the hours he was circling the earth, encountering and delays, surely there has not been a more rock-like demonstration of courage. I am in hard enough to be courageous in the company of men and comrades, it is not so easy to be courageous alone.

Watching Col. Glenn brought to mind the brave men I have known. Corporal James Post, fear.

Mayor McBride Of Peterborough Defends Official

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Mayor Stanley McBride said Thursday a campaign has been going on to discredit city industrial commissioner Laurie Engholm.

Mayor McBride at a press conference said the campaign centred on the possibility that the Brunswick Corporation, an American firm controlling manufacture of Mercury outboard motors, might build a plant in the area.

The mayor said copies of a letter sent by Mr. Engholm to the Lake Ontario Development Association, asking the city's name be dropped from LODA files in connection with the proposed outboard motors plant, have been circulated around the city by persons apparently intent on "getting" the industrial commissioner.

Mr. Engholm said he made contact with the Brunswick Corporation several times to try to get the firm to locate in Peterborough. He said all this was done after writing the LODA letter and telephoning the LODA to say he would deal directly with Brunswick.

Mayor McBride said the letter could be interpreted as meaning the city was not interested in the proposed industry and could be used to discredit Mr. Engholm and possibly Alan L. Garner, industrial committee chairman.

The mayor said he wanted a full investigation of the matter. It is believed two or more persons took the letter from the industrial commission office files.

Mr. Engholm said he learned Wednesday that Brunswick may buy a building in the Toronto area.

Sunday School Lesson
Obligated to Be Truthful

By ROY L. SMITH

Moses may have used a polite word for it, when he spoke of false witness, but what he actually said was,

"No more, lying."

EXCUSABLE LIES

Perhaps it should be said that there are a certain number of excusable lies going 'round among us. Our hostess serves us a salad with which we have some difficulty, and then asks us how we like it. Or the church soloist asks us how we liked her number, and we are reduced to the necessity of saying that particular piece is one of our favorites, without mentioning her flatted high notes. Or, in a more serious vein, we may be asked a question, which, if we were to answer it, we would be betraying a confidence.

It is easy to argue the question as to whether or not it is possible to live through an entire day without making a misstatement of facts. But this is not the great issue of modern life. Our real problem is the deliberate, and the contrived, lie. Our second problem is the self-deceived liar who bears false witness.

PATRIOTISM AND FALSE WITNESS

Let there be no misunderstanding about the matter. The American people are face to face with the greatest moral and political crisis of all time, in the rise of communism. But in the face of the terrible menace it imposes upon us, we are in grave danger of forsaking the defense.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 11: "The Obligation To Be Truthful," Exodus 20: 16; Matthew 12:33-37 36-69-73; Proverbs 12:17.

In a certain American city there was a preacher who had come, quite by accident, into possession of some extremely important information which reflected adversely upon the police department and the chief of police in particular.

At the same time he discovered in the want-ad columns of two of the daily papers of the city what had all the appearance of being brazen advertisements for houses of prostitution.

Aroused by these discoveries, he had the temerity to speak out in condemnation of what he believed to be public immorality. Immediately he found himself branded as a communist, and almost immediately some of his leading laymen were contacted with the advice that they had better assemble their patriotism and loyalty at their pastor.

SELF APPOINTED DEFENDERS

Just at the moment we find ourselves being defended by a host of self-appointed guardians of the public order, who are determined to "do something" about the communist menace. And one of the things some of us can do is to teach a boy's class in the Sunday school, where we have a chance to instruct the youth in the unterrifying principles of basic patriotism.

It happens that I know a rather conspicuous anti-communist who thinks nothing of telling his children, out of Sunday school on Sunday morning, in order to accommodate him, that he goes fishing on the Sabbath day. But if a communist child dare deny his children the right to a religious practice, this man would sound an alarm that could be heard from one end of the country to the other.

DIVIDED DEFENSES

Now, if ever, is the time for Americans to unite in the defense of the nation. And the peddlers of suspicions and wild unsupported charges, are succeeding in doing little more than arraying one citizen against another, one class against another, and one faith against another. Surely there is a better way to defend the country against communism than by dividing it into warring groups.

SELECT JURY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The conspiracy and murder trial of Mickey Cohen and four associates accused of slaying Jack (The Enforcer) Whalen will be tried by a jury of 31 women and one man. The panel, chosen from more than 60 persons, was completed Thursday. Cohen, former underworld figure, is on trial with Sam P. LoCasio, Roger Leonard, Joseph DiCarlo and George Parry.

MISSED WORLD

announcement from Washington.

Mr. Diefenbaker, dealing with the Lacy commission, said it has "greatly reduced" the fighting between pro-West and pro-Communist elements there.

He also told the Commons he believes the 14-nation Geneva conference on Laos, which began nearly 10 months ago, has achieved excellent results. This conference was called to frame a new East-West agreement to isolate Laos from the cold war. Mr. Green said that from his experience at Geneva — he led the Canadian delegation in the conference's opening stages — he could say that no country represented there wants a world war started over Laos.

Mr. Pearson said he finds it hard to believe the Chinese Communist representative at Geneva is "really anxious" or willing to have a neutral Laos. "If that were the case, it is hard to understand the support that the Chinese Communist government is giving to the Viet Minh forces which, as I see it, are trying to prevent a neutral Laos and trying to set up in that country a Communist state as a step which will be helpful to the Chinese Communist empire."

Pearson Twice Blackballed By Russia for UN Post
Paul Martin Tells House

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson, Canada's former external affairs minister, was twice blackballed by Russia for the post of United Nations secretary-general, Liberal MP Paul Martin told the Commons Thursday night.

The front-bencher from Essex East, an associate of Mr. Pearson on Canadian UN delegations of the past, said his leader's name was the one most prominently mentioned for the UN post in 1946 and again in 1953.

Both times, the job went to someone else because of Soviet opposition to Mr. Pearson, said Mr. Martin. In the first case, Trygve Lie of Norway got the job; in the second, the late Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden.

Mr. Martin's statement, made during debate on supplementary estimates of the external affairs department, was interpreted as a rejoinder to two Conservative MPs who recently attacked Mr. Pearson in speeches outside the Commons.

SLAPS AT ARGUE

Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) was quoted as saying in Edmonton that the federal Liberal party is a "cesspool of civil servants with Red friends," and that Mr. Pearson, MP J. M. Pickersgill and other election candidates showed their true colors by willingness to run for office who would deliver them an extra vote.

This evidently referred to Hazen Argue, former CCF-NDP parliamentary leader, being accepted into the Liberal fold.

H. O. White (PC — Middlesex East) said earlier in London Ont., that Mr. Pearson won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1957 by siding with the Communist world against the Suez crisis.

Mr. White heads the Commons standing committee on external affairs.

Mr. Martin bluntly declared that Mr. Pearson failed to get the job of secretary-general "because the Communists didn't want him." He added:

"Canadians in this country who do not know the details of this should be told it."

FOUR IS RUNNING

Mr. Martin said four men were prominently mentioned at the Security Council meeting as candidates to be the UN's first secretary-general.

They were Gen. Eisenhower, Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Lie. Mr. Pearson at the time was undersecretary of state for external affairs.

Both Gen. Eisenhower and Mr. Spaak indicated they could not accept the post.

"The name most prominently bandied about from one delegation to another was that of Mr. Pearson," recounted the Liberal MP.

However, Norway's Lie was finally chosen. In a subsequent press interview, Russia's Andrei Vishinsky explained why Mr. Lie was accepted by the Soviet delegation: He came from an area "where there could be said to be a greater measure of apparent neutrality."

In 1953, after Mr. Lie had been forced out by Russia because of his support of UN intervention in Korea, it was "almost the unanimous wish" of UN members that Mr. Pearson, at the time president of the UN Assembly, should succeed him.

But the Soviet Union said he was "not acceptable." The reason: Mr. Pearson was regarded by the Soviets as one of the architects of NATO.

C.G.I.T.

An interesting and educational session on missionary work in the Philippines was given by Mrs. Jeffries, returned missionary, at the recent mother and daughter banquet held by St. Andrew's C.G.I.T. group, with other groups from the city also present.

On Tuesday last, a most successful pancake supper was enjoyed with thanks going to the women of the church for their share of the preparation. The girls, in their uniforms, did the serving, with the receipts for the evening amounting $72.

The room, for both occasions, was most attractive with the prettily decorated table cloths made by the girls for the occasion.

Weddings

WICKENS — PRESTON

White chrysanthemums adorned the altar and white satin bows the guest pews in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, on Saturday, March 3rd, at high noon, for a lovely wedding, when Linda Anne Preston of Harold Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Preston, became the bride of Mr. George Robert Wickens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Wickens. The Reverend R. G. Fleming, of Marmora, officiated at the ceremony.

Mrs. R. G. Fleming presided at the console of the organ for the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Diane Neal, of Marmora, in her rendition of "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly lovely in her gown of fuchsia nylon sheer over flowered silk taffeta, fashioned with full waist-length skirt, and shirred bodice, and three-quarter-length coat in matching nylon sheer. A white flowered hat with veil and corsage of Talisman roses completed her costume.

She was attended by Miss Sandra Hoyer of Stirling, who wore a waltz-length gown in yellow nylon over yellow silk taffeta, with matching headdress and corsage of white mums.

Mr. Albert McFadden, of Crookston, Ont., attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Gary Preston of Jarvis, Ontario, and Mr. Edgar Cleary, Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at Salem Hall, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by silver candelabra with tall white candles. The bridal bouquets added a subtle touch to the nuptial setting.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a blue printed silk gown with a sage of white 'mums. The bridegroom's mother was attired in navy blue crepe with corsage of white 'mums.

For the honeymoon to Westerton and other points on the lake, and Muskoka, via Barrie the bride chose a mint-green knit suit with matching silk blouse, spricot accessories, and corsage of pale yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickens will reside in Toronto.

Rie Donker Bannister, Queenston, Says Weaving Practically Whole Life

Pot-Luck Supper Held By Argyll

The Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. held its regular monthly meeting at the Officers' Mess in the form of a delightful pot-luck supper.

The Regent, Mrs. A. Cunningham, welcomed everyone present and presided over the regular meeting.

After the various reports were read, plans were discussed for different projects for the coming year.

An invitation has been extended to the Argyll Chapter to meet with the St. Julien Chapter on April 2nd when the Provincial Counsellor, Mrs. Bennor, from Campbellford, will be the guest speaker for the evening.

Mrs. E. Loucks, Empire and World Affairs convener, read an interesting article on I.O.D.E. contribution to Canada Dr. Claude Bissel, president of the University of Toronto, stated, "The most important contribution Canada can make to the new age, is educated people — intelligent, cultivated men and women".

I.O.D.E. CONTRIBUTION

It is in this area that the I.O.D.E. had made, perhaps its most important contribution to the nation . . . The awarding of scholarships, bursaries, loans and gifts to Canadian and Commonwealth students. Forty schools have been adopted from Canada, east to the West Indies and these schools have been helped by contribution of books and educational supplies. A total of $144,821 was raised in 1960-61 for this type of service and every primary member had a part in helping to raise this sum.

As the meeting was brought to a close the chapter was reminded that in the centre of its badge is the Union Jack with its three wreaths. The cross of St. George — the valiant fight-er against evil; the cross of St. Patrick, who returned good for evil and the cross of St. Andrew, who remembered to bring his brother to the highest he knew.

There three objectives should be the centre of life in I.O.D.E. work.

Written for The Canadian Press
Niagara Falls Review

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., (CP) —Rie Donker Bannister came to Canada 28 years ago from The Netherlands, a land where looms are almost unheard of. Now she is one of this country's foremost weavers.

Hundreds come from many parts of Canada and the United States to the South Landing Craft Centre in which Mrs. Bannister operates at Queenston overlooking the mouth of the Niagara River.

They come not only to buy wool and cotton but to take a refresher course with the tall, stately woman who has shared her expert knowledge with hundreds over the years.

"Weaving is my whole life," she says. "It is to me what oils are to the artist. I cannot stand plain colors. Everything I weave must have life in it."

She is much travelled and spends several days each month visiting in many parts of Ontario and New York State.

WEAVERS' MEETINGS

"I always let them know I am coming and load up my car with wool and weaving materials. Often when I arrive I am greeted by a group of weavers and my visit turns into a weavers' meeting."

Mrs. Bannister believes in personal contact. She is a distributor of looms, mostly Canadian made, and she always delivers them herself.

Many persons interested in weaving do not know how to operate a loom, so when they buy one, she takes it to the person and spends a day or more giving them the basic knowledge.

Despite her travelling, Mrs. Bannister prefers to be at her store, surrounded by looms from Sweden, Germany and Canada and dozens of wool from Britain and Europe.

She is proud of the many gifts she has received from customers who travel to different countries. The latest addition is a table runner woven by crippled children in South Africa. She also has items woven in The Congo and Russia.

EASY TO LEARN

The weaver hasn't a regular class of students but willingly takes time to teach the eager beginner.

"Weaving is only a matter of practice. After only a few days most of the people who come to me can make place mats or runners and if they want to make something more advanced then they come to me and I show them how. It is a very easy and fascinating hobby for many people."

Weavers, she says sometimes need a boost and, in addition to her personal touch, she makes up kits for the beginner, complete with instructions. She has requests from many parts of North America for skeins of wool, many unobtainable elsewhere. Her best customers, she says, are in British Columbia.

Among the weaving materials she brought with her to Canada in 1953 and which she still uses is a wooden mare that a century old.

BOUGHT OLD INN

Mrs. Bannister was born in Rotterdam and attended a college of art there where she obtained some of her knowledge of weaving. She has been weaving now for 40 years and at one time combined it with teaching at Ryerson Institute, Toronto.

She came to Canada to join her fiance and was married shortly after her arrival. She and her husband lived on a farm at Whale Star, Sask., for four years. Her lawyer in nearby Prince Albert was a young man named John Diefenbaker.

Later she lived in Saskatoon and Kingston, Ont., before moving to Toronto where she operated a Westphalia—a Dutch word—house.

In 1953 she moved to Queenston so she could have a little more time to weave. She bought a rambling house, formerly an inn, which was built 102 years ago.

Downstairs rooms are devoted to a store and weaving rooms while upstairs she has a large dining room where she frequently entertains visitors to lunch. She also has guest rooms decorated and in each the drapes, bedspread and blankets are woven.

CAS Holds Panel at H-S Meeting

At the recent Home and School Association meeting at Queen Mary and Prince Charles Schools, a panel from the Children's Aid Society, under the direction of Mr. Kenard, was introduced by Mr. Craighead.

Dr. Rose, acting as moderator, introduced Mr. Adamson, Miss Maker and Mr. Boardman, who, each in turn, gave an interesting and humorous picture of a child's life from birth to teen-age.

During the business portion the treasurer's report was given showing a balance on hand of $148.63. It was decided that the Association send two delegates to the Home and School convention held in Toronto in April 25-26. The card party of March 7th, was discussed, also the homemaking and candy table which had been the special attraction.

Banners were won by Miss Neal's primary class of Prince Charles School and by Mrs. Phillips' junior class. Those of Queen Mary were won by Mrs. Jewel's class of seniors and Miss Anderson's class of juniors.

Mrs. Taylor, the president, extended appreciative, thanks to the panel for its interesting discussion and for the questions answered.

Artist Draws West Scenes

VICTORIA (CP) — Fifteen-year-old Penny Birch, all artist who specializes in scenes of the old west, has been commissioned to illustrate a novel by Elmer Turner, California breeder and racer of quarter horses.

She draws cowboys and Indians, the latter with such skill that it may become her life's work.

Penny's success with pen and ink has been remarkable for a girl of her age. She has won prizes in the Pacific National Exhibition and her sketches have been accepted by magazines.

"I am doing all the drawings for a novel by Elmer Turner," she said. "The book is to be titled The Little Black Mare."

Her commission for this task arose from a drawing of the Western Horseman, depicting a cowboy rounding up some steers.

Not limited to pen and ink, Penny also dabbles in watercolors and oils.

"I'm a miserable tomboy and one of my best friends is a cowboy to whom I write and send my sketches though I've never met him."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. F.N. — You'd think we were just passing friends, not parents.

Edgar N. — They can't expect us to be pals. We move in opposite worlds.

* * *

Mr. F.N. — My wife and I raised four children, two sons and two daughters. But now that they're grown and are prospering in homes of their own, you'd think we lived on separate planets. They stay in their town world and glad to get rid of it. They push us into senior citizen clubs, pack us off to Florida, anything rather than let us share in their own lives a little.

It's nice that they're so close to each other, but does that mean they can't be close to us, too? They're so close-mouthed and secretive, we never know who's sick, who's in town or who's buying a car. It's like having your children form a secret society to which you're not admitted. They treat us like enemies, always keeping us far away.

* * *

Edgar, N. — We respect our parents. We're newly discovered sons. Each of us individually remembers them for their birthdays, anniversary, holidays, Mother's Day, Father's Day and other festive occasions. They get their full share of visits, greeting cards, gifts and phone calls. My wife and I invite them to our home for certain celebrations. The children do likewise.

But lesson pals we can't be. The older folks haven't kept up with what's going on in the world. We're separated from them by our age, background and problems. They're childlike in their comments and remarks. The pace of their lives has always been slow. Temperamentally and realistically, we have little in common. Why do they ask the impossible?

* * *

The Council: Obviously Edgar and his brother and sister are the very models of a model set of offspring, if one could look behind the scenes into the workings. They do every "i" and cross every "t" or "final duty and devotion." But something's missing. Let's call it communication.

At this late date, Mr. N. can't hope to change the pigeonhole concept of the family held by his children. You stay in your compartment, they say, and we'll stay in ours. Upon occasion we'll look in on you and let you look in on us. But never, never, will we bore a connecting tunnel between the two holes. That might make us look too much like a homogeneous family, which we're not.

Part of this attitude may be traced to unreasonable demands and expectations by these parents. While it may have been natural for them to devote every waking thought to their children during the growing-up years, the reverse isn't true. Children don't go in for that sort of thing. They move along to new interests and obligations. So, if Mr. N. and his wife insisted upon companionship and closeness as their due, they may have driven Edgar and the rest to their present exclusivity.

Actually it is only the rare (and lucky) parent who is reasonably regarded as a cocktail companion, worthy of confidence. And this happy circumstance doesn't come by a snap of the fingers and a stamp of the foot. It takes delicate planning and growing, as we've said, it may be too late for Mr. N. to hope for that sort of fraternization with his children.

But his situation can be vastly improved. He can relax about Edgar and the others being "in his hair." They're not a cabal against him. They're joined by common and mutual interests, always with his and their mouth, Father's welfare in mind. Let him enjoy the fact that they have much to discuss with each other even if not with him.

Edgar & Co., in turn, must work to remedy that shut-off, "I'm feeling ill, Mr. N. describes all parties, no wandering off into whispered huddles. Don't make Dad feel he'd strifled into the wrong room.

Requirements for the Ministry, Its Challenge and Work Topic at Tabernacle UCW

"Tabernacle United Church Women met on Tuesday evening in the church sanctuary with a good representation from all the units. Mrs. Lewis Andrews, president, welcomed all members, especially those from the new unit of business and professional women, which has been organized recently.

Mrs. Ted Fennell, secretary, called the roll by units. Mrs. Frank Davidson, treasurer, gave a favorable report.

The Rev. Morgan G. McFarlane, minister of Tabernacle United Church, was the speaker, and gave some interesting and informative experiences in the minister's work on a pastoral charge.

There are people who think the minister has only Sunday to prepare for and he has leisure time the rest of the week. This is not so in Mr. McFarlane's program. He pointed out that he and every other minister have many demands every day of the week — even during their vacation they are called to some aspect of the work of the church.

Mr. McFarlane gave a review of the claims on a person who decides to enter the ministry. There must be in the person a firm conviction that this is what he wants to be. There must also be the firm conviction that God wants that person to be a minister. All through his years of study, he is watched by his seniors in Presbytery and eventually he is ordained by Conference and is required to go where his Conference sends him for at least two years. He must serve a mission field.

Sometimes this is quite a hardship; there may be four, five or six churches on the pastoral charge eight miles or more from one church to the next one.

Many of these charges may have been served only in summer by student ministers — there is the work of establishing a congregation, and, sometimes great re-organization has to be done. The young minister has to learn to make decisions and then never let the goal be dimmed by anyone or anything. He has to conduct worship — the fundamental goal of the church; he is required to visit the sick and many times the spirit is ill as well as the body; he has to comfort mourners bringing comfort and solace to the bereaved. There are weddings that bring a happier aspect to the minister's work and there are the baptisms when most ministers perform their duties with joy and delight.

COUNSELLING

Counselling is a growing aspect — people full of despair and bitterly upset. The minister has to help these people understand the forgiving love of God.

Mr. McFarlane enumerated the various speaking engagements, radio devotions; Services in hospital and County Home; teaching Christian education in one of the schools each week, the minister's work is more than Sunday, but it is a great privilege to serve Jesus Christ in His Church.

Mr. McFarlane has had an active ministry. His present charge demands a full week of work. He is meeting the daily challenge courageously and strong in the conviction that this is the place and work God intended for him.

Women's Activities

FRONT ROAD U.C.W.

Front Road United Church Women held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Bill Lasher.

Mrs. Clifford Reid, president, opened the meeting and thanked Mrs. Lasher for opening her home.

The worship service was taken by Mrs. George McKillop on "Lent," who also read the Scripture from Luke, 9: 51-62, closing with a short prayer.

During the business period, it was decided the April call be answered by donating something for the white elephant table for the fall bazaar; plans were also discussed for the pie-social to be held in April.

The study book was taken over by Mrs. Walter Taylor, "Signals for the Sixties," which was well given and showed much thought in preparation. A short discussion followed.

The hostess, Mrs. Lasher and her assistants served a cup of tea and refreshments.

YELLOWKNIFE, N. W. T. (CP)—A woman is seeking the Liberal nomination in Canada's most widespread constituency in the next federal general election.

Mrs. Eleanor Hardie, a slight, 49-year-old native of Winnipeg, is a candidate for the Liberal nomination in Mackenzie. The riding in the Northwest Territories, established in 1953, was represented by her husband, Mervyn Hardie, at the time of his death last October. He had been elected in 1953 and re-elected in 1957 and 1958.

Largest federal riding in Canada with an area of 560,000 square miles, Mackenzie has a scattered population of fewer than 20,000.

Mrs. Hardie said she decided to seek the nomination after receiving encouragement from Liberal party officials both in Ottawa and in the Northwest Territories.

Known to her friends as "Tippie," Mrs. Hardie went to Yellowknife in the late 1940s and there met her husband. Mother of four, she lives in Ottawa but has a strong interest in the north.

"The size of the constituency and the problems of transportation don't worry me," she said. I am well acquainted with the needs, desires and functions of the Mackenzie constituency, as I kept in close touch with the work my husband did in the House of Commons."

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

At a dinner party, do you know how to help yourself correctly? See if you can pass this test with flying colors.

1. How do you handle the serving spoon and fork when a filet of beef, for example is offered on a platter?

2. When condiments are served, where are they placed — on the meat or on the side of the dish?

3. Is it permissable to spoon some gravy over your vegetables, as well as the meat on your plate?

4. Should sauces like Hollandaise and Bearnaise be placed directly on the foods they are meant for, or to one side?

5. If you want more butter for your peas, where should you take it from, the butter dish or your bread and butter plate?

6. When olives and celery are served at dinner, where should they be put?

7. If there's no bread and butter plate on the table, where do you put your roll?

8. When hard sauce is served with a pudding or pie, is it placed to the side or on the dessert, itself?

9. If you like to accent certain foods with catsup or Worcestershire sauce, where do you pour them?

10. How do you serve yourself when small, individual cakes are offered for dessert?

Answers

1. The slice of meat is picked up with the spoon, then steadied with the fork on to the dinner plate.

2. To the side of the dish, then a bit is taken up with each forkful of the food it accompanies.

3. Gravy is only applied to the meat and never drizzled over other foods on the dish.

4. These may be spooned directly on the foods for which they are intended.

5. From your bread and butter plate, and the butter should be taken from the dinner fork, not with the dinner or butter knife.

6. On the bread and butter plate, if there is one. If not, then on the side of the dinner plate.

7. On the table cloth, above and to the left of the plate.

8. A serving is placed alongside the dessert and a small amount is taken on the dessert spoon or fork along with the pudding or pie as it's eaten.

Successful Living

Who Toasts and Who Responds?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am getting married in April of this year and everything is going very smoothly, except the matter of toasts.

I have tried all over. I have been to the library but I just can't seem to find what I want.

I have asked my uncle to be master of ceremonies and I was wondering if you could give me a list of his duties and who gives the toasts to the bride and groom, bridesmaids, bride's mother, groom's mother, etc.—ENGAGED.

DEAR ENGAGED:—Uncle will be running the show; avoiding all hitches by planning ahead, speaking his own piece first, in friendly, witty fashion; calling on the toasters and responders, cuing up bride and groom when they are to cut the cake, sounding the alert when the bride is about to throw her bouquet and when the happy couple takes off.

The "musts" are few. The best man ("second-to-best," my niece insists) toasts the bride; groom responds and may propose the toast to the bridesmaids. After that there is room for some freewheeling.

Responders are not necessary for any other toasts. Toasts to the parents of the bride and to the parents of the groom are usual. There is often a toast to the groom—and I am all for that!

In choosing toast-proposers they should not be members of the family of the persons being so honored. Your uncle might toast the groom's parents; a close friend of your fiance's father might toast your parents.

Make your selections on the basis of individual ability to speak. Many people can't. Yet—the whole happy spirit of the affair may be enhanced or dampened by the skill or ineptness of those who speak.

(Talking it over helps. Write to Doris, who is a trained social worker, about what's troubling you.)

Ontario Intelligencer SPORTS

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Nine clubs representing some 2,500 outdoor sportsmen have joined forces and formed the East Central Ontario Association of Sportsmen's Clubs. Belleville, Picton, Trenton, Frankford, Napanee, Trenton RCAF and Campbellford were present at the Stirling meeting.

This is a move in the right direction. Such an association will carry more weight than individual clubs in their quest for departmental or governmental assistance.

The association could, I believe, go a long way to iron out some of the problems facing fish and game clubs. If could throw in its collective weight behind requests which when presented by smaller groups, become lost in a maze of red tape.

Among the numerous items placed before the inaugural meeting was the hunter-fugner problem which has gotten out of hand in several areas. City hunters have made themselves obnoxious by hunting on private property without the required permission. In other areas property damage has been caused, resulting in hunting areas being posted and closed by the owners.

At its last meeting the Belleville Fish and Game Association concurred with the Madoc Fish and Game Club in a resolution asking for winter fishing in inland waters for speckled trout. This will be brought up again at the April 1st meeting of the East-Central Ontario body and a collective resolution sent to the provincial Department of Lands and Forests through its Trenton district headquarters.

President Jack Lavis and secretary Ken Yorke of the Belleville Fish and Game Association were present at the first meeting of the new Central East body and they will likely present a report at the next B. of. and C. get-together. Both, I am told, were highly pleased with the reported aims and objects of the new organization.

As has been reported before the pickerel season opens in the Bay of Quinte on April 23rd to coincide with that of the St. Lawrence River. Elsewhere in the Tweed district the season opens May 12th.

In an answer to queries, the Bay of Quinte includes all waters of the bay west of Pleasant Point, Prince Edward County. This includes Hay Bay and all other bays contained within the Bay of Quinte, but does not include the rivers entering the bay, nor such inland waters as Consecon, East and West Lakes in Prince Edward County.

And, I am informed, the mouth of a river is not a "bay." Therefore, wonde city anglers here who do not want to wander too far afield can sit in a boat in the mouth of the Moira River at the CPR bridge and fish in the Bay of Quinte, if he wants to draw a fine line.

Speaking of fishing a story out of Napanee says that four ardent blokes were pickerel fishing through the ice in a plush shanty with fine housekeeping facilities. They caught four beauties over the six-pound mark. That's all they would say.

They did say, however, that they learned pickerel are moose-liver lovers. According to the four contented minnows, pork rind, etc., but the snooty pike disdained this fare. Not a fish nibbled until the liver was introduced.

All went well with the tender tid-bit rather scarce. The fishing halted abruptly on a stray hound joined the party and gobbled up all the remaining bait.

Lands and Forests officials report rabbits and hares have become so numerous in some local areas that the dogs, their arch enemies, have become confused by their numbers and pay little attention to them.

In another instance a Tweed resident reports that a rabbit sits beneath his bird-feeding stands and picks up the grain scratched overboard by the birds. After his meal he retires—and waits for the next feeding.

POSTPONE FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The world championship bantamweight fight between Eder Jofre and Herman Marquez was postponed Thursday from March 20 to May 28. The switch will make it possible for champion Jofre to fight Johnny Caldwell in London April 10.

SUSPEND TENNIS STAR

LONDON (AP)—British tennis officials Thursday suspended Bobby Wilson, British Davis Cup star, until May 1 because of his conduct in last week's London-Paris tennis match. Wilson was accused of throwing the last set of his match against France's Gerard Pilet.

Wings Blank Bruins; Leafs Tie Habs

Rookie Fires Detroit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Larry Jeffrey, has scored five goals in 10 games and that, in a nutshell, is what makes Detroit Red Wings think they can still make the National Hockey League playoffs.

Jeffery, 21, just brought up from Edmonton of the Western Hockey League, fired two goals Thursday night as the Wings beat last-place Boston 3-0 and made a hot race for fourth place the last playoff position—even better.

Val Fonteyne got the other Red Wing goal and goalie Hank Bassen turned in a fine 30-stop effort to earn his third shutout of the season.

In the only other game of the night Montreal Canadiens and Toronto, the league first and second - place teams respectively, tied 1-1 in Montreal leaving Toronto trailing the Habs by seven points.

Detroit's win cut the gap between the Wings and the New York Rangers, who currently hold the vital fourth place, down to a single point and Detroit still has two games in hand.

Boston did a fine job holding down Gordie Howe who is trying hard to get his 500th major league goal, but Detroit didn't need him.

Val Fonteyne started it off with a goal at 12:06 of the first period and only four minutes later Jeffrey opened on a second and fired it through the legs of Bruins' goaler Bruce Gamble.

In the third period, he rifled home another one, this time off a 15-foot backhander.

Detroit's win was only the team's second in its last seven games, not a good record for the once-powerful Red Wings record, but Boston's is even worse.

In Montreal scalers Johnny Bower of Toronto and Montreal's Jacques Plante came up with their usual fine games as the teams battled to a tie in a chippy, penalty-studded game.

Tim Horton scored Toronto's goal in the first period, driving in a long shot over the Leafs hung on to the lead until halfway through the third period.

Then veteran Bernie Geoffrion scored forcing the tie.

Junior 'B' Playoffs Open Tonight

A series that has been in the making since January 1st will get under way here tonight when the Belleville McFarlands and the Kingston Frontenacs open their OHA Eastern Junior "B" group finals.

While the Macs had a good year, without any serious slumps, the Kingston club did not hit its stride until the first of this year. The Fronts then won 12 games in a row before the Macs cut them down 3-2 in one of the semi-final playoff games.

The two clubs have staged some great battles this year, we witnessed 700 fans for one league game here and 728 in the playoff tilt last Friday. If both teams can keep up the pace during this best-of-seven finals we'll be in for tremendous series that should draw well over 1,000 fans to every game.

And as said before, the Macs and Fronts tied at the top of the league in schedule play and the Quinte crew got the first-place nod via the goals-average method. Again in the round-robin playoffs the Macs finished just ahead of their Limestone City opponents, also by the goals average method.

However, the league finals will be different. This is a fight to the finish and the first club to win four out of eight points will be the winner.

Kingston coach Danny McLeod and his mates led by Gary Lavallee, have sworn revenge. There will be no goals-average to work them to the bridle, mate's vest in this series and it will take an all-out effort in every game for the Macs to defeat the Frontenacs.

Belleville's top line of Pete Weston, Moe Hunter and Dave Smith has been the club's top scoring line in the playoffs to date, but has four goals against four assists, Smith three goals and five helpers and Weston three and four. This trio will again be counted on for heavy duty as faceoff time (8.00) to night.

The second game will be played at the Kingston Community Centre Monday night at 8.30 p.m.

INDIA OUT FOR 205

KINGSTON Jamaica (Reuters)—The West Indies scored 157 for one wicket in reply to India's first-innings total of 205 by the close of play Thursday on the second day of the second cricket test here.

Sloan Sparks 8-1 Win

Canada Whips Finland In Opener

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — Tod (Stinker) Sloan, the former NHL centre who is playing as an amateur in fun, is wasting no time—before he started displaying his wares in the world hockey championships.

Sloan, a 34-year-old veteran of 12 seasons in the National Hockey League before he returned to amateur status last December, scored two goals and assisted on two others, to lead Canada's Gali Terriers to an easy 8-1 victory over Finland Thursday night at Denver.

Canada moved to the top of the standing in the championship division along with the United States and Switzerland, who also won their opening games.

U.S. FINISH FAST

The U.S., held scoreless in the first period, ran loaded up with goals in the second period and trounced Norway 14-2 in Broadmoor World Arena here Thursday night.

Switzerland, which doesn't figure to be up there long, had the distinction of getting the first victory in the top bracket when it beat Britain 6-3 in an afternoon game at Colorado Springs.

The Canadians and the U.S. don't play again until Saturday night, when Canada will meet the Yanks.

Sweden plays Switzerland, the West Germans take on Norway and Finland tackles Britain in today's championship action. In Group B Japan meets France, Canada, the defending champion, played aggressively against the Finns and concentrated its scoring into flurries, tallying twice in less than two minutes early in the first period to take command. In the second period Gali scored twice in 17 seconds and added two more goals within seven seconds during the last minute of the period.

POWER PLAY WORKS

Two of the Canadian goals were scored while the Finns were a man short.

Sloan, with a filetime NHL record of 220 goals, scored the third and last Canadian goal and slotted on the second and the winner.

Only some near - impossible saves by Finnish goalie Risto Ketola prevented the Canadians from running the score into double figures.

Gali goalie Harold (Goat) Hurley got excellent support from his big defencemen all night. He missed a shutout early in the third period when Erkki Niemi-

Belch's Edge Callows 6-5 In Opener

Belch Construction shaded Callows A. by a 6-5 score last night to take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven Prince Edward North Shore Hockey league finals.

The second game in the series is slated for next Thursday night at 8.15 but after that the teams will play on both Tuesday and Thursday nights until the series is completed.

Belch's led all the way last night. They were in front 3-2 at half time and held a 6-4 lead until Callows closed the gap in the dying minutes.

Larry Rowbotham paced the winners' attack, scoring three goals and assisting on another. Ralph Fraser, Jim Wood and Ralph Boomhower added the other goals. Fraser and Wood each drew two assists, Gordie Young one.

Bobby Vannamaker scored twice for Callows with single markers from Ab Wright, Jim Campbell and Larry Westfall. Wright also earned two assists, R. Lucier and Vannamaker one apiece.

Hull-Ottawa Takes Over EPL Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, who have been systematically chopping away upwards from the cellar, vaulted into the leadership of the Eastern Professional Hockey League Thursday night.

A double - barrelled scoring burst by Jim Roberts and Fred Hills in the second period eliminated some lounge-lizzarding and gave the Habs a 2-1 victory over the troublesome North Bay Trappers.

The victory moved the Canadiens one point ahead of Kingston Frontenacs and Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers, Hull-Ottawa and K-W have 10 games left in the 70-game schedule while the Frontenacs have 11.

Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds, still battling elimination from the fourth and last playoff spot, came through with a 5-1 victory over fourth-place Sudbury Wolves in the night's other game. They snatched the victory with little more than a minute remaining when Bob Cowan's harmless - looking shot was screened from goalie Carl Wetzel and slid low into a corner.

Dixie Rink Wins Colts Curl Title

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Art Grice's Dixie rink Thursday night won the Ontario Colts curling championship, a four - playdown with seven years' experience or less.

Grice walked over Ken Russell of Unionville 13-4 in the final after surviving two eliminations among eight divisional representatives from Southern Ontario.

The second event, for first-round losers, was taken by Claude Bainborough of the host club with a 13-5 victory over Al Cromarty of Kingston.

In the secondary event semi-finals Cromarty was a 12-11 winner over Cam Newbould of London, and Bainborough outlasted Bill Holmes of Parry Sound 9-4.

First-round scores: Riva in Cromarty 6; Grice 9 Lewis 7; Russell 8 Holmes 6; Palmer 7 Roxborough 6.

Four Rinks Tied for Title

1961-2 Curling Crown West-Bound

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

KITCHENER (CP)—The annual Canadian curling championship winds up today with the same old refrain: The West is streaking ahead of the East in the chase for the title.

By late afternoon or night, the West will have wrapped up its 20th championship, including its straight since Nova Scotia last won it for the East in 1951.

Now, with the final two draws of the 11-round, round-robin competition set for morning and afternoon, about the only thing eastern rinks can do is try to prove they can be of some assistance value to a western quartet's march to the title. The East was blown out of contention Thursday after nine rounds.

Picking a winner is anyone's guess, Saskatchewan, British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba started play today with six victories and two losers each. Ontario was 5-3, with only one game on tap, and the others in the 10-rink competition had progressively worse records right down to Quebec's nine losses in starts for both Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

STRONG DRAWS CROWDED

Sentimental favorite with the crowds is the B.C. rink skipped by 67-year-old Peg Sloan, making his sixth appearance in the Canadian final. He has yet to win.

Sloan, his 46-year-old brother, Hec, 48 years, and Frenchy d'Amour and Harvey McKay, 39-year-old veterans, all double Ontarios Thursday, 10-9 over Northern Ontario in the seventh and 9-8 over Peg Sloan, making his sixth draw.

Both of Sloan's wins were on an extra end and Reg won them on last rock.

Sloan's all foursome, oldest of all rinks here—has been playing as a unit for only one season, including Hec Sloan and d'Amour vals from Alberta 9-8 in the eight round Thursday and following with an easy 10-4 win over Newfoundland.

SEE TOP RECORD

The Richardsons—skip Ernie, mate Arnold, second Garnet and lead Garry—won in 1959 and 1960 and another title would put them in the same bracket with Matt Baldwin of Moncton, who won in 1954, 1957 and 1958, and Wingham's Ken Watson, winner in 1936, 1942 and 1946.

Gervais, 36, pound potato farmer, was knocked from his seventh-round loss with a 10-7 win over New Brunswick and a 14-5 pasting of Quebec.

Manitoba, skipped by 28-year-old Norman Hockel, played three rounds and won them all. The rink opened with a 7-4 decision over New Brunswick, beat Quebec 9-6 and ended with a 13-2 victory over P.E.I.

Other seventh - round games saw Quebec beat Nova Scotia 11-6 and Ontario wallop Prince Edward Island 12-4.

In the eighth round, Ontario beat Northern Ontario 10-3, and Nova Scotia defeated Prince Edward Island 12-9.

New Brunswick ran wild against Newfoundland in the ninth draw, picking up a 27-4 victory. Nova Scotia beat Northern Ontario 10-7.

CROWD SETS RECORD

A crowd of 5,672 watched Thursday night's proceedings. This was a record for a curling match in eastern Canada.

The 10th round today was to start at 9.30 a.m. The 11th was set for 3 p.m.

In the morning trial British Columbia was matched against Nova Scotia, Alberta against Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan against New Brunswick and Manitoba against Northern Ontario and in the other game it was Quebec against Newfoundland. Ontario had the bye.

Things could be popping in the final draw with the big clash between B.C. and Manitoba. Saskatchewan was drawn against Quebec and Alberta against Northern Ontario. It was Ontario vs. Nova Scotia and Newfoundland vs. Prince Edward Island in the other two games. New Brunswick had the bye.

If a playoff is necessary it will be held tonight, starting at 8 o'clock.

Exhibitions Open Saturday

Baseball Has Troubles

NEW YORK (CP) — Major league baseball opens its 1962 exhibition season Saturday with several clubs still faced with major problems of juggling personnel.

Fans will also get a look at the New York Mets and Houston Colts, making their national league debuts.

But the man with the big headache is manager Fred Hutchinson of Cincinnati Reds, winners of the 1961 National League pennant. His prime concern is a replacement for Gene Freese, batsmithing third baseman who produced 26 home runs last year but will be on the sidelines for three months with an ankle fracture suffered in an intra-squad game.

CEPEDA SIDELINED

San Francisco Giants had their main worry settled Thursday when Orlando Cepeda, 1961 home run king in the National League, signed his holdout by agreeing to terms for an estimated $46,000.

Cepeda, who had 46 homers and 142 runs batted in with an average of .311 last year, led the Giants in a telegram from his Puerto Rico home he will report for action Monday. He had sought a $60,000 contract but settled for a $15,000 raise.

Hutchinson is giving rookie Cliff Cook trial run in Freese's spot. If he doesn't, utility infielder Frank Robinson may have to switch to the hot corner.

Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees have been hurt by the draft of players into the United States armed forces. A total of 23 major leaguers have been called to service.

Chicago Cubs are trying to convert shortstop Ernie Banks into a first baseman, Pittsburgh Pirates will be hoping for a return to form of pitcher Vern Law, the Orioles need a replacement for pitcher Steve Barber and Yanks are testing applicants for shortstop Tony Kubek's job.

Palace Star Goes to West Ham

LONDON (AP) — Johnny Byrne, English soccer star, was transferred Thursday from Crystal Palace to West Ham United in an estimated £65,000 ($182,000) deal, a record between British clubs.

The big centre-shooting inside forward cost West Ham £50,000 ($168,000) in cash plus forward Ron Brett, who was transferred to Crystal Palace in part exchange. Brett was valued at £5,000 ($14,000).

The previous record fee between British clubs was £55,000 ($154,000), paid by Manchester City to Huddersfield Town for inside forward Denis Law in 1960. Law now is with Turin, Italy.

TAKES COACHING JOB

MONTREAL (CP) — Tom Moran, a nine-year veteran in Canadian rugby football, has joined McGill University Redmen of the Senior Intercollegiate Football League as an assistant coach, it was announced Thursday. The 30-year-old native of Hamilton went to the Tiger-Cats on waivers last year after eight seasons with Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference.

Replacement for Cummings' Show Gets Bad Review

By CYNTHIA LOWAY

NEW YORK (AP)—A series which may achieve the distinction of the year's worst and certainly the one with the loudest laugh track had its premiere Thursday night on CBS.

The name of the series—and don't say you haven't been warned—is Oh! Those Bells." CBS heralded it as a "laugh riot."

Starring a trio called the Wiere Brothers, it arrived as a replacement for the disappointing New Bob Cummings Show. The New Bob Cummings Show wasn't exactly a laugh riot, but compared with the hapless Bells it was a blue-white, glass-cutting gem of comedy.

From the opening moment when the stuffed head of the moose caught one Were by the seat of the pants to the hilarious climax when the boss was accidentally hit on the head with a golf club, it was one long malaproit bore.

The most interesting part of it all, the series is how it happened to have a prime time network spot at all. Maybe there's a fourth Were brother tucked away somewhere in CBS executive echelons.

Later in the evening, CBS renamed its gingerly greatness of the American conservative political movement, began two weeks of hearings.

Thursday night's 30 minutes of Bells was silhouetted as a "searching closeup" of Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater, It was really just an interview of the Republican leader by reporter Eric Severeid.

Lady Williams, who certainly deserves it, will have an hour variety show of his own on NBC Thursday night next season. And Loretta Young will return to CBS in a weekly series . . . Jack Paar's daughter Rebecca as its April NBC show—starring James Mason and Joan Hackett.

Milton Berle May Join Returnees Next Season

By BOB THOMAS

AT THE BELLE — Happy Bachelors — Joan Blackman and Elvis Presley co-star in the Hal Wallis romantic comedy "Blue Hawaii", now playing at the Belle Theatre. The Technicolor Paramount production filmed in Hawaii has a score of 14 great tunes. Starting Wednesday, March 14, there will be two new hits. Continuous performances Saturday 1.00-3.00-5.00 and 9.10.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The television viewer may feel like Rip Van Winkle next season as he watches Lucille Ball, Jackie Gleason, Loretta Young, Sid Caesar and Roy Rogers return to the air with weekly shows.

Those returnees may be joined by Mister Television himself: Milton Berle.

"The network has been talking to me about it," said Berle on his return to it is partner(), NBC.

"I'll admit I'm interested. In fact, I have been thinking about an idea for the last two or three years. It would combine elements of the old Tuesday night show with an entirely different factor. I can't say now what that factor is, or it'd be on the air tomorrow."

Berle's announcement that he's thinking of returning to regular television may or may not be occasioned by the fact that he is having dinner at NBC tonight. But he just might make it.

WAS TOP BANANA

After all, he was television's first banana for a half-dozen years, and with the medium regressing to its oldtime favorites, why not Milton? Besides, NBC might not be adverse to putting him to work. The network is still paying him $100,000 a year under a contract that lasts until 1967.

Berle reminisced about those fine, frantic days when television was young.

"You wouldn't believe how we put the shows together in those days, he said. "We had two cameras and a decrepit curtain. We had acts like Harry Richman, Sophie Tucker, Martin and Lewis, Lucille Ball, Red Skelton.

"I paid Pearl Bailey $150, Senor Wences $100. Why, the whole show talent, technicians and all time—came to $12,000.

"You know what this special tonight cost? Just a million. And that doesn't include air time. Try to get some names today and their prices start at $40,000 and $50,000.

But even if prices have gone up, it's easier to do television nowadays, said Berle. Facilities and technicians are vastly improved. That's why he'd be willing to return on a regular basis. But it couldn't be before November; he has a long-running role in the Broadway comedy, It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World, which starts in June.

HAMILTON (CP)—St. Catharines Teepees, backed by superb swimming by Roger Crozier, Thursday night defeated Hamilton Red Wings 3-1 in the first game of their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior 'A' semi-finals before 3,275 fans.

Second game will be in St. Catharines Saturday and the third in Hamilton Sunday.

Crozier turned aside all but Hamilton shots while his mates were firing 26 at Buddy Bloom at the other end. Bloom was also sensational, especially in the first period.

Lowell MacDonald, the league's leading goal-scorer in the regular season, scored the only goal of the opening period on a pass from linemate Pat Martin. Teepees' Paul Popiel was serving a penalty at the time.

Ray Cullen interrupted a Hamilton pass in their own end and went in on Bloom unmolested to boot the puck halfway through the second frame.

Astrological Forecast

For March 10 . . .

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): A money-saving idea is close . . . if you keep mind open. Not something you can force . . . permit subconscious to come through with answer. Be practical in way others might consider "flighty."

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Could be tendency to reach out for too much . . . to demand more than others can give. You gain most by relaxing . . . by enjoying evening of entertainment with friends and associates.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Numerous ideas come to the fore. If you will, but take notes . . . these could be put to practical use within a few days. Otherwise, solid thoughts fade into daydreams. Keep even counsel.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Friendships can be gained, cemented today and tonight. Try to avoid making promises you may not regret in near future. Permit others to admire you for yourself . . . not your goodies.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): If one close to you tries to pin you down to final decision . . . seek an excuse for delay. Refuse to give decision. Others may talk good game . . . but they may not follow suits.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): Two opposing forces could become evident. Your best course is one of diplomacy. Allow yourself to realize how others feel . . . by sympathetic . . . but don't let it lead to impulsive actions.

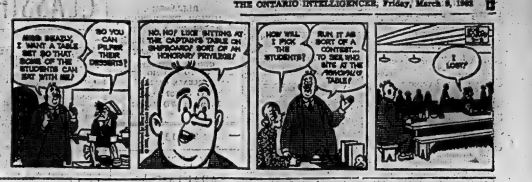
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Remain close to home. Associates may tend to be argumentative. Close to loved ones you can ward off potential battles. Away . . . you could otherwise fall prey to emotional trap.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): The world may appear bleak early today . . . but, by tonight a pleasant hour could replace depression. Open your heart to one who offers comfort, love. Evening could prove enjoyable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Take time to attend to some situations. This includes family, home construction, adjustment . . . and showing those in your home they are not being neglected. You'll be rewarded.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Good for change, communication . . . and for permitting creative forces to move forward. Not time to hold back. If others do not wish to hear truth . . . let them move out of hearing distance.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A dream could come true. If you begin to build on a solid foundation . . . otherwise, castle of sand could collapse. Not time for fantastic schemes . . . demand facts and go strictly by them.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Sense of adventure comes to fore . . . try something new, different . . . in connection with dining, entertaining or being entertained. Break out of rut. Shake up those around you.

If today is your birthday . . . you gain most by being independent, inventive. Once you permit yourself to be discouraged by so-called authorities . . . you're apt to fail. This year get details out of way . . . prepare for outstanding opportunity in October.

General Tendencies: Skeptical eyes raise recipient. If you want to ride with cycle of day . . . explain carefully, fully. Do not leave details to chance. Good for Taurus . . . while best for Pisces to "lie low" where hard business deals concerned. Scorpio should begin appreciating loved ones.

Teen-Age Canada

Travel Europe on 2 Wheels

By JACK HUTTON

Feel like spending this summer bicycling all over Europe, sleeping in scattered hotels and making your own food—for less than one-third of the usual cost?

Or would you rather spend two glorious weeks getting a tan while hiking through Banff National Park?

The first trip would cost you about $500, including a plane trip both ways. And the second, not counting transportation to Banff, would cost $85.

Summer may seem a long way off this weekend. But the Canadian Youth Hostels Association has been busy all winter planning trips for teen-agers and others who want to get out in the fresh air this summer.

What do you need? Just a bicycle (perhaps not even that), a sturdy rucksack, a sleeping bag (the CYHA sells them for $3), knife, fork, spoon, drinking mug, clothes for a variety of weather, and food which doesn't weigh you down.

"Now is probably the time for a teen-agers to plan his or her trip," Charlie Harris, executive director of the CYHA told me. "It's far more fun if several plan this together and share the experience."

"We have a number of families who bicycle around together and they have a whale of a lot of fun. Some people claim they're too old for bicycling. I'd agree—providing they are over 87."

It is still impossible to ride right across Canada through youth hostels. British Columbia has about seven hostels, and Alberta has a splendid chain between Banff and Jasper.

NO HOSTELS

But between Alberta and Ontario lie 2,300 miles without hostels. There is talk at the moment of building some in Manitoba, and groups of Saskatchewan teen-agers visit other parts of the country every summer.

Ontario operates a year-round program, including skiing trips. Quebec can offer you a great deal, and Nova Scotia is proud of its more than 3,000 lakes. (A bicycle, by the way, is a boon in Nova Scotia on sidecads where cars can't invade your privacy!)

"We offer tours, but that doesn't mean teen-agers can't plan their own trips using the hostels," said Mr. Harris. "We can supply all the information needed now so they can estimate their own budget and figure which parts of Canada they want to see."

Plans can vary all the way from a weekend trip to a seven-week tour of Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Russia, Finland, Sweden, Denmark and Holland for $870. (The Russians have even supplied a network of sleeping stations!)

"The Federal Government is doing its best to improve physical fitness in Canada," Mr. Harris observed. "Well, we figure that you'll go a long way before finding a healthier activity than travelling in the fresh air."

"We're not interested in people who just want to sit in cars watching hundreds of miles go by. But if they want to get out into the fresh air and really enjoy the country we're here to help them."

The CYHA, which began in Alberta in 1933, now has about 3,500 members and is linked with more than 3,000 hostels in Europe. If you'd like to know more, write to the Canadian Youth Hostels Association, 606 Jarvis Street, Toronto, Ont.

WATH THOSE GIRLS!

Gordon Harris, 16, of Calgary, has taken issue with us on a recent column about the disappearance of traditional courtesies among Canadian teen-agers.

"Several fellows and I have been talking this over since reading your column," he writes. "We usually enjoy what you have to say, but this time we just can't go along with you."

"The usual thing is to blame fellows for not being polite enough to their girlfriends. Why blame us? Doesn't anyone realize how hard it is to be polite to some of the girls you meet nowadays.

"I notice that some of the girls who have written in complain about boys not opening car doors for them. Well, you have to be a sprinter to get around the car quickly enough for some of them.

"Let me add my story to your collection. A few weeks ago I was out with a girl who seemed determined to put me in the wrong all evening. First she dived out her side of the car and then glared at me as if I'd been inconsiderate.

"I had to run to catch up with her and barely got the door open in time to walk into a school house. When we sat down at a little table, she made some remark about other fellows holding her chair for her.

"Our point is that manners are still important... But they become stupid if the other person uses them as a lever over you, or if they prevent you from having a relaxed time together!"

Renew Violence In 2 Countries Talks Continue

2 Policemen, Student Priest Die in Ambush

PARIS (Reuters)—Three persons, one of them a student priest, were killed today and at least 50 others injured when a booby-trap planted in a car exploded near a bus stop.

The car blew up in front of a hall in suburban Issy-les-Moulineaux where the pro-Communist "movement for Peace" was scheduled to hold a meeting 45 minutes later.

The blast, blamed on the outlawed Secret Army Organization, killed two policemen standing beside the car and the young seminarist who had just left the post office opposite the hall. A third policeman was missing.

Most of the dead and injured, many of whom were waiting for week-end bound buses, were taken to hospital by passing motorists.

The charred skeleton of the car and the two policemen's bodies were cordoned off by police.

Meanwhile, French and Algerian negotiators continued their cease-fire talks at the Algerian frontier town of Evian as army and Moslem extremists stepped up the blood-letting in Algeria.

A comparative lull in the terrorist campaign preceded the end of the Moslem holy month of Ramadan this week ended with only 20 persons killed and 31 others injured in 35 gun, bomb and bomb attacks in Algeria.

In Oran, 16 Moslems were shot dead in a gun battle that raged around a liquor and wine warehouse in the Moslem section of the city. Four of the dead were women.

In Algiers another 10, eight of them Europeans, died in separate attacks.

Judy La Marsh Nominated at Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Walter Gordon, chairman of the Liberals' federal election campaign committee, said Friday night Canada no longer has a high reputation in other countries.

Mr. Gordon, who is also his party's candidate for Toronto-Davenport, was speaking to a nomination meeting of the Niagara Falls Liberal Association.

He said it has become vital for Canada to restore relations with her allies.

"There has been a tendency in the last few years when things have gone wrong at home for government spokesmen to blame people in other countries," he said, "this has done us harm."

He said if the government "made a grievous mistake in attacking the British Government" for deciding to apply for membership in the European Common Market.

Because of this "and previous mistakes of Diefenbaker," he said, Canada's reputation has sunk in Western capitals.

Mr. Gordon said the Liberals favor more regional planning to solve economic problems, revisions of the unemployment insurance scheme, a contributory old age pension plan and a medical aid program.

Text of Mr. Gordon's speech was released to the press before delivery.

The meeting nominated Miss Judy La Marsh, the present member, to contest the riding of Niagara Falls in the next general election.

ANGRY DEBATE OVER SALARIES OF OPPOSITION

All Legislature Wages Made Public

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature set to debate financial estimates Friday but haggled for two hours instead over the government's contribution to the costs of having an opposition.

Provincial Secretary Yaremko presented his account but not one item was disposed of as an angry debate ended with a publication of all legislature salaries.

Opposition leader John Wintermeyer (L—Hamilton East) termed the $18,000 for office out of a $1,000,000 budget and that he himself must make up an additional $100,000 required over the past five years.

New Democratic Party leader, Donald C. MacDonald came to the Liberal leader's support and stressed the importance of the official opposition in a democratic government.

LEGISLATIVE UNIVENDO

Mr. MacDonald deplored an "obvious lacuonde" in a question that has been arising of late, a debate when Allan Lawrence (PC—Toronto St. George) asked about the "expenses" of Mr. Wintermeyer's office.

Mr. Lawrence said the opposition is not only as important but is infinitely more important than the government. "It's the watchdogs," Mr. MacDonald said.

Cabinet ministers came under fire when Vernon Singer (L—Toronto-York Centre) asked for the backbencher on how about 30 people in the cabinet office had received cabinet in England during the war and 10 men ran the United States.

Premier Robarts replied, his voice raised and face flushed that the Conservative government "provides far more services to the opposition than are provided the backbencher on the government side."

Premier Robarts said that when the Liberals were in power under the late premier Mitchell Hepburn "they gave the leader of the opposition an additional $1,000 a year, no secretarial help, one office and a statement that that would be all the leader of the opposition would get as long as he was premier."

OUTRANKS OTHERS

Provincial Secretary Yaremko added that other provinces "don't even come near" Ontario in the services they provide Opposition leaders.

Reading of the public accounts during the debate revealed that the leader of the opposition received salaries and allowances totalling $18,000 a year, a full cabinet minister.

The provincial Premier, salary plus indemnities totalling $21,000; minister of a department, $21,000; leader of the opposition, $21,000; speaker of the legislature, $17,000; minister without portfolio, $12,000 and member of legislature, $7,000.

26 Passengers Make Dramatic Exit From Plane

BOSTON (AP) — Twenty-six passengers, including four babies in their mothers' arms, made a dramatic exit today from a Trans-World Airlines jet plane as it landed at Logan Airport from Los Angeles.

The passengers left the plane by sliding down a long inflatable chute after the pilot had been warned by the airport control tower that there was a fire in the aft section.

A subsequent investigation of the four-engined Boeing 720AB jet airliner showed there had been an overheated wheel and smoke in one of the engines, but no fire.

'Longest Night of My Life' Says Sailor Telling of Rescue

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"It was the longest night of my life," said a sailor, telling how he and his shipmates clung to rafts in high seas from the storm section of a broken tanker.

Thirty-one men were rescued from the Liberian motor-tanker Gem, which split off the Carolina coast Wednesday night. The destroyer Stribling brought them to Miami. Two, who died, made 29 survivors Friday and the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant found seven survivors to New York.

The ship's chief engineer, Nicholas Cocharano, said at Mayport that he was in the engine room when the ship began breaking up. He said he could feel the ship cracking, and then heard a loud crash.

Estonian Wilkeh Armans, the ship's first pumpman, said: "Nearly everyone aboard was fearful of what might happen. It was the longest night of my life."

One of those rescued was identified as a seaman, Jose R. Mercado, a Dominican. Reports were not permitted to question him.

Seven sailors and the ship's cat were rescued from the forward part of the ship. The liner Victoria of the Lorces Line rescued them Thursday.

One of the tanker's crew members, Ed Wilson, 20, south of Brooklyn, was crushed to death while crawling on a life line between ships. He was washed away. He was the only reported fatality.

Three persons were rescued from the 60-foot yawl Dolphin off the Florida coast Friday and the vessel was towed to Miami.

The German freighter Mag. Selma, en route to St. John, Miss., picked four men from the 60-foot schooner Wooden Shoe Wednesday shortly before the smaller vessel went to the bottom.

The coast guard reported two New Jersey fishing vessels missing. Friday night, they are believed to have a total of 11 men aboard and have been overdue since Wednesday.

Georgia Gets Big Snowfall But Storm Then Dwindles

NEW YORK (AP)—The devastated U.S. eastern seaboard fought to clear a monumental mass of debris from the city's worst week of winter storms in its history faded under clearing skies.

A storm that dropped seven inches of snow on parts of Georgia dwindled in intensity as it plodded northward Friday night and was expected to disappear during the day. It carried rain and light snow as far north as southern New England.

Tides running a foot above normal slowed the drainage of flooded coastal lowlands and hampered cleanup operations from Miami Beach's waves chewed shore to the wind- and water-battered coasts of Eastern New England.

But this latest assault of the March 5-6 blizzard weather was small compared to the storm which battered, buffeted and ravaged the coast for three days, leaving 36 known dead, 30 missing and damage estimated at $300,000,000.

Hard-hit sections of New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia began to regain their financial aid as a result of President Kennedy's designation of them as disaster areas. Also included was West Virginia, which suffered from floods last week.

New Jersey suffered damage estimated at $100,000,000 or more and a loss of at least 12 lives.

Chincoteague Island on Virginia's eastern shore was cut off from the mainland by seawash and the 3,000 persons who rode out the storm were being moved out. Some 1,000 had fled at the height of the onslaught.

The Ocean City, Md., area was branded as an area of "major disaster" by officers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which urged that President Kennedy not grant federal rehabilitation aid to the city without a guarantee that segregation there would be outlawed.

Last Minute Touches to New Nuclear Proposal Studied

GENEVA (AP)—Britain and the United States worked today on last minute touches to their nuclear proposal that could spell success or failure of their meet. ing with the Soviet United Nations Disarmi Gromyko.

The three foreign ministers have had "private talks between gunning Monday which will decide whether the 17-nation conference is beginning in the cold war.

State Secretary Rusk, Foreign Secretary Lord Home and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko will range over all the big, tough problems. Nuclear testing, general disarmament and Germany's future head the list. The three will meet in a preliminary get-together Sunday night at a dinner given by Rusk.

London sources said British and American experts still have not completed the new nuclear proposal which Lord Home and Rusk will present to Gromyko.

The two Western powers are reported willing to modify some, what the control provisions for a nuclear test ban treaty originally insisted upon. For one thing, new scientific techniques are making it easier to detect nuclear explosions, the Western powers contend. But the Russians, the British, who lean toward easing some control requirements, say the Soviets still distrust tight protection against secret bomb violations or secret preparations.

But U.S. sources describe the difference as one of degree, saying the Western partners are willing to compromise on principle on the need for controls.

The Rusk - Home - Gromyko meetings will probably be resumed Wednesday of a 17-power disarmament conference recess. The French are not taking part in the talks.

The 17-nation disarmers succeed in dulling the edges of the East-West arguments which undoubtedly will clear the way for a spring summit meeting.

Board Sorts Out Program For Centenary Celebrations

If you have a canoe works, contemplate the values of good citizenship, hold a fair, open your home to centenary visitors or write a centenary song, Ottawa says.

The Canadian Centenary Council, a voluntary group representing provinces, municipalities, industries, is burrowing through such propositions today at its second annual meeting.

Its function: To find centenary possibilities that governments, communities, organizations, companies or individuals may find suitable for the 1967 birthday party.

The meeting of 160 representatives and alternates is concerned in nine workshops Friday and sums up today.

Money, pitfalls and problems are already plain.

One is the possibility that 1967 itself will be so crammed that 1966 and 1968 may have to be used. And the 1967 celebration may be tight and that the private house may prove invaluable.

Yet another is that boom and bust may hit the arts and tourist industry and that activity should be spun out through the year as much as possible. Canadian artists may be worked out of their talents, mettles said, and quality may suffer.

The canoeing idea, from Confederation's birthplace at Charlottetown, P.E.I., to Victoria came up in a committee on travels. Illness and sport where a province - by - province canoe race was suggested. A canoe relay would mark 1967. Development of cycling and hiking trails for many has been was also suggested.

Community halls and sewage works are examples of concrete and lasting projects that may be undertaken. Fairs and sports items is being drawn up for distribution across the country.

Parkdale Ratepayers Told About Sewer Installations

Over 100 Parkdale residents attended the Ratepayers' Association meeting in the Community Centre on Wednesday night to hear Mayor Jack Ellis and City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull discuss the Parkdale sanitary sewer installations.

Association president Harold Leech was in the chair. Mr. Charles Gibson provided a clerical resume of committee board activities and outlined a possible lease of the Centre's second floor west over a period of years, by the Y.M.C.A. organization. An expansion of the building, it would be required, Mr. R. Lee said at the entertainment committee showed a profit of $64 from the October to February functions.

Membership is remarkable, chairman J. Morman advised that the annual membership drive had begun but a few days ago with some 100 had also indicated their intentions to do so. The membership roll is a factor to the City Transit Commission in the matter of the location of the Association with regard to extension of the overhead bus service Parkdale to Dixie. It was stated that, pending the arrival of the Avenue, Parkdale route was as profitable as any in the city and it was considered unlikely that ratepayers such as other subways would be provided.

Four motions were passed, one formed a publicity committee; what's involved defines the duties of the membership.

WILL DISCUSS SCHOOL

A motion that the city be requested to provide an access from Gilbert St. to Parkdale, in the vicinity of Auburn St., received considerable attention. Without such an access, children on Gilbert St. and east Maple Dr. would have as far to walk to the proposed Auburn St. school as they do now to the King George School on North Front St.

Mr. Cairnes moved that the chairman of the Belleville Public School Board be invited to attend the association's March 4th meeting, to discuss the proposed Auburn St. school. This motion received unanimous approval.

Additional nominations or volunteers to the membership committee were sought by Mr. H. Senn offered for Frank Sidley, Bill England for Glenda Rd. and Reginald Reid for north Sidney St. and these were tabled until the next meeting.

The election of officers will be held in April and a nominating committee will be appointed.

"I haven't been invited to make a lengthy speech", Mr. Ellis said. "I feel it is better that it would be better to describe the sanitary sewer plans and proposals to date, then Mr. Turnbull and I will brave our hearts to answer your questions."

He then outlined the situation in general, including the trunk sewer construction and the sewage treatment plant. A contract will be let in June for the Parkdale area sewers and lateral branches in property lines, with December the target completion date.

In further discussion, he added that because of land contours, the coming installation would be compose only the area from the CNR tracks northward to include both sides of Maple Drive. The southern area, which will not be serviced until a future date, is under phase is to run two or three years later. Severn people wished to know how soon they could complete their house installations, once the sewers are completed. Alderman Ellis said that Mr. Turnbull agreed that this was a Health Department matter, but that the city by-law exists on which required that if a sewer is available a property owner must connect to it. The question isn't allowed was not known.

A discussion broke out concerning the storm sewers in the sanitary sewer trenches. Mr. Ellis explained the matter in the light of contracts, debentures, and the Ontario Municipal Board. This discussion became prolonged, until Mr. Ellis cut it out of order since the guests had been invited to speak on sanitary sewers.

DUAL SYSTEM COSTLY

City Engineer Turnbull described the heavy cost and technical difficulties inherent in the dual sewer scheme. He maintained that the present system had examined all possibilities.

"I am sure", declared Mr. Turnbull, "that if you considered the time and detail given to the engineering plans"; and to the costs structure and red tape, interjected the Alderman, "you would understand how carefully and completely this matter has been considered," he concluded.

Mr. Turnbull said that anyone could visit his office for more information, and added that his department was available for consultation and advice.

A question was asked about recent reports that an unnecessary sum would be spent on the new school because the sanitary sewers would not be completed until after the September opening.

Alderman Ellis replied that the school plans had been known and announced prior to those for the school.

"Unfortunately", he added, "that the new school will be ready for use by September, or that the opening could not be delayed for a month. Can anyone clarify that?" he asked. He explained that there was a problem of access to the building site for the several time.

For nearly an hour, the city officials held the floor, answering the numerous questions and participating in discussions.

At 10.30 p.m. Mr. Morman moved a sincere vote of thanks to Mr. Ellis and Mr. Turnbull for their frank and patient explanations. The members approved with a prolonged round of applause.

'Northern Lady' Didn't Like City Looks

Perhaps the "lady" worried on both of night life in the city.

She picked up her beds and, lumped in "leisurely fashion" in the immediate vicinity of Herchimer Avenue and 33rd Station Tuesday morning.

"I was rubbed his eyes and murmured something about "They'll never believe he's especially neighbor Wilbur Hall who lives at 418 Herchimer.

He said the lady took her time gambolling in "leisurely fashion."

Vesterfelt said she came from behind the Hull house and went across the fields, seemingly unafraid of passing of an urban nature. "She was pretty and in good shape" he said.

Then she went across the fields and disappeared in a small thicket on the Parrott property.

It is a long time since a large female deer has been seen within or near the confines of the city.

Ald Les Digby First President Of Association

Alderman Leslie W. Digby was named the first president of the South Hastings New Democratic Party Association at their official organizational meeting held at the Engineers Hall Friday night.

District representatives from various parts of the riding will be added at a later date. Last night's meeting was attended principally by Belleville residents.

Speakers for the evening was Fred Young, member of the North York township council, who spoke on the need of the New Democratic Party and the party's aims and objectives.

Department Will Sponsor Meeting In Frankford

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests will sponsor a farmers' meeting on woodlot management, conservation and reforestation in the Glenadale community hall next Friday, March 16th.

Speakers for the meeting will include Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative for Northumberland county, Stirley MacDonald, Hastings county representative, and J. W. Keenan, timber supervisor for the Tweed district. Mr. Keenan will discuss woodlot management and reforestation and will show films on "The Land Changes", and "Plantlife is Help Enough".

Also Mr. E. P. Edson, forest extension officer will discuss conservation and show colored slides.

All district farmers and others are invited to attend the meeting which gets underway at 8 p.m. next Friday.

Hasty Pees Visit Toronto On Exercise

As a further stage of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's training for mid-winter warfare, 50 officers and other NCOs under the Command Officer Lt. Col. Fred Black made a reconnaissance of North Toronto last weekend.

Personnel of the unit 6 units at Trenton, Picton, Madoc, Campbellford, Bogs, Millbrook and Belleville left for Toronto on Saturday afternoon. They left Belleville depot at Sunnybrook they were given their first briefing on "Exercise Toronto" by the Training Officer Major Ken Woodcock. It was explained how the exercise supposed that a nuclear bomb had dropped on the centre of Toronto and how the two rescue units would be assembled and now located at Stouffville. Various problems and methods of construction was given to the students so that they could put their knowledge to use.

Early on Sunday morning Exercise Toronto started in earnest. Students were quickly grouped into syndicates and at each syndicate was given the possibility to survey for the best method of rescue operation. From the results of actual test bombs in the Nevada test, it was possible to formulate the effects onto Toronto. The all-important rescue and exercises included actual allocation of rescue areas and locating hospitals and rescue companies. Students could visualize the task of the unit confronting them when they were told that most badly hurt people could be found, expected to live for only 48 hours. Medical and pre-planning were essential.

In his concluding remarks Lt. Col. Black stated that the exercise had certainly proven very successful.

Results Stranger Than Fiction House Is Told

EDMONTON (CP) — The realization "about two seconds before impact" when the law tried to find out was responsible for a 1956 bus-train collision at Lake Alta, Alex Gurdey (SC—Vegreville) told jurors.

He told the Alberta legislature during the hearing details of his experiences in assisting rescue of those killed or injured in the accident. Seventeen high school students died in the Nov. 29, 1956 crash. Mr. Gordey said in the house:

"All the way, with very few exceptions, the final men and some other officials I had to do with, seemed to take the attitude that the bereaved parents were quite unreasonable in taking the law to court to find out if they were even irrational in demanding to know why that the law find and prove who was responsible.

Mr. Gordey said the owner of the school bus involved in the fatal crash was fined $50 and $200 for allowing an unqualified driver to operate the bus and $200 added insult to injury.

The fine should have been $500 each or $1,000 each. Bus owners would probably be more careful.

What Became Of the Bust of Agnes Macphail?

TORONTO (CP) — What became of the bust of Agnes Macphail which was presented to the province 30 years ago and accepted with great eloquence by former premier Leslie Frost?

The answer: It is in the cellar, seeing dust on top of a filing cabinet in the office of Frederick Hill, department of public works building superintendent.

The bust was not put on display immediately because there was no pedestal for it.

The late Miss Macphail was a CCF member of the legislature from 1943-45 and from 1948-51. She represented York East (which later was divided into York East and York-Scarborough.

She was the first woman elected to the House of Commons, where she represented Grey Bruce between 1921 and 1940.

Th plaster bust, by sculptor Felix de Weldon, was presented Feb. 21 last year by the Toronto branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Model Posing In the Nude Is Kidnapped

LONDON (AP) — A model posing in the nude for a Toronto College of Art was kidnapped, beaten by six university students.

One minute Sandra Brown, 21, was posing for a nude pencil sketch before 24 art students.

The next minute she had been draped in a sheet and her unwilling captors were hustling her down a hall to a waiting taxi.

Sandra, who, left kicking and screaming, calmed down when the students explained what it was all about. The university was staging a Mardi-Gras production in aid of charity today and they wanted Sandra to ride on a float as Lady Godiva.

At a hide-out apartment two miles from the college they provided Sandra with jeans and a sweater. Finally Sandra agreed to take part in the procession, and the students returned her to the college to pick up her clothes.

COLLEGE POLICE

The law was waiting for them when they arrived. The college president had called in police to investigate the kidnapping.

Principal Ernest Pullen took the students' names and said he would report them to Leslie Tuesley University.

Constable Peter Martin, who led the raid, said:

"Mr. Pullen told us that to start an art student had been party in the stunt he would be expelled.

He was terribly annoyed but Sandra has taken it in good part and I'm sure she will make no complaint."

The police spokesman said the students had been very special encampment—a maximum security institution—on a remote 40-acre site about 70 miles east of Vancouver.

In further debate today, Mr. Fulton told Mr. Herridge that a petition has asked for proposed curfew by members of the House of Freedom has been referred to the B.C. government through RCMP channels.

He said Bibeau admitted two of the calves had lain there for two weeks and the third for a week.

METER READER — Public Utilities employee for more than 30 years, Raymond Lloyd reads meters at Coleman Street residence, one of the few locations where electric meters are outside. Meters are usually in basement.

Raymond Lloyd Probably Has Read More Meters Than Any Person in Canada

Raymond Lloyd, 32-y ear employee of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission, is a man who possibly has climbed more stairs, walked more miles, and read more electric meters, than any other person in Canada.

In fact the Belleville meter reader is possibly the closest human approach yet discovered to the ever - longed automation.

By strict application to the job, Mr. Lloyd can read over 200 electric meters in a morning and then turn right around and do almost as many in the afternoon.

And in the same period he will read water meters at households not on the flat rate water system.

"It's not the miles you have to walk. It's in and out of houses, and up and down stairs that counts," he says.

And that is understandable when it is realized the great majority of domestic and other meters are in basements.

Mr. Lloyd still reads all electric meters in what is known as "old Belleville" but at one time he did not only the city, but also a wide rural area.

RANGED FAR AFIELD

For instance a decade or so ago he ranged as far as the Trenton Air Station; down to Point Anne and Shannonville and north to Foxboro and the Modest Lane area.

On such meter reading safaris Mr. Lloyd rode his bicycle and he still takes his trusty "wheel" when he goes delivering power bills in the city.

Until a few years ago Mr. Lloyd read all electric meters in the city and then turned right around and delivered all the hydro bills.

Now he "works" the old city area between Herchimer Ave. on the east and Sidney Street on the west and from the bay north to College Street.

In addition to reading domestic meters every two months he reads industrial and business meters monthly and delivers power bills to the customer.

NEVER TALKS TO RESIDENTS

Mr. Lloyd's secret in reading so many meters is that he keeps on the go and never stops to talk with householders.

"If I did I would never get my work done," he says. "I simply refer enquiries regarding hydro bills to the office."

But what really can slow down the meter reader is the number of "call backs" which he might have to strike.

This occurs when householders are away on holidays, where all members of the family are working and leave the house completely, or simply when the housewife happens to be downtown.

It is the meter reader's responsibility to catch up on these readings when the householder is home.

But Mr. Lloyd even has this worked out to a science.

CHASED BY DOGS

He knows the households where all family members are working and prior to his visit will phone to make arrangements about getting into the house.

This system cuts down greatly the number of "call backs" he would be forced to make.

Over the years Mr. Lloyd has been chased by more dogs than he can remember and has been spat at by myriads of cats resenting the abrupt intrusion on their basement or back yard privacy.

Over the years he has worn out several bicycles and dozens of pairs of boots.

But his feet are still in good shape even after the countless thousands of miles.

"Walking is good for you," is his simple comment, although many might say three decades of continually going up and down stairs would not be good for the heart.

32 YEARS ON JOB

After more than 30 years with the utilities commission, Mr. Lloyd is entitled to retire almost, any time he wishes.

But so far he has little thought of giving up his job.

One of his few complaints is that operators of business establishments and apartment houses and other articles in locations that might make it difficult to reach the basement meters.

June 16 Opening For Museum at Adolphustown

At a recent meeting of the museum committee of the United Empire Loyalists' Association, Bay of Quinte branch, June 16th was set for the opening ceremonies of the United Empire Loyalists Museum at Adolphustown Park. This is the anniversary date of landing of a party of Loyalists, under Major Peter Van Alstine, who settled in the Adolphustown district.

For the past two years the committee has been holding meetings and making plans for a museum of unique interest. Assistance and valuable advice have been given by Mr. E. James Gooding, museums adviser for the Department of Travel and Publicity. Mrs. Gooding will tell much of the story of the Loyalists have been drawn and painted by Mr. Orval Madden. The park and museum come under the estate of St. Lawrence Development Commission.

Visitors to the museum at Adolphustown will see replicas of the articles Mrs. Shortcoe was permitted to carry with her from her home in Arlington to Canada, by "Order-in-Council from Gov. Chittenden, Pres. of Council of Vermont, Vt. "Thus" they will see a model of the Batteaux used by the Loyalists in their journey up the St. Lawrence River and into Bay of Quinte.

The museum will display authentic articles of the period 1784-1837. The Loyalists who settled in the Bay of Quinte district brought very few articles with them. Few are left. If any person has anything of that period and would give or loan it to the museum, they should contact one of the following committee members: Miss Edith M. Allison, Dr. H. C. Burleigh, Mr. Morris Young, Mr. Charles Hinsley of Bath, Mrs. C. Kaylee, Mrs. Herman Elliott, Kaye McFarlane, Trenton; Mrs. Ethel Farley, Trenton; Mr. Drury Denzyl, Belleville and Col. In other developments in the Commons Friday, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced the government will contribute $2,800,000 towards the Memorial Buildings at Charlottetown, to mark the 1864 Confederation conference.

The government will also contribute $25,000 to the Canadian Centennial Council to assist in activities relating to observance of centennial celebrations in 1967.

HOPES FOR SUMMIT

External Affairs Minister Green said he expects the heads of state will meet before June at the Geneva disarmament conference table. Mr. Green will attend disarmament negotiations beginning next week along with foreign ministers of 16 other nations.

The conference would have to report to the UN before some date in June and "I think we can expect the heads of state will meet before June."

Defence Minister Harkness said he was aware of new evidence that narcotics were smuggled into Canada by service personnel returning from the Far East.

He said allegations of this are being investigated and it would be unfair to make any further comment until they were completed.

Mr. Green replied in the affirmative Thursday when he was asked by Mr. Regier whether any Canadians on the Indochina truce supervisory commission were sent home for violating Canadian law.

Freddie again Friday by Mr. Regier, the minister repeated that it was "not in the public interest" to divulge further details.

Trade Minister Hees said a total of $8,598,000,000 "in capital spending in all sectors of the economy is planned for 1962.

FOREIGN MONEY

rist exports and to discourage imports, since a discount on the dollar tends to increase the relative cost of goods sold for U.S. dollars and other foreign currencies and also tends to make imports more expensive.

A month ago, in a Commons statements denying government manipulation of the exchange rate, Mr. Fleming said the exchange fund "has not operated in an aggressive manner" to drive the exchange rate in one direction or another.

On the contrary, it has at all times responded to and moderated market pressures."

One of the pressures on the Canadian dollar in the last two months, Mr. Fleming has been the annual transfers or earning by subsidiary companies in Canada to their foreign parent firms.

This is the main factor in Canada's balance of payments deficit which tends to depress the dollar's value.

British Socialists Score Heartening Win in Lincoln

By DAVID DANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A resounding electoral victory has restored Britain's Socialists as the nation heads into a week of political crisis.

Dick Taverne, 35 - year - old London lawyer, boosted the Labor party's majority in the Conservative Lincoln Tuesday by 16,000 votes over the 1959 general election figure.

Political analysts were quick in advancing the broad implication that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative British politics from this performance.

Labor checks drift to the Liberals," says The London Evening Standard.

Then its political correspondent concludes that if the party "is to survive" it has the next general election it could form a government with a majority at least 50 seats.

Labor Triumphs at Lincoln —Warning to the Government, The London Evening News.

The paper adds that the trouncing the ruling Conservatives received was far more severe than expected.

LIBERALS DID WELL

Taverne easily whipped his Conservative, Labor and independent opponents. But the Liberals, who contested Lincoln for the first time in a decade, polled almost 7,000 of the more than 27,000 ballots cast.

The pundits conclude that Liberal candidate Patrick Fordell got most of his votes from the Tories. The Conservative share of the voting dropped 18 per cent and that of Labor almost five per cent.

Party strategists are preparing for nine more by-elections, including three next week, now are trying to divine whether this is a reflection of a more general disenchantment with Prime Minister, Macmillan's government.

NO PANIC

The Conservative party general saw no reason for panic. They argued that the view that the government has had a run of misfortune and that the result is a mid-term swing against the party in office.

The big test for the Liberals—heartened by this week's result in Orpington—is next week. They hope to win in this constituency just outside London.

If this does happen, the Liberals could be in a position to bring about in recent years could acquire a new momentum of its own.

Marine Co. May Enlarge Present Plant

TRENTON — On the heels of a conjecture by Trenton's chief-comptroller O. W. Larry that 1962 could be the town's biggest building year in history, comes the announcement that the Outboard Marine Corporation of Canada is contemplating building an addition to the West Street plant, formerly occupied by Williams and Williams Eastern Division.

Rumor in building circles has it that the heads of another local industry are seriously considering building a second factory onto their one-storey plant.

Next week, the Board of Session of King Street United Church will meet to get a $130,000 building and renovation program underway and an addition is being planned for St. George's Anglican Church.

An announcement that the contract for the construction of the more than $1,000,000 addition on to Trenton High School, has been awarded is expected daily.

Building values for 1961 almost hit the two million dollar mark, but if present indications mean anything, "you ain't seen nothin' yet" when it comes to making a guess at this proportion the 1962 values might reach.

Trunk Sewers To Be Started In Near Future

TRENTON — Now that Trenton council, the Ontario Water Resources Commission and the Tasham Construction Company of Belleville have come to an agreement on the contract for the installation of trunk sewers on Front and Sidney Streets, at an agreed cost of $172,000, wheels are being put into motion to get the project underway.

An officer for Tasham Co. engineers will be set up, probably in the town sheds on Ontario St. Company officials have indicated that two work gangs will be engaged in the project, but it is not yet known whether work will be carried on simultaneously on the two streets, or whether one street will be done at a time.

The Front Street sewer will be installed along the riverside, back of the stores and this method will be far cheaper than tearing up pavement in front of the stores.

This One Is Wey Out

The head of the physiological warfare research institute, a Dr. M. K. McPhail, recently said that some of the newest poison gases are more humane than bombs.

His basis for this statement is apparently founded on the fact that these gases are not designed to kill.

This sounds very nice until one reads on about Dr. McPhail's "humane" gases. Instead of killing they cause "blindness, inability to walk, persistent vomiting, diarrhoea or a combination of these." There is even one gas which causes its victim's limbs to drop off.

Surely instant death would be preferable to the prospect of a life centred on the after effects attributed to Dr. McPhail's "humane" gases.

Somehow or other the prospect of strolling down Front Street depositing various portions of one's anatomy indiscriminately en route, and viewing others engaged in the same activity just does not strike us as humane.

Let us hope that Dr. McPhail's little pets never do get loosed upon humanity. Explosives would be more preferable if we really must get ourselves all fouled up in a conflict.

Better yet maybe we could convince humanity to go back to the jolly old crossbow, stone walls and muddy moat technique of warfare. It was ever so much more romantic, fewer people got hurt and a lengthy seige of one's castle was always a certain way of cutting down on one's waistline.

Logical Rate Structure

We see by the paper—and what better place to pick up tidbits for the mental cud—that in the City of Belleville dogs do not come cheaper by the pound.

Dog licences are now due and the city is advertising that fact. The advertisement lists the fees: $2 for one dog, $4 for each additional dog; $4 for one bitch, $6 for each additional bitch.

Evidently dogs are considered a nuisance. Granted this premise, the schedule of fees is eminently sensible. It recognizes the right of any person to desire a dog as a pet, but discourages unnecessary overindulgence in satisfying this nagd.

Frankly, though, we are somewhat surprised to find such a logical system of fees. The force of habit is generally much stronger than the appeal of logic, and habit has trained us to expect lower prices for quantity.

We recall one earlier occasion when logic failed to win over habit. During the war, when the dominion Hydro exceeded the supply and "power blackouts" were the order of the day, we suggested to the Public Utilities Commission in our Ontario town that a simple device might help reduce consumption. Instead of having the second and third rates for Hydro users much lower than the first rate, make them higher. That the lower second and third rates had been deliberately designed to encourage the use of electricity, it was pointed out. Reversing the rate structure would have the opposite effect. The commissioners grinned—and passed on to the next order of business.

Public-Spirited Teen-Agers

The illy can be overgilded.

Mr. Jim Cornett, a columnist for the Windsor Star, a Liberal newspaper, set out to prove that the Ontario Conservative Government had done a far, far better thing than the Opposition will concede when it instituted the sales tax. He was doing very nicely, thank you, what with reference to how little money most of us have after paying tax-exempt things like food bills and mortgage installments, and, therefore, how little the tax costs us. But the picture looked so rosy—pardon us, so lily-white—that it could not resist the temptation to gild this guiltless impost.

"Teen-agers, whose funds are limited in most cases—aren't kicking," declaims Mr. Cornett. "According to A. S. Jackson, director of the Ontario district sales tax office in Windsor, many want to pay it.

In restaurants, where a tax isn't levied unless the meal is over $1.50, many teen-agers have asked the waitress to put their hamburgs, milkshakes and other snack items on one bill so they can chip in to pay the tax. They realize the provincial government needs funds for new schools, among other things, that will benefit the teen-ager, and are anxious to help shoulder the expense, restaurant owners tell Mr. Jackson."

This places an exorbitant tax on our credulity.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker Thrives on Heavy Schedules

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — This is a capsule preview of the coming campaign . . . as fourteen reports on Prime Minister Diefenbaker at work and play are compiled by a staff correspondent attempting to a write-up for the election . . .

Monday: When the Prime Minister flew east to Winnipeg and Edmonton on Monday, they, The Ontario Intelligencer in Ottawa" was one of the six newspapers aboard the Diefenbaker Viscount.

It was quite a holiday.

Another of those rather jocular title "free-for-all" performances which seem always to stimulate and exhilarate the Prime Minister while exhausting just about everybody else.

He flew out of Ottawa at 3 p.m. Monday and was back in the Capital at 8 a.m. Sunday.

And in those 39 hours — 12 of them spent in the air making the 4,000-mile return circuit — he crammed more concentrated vote-gathering activity than most politicians manage to pack into a week.

He came aboard the plane in mid-afternoon Friday with nothing but a few ideas for the three speeches and half dozen "informal press remarks" he was scheduled to make . . . so it all still had to be organized and put down on paper.

EVERY 5 MINUTE COUNTS

On the six-hour flight West, except for a 30-minute break at Winnipeg, he was in short port conference with Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin, the Prime Minister worked on those speeches.

At his elbow were Special Assistant John Fisher with piles of notes on research done in advance, and Miss Campbell to hammer out the finished product on Typewriter—and spin off mimeographed texts for press, radio, TV and the official files.

The job finally was all tidied up at 2 a.m., four hours after the Prime Minister had landed in Edmonton.

There had to be taken out at the airport for a quick reception and the shaking of personal hands, a 20-minute press conference and a brief round with the microphones and the cameras.

At the hotel, there was another round of handshaking on a mass production basis, the Prime Minister was whisked up his way through a lobby crowds to the elevators.

In his suite, he threw over a few welcoming VIPs to greet, the speeches to be polished off and then to bed for a few hours' rest, only four hours later, for an early start for a hard-driving and demanding day.

To begin, after a shave, shower and breakfast, there were the usual urgent "can't wait" letters making special calls to meet, which ranged back from Ottawa to read, and then he was whisked off to the start of a 40-mile drive to Wetaskiwin and a "coffee party" with 1,000 well-wishers.

FUN AND GAMES

After that came "sniffer klatch", copies of the "Bill of Rights" were distributed to photographers and school children, there was a ceremony with Boy Scouts — and Girl Guides, an exchange of ceremonial greetings, with a band of Indian Chiefs.

Then it was a pell-mell drive back to Edmonton for a luncheon address, more with the Alberta Conservative boys, followed by another press conference.

Two appearances next were scheduled on the Calgary University campus, where "Visitors Day" guaranteed that each would be packed.

So tightly packed that the Prime Minister, for his rubberneck with somebody stepping on his heels as he inched his way through the student crowd yelling for a 40-mile drive to Calgary.

Perhaps one of the reasons that the Prime Minister can so well stand up under this kind of strain is that he thrives on responsibilities — the heavier the better.

Fun like he had at the next ceremony when the Edmonton Home Builders' Association asked him to break ground for a big new housing development.

Only in vastly sprawling, boisterously expanding, oil-rich Edmonton would it happen, but when they said you to "turn a shovel" they meant you put the usual gold or silver — plate spade, but a huge power shovel.

So when the Prime Minister arrived at the construction site to dig the starting divot, they hoisted him high on the driver's seat of a roaring mechanical monster.

MIGHT FLIGHT

"Turn us a ceremonial sod," they directed.

So he gunned the huge dragline, and with a mortal clash it chewed a half-tons bite out of the front lawn of the model home placed in the 30-below zero weather.

The Prime Minister, enjoying it all enormously, wheeled the great shovel like a veteran tractor-driver.

The busy afternoon ended with a reception and dinner party of hand-shaking for the Prime Minister and some socializing after the speech of the Diefenbakers.

Then, of course, the big Prime Ministerial political pitch came at the evening banquet when 1,000 supporters paid $25 per plate to hear the 90-minute rousing run-down of party performance, promises, plans and prospects for the election.

Then, at last, the Prime Minister handiwork his way through the crowd to take his seat and bet from . . . waiting aide, board the limousine specially by at the hotel entrance, and race for the airport. The luggage had gone on ahead.

The plane, 10:45 p.m. Mountain Time, close to 1 a.m. to Ontario time, and the Prime Minister's place climbed and pointed its props eastward for the long flight home. He was in bed just after 6 a.m., having travelled 4,000 miles, made four speeches, a part of press conferences, made three speeches, attended a dozen and said-during ceremony, all within a fraction less 36 hours.

There are easier ways to make a living, but then Prime Ministers seem to thrive on hard work, long hours, energetic pursuance and killing responsibility.

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WORSHIP

Worship is man's response to God's offer of salvation.

We are as individuals — and should — have daily periods of Bible reading, prayer and meditation. These are the basis of our devotion. But the service of worship is something different. Here a number of believers get together, sing together, receive together the items of service, bow their heads as a minister prays, and listen to the preaching of a sermon. All these things are beyond the scope of individual devotion. The best effective element in a service of worship is the fellowship which the worshipers have with one another at the close of the service.

In addition to daily devotions every sincere Christian needs to betake himself to a building hallowed by sacred memories and dedicated to the worship of God and there in the company of other believers face the great fact that God through Jesus Christ has provided for man's salvation. Here in the very fact together something happens to us — to the hidden of our hearts — which cannot happen in personal devotions alone.

Quiet confidence in reading organs, choruses, hymn singing, prayer, meditation, and the exposition of God's word all have a place in worship. They express upon us the thrilling truth that Christ died for our sins according to the gospel.

We all need worship — a response along with other Christians to God's gracious offer of salvation.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 10th, 1942.

On the local produce market this morning egg prices were slightly easier with grade "A" large being quoted at 33 cents to 34 cents per dozen; butter maintained the usual price of 40 cents per pound with sales brisk on a steady market. Fowl offering was small with prices ranging from 25 cents to 27 cents for chicken. The vegetable market will rarely with potatoes bringing the established price of 25 per bag. Carrots, beets and parsnips sold at the usual 4c cents per peck with onions selling at 60 cents for the same quantity.

Mr. Clifford Cooper of Marmora has purchased from Mr. G. B. Airhart of Belleville, 700 acres of land in the township of Rawdon. The sale includes buildings, which he will convert into a bunting reserve under the Ontario game and fish charter. It is understood that the property is heavily wooded, and the new owner has intimated that he may consider lumber operations at some time in the future if conditions warrant.

Pedestrians gathered about in a noisy throng early last evening observing the form of a individual lying on Front Street. Immediately south of the intersection of Bridge and Front Streets.

"Why he's dead, call a doctor," remarked one.

"He's drunk, why bother with a doctor, call the police", remarked another onlooker. when P.C. Ellis arrived and looked at the man, he casually remarked "He's dead alright, but dead drunk."

30 YEARS AGO

March 10th, 1932.

For the first time this winter ice to the thickness of about two feet was found on the Moira River here as far as the lower bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Stillman spent the weekend in Montreal.

Miss Jean Kelly with Mr. Charles Campbell, of this city were found guilty on the mixed doubles at the Kingston Curling Club tournament this week.

40 YEARS AGO

March 10th, 1922.

A meeting was held at the A.O.W.V. Club Rooms in Marmora for the purpose of organizing a lacrosse club in that village. The meeting was very large and those present were enthusiastic. The following officers were elected: Hon. President, H. R. Pearce; First Vice-President, J. P. Marrin; Second Vice-president, A.H. Connor; Secretary-treasurer, M. E. Grant; Manager, A. J. Shannon; Executive Committee, officers and S. C. Boyd, Dr. Hall, H. Naylor, S. Feneny, A. T. Neal.

50 YEARS AGO

March 10th, 1912.

At the curling rink the semi-finals were played off in the spiel between members of the local club. The games lasted until early in the morning, and there were many interested spectators. The rink skipped by Frank Dolan, one of the oldest members of the club, made a member and a player, won the contest. Mr. Dolan has long been one of the best players and most successful skips .That his right hand has not lost its cunning was fully demonstrated by his play last night. The following composed the rinks: In the finals: A. Backus, Dr. Morley Day, Arthur Jones, Frank Dolan, skip,

Lotteries—Yield Little

Montreal Gazette

The hope that a public lottery would provide the answer to the problem of raising public revenue has been a persistent one. Over the years proposals have been made that a lottery would provide the funds for such varied aims as welfare projects, a subway, or municipal revenues.

The experience of those governments that have established lotteries in other countries has not been encouraging. From the monetary point of view, lotteries have proved to be poor revenue producers. It is found that only 3½ per cent of the total receipts remained to enrich the treasury.

Experience with other lotteries, though showing a higher proportion of receipts, is still remarkably low. Even in the lotteries cost in proportion to the results. In the famous Irish Sweepstakes for example only about 20 per cent of the money received actually goes in aid of the hospitals of Ireland.

In Australia the state of New South Wales decided to operate a lottery. But only about one-third of the receipts remains for charitable purposes.

What happens to the rest of the money? The prizes have to be, the most of it is used to provide the needed lure. The rest goes for administration. What this means, in practice is that the public has to pay three dollars or more in order to get one dollar for those convenient ends from the extremely few members of the public who may be prize-winners).

It is argued, of course, that people do not have to buy. But it would be as well if their gambling were diverted to properly managed government lottery, instead, of in other directions.

But this leaves in uncertainty by how much the net yield of a lottery sponsored by a government does not give to the spirit of gambling a fillip and a wider stimulus. Those who may look forward to take the risk may have fresh encouragement to risk the most.

Helpful Hint Given Mao

Financial Post

The question of seating the Peking regime in the United Nations, debated on and off for a decade, appears exceedingly complicated but there is one answer to it, at least theoretically feasible, that looks easy.

The United Nations, naturally, has a credentials committee. Presumably so, delegate from Canada, Thailand or anywhere else may take the veil in the Assembly until this committee has examined his papers and ascertaining that he is indeed the person he purports to be.

China is already a member and does not have to be elected.

Suppose Mao Tse-tung chose a delegation of diplomats and sent them to New York, complete with documents certifying that they were indeed the duly appointed delegates of the government of China; and suppose they presented their warrants to the credentials committee, what would happen then?

Miss Mao would have to get in by the front door like Miss X or not, why not? If so, what did the committee say? It would be interesting to know.

Various Factors Figure In Child's Dizzy Spells

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What could cause these symptoms in a 7-year-old girl? She has had dizzy spells ever since she was two, and they always occur at regular intervals, every 2½ months. She has headaches, extreme nausea and severe vomiting. She always wakes up with them. Usually they last about 12 hours, although recently she has been sick for six days in succession, but feels better during a day. She is a bright, healthy child otherwise, and various tests have all been negative. — Mrs. L.C.

Some ailments occur in cycles and it takes real medical detective work to track it to its down. Some possibilities:

Migraine headache's symptoms similar to these. Adults usually learn to recognize the aura or feeling that forewarns of an attack; a child doesn't. In either adults or children, emotional stress may lie behind the attacks.

Recurrent infection is possible, but lack of any mention of fever leads me to doubt this cause.

A drop in blood sugar may produce headache and vomiting, and create a degree of weakness that will make the victim mighty cranky.

Allergy can be a factor. I doubt that skin tests would be practical in a young child, but a careful review of foods eaten 12 to 24 hours before an attack may give a clue to some factor common to all the attacks. Beverages, certain activities, scoldings, quarrels—try to find out if some factor, learned, keeping a diary, with the dates showing the actual intervals between attacks, and all the facts you can think of about the youngster's activities for a day or two before the attack, may be very helpful.

In short, since the child is healthy and bright otherwise, I would suspect a cause either in the family or emotional realm to a degree (as with migraines) or a cause stemming from something awry in the child's body chemistry.

While some pediatricians are highly skeptical of such cycle disease patterns, I think that in this case the regularity of attacks makes such investigation worth while.

In addition, this thought: Every effort should be made to stop the vomiting, to prevent fluid and chemical loss and the aggravation of acidosis, which may be detected by a fruity odor of the breath.

Dear Dr. Molner: A doctor recently said that, looking at television strengthens the eyes. I am 77 and have noticed that in the last few months I can see better by removing my glasses when looking at TV. — E.M.D.

I have read articles on that same doctor's remarks, and you can add my name to the list. I certainly congratulate you. Anything that exercises eye muscles strengthens the legs or the body.

He doesn't care whether you read books, see movies, books or birdwatching. It's unimportant what you look at. I think he's quite right. As for your being able to see better without your glasses now — it's a quirk, but I certainly congratulate you.

Your letter proved very eyesight at 77.

Note to Mrs. L. Z. and A Few Others: Yes, there are cases of chickenpox earlier than 21 months. On the average, however, children have a natural immunity for about a year. The human body is not a totally passive target for infection. Our averages are, in such things, quite reliable — but your average is made up of a lot of pluses and minuses.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HEART ETIQUETTE

In these talks of mine I know, over the years, I have set much about the heart. The reason is that life centres about the heart. I like fine manners. To see a person who knows the proper thing to do under all circumstances is delightful. No one will equipped for association with all types of human beings is the well mannered person in a home everywhere — even a home for those who are not well trained or taught.

But I believe that too much attention is placed upon ordinary physical etiquette with the heart slighted. It is well to have the right fork, but it is more important to have the right heart. "Kind hearts are more than coronets." And a well mannered heart always takes upon itself a touch of heaven.

I have known people who would become greatly disturbed over ill manners at a table, or at a gathering, but who would not hesitate to hurt another by an unkind remark or an unkind reference.

Politeness is simply honesty. And to be honest is to answer to our most sincere impulses whether these impulses tell of the proper thing or not. Fine politeness is natureless and shaped as to make people comfortable and happy.

What is the use of the book etiquette who makes those near to the least distressed or ill at ease.

The fine mannered heart doesn't hurt other hearts.

The heart becomes completely educated. But we grow more educated as we learn to help others through our own efforts to use every faculty at our command for the happiness of others.

I miss those whom I love who have fine mannered hearts, who live in me though they may be far separated.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The expansion, the inflation or exaggeration of our cities is creating numerous problems beside those of the taxpayers. It is being realized that two cities can't live as cheaply as one million. Among these seriously troubled are the airports and the airlines. When air transport began to look economically feasible the large cities built huge airfields big enough to handle the forerunners of jet, or, sometimes big enough to handle the supersonic jet. But everybody knew that the cities would grow right out to, and far past, the airfields, with the result that the ground traffic so created would act as a serious obstacle to the air traffic. It grew almost hopeless to expand airfields to the downtown of cities than it takes to travel from city to city, in a great many cases. And the situation grows steadily worse for the air, an aircraft is a marvellously efficient machine. But everything to do with the ground travel associated with air travel grows steadily less efficient.

Maybe someday the air industry will be able to afford enough land to whisk air passengers past all traffic from downtown to the airports. Or how about tunnels?

A Lift for Living

Making the Most of Our Time

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

A few years ago I asked a friend how long it had been since her mother died. To my surprise, she, a devoted daughter, said she did not remember because she made it a point to ignore dates and time. That might seem to be one way of conquering the calendar. But a general application of such an attitude would lead to confusion, even chaos. We must keep track of time if we are to have an orderly record of the past or an effective planning for the future.

Don't we all share the wish expressed by Saint Paul to the Ephesians: "Look carefully then how you walk, not as unwise men but as wise, making the most of the time." We want to make the most of our time.

And to this end we must appraise the value of time. The Psalmist was giving good advice to the young as well as to the old when he wrote: "So teach us to number our days that we may get a heart of wisdom." The young may foolishly waste the present by assuming that they have all the time in the world. The old may foolishly spoil the present by letting their minds dwell on the shortness of the time they have left.

In the days of Jesus there were no clocks or watches, and we may be sure that He did not count the minutes as we do in our haste. But He did take account of time. He said once to His disciples: "We must work the works of Him who sent me while it is day for the night comes when no one can work." And he did try to teach men the importance and meaning of certain periods of time. On one occasion the Sadducees and Pharisees, besieged Jesus with requests for signs which would reveal the date of certain coming events. Jesus rebuked them by replying: "You know how to interpret the appearance of the sky, but you cannot interpret the signs of the times."

Just as Christ sought to stir His countrymen to read the signs of their times, so He calls us to study the significance of these tremendous days in which we live.

Secondly, if we would conquer the calendar, we must serve in one day than his grandfather received in a month.

STOP AND THINK

But George Tyrrell was wont to say that impressions do not become the food of the soul until we ruminate on them something, what, just as the cows lie down and chew their cuds. We would cows to digest what we have taken in. It is not a waste of time to stop and think things over.

Bishop Neill Addresses Diocesan W.A.

Bishop Stephen Neill formerly of England and now residing in Geneva, Switzerland, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Ontario Diocesan Women's Auxiliary, which took place at St. Paul's parish hall, Kingston.

His Lordship having spent 20 years in India, chose as his topic women's work in that country. He commenced by speaking of a Brahmin caste father of a century ago who felt that women had a place in this world and therefore started his daughter. This girl grew up to be a champion of women's rights and eventually became a Christian.

Secondly, he spoke of a mother who became widowed at an early age and left with a young son to care for. This woman was stunned and humble but an excellent disciplinarian. Her son grew up to be the first Indian Bishop.

Thirdly, two brilliant English teachers were discussed. These were Helen Langit in the Bishop Tucker College and after a period of time the latter would like to go to a remote area and assist people in small villages. This type of work is much needed; proving that tremendous drive and courage are necessary to further the cause of Christianity. It should be remembered that God is a faithful Saviour and does not want anyone to be wasted.

The topic of St. Paul's, Rev. T. H. Good, said the opening prayers and Bishop Neill announced the benediction. Mrs. W. F. H. Mitchell introduced the speaker and Mrs. H. J. Becker thanked him, stating that he had provided excellent example for W.A members in Kingston.

Mrs. G. A. Platt presented the speaker with a copy of the History of the Women's Auxiliary in Ontario Diocese.

St. Paul's Branch was hostessed by Mrs. D. Stewart of Belleville for its hospitality.

Neighbors Aid Holds Cake Auction Sale

The Avondale Neighbors' Aid held its regular meeting in the evening of March 8th at the home of Mrs. D. Hall. The president, Mrs. R. Griffith, opened the meeting and welcomed six guests and 20 members.

The business session was led by the president and various reports were given and business discussed.

The Devotional period was led by Mrs. H. Wright and Mrs. H. Denike. Mrs. Wright read the Scripture, Matthew 24-34 and afterwards all sang "This Is My Father's World". Mrs. Denike read a story to conclude the devotional.

Mrs. Wright gave a reading about St. Patrick to open the social hour, during which the N.A. had a wonderful home cake sale. Mrs. W. Reed was auctioneer who tried to get the most for all the delicious cakes, pretzels and candies brought by the members.

The evening was concluded with a delicious lunch, coffee and tea served by the hostess and the lunch committee, Mrs. S. Lough, Mrs. D. MacLean, and Mrs. L. van Egmond.

Mrs. Griffith thanked the hostess for the use of her home.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Women of the Moose held their first meeting of the month in Moose Hall with Regent N. Shandraw presiding.

An Enrollment Ceremony was held and three new members were enrolled. Before the meeting opened, a baked sale was held of pies, cookies, and cakes.

A draw, donated by Lena Copeland was won by Ruby Morris. A euchre is to be held at Olive Van Norman's home (56 Grove Street), today, and one also at Barbara Farnsworth's home later this month.

Over 300 Women Attend World Day of Prayer

In reverence and silence more than 300 women from the various Protestant churches in the city assembled yesterday afternoon at Bridge Street Presbyterian Church to forge another link in the unbroken chain of prayer encircling the world of its annual Day of Prayer.

The program, prepared by Mrs. de Sayvigny and Miss Mary Cavallero, both of Montevideo Uruguay, South note America; the former the widow of a professor of music, has shared greatly in the work in Protestant Spain, while the latter is a deaconess and director of Christian education in Canadian Institute, and is responsible for the weekly Methodist Radio Hour — but not its theme, "God's Love For the Whole World." The special address, given by Mrs. R. G. McKay, former deaconess of the Presbyterian Church, and the hymns used throughout the service were in harmony with the theme and purpose of the World Day of Prayer, stressing the love of God.

The order of service consisted of the call to worship, led by Mrs. J. Bell Turner, wife of Britain's former -motorcycling ace, agreed: "If a marriage is going to go wrong it can happen at any time."

EARLY ENGLAGE

Arlene Meira Lister, married to a titled Frenchman, Count Jacques de Cossio, a danger point in marriage I think it is the first and second years after the bride discovers that each other and you find out things which annoy you."

The registrar - general's review unearths other nuggets of information about married life in England and Wales. It finds the risk of marriage breaking up in divorce is greatest when a bride is in her teens, or when there is a wide disparity of ages between husband and wife.

Married people of both sexes tend to live longer than their single counterparts.

And the review finds that single persons are more likely to die from tuberculosis or a virus disease than those who have the care and companionship of a spouse and a comfortable home life.

WINTER HOLIDAY TIME

"Journeys . . . are things in themselves, each one an individual and no two alike." —John Steinbeck.

"I've just returned from Mexico." "we were in Jamaica for a couple of weeks." "I'm off to Tel Aviv this week. . . " all fast becoming expressions why not, since they will make one's friends, when city streets that isolate, even neighbors, were once the treason. In a sense, the weather is still the culprit.

Just returned from a month in Mexico ("where one sees the old and the new side by side, yet everyone seems happy and gay; a true place for holidaying,") has one impression left, the unique architecture of Mexico City has the largest airport in the world; one waits two hours for a flight plane.

"At Acapulco, the famed resort, I counted over 65 hotels in process, we quite lost our hearts to a Mexican family who occupied a small house next with their handy man, Pontciano (a huge, dark Mexican, stripped down to the waist, color) the fifteen-room hotel, where we stayed. Here, we ate only the food served at breakfast 8:30, lunch 2:00 and dinner 8:00 p.m. Guests may go into kitchens open for all to see, to avoid risk of illness from unclean food handling."

Needless to say, we came to table with ravenous appetites. So being able to go and see or read (a word of Spanish, we did have some difficulty ordering) the fare on the route, where we stopped at a small restaurant and had a bowl of soup (chuck like a hen and shape our fingers - for an egg.

While refusing to a glass of water that we wanted it boiled. The waiter got the idea eventually anyhow, for he returned with an omelette! But we can't laugh at the variety of order things like ice, milk, tea coffee and say, yes, no 'and thank you, all in Spanish.

While we spent many wonderful hours swimming, sunbathing, walking or travelling by motor over excellent, but dangerous roads, a swit chbard highways to see tiny Mexican, quaint villages and beautiful flower gardens, we were always glad to return to our clean, comfortable hotel.

"Our food, along with their children were , ambitious for their cooking, refused to attend university while we were there. Another son, who was our waiter- had left school and studied for his degree from the university extension- ally, while their daughter hoped to soon qualify for the university. So you see their land was a family project where everyone worked to fulfill his dreams.

"I have done some travelling; Europe, Scandinavia, Africa and Florida. Yet, there is something about Mexico that is so colorful, so filled with gay spirit, that I'd love to go there again. I must try and get a Spanish grammar, and write a note to Senora, to thank her and tell her so!"

Miss Mary Doyle, 181 Bridge Street, East, is among several Belleville winter vacationists, who are leaving this very day on a seventeen-day trip to Israel, Italy, Paris, Switzerland, where a friend who is a stewardess on the RCAF in Germany, will join them. They will then fly to Venice to board ship, which will be their hotel home as they cruise along the Italian coast to Greece, Rhodes, Cypress and Israel.

"I've always taken my vacations during March, when Mary tells us. She has been to Europe three times as well as Mexico and the Barbadoes. "I much prefer to do winter holidaying, for I love summer, all summers."

When asked why the winter days were shorter than summer days, a seventh-grade lad explained them was very simply by saying, "During the cold winter months the days get cold and contract. In summer time they get hot and expand."

But one thing is certain, regardless of why days vary in length — they are all good for vacation time — any time!

H-S Holds Successful Card Party

The Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association held its annual card party on March 7th in Prince Charles School, with a large attendance, for euchre and bridge.

The winners for the euchre were: ladies' high Mrs. Schiring and Mrs. Bedell; men's high — Mr. Leslie Clement and Mrs. Newery (playing as a team). The bridge winners were: men's high — Charlie Hartz and — Chester Bast; ladies' high — Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. Hawkins. Mrs. Hall won the door prize and Mrs. R. Noakes won the draw on a cake. Lunch was made and beautifully decorated by one of the members. A prize was given for Miss Bedell guessing the number of beans in a jar.

There was also homebaking table and candy table, with their generous donations of goodies and these were well patronized.

Fatima PTA Urged to Help Catholic PTAS

The March meeting of Our Lady of Fatima P.T.A. was held on Tuesday in the school. The vice-president, Mrs. K. Dowdall, presided. The opening prayers were recited by Father Carty.

The business meeting followed.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Herbert Brown, president of the Archdiocesan P.T.A. Mr. Brown urged the members to support the forthcoming meeting of the Catholic P.T.A.'s in the area, which is being held March 21. The guest speaker for the evening will be Mr. Edward Brisbois of Toronto, who will discuss, "Separate Schools and Religious Education."

Mr. Brown was thanked by the chairman.

A nominating committee was formed of the following: Mrs. Ryan, convener; Mrs. F. Donohoe and Mrs. E. McGuigan.

When the meeting classrooms were open until 9 p.m. in order to give the parents ample time to speak with the teachers.

Jamaican Vacation Overflows With Calypso Music and Sun

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Ocho Rios, Jamaica — If you're serious about wanting to cut down on those tranquilizers, here would be a good place to try.

For this is, in sooth, the land of limbo, which is not only a backbreaking dance but a backsoothing sense of being "away out High in the Cockpit" Country nestles the Land of Look Behind. It doesn't apply to you; nothing is gaining on you except maybe a creeping thumbergia (do thumbergia creep?) which may overgrow you if you don't shift your chair with the sun.

This could also be called the Land of Good Intentions, and the road to Paradise is paved with them. If you're serenaded by your hotel's calypso band at 8:30 a.m. you don't worry at all is the only job for me," you tell yourself.

It is fitting commentary on this last great home of inertia that most of what is known as tourist seas of Jamaica is on the road between the two north coast resort area and the equidistant airports of Montego Bay and Kingston.

Except, at least to the extent of going into Montego Bay to see Errol Flynn's yacht, or to take a glass-bottom boat ride over the submarine gardens of Doctor's Cave.

As if it weren't enough just to live here, Jamaica's crew had cause to celebrate lately. Within the space of a few months they voted themselves independent status within the British Commonwealth, and welcomed daily non-stop jet service by Pan American from both Florida and New York.

From Miami to Mo' Bay it is now only an hour and 15 minutes for vacationers in a hurry, while only three and a half hours from New York separate Idlewild, Jamaica from lilting a while in the real Jamaica.

West Hastings WI Officers' Workshop Held in River Valley

On Wednesday, March 7, representatives from seven branch Women's Institutes in West Hastings met in the kitchen of River Valley school for their "Officers' Workshop."

The district president, Mrs. Percy MacMullin after extending a gracious welcome, called Mrs. James Haggerty, Napanee, the FWIC president, to take charge.

Mrs. Haggerty told how she always learned something new from these workshops, adding that one is never too old to learn.

The ladies were divided into five groups, all selected reporters and were given 40 minutes to discuss their special problems, and prepare questions to be presented to the assembled groups.

The findings included: non-attendance at meetings, where some paid up members never attended meetings. This might be resolved by having half the meetings at night, when working members could attend and half in the afternoon when older members could attend.

Another inducement might be to shorten the meeting time, curtail the business and shorten the conf espondence.

The president and secretary should review the correspondence before the meeting. The president is not to vote on the decisions with the secretary as to what can be shortened. Letters from the president, the board d'rector, and the home economist must be read in full.

Business — When planning a branch program small committees should be appointed to look after different topics, but specify clearly their duties.

CHARITABLE APPEALS

Plan what charitable appeals to sponsor, how many and how much to spend. Budget for so many one year, and others next year. Answer all appeals for sale of goods public relations. with "our budget does not allow for a donation at this time." These are separate from local needs which should be supported to make the community a better place in which to live.

Keep minutes to a minimum —record all motions and highlight the addresses, and members should speak up when the president presents some item of business.

How to get members interested in roll call? Have interesting roll calls that give out information. Have president announce roll call for the next meeting. Pay a fine for not answering roll call.

PRINTED PROGRAMS

It would be an asset to have the names of the district officers on the printed programs but as this would necessitate one or maybe two months' delay it was thought best to have programs looked after directly after annual meeting.

To get members to become active officers needs training. Vice-presidents should be given a chance to take a meeting. When they accept office they should do so with the understanding that they will step in when the time comes.

The assistant to the secretary-treasurer should be asked to enter the minutes and should sit in when closing the books for the year.

The public relations officer should train others by assigning duties to them, as, look after publicity for a meeting, attend a meeting for the P.R.O.

Conveners of Each member of the branch should be a member of a standing committee. Each standing committee should be allowed one minute at each meeting to report on recent happenings. Perhaps have a panel discussion.

Parliamentary procedure. If business supersedes parliamentary law use kindness. Members should help one another. If it is going to cause friction, abandon it and set up something else.

Reimbursement: A district president should have all her expenses paid, She has to visit all the branches and many other meetings for the sake of public relations. The district should assume this responsibility. Present her with a small gift on retiring.

The FWIC also always eight cents per mile each way for travelling expenses. They advocate to take a car load if possible. If travelling long distance, take turns driving.

Home and Country: The magazine should be read by all members. Mail copies to absent members.

Conveners make out reports in triplicate. Send one to district convener ten days before district annual, give one to branch secretary and keep one for convener's file.

Meetings are more interesting and have better attendance when held in homes. Put members on the lunch committee for various parts of the community and there will be no hard feelings.

Mrs. Haggerty gave her pep talk by use of cards, which showed there are 1,472 branches in Ontario and the most important objects of the organization are the branch meetings. There are 113 districts 31 subdivisions and 14 convention areas. Ontario is the largest province in the World.

The next step is the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, then the Federation of Women's Institutes of Canada, and lastly the Associated Country Women of the World.

When one pays the 50-cent fee in her branch she automatically is entitled to send a home economist to underprivileged countries, perhaps, at times, to Jamaica or Bermudas in Canada.

Mrs. Haggerty expressed appreciation for the donations for the renovation and upkeep of the Adelaide Hoodless Homestead, for the contributions to the national fund for the national office in Ottawa, for the work in the north, and for the Associated Country Women. The latter is to pay the fees in the ACWW for women in underdeveloped countries who have the same interests as Canadian women in the care and betterment of their children. "We are all sisters under the skin."

DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING

This is primarily a business meeting where the members of the several branches of district meet once a year to carry on their business. The president must have time to make her report on her year's work. The board director should be given at least 30 minutes to report.

The home economist must be given time to explain the services of her department.

There is also the election of the officers. It was suggested that a panel discussion might take the place of the conveners' reports with the vice-president acting as moderator.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Haggerty, by Mrs. M. Siner; to the guests, by Mrs. Percy MacMullin; to Mrs. MacMullin, by Mrs. C. Burkitt, and to the hostess branch, River Valley, by Mrs. E. Phillips.

At the noon hour the hostess branch served coffee and banch, tifully arranged relish trays. The guests brought their own lunches. At the close of the meeting coffee was again served.

Readers' Saturday Column

by Mary Moore

Letter: 1) Regarding your answer to E.V.V on the making of good coffee, we live in the country and have our own well of good water, tested, etc. But I cannot take good coffee with it. I discovered this when my mother, who lived a few farms away, always had good coffee. Our coffee maker and her water made good coffee but our water does not make good coffee regardless of the method used. It must contain some mineral that causes this. I use instant coffee with good results.

2) N.R. asks for a recipe she has misplaced. Judging by her description I'm sure it is the enclosed recipe for Double Decker Brownies which I clipped from your column a number of years ago. It was rich and delicious squares. - E.M.

"Be sure to read this through to the end before you start mixing ingredients into mixing bowl)

Bottom Layer: This may all be mixed in top of double boiler if you have a large one. Melt together in double boiler 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate and 1-4 cup shortening. Remove from heat and add 1 cup sugar, beat well, then add 2 unbeaten eggs, and beat well Sift together ¾ cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon each baking powder and salt, and stir them in with ½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts (or pecans). (For ordinary brownies this would be spread ina 8 x 8 pan.

Layer 2) greased pan. But for these, which must be thin, use a pan 9 x 12 x 1", well-greased) Spread smoothly and chill in refrigerator 24 hours. Then mix together White Layer: Cream together 2 oz. shortening and 4 oz. sugar, ½ cup) until very well blended, then stir in 1 lb. unsweetened desiccated cocoanut and 1 beaten egg. Mix well. Pat this over firm unbaked brownie mixture. Topping Your Fingers in warm water to pat it smooth, or it will stick to them. Be sure to pat it firmly. Note: This makes a 'thick white layer. You may want to cut it in half. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 30 minutes having beat cone from bottom as cocoanut should not brown much at all. Cool a little then pour over Cocoa Frosting: Melt frosting or melted semi-sweet chocolate or the following: Chocolate Frosting: In top of double boiler melt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate (2 oz.), remove from heat and add 1 cup icing sugar, mix well, then beat in 1 egg, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat over boiling water for only 1 minute, then remove and beat until it thickens a little. Add 2 teaspoons boiling water, beat again, then spread carefully over cocoanut layer on brownies. If it thickens too much to spread successfully add another teaspoon of boiling water, beat well, and spread. Chill in refrigerator. Cut into squares or oblongs when cold and firm, using sharp knife.

Answer: Isabel K. whose letter requesting Banana Pie was given yesterday also enclosed the original newspaper clipping from which I am giving this same recipe for Double Decker Brownies for N. R. This kind of cooperation is what makes my work so gratifying. Than you girls. I hope N. R. sees this.

Note From Emeen Re Coffee Makers: You must use cold water to start coffee in an automatic coffee maker.

King George H-S Association Sponsors Successful 'Fun Fair'

On March 2nd, King George Home and School Association held its annual money-making project in the form of a giant "Fun Fair," with a large attendance. The event proved to be most successful and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated in the school colors of blue and yellow and the tea room was particularly attractive with the tea table being centred with a pretty arrangement of spring flowers and blue and yellow candles in silver candlesticks.

Pouring tea were past president Mrs. Neal Scott, and the principal's wife, Mrs. R. Moorcraft. Those serving were: Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Dryden and Mrs. Woods. Replenishing the plates of fancy cookies, Mrs. May and Mrs. Pearce. Kitchen workers were: Mrs. Dowbyghan, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Welch.

Mrs. Davenport took tickets and Mrs. McKibbon sold tickets at the door at the entrance to the fireplace. Those convening the tea room were Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Dowbyghan.

BAZAAR AREA

In the basement area were the following tables: candy, home cooking, sewing, popcorn and white elephant. The daintily laden tables were soon cleared of their eye-catching and mouth-watering items. Convener of the candy table was Mrs. Les Smith with Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Leech and Mrs. Hughes assisting. Mrs. R. Bly convened the home cooking table with the help of Mrs. V. Kirkham and Mrs. M. Thompson. Mrs. McCracken and Mrs. Holston convened the sewing table. This was a busy table, which was quickly sold out, was convened by Mrs. A. Weagant and Mrs. E. Laney. Hundreds of items on the "White Elephant" table attracted the children wishing to buy gifts for their parents. This table was convened by Mrs. N. Graham and Mrs. S. Calkin with Mrs. Brownell, Mrs. Hodgson and Mrs. Rodgers assisting.

FISH POND

A big attraction for the young children was the fish pond convened by Mrs. B. Priest, assisted by Mrs. Arnett, Mrs. England, Mrs. Hutson and Mrs. Miller.

One room was packed with children enjoying a wide assortment of games which proved to be most entertaining. Mr. and Mrs. John Fudge convened this games room with the help of Mr. and Mrs. Riordan, Mrs. Drennan and Mrs. Nicholls.

Dancing was going full swing in the basement under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. N. Herring.

The youngster fry also enjoyed success in the film room with two teachers, Miss Thompson and Mr. Sadler operating the projector and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown with Mr. and Mrs. Gord Townsend supervising.

During the evening hot dogs and soft drinks were consumed in large quantities, keeping the attendants Mr. and Mrs. Ed Huddleston, Mrs. L. Lee, Mrs. Mary Hutt and Messrs. David Millar, David Spring and Jimy Sly on the hop.

BEAN GUESSING GAME

The lunch duty of maintaining orderly behavior fell to Mr. Moorcraft, Mr. Leech, Mr. Graham and Mr. Hodgson.

Over all conveners of the fun fair was Mrs. Margaret Hunt and Mrs. Bon Lee, president of the Home and School Association, who acted as master of ceremonies.

The lunch grocery draw was won by Mrs. Salsbury, 9 Meyer Drive.

The tremendous success of this, the first Fun Fair ever held by the King George Home and School Association, will probably be repeated in future years.

MAH. CALL

Question: A friend of my husband is coming to town in a few weeks, and my husband has invited him to spend the weekend, completely forgetting that we've accepted a dinner invitation for Saturday night. Would it be permissible to leave our guest to his own devices just for the evening? We'll be with him for the rest of the weekend. — Mrs. J.D., Belleville, Ont.

Answer: It most certainly would be very rude to leave a weekend guest alone while you and your husband go off to a party. The only polite thing to do is explain the situation to your hostess. If she does not suggest your bringing your house guest along, then you'll simply have to decline the invitation.

Question: When friends come in a group to see a new baby, and a few of them bring gifts, should the presents be opened in front of everyone? Or should I open them when the guests leave and send "thank-you" notes in acknowledgment? — Mrs. J.D., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: If the gifts are given in an obvious way, then they may be opened just as obviously in front of anyone. But if they're slipped to you in private, then you may put them aside and open them later, when the guests are taking a peek at the new arrival. When friends bring gifts, they might feel slighted if you fail to open them at some point during their visit. Donors then should be thanked in person. It's not absolutely necessary to send a thank-you note as well, but I've always felt it's the gracious thing to do.

Flying Radar Bases Maintain 24-Hour Watch for Enemy Subs From Greenwood Base

GREENWOOD, N.S. (CP) — Visitors to the big Greenwood air force base in Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley are greeted by a sign that says:

"You may sleep well tonight. Your Maritime air forces are awake."

Around the clock giant RCAF Argus aircraft roar into the Atlantic probing the depths for enemy submarines. Canada's commitment is well for "there is one Argus to be in the air at all times.

The Argus is a flying radar and weapons platform that generates enough electricity for 60 houses, produces enough heat for 30 houses and carries enough fuel to drive a car five times around the world.

There's a big question in my mind that if submarines are used in a future attack on Canada we will be ready," says Group Capt. Ralph Gordon, Greenwood's commanding officer. "The Argus is the best airplane of its kind in the Western World."

READY FOR THREAT

"We are in the best position now to combat a submarine threat of any time since the Second World War," says Air Commodore W. I. Clements, air officer commanding Maritime Air Command.

MAC is the cold war descendant of the Eastern Air Command which flew bomber reconnaissance squadrons of the coast against German subs and surface ships during the Second World War.

But Canada's anti-submarine capabilities have come a long way since 1941 when the base failed to explode in Eastern Air Command's first attack of a sub.

MAC has two Argus squadrons here, one at Summerside, P.E.I., a squadron of shorter-range Neptunes at Comox, B.C., an operational training unit of Neptunes and a proving and evaluation unit that flies both Arguses and Neptunes at Summerside. All told the air force has 33 Arguses acquired since 1956.

In addition, MAC has search and rescue units at Greenwood and Torbay, Nfld., and co-operates with the navy in running the Joint Maritime Warfare School at Halifax.

SKILLED CREWS

The 15 men who make up an Argus crew are highly skilled. They are already trained as pilots, navigators, flight engineers or some other branch when they arrive at Summerside for a four-month course in fundamentals of anti-submarine warfare, ship recognition, and wireless communications and navigation.

One week is spent at the warfare school where model ships, subs and planes are used to teach techniques and theory of convoy protection and sub-killing.

Graduates are assigned to an operational crew and from then their training is a continuing process. In the winter when the navy goes south for exercises some Argus crews fly out of Bermuda or Florida training with the navy or with U.S. air and sea units. Missions often extend across the Atlantic to Gibraltar or Britain as part of the emphasis on co-operation with NATO allies.

A mission begins with orders originating with command headquarters in Halifax, and a briefing in the operations room, a restricted area where all vessel movements off the coast are plotted. The room's blackboard walls, which include the ominous headings "enemy submarines" and "enemy ships" are washed bare before visitors are allowed inside.

TAKES PHOTOS

After the briefing a typical flight would be 750 miles to sea, a patrol covering 50,000 square miles and then the return flight. There would be enough fuel left for a diversionary flight of 500 miles, often necessary to check later information or perhaps to shepherd a straggling fishing vessel.

After landing, the crew is debriefed and questioned and later the film from the camera every Argus carries is examined. Photo intelligence is an important part of an Argus flight. Last year pictures taking of the dozens of Russian fishing boats off the coast drew protests from Moscow that the ships were being buzzed.

The entire mission, from the time the crew leaves home until return, takes about 24 hours, an average of 19 in the air. But occasionally an Argus will fly non-stop more than 24 hours. Some of the submarine hunting is done flying mile after mile just 30 feet above the waves.

Much of the Argus equipment is secret—reports from the official Secrets Act are posted all over the base—and sophisticated enough that even submerged subs can be detected by sonobuoys or magnetic detection devices. A huge dome below the cockpit contains a sweep radar for searching out surface ships.

LOST BUOY

A Sonobuoys, a time-tested navy device, are dropped into the water in a triangular pattern and sound waves give a fix on anything in the area. A Russian fishing vessel caused a small flap earlier when it innocently chugged into the pattern and made off with a buoy. The air force said, however, the Russians would gain nothing from it.

The 75-ton Argus carries up to four tons of bombs, rockets, torpedoes, mines and depth charges in two 16-foot bays, but it has no defensive armament.

The four-engine 128-foot giant was adapted from the civilian Bristol Britannia after the air force started looking for a plane to fill its anti-submarine requirement. Built by Canadair in Montreal, it was at the time the largest airplane ever built in Canada.

The Greenwood base, in western Nova Scotia, a few miles inland from the Bay of Fundy, is the RCAF's largest operation in the Atlantic provinces. Most of the buildings are leftovers from Eastern Air Command days but the runways have been lengthened and a large canopy over maintenance hangar built.

Twenty-six hundred servicemen and 900 civilians live on the base in two nearby housing areas with their dependents.

Successful Living

A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems

Fed Up With Bad Tempered Husband

DEAR DORIS:—We have four children ages 27, 20, 19 and 10. For the last two or three years my husband has had such a quick temper, he bawls us out for nothing.

I milk eight cows but the cream money has to go for groceries.—When I need any clothes, I have to pay for them on instalments out of the family allowance.

If we don't feel good, we can't say anything because he says we are just lazy. The boys have no money and nothing to look forward to. No one comes to visit us. We don't go anywhere.

I know he is not feeling right at times but won't go to see the doctor and gets mad if we say to go. When I try to reason with him he even hits me.

I'm getting fed up. Shall I take the youngest boy and leave? Some advise me to go. Others say if I go I'll lose everything.—JUST WORRIED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR JUST:—Was your husband likeable and happy before? Perhaps he really is sick. He may refuse to see a doctor because he fears the worst.

You can't stand up to him yourself, but how about a combined effort? Are you all scared stiff of him? would suggest that Son No. 1 visit the doctor and bring him to the house. That all four of you stand together in making him submit to an examination.

If he is well, and just acting ornery, there's no future in letting your boys continue to take it. Three of them are men now and should be striking out.

Whether you leave him will have to be your decision. A letter from me is not the substitute for a family counsellor. Write to the Department of Public Welfare, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, and ask for a visit from the welfare officer for your region.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I am going with a girl who is 20 years old and I am 23. My problem is that she wants us to stop going together for a while because she says she can't trust herself when she is out with me.

What should I do? Keep going with her and take a chance or stop seeing her for a while? I love her very much and she loves me too.—WORRIED.

• • •

DEAR WORRIED—Forewarned is forearmed.

You must help your girl to avoid trouble. Take her on double dates, never park, never be alone with her in a cosy, comfortable living room.

Healthy, outdoor sports or club activities involving others are best. Not only will you avoid trouble this way, but you will begin having more common interest, which can make love all the better.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I am wondering as to what your opinion is on the following: "A seventeen-year-old girl dating occasionally or steady, a man of thirty years"?—WONDERING.

• • •

DEAR WONDERING:—He is robbing the cradle, as the saying goes!

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—Many of the pupils at the school I attend call me degrading names. I admit I used to go with a bunch of wild kids but I never went close to going all the way with any of the boys. I am 13.

When we had a class party I was on the clean-up committee and stayed after to help. After we finished, the six of us, three boys and three girls, watched TV for a while. I left at 11:30 p.m. because I ate too much so I took it off. I undid a button at the waist. Next day I heard people talking that I had stripped.

I have tried to ignore this but they write names on the blackboard and I have to get up and erase them. I come from a nice family so their background doesn't bother me. What should I do?—IN A JAM.

• • •

DEAR IN A JAM:—Keep your skirts clean—and buttoned up.

Ignore the names and give them no cause at all, ever, for using them. You are learning early that a good reputation is a precious thing.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—Would you have a few suggestions for games for adults to play during the first half hour while people are still arriving, that will help break the ice? Age group 18 to 40.

My husband and I love parties and so does our teen-age daughter, and we are always anxious to have a few new games to spring upon our guests.—MAC and DEB.

DEAR MAC and DEB:—Ice breaking is easier when you have a few tools. People be assorted ages and temperaments may find small talk elusive. Yet I know teen-agers who scorn playing games—until they grow mature enough not to worry about something childish!

Charades are good. They lend themselves to any number of players—four to twenty-four—or more. The version I like best is called The Game. This involves two teams, a quotation, or name of a book or song, and wordless motions to interpret.

The best idea is for me to send you the name of a book with ice breaker games in it. If you find an exceptionally good one, write and describe it. If there's room, into the column it goes, for other game-playing friends.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO IMPATIENTLY:— Why do your parents object? If you do go out with him at all, you should not go steady. Get to know other boys as well. Keep in mind that your parents may know better than you do about this.

• • •

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Late night calls to doctors, decreasing risks of childbirth and emotional problems of early life.

HELLO, DOCTOR?

That 2 a.m. telephone call to your doctor, his sleepy answer and his subsequent advice—whatever it is—came in for discussion this week.

That early morning call is often unnecessary, some suggested. Or it may mean the patient has put off calling his doctor until his condition became severe, when he actually could have seen the doctor days earlier.

Other suggestions from the doctors: Follow your doctor's instructions to a tee later. Don't be afraid to ask him questions. Don't be willing to accept his judgment on new drugs and procedures, and be willing to accept the fact he doesn't know everything.

Recognize that you are paying a doctor for his time—and that often an intensive session is as valuable as some positive action. Find a doctor you trust, and don't keep secrets from him.

SAFE CHILDBIRTH

In the last 11 years, death rates for women in pregnancy and childbirth have declined dramatically.

In all of the United States during 1960, only 1,360 women died from these causes, say statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Births in 1960 numbered 4,250,000.

The fact that women are going to doctors earlier and staying under medical surveillance during their pregnancies is one of the major factors in lowering the death rate, statisticians reported.

BOYS AND GIRLS

Boys in the upper bracket of nine to 12 have a greater incidence of emotional trouble than any other group in childhood, a psychiatrist reports.

In fact, disturbed boys in this age range outnumber disturbed girls of the same age two to one, says Dr. Stella Chess, child psychiatrist, of New York's Lower-Fifth Avenue Clinic.

While the boys tend to act out their troubles, she said, the girls tend to repress them, keep them inside. Then later on in their teenage years the girls begin to show their hostility—but often in terms of sexual activity, Dr. Chess said.

Alarmed at the reactions in their daughters, parents frequently apply greater pressure—and this leads to more trouble.

Make All Canada Common Market Crump Urges

He made the suggestion in an address to the Toronto Rotary Club and said the common market would have two aims: To avoid the waste of energy and capital in a struggle between provinces for the establishment of uneconomic industries and to meet economic challenges faced by Canada in a changing world.

Mr. Crump said Canada as a "large but small nation cannot insulate herself from the forces of competition at work in the world."

"Any attempt to insulate regions in Canada from the forces of competition is equally impractical; it can only hinder severely growth in our economy."

Artificial stimulation of economic activity on the regional level must be detrimental to that activity elsewhere in Canada, Mr. Crump said. "Economic separatism is as dangerous as cultural separatism."

While Canada had no regional tariffs as such, artificial stimulation of industries at the provincial or local level could have the same effect on the Canadian economy as actual trade barriers between various regions.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. G.C. — She's reading too many manuals and believing them.

* * *

Sheila C. — My wedding date is set for three months off, and, although I'm wildly in love with Martin, I'm getting cold feet.

Everything I read, everyone I talk to and every premarital lecture I hear all stress the supreme importance of just one thing: sexual compatibility. And it scares me because I think I'm frigid. Whenever I've been with boys, even those I like, I have no trouble keeping my feelings under control. I just have no feelings, period.

And when I'm with Martin, I adore having him near. But my feeling must be buried very deep, for I have none of that "wild desire" the books say a girl is supposed to fight against — or welcome. There must be something wrong with me. I'll probably be a fine wife, but it's not fair to Martin.

* * *

Mrs. G. C.—As Sheila's mother, I'm trying to quiet her jittars about her forthcoming marriage. Who's to stop him? On the other hand, who's to be-lieve me?

To assist Mrs. C. in allaying Sheila's misgivings, we hasten to inform the latter that no one — not even a doctor, a clergyman or a marriage counsellor — knows for sure what specific advice to give a specific couple. This relation is of all relations completely personal.

Somehow in her growing-up years, Sheila found advantages in burying her feelings. Now she fears she has done too good a job and that resurrection will be impossible. She fears that suppression of natural response has become a habit.

But just as she responds to Martin's kindness and charm with love, the very core of her being will gradually slough off the dormancy which is now paralyzing her. It merely awaits the right partner.

Our special message to Sheila is: Don't let the books scare you! Many of them are written by irresponsible sensationalists or sexualists who, with a graduate degree and a typewriter, rationalize their own weakness. The "textbook" they're based on can seldom be proved. The researchers are not working with an exact science. They must rely upon what people choose to say, and many statements are exaggerated, distorted, defensive and mischievous.

So, Sheila, while sexual adjustment in marriage is extremely important, yours will be quite your own and need not match any norms. You and Martin may set your own norm. It will be part of the intricate relationship, instead of much forgiving and burden-sharing, which you will be weaving. Fortunately, you have a lifetime to work on it.

Hydro Will Operate if Strike Called

TORONTO (CP)—The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario has notified its employees it will continue to operate the system with supervisory staff and by other means if they workers go on strike.

The notification came in a letter to hydro employees from J. M. Hambly, general manager.

The Hydro local of the National Union of Public Service Employees (CLC) is to take a strike ballot within the next two weeks. The union has rejected the majority recommendations of a conciliation board.

Mr. Hambly's letter added the commission may withdraw its acceptance of the board report if a strike is called.

It acknowledged a union proposal to maintain power to what the union termed essential customers, but rejected the offer as neither technically feasible nor practical.

DEBATES LETTER

Keeley Cummins, union president, described Mr. Hambly's letter as "just a little short of intimidation." He interpreted it as an indication Hydro is considering the use of strikebreakers, and added the union's offer to maintain essential services would not stand if this happened.

The conciliation board majority recommendation, rejected by the union was for a two-per-cent increase dating from April 1, 1961 and two per cent effective Jan. 1, 1962, for a two-year agreement that would expire March 31, 1963.

A minority report by the union nominee suggested two increases of four per cent.

Some 9,000 salaried employees are involved.

Hydro workers last voted for a strike in 1959 but a settlement was reached after the intervention of former labor minister Charles Daley and his chief conciliation officer, Louis Fine.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Some birds fear, resulting your alarm clock, the question of whether an insect thinks and sparks from the surface of the moon.

TO SLEEP, TOO LONG

Most folks can get along on only six hours sleep a night —and the same goes for spearmen, a U.S. Air Force study claims.

The study also finds some other interesting points about sleep.

It's hard for anyone to perform critical jobs well when they have been working on a 24-hour-awake schedule.

When you do sleep, sleep for at least two hours. And then, for best results, don't perform monotonous jobs continually for longer than two-hour periods.

Under conditions of stress, schedules should not be more severe than two hours on and two hours off.

THINKING INSECTS?

Ever wonder what a mosquito thinks as it sinks its feeding proboscis into your arm and you raise your hand to retaliate?

Well, it's unlikely that insects have any individual consciousness, as we understand it, says Dr. R. E. Snodgrass of the Smithsonian Institution. They are subconsciously governed by some sort of incomprehensible and unconscious instinct —not like human or animal instinct either.

Science has yet to define what this insect "instinct" is, and how it operates, but many feel that it must exist. It is hard to imagine insects are mere machines when you scan their varied activities, Dr. Snodgrass adds. It would be like imagining automobiles driving themselves on crowded streets without ever colliding.

MOON SPARKS

For 10 days each month, while the earth's shadow shields the moon from the brilliance of the sun, a telescope with an electronic eye is watching the moon for meteorite collisions.

The electronic eye—without the human frailty of becoming bored and unwatchful at a monotonous job—is expected by scientists at Martin Marietta Corporation to pick out meteor flashes as the fragments of space matter strike the moon at some 54,000 miles an hour.

Sask., Alberta Rinks Duel For Crown

Manitoba Lost Playoff

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Ernie Richardson, of Regina, a 6-foot-four giant who prefers smoking a teen-ager, set out today to become the third triple-winner skip in the history of the Canadian curling championships.

The big battle between Richardson's Saskatchewan rink and Gervais' defending champion foursome from Alberta was set up Friday night when Gervais defeated Manitoba 8-6 in the opener of a rare playoff doubleheader.

Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba were deadlocked for first place after the regulation 11 rounds in the round - robin tournament. It was the 12th triple tie in the championship's 33-year history and the first since 1946.

Saskatchewan, Canadian champions in 1955 and 1960, won the toss in a draw after the western rinks ended up with identical records of eight victories and two defeats.

Today's match was set to start at 9 a.m.

On the sidelines with Norm Houck's Winnipeg rink was British Columbia, which finished fourth with a 7-4 won-lost mark. Ontario, 6-4, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, 5-5, Northern Ontario, 4-6, Quebec 3-7, Prince Edward Island, 1-9, and Newfoundland—winless in 10 games.

The traffic jam at the top Friday when Houck picked up 10-7 victories over Northern Ontario and British Columbia in the 10th and 11th rounds.

Gervais, meanwhile, was skipping his men to a 7-5 win over Prince Edward Island and a 10-9 triumph over Northern Ontario.

Richardson defeated New Brunswick 8-5 in the 10th round and beat Quebec 10-8 in the 11th.

Ernie was gunning to match the record of three crowns set by Ken Watson of Winnipeg in 1938, 1942 and 1946 and matched by Matt Baldwin of Edmonton in 1954, 1957 and 1958.

The odds were with Richardson, Gervais had beaten Houck 11-10 on an extra end in the fourth round and Richardson defeated Gervais 9-8 Thursday's seventh draw.

In the first playoff game, Gervais, 27, survived an erratic start and took a 2-0 lead in the first end despite missing four of eight shots. Houck missed his first shot and that gave Gervais his chance to score a deuce. Houck's rivets never looked back, although he required a pressure-packed draw to the four-foot ring with his last stone to emerge the victor.

In Friday's other games New-foundland dropped a pair by identical 11-8 scores to Quebec and P.E.I. to Nova Scotia, losing 8-5 to British Columbia and winning 11-8 over Ontario.

Wings, Blues Battle For Spot

Hull, Howe Seek Scoring Marks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The struggle for the fourth and last playoff spot and Bobby Hull's assault on the league scoring record highlight National Hockey League play this weekend.

For sidelights, there is Gordie Howe's quest for his 520th regular - season goal, Bernie Geoffrion's bid to pass the late Nels Stewart in the all-time scoring list and the battle for the individual scoring title.

Five games are scheduled Saturday night and three Sunday night.

In Saturday's games the Boston Bruins are in Montreal and Detroit visits Toronto. Sunday night games find Montreal at New York, Toronto at Chicago and Detroit at Boston.

The Rangers and Red Wings are engaged in the fight for the last playoff berth. Rangers currently occupy fourth spot, but tied by one point and they have played two more games than the Wings.

OUT OF RUNNING

With only two weeks to go in the 70-game schedule, Montreal, Toronto and Chicago already are assured of the first three playoff positions. The Bruins, winners of the last 18 starts, are out of the running.

Hull, the Black Hawks' golden boy, has 43 goals and seven more in his club's remaining seven games to break record set by retired Maurice Richard of Montreal in 1944-45 and equalled of the first time as an NHL goal Thursday night and by Gordie Howe last Tuesday night and needs just one more to become the second player to hit 500. Richard had 544 in 18 seasons. Geoffrion bagged his 323rd goal Thursday night and will be the first to score 400 goals and 400 assists in the history of New York and Hull.

Bathgate now holds a three-point lead, 79 to 76. But Hull has a game in hand and he has been collecting points at a fantastic clip in recent weeks.

Howe, the Detroit right winger scored his 499th goal when he gets another one he'll tie Stewart for fourth place in the all-time list behind Richard, Howe and retired Ted Lindsay of Detroit and Chicago.

Canada Meets W. Germany

Swedes, Yanks Big One

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP)—Canada takes on a weakened West German team in its second start of the world hockey championships tonight, but the spotlight will be trained mostly on the crucial test between Sweden and the United States.

"If we are ever going to give the Yanks a rough time," said Sweden's popular veteran, Sven (Tumba) Johansson, after his team's opening 13-1 win over Switzerland at Denver.

That game saw little tough checking and only one penalty, but Swedish coach Arne Stromberg told reporters "we might be ready for hard body contact against the United States."

Canada doesn't meet Sweden until Tuesday and the U.S. until the March 18 finale.

After two days, only Canada, the U.S. and Sweden are unbeaten in the eight - country Class A group.

TERRIERS IDLE

Canada's Gail Terriers, the tournament favorites, and the U.S. both had an open date Fri. day. The Canadians, despite trouble with the high altitude, whipped Finland 9-1 and the U.S. trounced Norway 14-2 in their openers Thursday.

Two games were played in the championship division Friday night and two more are decided in the third period. Norway rallied to upset West Germany 6-4 and Britain scored four times in the final session for a 7-5 win over Finland.

In Class B, Japan overcame a 7-6 deficit in the third period and defeated France 10-8.

Junior B Finals Opener

Macs Whip Kingston 4-2

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

Sparked by right-winger Moe Hunter's three-goal performance, the Belleville Mc-Farlands, dumped the Kingston Frontenacs 4-2 here last night before a season-high crowd of 868.

The victory gave the Macs a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven OHA Eastern Junior "B" league playoff finals. The series, expected to be a tight one all the way, will continue in Kingston Saturday, back here next Friday and again in Kingston on Tuesday, March 20.

The Macs, using their weight to good advantage, were never headed in the tilt although the outcome was in doubt until Hunter completed his hat trick for the clinching goal with 30 seconds left.

Belleville's winning margin came in the second period when the Macs fired two unanswered goals. It was 1-1 at the end of the first and the clube split a pair again in the third.

Besides Hunter's three goals, and a fourth washed out because of the siren at the end of the first heat, the winners got one marker from "Pug" Kellar, two assists from Pete Weston and one each from Ted Rowland, Dave Smith, Bobby Boyle, Paul Zakos and Larry Mavety.

The Frontenacs outshot the Macs by a slim 30-29 margin and drew nine minor penalties to seven for the Macs. Both goalies, Gord Parker and Kurt Dymmler, came up with some great clutch saves.

Hunter's vital goal gave the Macs a 1-0 lead at 8.02 when he took Weston's pass in stride, slifried the defence and gunned home a beauty. Robertson tied it from close-in on Convery's passout at 13.26.

The Macs continued to bump the Frontenacs, led by Mavety and Zakos, in the second when they moved in front 3-1. Kenny Hall was acting out an interference penalty when Hunter completed a three-man passing play to make it 2-1 at 8.44.

Each club had a man in the box when Kellar scored what proved to be the winning goal at 17.13.

Kingston survived a two-man-short situation near the end of the second period and did the same early in the third without damage.

Play roared from end to end in the third, giving both goalies plenty to do. The Frontenacs never gave up and they cut the lead to 3-2 at 16.34 when Robertson poked Lavalee's shot just over the goal line into the corner.

Kingston kept the pressure on until Hall was caught slipping at 18.39. Less than a minute later Mavety stole the puck from Lavallee and sent Hunter in alone to wrap it up.

Boyle and Lavallee tangled briefly in a corner with scant seconds left in the game and Referee Kingston handed out two minors to Boyle's one. Lavallee and Hall drew each had four minor penalties in all and Ball three, two of which led to Belleville goals.

Kingston: Dommler, Lobe; Reid, Curran, Brown, McMillan, Lavallee, Robertson, Convery, Rawson, Bryant, Cashman, Ball, Quinn.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tuesday night has been named "Awards' Night" by the gentlemen of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association.

Members of teams of the lower brackets of minor hockey will be stage front and centre with the main glare of the spotlight focussed on the "squirt division." But bantams, peewees and midgets will come in for their share.

Two midget players, three bantams, three squirts, and three peewees will receive awards or/and trophies for finishing first in the "Most Sportsmanlike," "Most Improved Player" and "Most Valuable Player" divisions.

Not detracting from the presentations of these awards since these youngsters deserve equal accolades with the others, the awards of the "Squirtsmanship" Trophies" will be one of the highlights of the evening.

These are the youngsters between the ages of eight and ten years who are being molded by energetic, sincere coaches into the hockey players and good citizens of the future.

They are the epitome of the characteristics required by the provisions of the trophies as laid down by the donors of the twelve handsome awards and miniatures. They have been carefully selected by executives and officials of their clubs, and, I am told, the job of selecting the ultimate winners was not an easy one.

Like the "Tommy McNevin Memorial Award" won by Steven Moore of the McFarlands squirts team, and who incidentally, is a double winner this season, the "Squirtsmanship Trophies" were donated by prominent citizens who desire to remain anonymous.

These are three prominent men who occupy important positions in the community life of the city; are public spirited and appreciate the value of athletics in the building of the citizens of the future.

They colored the word "squirtsmanship," which embodies the qualities of the "most valuable player", the "top goal-getter," the "most gentlemanly player" and other characteristics most trophies represent.

They had in mind the player or players who conduct themselves like gentlemen both on and off the ice, whose play not necessarily the best, is a distinct asset to the team; whose attitude towards opposing players and a keen competitor and respect coaches and officials one of an interested student and not a do-as-I-do youngster.

The winner need not be the boy with the best goals-and-assists record, nor the goalie with the lowest goals-scored-against average, although these factors are highly important.

Tuesday night should be a night for proud champions and proud parents. Families of the championship teams—and it won't hurt either hockey fans either—should be on hand to watch and cheer these fine youngsters in their quest for the top honors in their respective divisions. They should be there to join the top award winners in their moments of triumph.

For these squirts, bantams, peewees and midgets are the backbone of minor hockey. They are the foundation blocks of the hockey teams of the future—and who knows—in their budding ranks might be some of the professional stars of the years to come.

They are in the flexible years and thanks to good coaches and managers are being developed in the proper molds. They are taught to lose well and take their triumphs in their stride. They are deadly sincere in their efforts. Victory for them is one of their finest collective and individual moments.

It will be worth anybody's while to watch the squirt, peewee and bantam finalists in action Tuesday night. The squirts' game gets under way at six o'clock, the peewees at 7.15 and the bantams at 9 o'clock, after the presentations. Don't miss them!

Whitby, Irish In Wild Brawl

Goalie Dumps Goalie!

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto St. Michael's College Majors defeated Whitby Mohawks Friday night 8-2 in a wild Ontario Hockey Association Metro Junior A game enlivened by these incidents:

Gary Dineen scored three goals for the victory, and Rod Seiling two. Terry Clancy and Mark Walton got the others. Walton on a penalty shot.

Bill Collins scored Whitby's goal in the third period and was penalized and was promptly checked into the boards and rendered unconscious by Majors defenceman Bradley and Goodfellow had assists.

Coaches Did Fine Job In BMHA

The "Squirtmanship Trophies" of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association are awarded annually to the top player of the twelve teams of the squirt division. They are selected by the coaches.

With the presentation of the "Tommy McNevin Memorial Award" an annual affair, a squirt player will be a double winner in future years. He will receive the "squirtmanship award" of his team, also the "McNevin" trophy as is the case with Steven Moore this year.

Dusty Denyes is the proud coach of the McFarlands team, whose star (Steven Moore) is the first double winner.

Squirt division coaches like others have done an outstanding job. They are to be commended for their unstinting efforts in molding their teams and teaching them the fundamentals as well as sportsmanship, and more important "squirtsmanship".

Other coaches of the division are Rangers, Norm Carter; Leafs, D. Howell; Wings, Len Coughlin who also coached the squirts all-star team; Regals, Wilf Mills; Canadiens, Mike Acquafredde; Bruins, Fred Bradley; Barons, Dalton Kaye; Frontenacs, J. Cresswell; Hawks, Don Wilson and Browns, Chuck Powell.

Beavers Nip Wolves, Regain Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers, who probably haven't worked as hard all season to earn two points, surged back into the leadership of the Eastern Professional Hockey League Friday night.

It moved them one point ahead of Hull-Ottawa Canadiens and two in front of Kingston Frontenacs, no safe margin in this league where the lead has been changing hands like a hot potato in the last week.

The weekend schedule could ace the standings shaken up again. Kingston visits the Wolves tonight while the fifth-place North Bay Trappers are at Kitchener. Sunday the Trappers are back to the tail-end Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds while the Frontenacs have a road game in Hull.

Joey Giambra Meets Salim

NEW YORK (AP) — Argentina's tall middleweight hopeful, Faryd Salim, will try to regain some lost prestige tonight when he faces seasoned Joey Giambra of San Francisco in a televised (ABC) 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Salim, a spindly 6-1, whipped Teddy Wright in a TV bout at Madison Square Garden last October but four weeks later in another match at the garden was outpointed by Yama Bahama.

Giambra, 30, lost to Bahama last year. The veteran has won 63 of 71 bouts, losing six and drawing in two. His knockout total is 30 and he has never been kayoed.

The 24 - year - old Salim has been idle since the loss to Bahama. His record is 32-2, with 14 knockouts to his credit.

The victory was the fifth straight for Reds and ran by their unbeaten streak to seven games.

Rochester Americans beat Buffalo Bisons 4-3 when Wally Boyer scored at 6:43 of overtime. The American Pro A-3 lead after two first-period goals by Dick Gamble and one by Larry Keenan, but Wayne Hicks sent the game into overtime with two goals in the third period. Chico Maki also scored for the Bisons.

Beatty, 27, from the Los Angeles Track Club, became the first man to run three minutes indoors when he ran 3:58.9 Feb. 19 in Los Angeles.

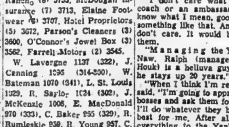
Sharland Wants 'Back in'

By STUART LAKE

CAMP FONTLEROY, Que. (CP) Jacques Charland of Trois-Rivieres, Que., says he is looking forward to defending his Canadian ski jumping championship and the chance to regain his crown on the jumping team which will represent Canada in the 1964 winter olympics.

Charland was suspended from the national squad earlier this year for charging that the national coach, Franz Baier, was incompetent.

He said he hopes to get back into the good graces of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association by successfully defending his Dominion title today and with a good showing in the second annual Tournament of Champions Sunday.



The top four placers in the Sunday competition will be awarded expenses-paid trips to Europe to train and to compete against the world's best jumpers. The trips are part of an annual program sponsored by the CASA and a brewery to improve Canada's chances in the 1964 competition.

The 64 was one of the best rounds ever shot in Japan. Thomson birdied four holes on each nine to round out at 32-32.

"When I think I'm ready," he said, "I'm going to approach my bosses and ask them for advice. I'll do whatever they believe is best for me. After all, I owe everything to the Yankees. No one has ever been treated better."

The Curtain Rises

By SYLVIA DOLAN

Incorporated twenty-seven years ago by Royal Charter, the Dominion Drama Festival was created by Lord Bessborough for the purpose of encouraging the theatre, both professional and amateur.

The Belleville Theatre Guild in this community is a springboard for dramatic talent — how else does a aspiring young actor or actress learn — and the Dominion Drama Festival is the ultimate goal in Canadian Little Theatre. It is financed by grants from honorary governors, the Canada Council, entry fees for plays, corporate and private donations and a joint contribution of $60,000 annually by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

For the purpose of the festival, Canada is divided into fourteen regions — four in Ontario, two in Quebec and one each in the remaining eight provinces. The main prize is $100 for the best play in the region and $1,000 for the best presentation at the final festival, with other awards for the best actress, best actor, best director, etc. The festival is non-competitive on both radio and television.

Only one play in each competency material — comedy, tragedy, farce, classic, or modern — but as long as it is well written, well-directed and well played and well-produced.

On the proven principle that it isn't the size of the contender in the fight, but the size of the fight in the contender, the Belleville Theatre Guild has thrown its beret into the Drama Festival ring and is pinning its hopes on Enid Bagnold's play "The Chalk Garden," a 3-act stylized comedy with a Freudian overtone that has captivated audiences and drama critics both in New York and abroad.

Director Kingsley Thomas has cast the play with a complementary array of talent that augurs a sparkling success — Vicky Flo Vannevar, Beryl Statler, Garth Allen, and Jim Alexander are supported by Margo Hall, Helen Sulman, Margaret Jardine and Lynne Brown.

Miss Hall will play the part of grandeur of an English country home, governed by the eagerness of a "governess" — the part is on the employer's granddaughter — an incredible terrible — the grandmother's unwitting victim.

There lurks through the household an aura of psychic malignancy that has reached a peaking order of exhilaration. The grandmother gardens — feverishly and ignorantly as an escape from old age; her lack of success in horticulture is only exceeded in her abject failure in child-culture. Over the premises, unseen and chained by a stroke upstairs, there broods the evil influence of the butler who has known all the magnificence of his employer's life in London.

The governess, it unfolds, has done a life sentence for murder and has only recently come out of prison. This fact swells like a mushroom cloud all through the play, and the cloud develops flames within it when the judge who once sentenced her comes to lunch . . . and the rest, of course, is Act II!

Performances, in chronological order, will be at Trenton High School auditorium on March 24, Convocation Hall in Kingston on March 28, and at Queen Alexandra School in Belleville on April 6 and 7.

The Festival plays at Kingston will consist of Belleville's The Chalk Garden, March 28; Kingston Domino's Love and Libel, March 29; Cornwall's Under the Sycamore Tree, March 30; Hull's Don Perlmoplin in the afternoon and Ottawa's Look Back in Anger in the evening, March 31.

Tickets for The Chalk Garden being presented in Belleville, April 6 and 7, are now on sale—$1.50 and students 75c—and may be obtained at either Ed Thomas', Schwab's, Quinte Book Store or Kelly's Drugs.

The machinery of play-production is both complex and demanding, and it did seem not too long ago that the beret challenge might have to be followed by the wearing of defeat. The sudden loss of several stalwart members who have now become the gain of other communities) left the production desperately short-handed and overburdened. Fortunately, a gratifying response to an SOS advertisement for technical personnel has relieved the strain, but the Belleville Theatre Guild is still scanning the horizon for Good Samaritans. If you meet any, let them know our welcome mat is always out — and tell them to bring a friend!

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two usually light-scoring forwards and a goal-happy defenceman played major roles Friday night as Edmonton Flyers, Hucks and Calgary Stampeders picked up victories in the Western Hockey League.

Ford scored three goals and Ansell two, added another pair for two in Vancouver. Ford has 16 goals this season. Annable has six.

Where to go on winter weekends presents no problem to thousands of families in the Ottawa area.

Dad, mom and the kids stack their ski equipment atop the family car and make the short drive over paved roads to Camp Fortune, Que., the home of the big-acre Ottawa Ski Club.

Only about 25 miles north of Ottawa in the picturesque Gatineau Hills, Camp Fortune's accessibility and its emphasis on family skiing has made it a favorite among Ottawa-Hull ski clubs. Membership now is slightly more than 10,000 and is still growing. Weekly attendance run as high as 9,000.

Since 1956, development of the club's facilities has proceeded with all ages in mind. Camp Fortune has 25 miles of trail skiing, a jump that will rank with the best in Canada by next winter, and eight lodges accommodating 800 skiers.

Main reason the club has more than tripled its members' ship in the last six years is the concentration on getting youngsters to the slopes, says manager Johnny Clifford, three Canadian Olympic champion and an alternate member of Canada's Olympic ski team on two occasions.

There were 3,000 members in 1956, when the club started instruction for youngsters and provided them with suitable hills and tows. The rush to the hills began then, and is continuing.

"We believe that as many as 20,000 will belong to the club by 1980," says Clifford, the 34-year-old Ottawa product.

Plans now are to convert five of the present 10 rope tows to lifts, and to build more lodge facilities for another 800 skiers.

Formed in 1919, the Ottawa Ski Club selected Camp Fortune as its site because of the magnificent terrain for trails. With the swing to downhill skiing about 1932, the club found one of Gatineau's few hills to carve out hills.

The investment in tows, hills and land since then is more than $1,000,000. This means the club must charge low rates slightly above those at other Ottawa clubs and commercial areas. The club now is considering ways and means of correcting the situation.

In any sport, the Ottawa Ski Club is proud of its reputation as a family club and as a producer of fine young competitive skiers.

Liz and Eddie Breaking Up Is Report

ROME (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher were not available for comment Friday night on a published report that their marriage is ending but family spokesman scoffed at the report.

The spokesman said: "It's absolutely ridiculous. Eddie said he wouldn't dignify the story by saying anything about it."

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner said in an exclusive story that the two were splitting up because Miss Taylor "has fallen madly in love" with actor Richard Burton.

The spokesman said Fisher and Miss Taylor, starring in the movie Cleopatra under production here, were together Friday night.

Rumors of a breakup have been circulating for some time.

Burton issued a statement last month denying any involvement. He said he, name had inadvertently become linked with Miss Taylor's through the efforts of Mark Anthony in Cleopatra.

Liz and Eddie were seen publicly together Friday when Miss Taylor went to a hospital for an X-ray of a bruised foot she suffered. Fisher later escorted her two weeks in the summer and have four weeks of rehearsal and four weeks of preshape. That means 12 weeks work in the summer and that's the way I like it. Mayse doesn't a horse to death."

Ernie left nightclub televising last season after five successful seasons. His departure was voluntary.

"Sure, I could have stuck with it," he remarked. "I could have kept on for years. Then one day I would have looked around and everybody was gone — my friends, my family. 'Course, I'd still have a rating."

Ernie Ford Will Be Back With Homey Half-Hr. Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Too much concentration on one member of the family ain't good for the family and show business fosters that kind of situation. That's why we went away from Hollywood."

This was Tennessee Ernie Ford explaining why he left the local scene eight months ago. He, his wife and their two sons now reside on a ranch on the rolling hills behind Stanford University, 400 miles north of Hollywood.

That doesn't mean he has left the show business scene. Next month he will be back stronger than ever, dispensing home balladeering and backhill philosophy over ABC-TV five mornings a week at 11.

This development has startled the television world, and Ernie, too.

"When I told the ABC people that I wanted to do the show from San Francisco, they were ready for all kinds of arguments," he said.

"They didn't even draw a deep breath. They said it was perfectly fine by them, and if there wasn't facilities in San Francisco, they'd build some. Now you can't argue with thinkin' like that."

RE-RECORDS HYMNS

Ernie was back in town briefly to re-record in stereo his Capitol Album of Hymns that has already sold an astounding 2,000,000 copies.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday March 11
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)— The kind of day which welcomes relaxation, an open mind. Listen. If you try to push your views, you could frighten others into keeping quiet . . . then you'll lose out. Encourage comradeship.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)— Strive for spiritual refreshment . . . seek peace, harmony. Ask yourself questions which demand answers. Don't delay in facing facts of your life.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— Cycle near top. You can sparkle with originality of thought, action. Express humor . . . no more frowns. Seek out one you were "cheap" to recently. Extend hand of friendship.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)— Your intuitive intelect is "wired" for action. Trust hunches. You may try to rationalize . . . but first impressions prove correct in long run. Express your desires.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)— Your keen sense of showmanship should be kept under control today . . . if you really seek to make best possible impression. Practical jokers are completely out . . . turn on charm instead.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Tendency points toward optimism. You may find yourself involved in disputes, quarrels which really hold no interest for you. Why become involved? Answer this question truthfully . . . you are your own best advisor today.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)— Giving of yourself is key. The more you ask today . . . the less you are likely to receive. The more you offer . . . the more accolades are thrown in your direction. Nobility pays off!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— If overlooked, minor matters could bloom into major problems. This includes dealings with younger family members. Probe in diplomatic manner.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)— Look . . . face facts today with cool detachment. Don't press for commendations. Use energies for constructive purposes. Tendency is to be self-centred . . . ward off this error.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)— Lessons available to you through spiritual advisors could prove invaluable. Look beneath the surface . . . mysticism could mire you down in despair.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Excellent for seeking new ways of accomplishing goals . . . the old ways may not work so well. This applies to personal as well a sbusiness ventures. Prepare for work tomorrow . . . by doing some of the things today.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)— Like Gemini, carry mantle of strength with dignity. Indecisions are for pawns which strengthens your hand . . . but don't "force" it over others. Attend to details . . . personally.

If today is your birthday . . . coming year could see stress on change, travel, variety, romance! Sticking to same position . . . strictly because of comfort, security . . . not advised.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, while Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn urged to "take it easy". Generally curiosity is keynd so is desire for being entertained. Excellent day for friends, charity, picnic occasions, and the like. . . .

For March 12
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)— Ability to sense or perceive happenings of importance comes to the fore . . . look beyond surface. Ask yourself why such-and-such a situation could occur at this time. Permit subconscious to provide meanings.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)— Aggressive quality of one who is friend could create doubt in your mind. Remember . . . your life is your own to live. By permitting opinions of others to influence you toward loved one could be invite disturbance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— There is so much to gain today . . . that your greatest opponent is worst of time. Your cycle at peak . . . your personality shines through . . . you can captivate your audience, whether customers or loved ones.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)— Cycle up if one who is not exactly a friend challenges you . . . accept. Those who try "pushing" methods against you . . . will meet their match. Avoid fear of fear itself.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)— Old tendency toward extravagance apt to com- to fore . . . keep it under control. Planetary pattern reveals you must exercise self-discipline . . . listen to advice of friends.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Recognize actions based on impatience . . . and control them. Otherwise, impulsive movements could lead to problems. Avoid people who love arguing.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)— Responsibility is key word. Sum up obligations. Realize what must be done first . . . sad-get started. Forget frills, fancy promises. There is a task to be done . . . and it's time to begin.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— Tremendous desire to "break through" is evident. You no longer are satisfied merely to "go along"—with plans, desires of others. Today it is obvious that self-expression . . . even a need to dominate . . . cannot be ignored. Stand up for rights!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)— Not best time to force issues . . . "lie low." Time for planning . . . waiting . . . planting seeds which blossom in future. Be careful in legal dealings . . . signing papers, agreements.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You achieve most by trying to see others' points of view. In extreme cases . . . know your enemy. Understanding is key. In travel check your route. Do not trust to chance. . . .

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)— If choice is between buying luxury item or adding to bank account . . . latter take cautious road. Plenty of responsibility on your shoulders at this time. You come through on top . . . but self-discipline is a requirement.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)— If you insist on sticking to established patterns . . . you could find yourself left out in the cold. Be willing to change with the times. Open mind to new ideas, methods . . . and to procedures which will save time, money, stress.

* * *

If today is your birthday — you gain the most now by taking each step slowly, surely. If you attempt to "skip," you experience yourself in danger of "tripping." You are sympathetic to troubles of others . . . and you could develop ability to interpret human problems.

* * *

General Tendencies: Those who are not diplomatic, including natives and persons, could find "bullying" tactics working in reverse. There could be "backfire." Study well the interpretation for Cancer and for Capricorn.

Canadian Army to Hold Exercise at Camp Gagetown

HALIFAX (CP) — This summer's Canadian Army training manoeuvres at Camp Gagetown, N.B., will bring together the largest number of regular army troops ever concentrated in Can. The Eastern Command headquarter's announced Friday.

Well over 10,000 soldiers will participate in series of exercises from June 18 to July 31 as the Ontario-based 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade Group joins New Brunswick's 3rd Group in the most powerful force to train in Camp Gagetown's 491 square miles.

Advance parties of Ontario and Quebec units will arrive in Camp Gagetown early in June with the main bodies following in their own road vehicles and by RCAF airlift.

A total of 28 units will take the training, 18 of them from outside Eastern Command. Thirteen units of 2nd Brigade Group will total more than 4,000 soldiers. Four units from Quebec's 5th Infantry Brigade will provide 2,000 to train with the 3rd Group. No. 1 Signal Unit from Halifax adds a further 250 men to the force.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Your Retirement School 'Major' Should Deal With 'What to Do'

By THOMAS COLLINS

"Maybe you have written something like this before, but it would have been back a few years when I thought the sort of column you write was silly.

"It's funny how suddenly you can discover, along about 65, that advice about retirement is very serious business, indeed.

"Well, it's serious to me now and I need advice on setting up a retirement course in an Adult Education School. Can you give me guidance?"

Try this:

Determine first whether you mean a course for people already retired or for people about to retire. If the former, your pupils will be mainly elderly oldsters who attend because it is somewhere to go. The 60-to-65 year group, with the pension still to come, is busy looking under the bed and will be short on students.

Start you course by discarding sentiment. People are now realizing that retirement is not necessarily a tax party and will prefer the hard, practical approach.

Have classes two evenings a week if you can. Once a week doesn't hold together. Six weeks is too short. Three months would do better. Two-part courses, of three months each would be fine, and effective.

"WHAT TO DO"

Make the "Major" in your retirement course the "What To Do" lessons. You could divide these into three segments: Jobs; Volunteer Civic Activities; and Loafing.

In the Jobs category pupils would be assigned to find job openings in the community — by contacting employment agencies, personnel managers, bosses of small business houses and any other channels the instructor might suggest.

The jobs to be sought should be evening or weekend jobs so the pupils, since they are still working, could take them. They should do this as part of their course, to see if they can stomach the downgrading.

For the Volunteer Civic Activities, the instructor, with a few phone calls, can find spots in charity work, etc., for as many pupils as he has. During the evenings when the pupils do not attend classes, they should fill the volunteer jobs. This is again to see if they think it's worth the candle.

For the Loafing candidates, it is suggested that they be seated at the rear of the room to do doodling and be asked nothing. They will just watch the others. It will be quite practical indoctrination for what lies ahead.

Wills — A half-dozen lessons will be needed, showing who needs a will, what wills can and can't do and the state laws governing them. A member of the local bar association may be guest instructor . . . probably for free.

Life Insurance — Maybe three lessons will be sufficient, with local insurance executives again for free — telling the many ways the pupils can convert their policies into methods more appropriate to their pension years.

Investments — Most of the pupils wouldn't be bothering with a retirement school if they had more than $10,000 or so. Therefore, a savings executive of a local bank or an executive of a local savings and loan association would make the best instructor. For free. Probably three evenings should be devoted to this.

Health — Seek as instructors not doctors and not officers of a medical association, but Blue Cross officials, officials of any insurance company dealing with health insurance. In brief, tell the pupils how to pay for ill health — which you can do instead of telling them as a class how to stay well — which you can't do.

Sunshine — Do your homework before the course starts, and end the course with a sunshine talk. Write to 10 cities each in Arizona, California and Florida and get detailed data on the good and bad of the weather, minimum living costs for a retired couple and housing conditions. Know the bus fare for two to each state, so the pupils can make an exploratory trip.

DESERONTO

Dog Catcher Is Acquired By Council

DESERONTO — Due to the absence of Mayor Sweetnam from the regular council meeting on Tuesday night, Reeve Lott occupied the chair. All other members of the council were present.

At long last council will be able to do something to control the dogs in the town. Numerous complaints have been received recently concerning the number of dogs allowed to run at large throughout the town. On Monday night Iner Thompson who is employed as dog catcher for the town of Napanee spoke to council regarding his application for the same job in Deseronto. Mr. Thompson offered to divide his service between the two towns and advised that he had all the necessary equipment for the job. Council decided to prepare the necessary agreement for the hiring of Mr. Thompson and he will assume his position as soon as the agreement is signed. All dogs running at large will be impounded and the owners will have three days to redeem them at a cost of five dollars before they are destroyed.

Dr. McVicker also addressed the council regarding a grant for the scholarship fund for the high school and this was referred to the finance committee for inclusion in the budget which will be submitted at the next regular meeting.

Another adjustment will be made in the traffic by-law at the street committee recommended that angle parking on Main Street be cancelled and parallel parking only permitted. Council will amend the by-law at the next meeting. This move was necessary because with angle parking there is not sufficient room for passing between the parked cars on Main Street between Prince and Centre streets.

A letter from Mrs. H. Waddingham concerning the flow of water over her property on Centre Street was discussed to some length and was finally referred to the streets committee for a recommendation.

Included in the accounts paid was an item of $20,000 for the county rate which brought the total of accounts paid to a high level.

TWEED

Industrial Picture Has Fine Outlook

TWEED — Tweed's local industrial picture is good, although small, it is going along with big industry and this is an encouraging factor for every resident, especially business men.

In 1927 the Rasbotic Bros. acquired the factory and began the manufacture of the Rasbotic Stoutton Co., now of Belleville. The business has been carried on under the name of "The Joseph Rasbotte Co. Ltd." There are ten employees, presently using 30,000 thousand foot capacity kiln, drying lumber for the American market and working overtime on a new line of rustic furniture with orders coming from as far as Calgary.

Work on the addition to the municipal building has been hampered by poor weather conditions. Right now have been able to get the concrete foundations completed. The contractor, Mr. Pat Whalen, expects to put on additional workers and the building will be rushed to completion.

The heavy snowfall during the past three weeks has given almost continuous work to the day laborers, so there is little unemployment in the town.

The destruction by fire of Tweed Steel Works plant was a blow to the village and November, but since them with the president's decision to rebuild, it has given winter employment not only to his own men, but extra men by the contractor, Mr. Pat Whalen, also electricians and others.

SPRING ORDERS

Mr. Aiton reports that spring orders are starting to come in and operations will be considerably speed as the equipment in the new building has been installed and is now in full operation.

Robert Hunter, general manager of Hunter Veneers Ltd., states that they are now stronger than ever with exactly double the number on the pay roll compared to the same time last year with 50 men and women working about one and one-quarter shifts. This firm manufactures veneer for furniture companies in the United States. He also states that orders have been dispatched recently to different large firms in the United States as well as to Western Canada furniture plants. A number of large plants are almost back to normal again.

Dear Henry—My father sleeps his life away while our family sits around doing nothing. Our family loves seeing things and our father doesn't. So we are stuck at home.

When we do go out he is very miserable and hardly talks. How can I get my father up and out?—BORED.

Dear Bored—It seems that your father is lacking energy, that's why he can't get up. Something might be wrong; so get your mother to get your father to get a doctor's opinion. —HENRY.

Dear Henry—I'm 12 years old and in Grade 8. I go to bed at 9.30 on school nights and 9.30 on holidays.

I think that I should go to bed later on holidays. What time do you think most other boys go to bed on weekends and what time do you go to bed on weekends?—WONDERING.

Dear Wondering—Don't worry about what time other kids go to bed. The only thing to say that you should be able to go to bed a little later on weekends. On week days you should go to bed as soon as possible, so that you will be sure not to snore in the math class.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—We have a girl of 10 and a boy of 8. When bedtime comes, our boy never fails asleep until he sees his sister in bed. But she has homework and has to stay up longer. The result is our little one never gets enough sleep. What is your advice.—MOTHER WITH A PROBLEM.

Dear Mother—Your girl can do her homework as soon as she comes home from school. She should go to bed at the same time as your little one. It won't hurt her any. When he is asleep let her slip out of the room and read a book.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a problem and want your advice. What should my attitude be towards certain students in my school?

I am 12 years old and short for my age. I'm in junior high school. The older and much bigger boys are always teasing me about my size.

What would your attitude be?—SHORTY.

Dear Shorty—Ignore the "children." It doesn't matter whether you are big or small. What really matters is how you are INSIDE.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—You seem to be so helpful in answering queries, how about that one?

What would you do with an 8-year-old girl who still sucks her thumb. No teasing or coaxing will make her stop.

Do you think giving her more responsibility with a little work at home would help, as she hates to help at home but is very clever at school?—MR. B.

Dear Mr. B.—Sucking her thumb is a sure way to get attention with a parent like you. I say the worse but your girl must have got lots of attention with your coaxing. Don't coax, don't pay any attention to her.—HENRY.

Wants Survival Units To Train In Kootenays

B.C. Attorney-General Asks Aid With 'Douks'

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner has indicated troops may be moved into southeastern British Columbia to put a psychological damper on terrorist activities which have plagued the area for 30 years.

On a surprise visit here, Mr. Bonner said on Sunday soldiers on peacetime forces could carry out their national survival training in the area. He was interviewed after he met RCMP officials, union leaders and government officials and said he has a key plan to control terrorism in the Kootenays.

Mr. Bonner declined further comment on the plan. He said he would give it to British Columbia legislature today to place it before the federal government for study of the national survival co-operation.

Past acts of terrorism have been blamed on fanatical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, who have been dynamiting power and rail shack town of nearby Krestova.

A delegation from the Freedom League, which has issued what it says is a document to Deputy RCMP Commissioner F. J. Spalding, here Sunday. A Freedomite source said it names terrorists.

FELL BY HANDS

A bombing last week felled a 366-foot power pylon on Kootenay Lake, creating severe power shortages, and pulling train cars out of work. Provincial government has offered a reward of $10,000 a head for information leading to the conviction of those responsible.

Eight Arrested In Sweeping Blow at Bingo

TORONTO (CP) — Morality officers from Hamilton and Toronto, fanning out in raids to five other centres, have arrested eight men in the most sweeping blow against illegal bingo in the history of Ontario.

The eight, arrested Friday, appeared in court Saturday and were remanded for hearing until March 15 with bail set at $1,000 each or $2,000 property.

Said Insp. Herbert Thurston, who directed the six-month investigation which culminated in the arrests:

Seven men were arrested on warrants:

James Laidlaw, 48, and Norman Gilmour, 38, both of Hamilton; Ernest White, 42, Whitby; Thomas Doig, Toronto; William Laidlaw, Galt; Harry Gordon Law, 56, London, and William Hall, 63, North Credit.

James Culley, 48, of London, surrendered to police.

The inspector said all the arrested men operate or own halls where bingo games were held.

He said his raiders were aided by the local forces in the centres where the men were arrested. The provincial police also co-operated through its anti-gambling branch.

The men are charged with conspiracy — the charge reads that they "conspired to operate common gaming houses in the province of Ontario and the Metropolitan Toronto area during the years 1960, 1960, 1961 and 1962."

Conscripts Will Seize Officers If They Mutiny

ALGIERS (Reuters)—French Army conscripts among the French troops in Algeria have made plans to arrest any officer who tries to lead them into mutiny after a France - Algerian cease-fire is announced.

Dozens of the conscripts have disclosed that the group behind the plan—the Organization Secrete destine du Contingent—has cells in every army unit in Algeria.

"In every company the boys know whether or not their officers are support," said one member. "If the officers try to lead them in mutiny against the orders of the French authorities the troops are ready to arrest them.

"In each unit, two or three conscripts, usually non-commissioned officers, have been appointed by the men to take over from mutinous officers."

Another soldier said:

"Although our organization is secret there is nothing subversive about it.

"General de Gaulle made it perfectly clear in a speech during the putsch April that the war was the servicemen's duty to refuse to obey orders of a mutinous officer."

Conscripts form 60 per cent of the 400,000 servicemen in Algeria. It was largely their continued loyalty that brought about the early collapse of last April's Generals' Putsch in Algiers.

MAJOR PROGRAM OF COMMITTEE WORK PLANNED

Govt. May Repeal Closure Rule

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1962 session of Parliament, whose sprint down to the wire of a general election has become a leisurely stroll, is expected to get its stage this week for the second major phase of its work.

Having got its legislative program well on the way through the House and Senate, the government is preparing to launch a major program of committee work which will keep members busy with meetings, with meetings meetings while the Commons sits afternoons and three evenings a week.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's motion to vary a special rule, committee fees on the Commons order paper today. Although the government leader in the House to have the public accounts committee study the government's 1960-61 accounts, and the report of the Canada Council.

The annual reports of Canadian National Railways, and Trans-Canada Air Lines, are expected to be tabled this week by Transport Minister Balcer. The reports and the capital budgets of the Crown-owned systems for the coming year are expected to be studied by another House committee.

HAS TWO PURPOSES

The rules committee spon- sored by Mr. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux have two purposes: To study rule changes which will speed up the work of the Commons, and to consider a recommendation that the House that it repeal its closure rule.

Closure is a device by which contracted debates can be brought to a quick end, and was used by the former Liberal government in the celebrated pipeline debate in 1956. It has been rarely used in the Canadian Parliament.

Liberal party sources say the opposition plans to ask for speedy removing closure from the Canadian rule book.

But abolition of the closure rule would be a far cry from the way the government of the day forced its legislation through the House of Commons in British more than 400 years ago. According to one history book, Queen Elizabeth I called on before- him in 1536 when his measure was before the monasteries was being opposed.

"Ho, man," Henry is reported to have said to him, "Will they not let my bill to pass? Get my bill passed by tomorrow, or else tomorrow fifty of your heads shall be off."

The bill was passed in time.

Booked were 10 concert and two opera appearances, including one at the Metropolitan Opera Company's Tosca March 19.

Nearly Two of Three Cancer Cases Curable Says Surgeon

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Nearly two of every three persons who have cancer could be cured if everything science knows was applied to them.

As it is, only one in three is saved, said Dr. Willis R. Hefley, the head of the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City.

"Disease do not bluff it is con, tradictory to insist that two of every three cancer patients should be cured today, but admit that they won't be, because of inadequate knowledge.

One factor is medical manpower. There is a monumental job" of getting public co-operation, but such a program.

A third obstacle is the problem of getting the patient to the best treatment—or getting the treatment to the patient.

He said it is most important to detect every case of cancer at the earliest possible moment and then to treat it with the best of skill and promptness.

By checking cure rates—that is, the number of people who survive at least five years, after everything science can do—cancer of cancer—Dr. Heller estimates what potential cure rates would be.

Stomach cancer: One New Yorker dies every hour. With early and advanced cases, has a cure rate of 37 per cent. With earlier detection, 25 per cent of the patients can be cured, Heller says. That is a realistic estimate.

Lung cancer: National Cancer Institute figures in the U.S. show one lung cancer patient in four survives five years. Dr. Heller says is could be one in three.

Breast cancer: The survival rate is increasing every year because of more frequent up to 83 per cent, Dr. Heller estimates the potential is to save four of every five women stricken, on the basis of present knowledge.

Uterine cancer: Early cancer of the uterus or womb is detectable at an early stage, Dr. Heller believes 100 per cent of the cases can be cured.

Prostate cancer: This, too, should be 95 to 100 per cent curable,

SCENE WHERE FOUR DIED WHEN AIR FORCE PLANE HIT HOUSE — An Air Force C-119 Flying Boxcar slammed into the home of Lubet Levron Saturday night near New Orleans, killing the construction worker, his wife and two sons. A 7-year-old daughter is in a hospital with a probable skull fracture. All six crewmen of the plane parachuted to safety. The plane plowed into an open field opposite Levron's house, jumped a 15-foot bayou, sheared a utility pole off at its base, jumped the highway and ripped into Levron's home, 22 miles southeast of New Orleans. Salt for Sugar in Feeding Formulas Kills Six Babies

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)— Two state agencies and local officials are investigating the deaths of six babies since Friday at a city-owned hospital. Four other infants are in critical condition.

Binghamton General Hospital, in revealing the deaths, said it is possible they were due to the substitution of salt for sugar in feeding formulas.

A practical nurse who made herself a cup of coffee in the formula room discovered salt in the sugar container, the hospital reported.

Pediatricians said an overdose of salt could upset the balance in the body and cause heart failure in a baby.

The licenced practical nurse who refilled the sugar container for the formula room last Tuesday, Mrs. Lillie Colvin, 47, was suspended and questioned by District-Attorney Stephen Swyk.

The babies died ranged from age from four days to eight weeks.

The four infants in critical condition were under the care of a team of specialists. The hospital said six others who had been fed a salt-saturated formula were under close observation.

The hospital said a preliminary post mortem examination of two of the infants indicated a high sodium content in their bodies.

Dr. Vincent Maddi, a coroner, ordered autopsies performed on the bodies of six babies. Two are from the state department of social welfare and health, also to investigate operations at a press conference.

Dr. Said the formula room sugar container was refilled from a container in the hospital's main kitchen. The large salt and sugar cans are next to each other in the kitchen but each is labelled, he said.

ADMITS KILLING HIS PARENTS, TWO BROTHERS

Under Treatment For Two Years

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—A 17-year-old, high school boy, under psychiatric treatment for two years, has admitted that he killed his entire family—his parents and two brothers—before he felt they would be better off dead.

The rifle slayings occurred in the small central New Hampshire community of Newbury, a town of 5,500 population about 50 miles northwest of Concord.

The boy, considered bright, was in the last year of high school.

The slightly-built youth was to be arraigned in juvenile court today. Mental observation was expected to be ordered.

The shooting victims were Francis L. McGrath, 37; his wife, Wilma, 40; and their daughter, Peter, 9, and Charles, 5.

Now Hampshire law forbids publication of the name of a juvenile involved in crime. Juvenile hearings are secret and the disposition may not be published.

Police noted the bodies, in spectacled youth was saying in explanation of the shooting Saturday night: "I was thinking about that, suffering. They always have troubles."

Police said the youth told them he first thought of killing his parents last Friday. Police said he told this story:

SAYS PARENTS ANGRY

He arrived home from his supermarket job Saturday night and found his parents angry at each other. The parents went out shortly afterward.

When they had gone, the boy said he got a rifle and shot Pete, in a hallway. Then he went into the observation room where Charles in his bed.

When Mr. and Mrs. McGrath arrived home a half hour later, the mother was shot through the head as she entered from the car. The father tried to escape, but was slain through a car window stopped him. The boy said his father got out of the car and started to run. Another shot felled him.

Police said the youth told state hospital at Concord and asked to see a doctor. Arnold Paradis, the hospital said, did see, noticed the boy's bloodspattered clothing, put bandcuffs on him and took him to police headquarters.

The McGrath home, near the end of a dead-end street, is a mile and a mile from the nearest house.

Nikita Believes Russia Can Produce Both Guns, Butter

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Nikita Khrushchev now believes Russia can produce both guns and butter following a meeting last week of the Communist party's central committee and Kremlin sources, observers said here Sunday.

The Soviet premier is apparently relying on a combination of youthful enthusiasm, strictly party control and a more intensive use of existing resources to double or triple food production in the next 10 years.

In a wind-up speech Friday, at the close of the meeting, Khrushchev said there was no crisis in agriculture and made plain that increased agriculture production would have to be made without detriment to the present huge allocations for defence and heavy industry.

Western experts here believe the Soviet agricultural problem is more than big new investments would be needed to make it more productive.

Khrushchev now is saying farms must increase food supplies from existing equipment though he appears to acknowledge that substantial improvements are needed.

The Soviet press has reiterated Soviet denials of a farm crisis and Khrushchev's own words in the Friday speech were:

"Let the capitalists yell about a crisis."

Kenya Conference Drags On, Major Issues Unresolved

LONDON (Reuters) — The marathon Kenya constitutional conference is dragging towards its fifth week with many of the major issues still unresolved because of the deep mistrust existing between the two rival Negro parties.

The conference, attended by 85 delegates and advisers, had been called to draft a new home-rule constitution for the British colony and its 6,264,000 Negroes, 174,000 Asians, 60,000 Arabs, Europeans and 30,000 others.

But little has been achieved in the way of constitution-making. Kenya's coastal strip protectorate, will soon have to force the pace and enforce decisions of his own.

A new conference—on constitutional matters—began here Wednesday and Maudling faces the prospect of handling three conferences simultaneously.

The main stumbling block has been a clash between the ruling Kenya African Democratic Union (KADU) and the bigger African National United (KANU) over the future form of government for the colony.

KADU, which draws its support from many of Kenya's smaller tribes, wants a federal system of six regional governments while KANU would be dominated by a central government.

KANU, backed by the powerful Kikuyu and Kamba tribes, wants a strong unitary state with considerable power to local government system based on the existing 30 local authorities.

When no headway was made in the conference several committees were set up to thrash out some compromise solution. But they failed to tackle the problem of the 100,000 Somalis in the Northern Frontier who are demanding the right to secede and link up with the Somali Republic in Mogadishu. This issue is expected to be resolved by the conference.

Meanwhile the parallel conference on the coastal strip, a self-governing, 300-mile-long territory with protectorate status which is under the nominal sovereignty of the Sultan of Zanzibar, got under way last Thursday.

Arab and Swahili organizations in the strip do not want it to come under the control of an independent Negro government in Kenya. At present it is administered by British officials.

Sir James Robertson, former governor-general of Nigeria, studied the coastal problem and recommended that the strip should form an integral part of Kenya.

Home Bows Out Leaving Rusk To Meet Gromyko

Berlin Air Corridors Harassments Protested

GENEVA (AP)—The Earl of Home, Britain's foreign secretary, bowed out of the conference stage today leaving U.S. State Secretary Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to sound out conflicting positions on Berlin, nuclear testing and disarmament.

An informed source said Lord Home has stepped aside for the time being to let Rusk make the initial moves in the Western conversation with the Russians.

This is a logical development, the informant said, since Britain and the United States are speaking for common cause.

At a dinner with Rusk and Home Sunday night, Gromyko denied knowledge of Soviet assaments of air traffic in the air corridors between West Berlin and West Germany.

VIEW SERIOUSLY

Those incidents, serious, including the seeding of the air lanes with metal chaff, are viewed in the West as serious threats to the British delegations.

Rusk and Home delivered personal warnings Sunday night on this question. The U.S. state secretary expected to get a return to the subject over the luncheon table.

Rusk also told Gromyko that the United States and British air forces between West Berlin on a nuclear test ban treaty have been successful en forcement procedures.

If no such agreement has been worked out by the middle of April, Rusk said, the United States will go ahead with its planned series of atmospheric tests in the central Pacific.

A U.S. official said Gromyko's response followed the usual Russian line. The Soviet foreign minister was reported to have said the Western proposals for inspection are merely cover for spying purposes and that the Kremlin never would consider control arrangements which would introduce an espionage system on Soviet territory.

Rusk did not say what specific Berlin incidents he planned to raise.

It was understood three matters were covered by him and Home, Monday night: "I was thinking about that, suffering. They always have troubles."

Police said the youth told them he first thought of killing his parents last Friday. Police said he told this story:

SAYS PARENTS ANGRY

He arrived home from his supermarket job Saturday night and found his parents angry at each other. The parents went out shortly afterward.

When they had gone, the boy said he got a rifle and shot Pete, in a hallway. Then he went into the observation room where Charles in his bed.

BERLIN (Reuters) — British and Soviet authorities here are carrying out separate investigations into the shooting of a British soldier by East German police Saturday night.

Cpl. Douglas Dey, a driver for the British military mission in East Germany, was seriously wounded in the stomach when East German police pumped 30 rounds of Russian rifle military car about half a mile from the West Berlin border near Potsdam.

An officer riding in the car, Capt. Nicholas Bromley, 40, escaped unhurt, but Day is in serious condition in a Potsdam hospital following an operation by East German surgeons to remove a bullet from his stomach.

EXPRESSES REGRET

A British spokesman said "a Soviet liaison officer had expressed his regret to the British mission over the incident and said it would be investigated."

The spokesman said the khaki-colored car was fired on "without cause at all." He said a claim by the East German authorities that the car ignored a Soviet sentry's stop warning shots before police opened fire was false.

The shooting climaxed a day in which Russian planes repeatedly flew dangerously close over East Germany in an supposed attempt to foil Soviet radar control over the air corridors linking West Berlin with West Germany.

Sources said the strips, known as "chaff," could show up as blips on radar screens, confusing flight controllers. West Berlin's Tempelhof airport is the final strips lying on the ground.

Gromyko's statement was contained in a letter to British Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations and issued by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Recalling Soviet appeals to the U.S., Britain, France and other countries to sign a solemn and binding agreement, Gromyko announces the use of nuclear weapons and other weapons of mass destruction by any state.

"The Soviet government considers it necessary to declare that the United Nations now has pronounced in favor of such an agreement."

Negro Women Copy Douks' Tricks, Shed Clothes to Fight Welensky

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (CP-Reuters) — A dozen Negro women launched today a form of protest familiar to British Columbia—nudity.

The women marched into the headquarters of a campaign started by supporters of Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky and promptly removed their clothes.

The campaign is aimed at persuading all races in the Central African Federation to regard themselves as Rhodesians in line with Welensky's efforts to keep together the white-dominated federation.

Negro nations wanted the federation to call it Rhodesia and Nyasaland split up.

While removing their clothes the women chanted slogans of the Northern Rhodesian Congress Party, a campaign's office man after said, "because of gross indecency I had to call the police."

The women were dressing when the police arrived, but soon of them promptly removed their clothes again when they were bundled into a police truck. They face charges of trespassing.

Women members of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect in British Columbia for years have used nudity as a form of protest against forced adherence to Canadian laws.

Fire Quelled In Quinte Hotel Room Sunday

The city fire department was called to the Quinte Hotel on Pinnacle Street shortly after 10 a.m. Sunday morning, when fire was discovered in a third storey room of the hotel.

There had been no one occupying the room for about three days and when a chamber maid cleaned the room about 30 minutes prior to the discovery, said she saw no sign of fire.

There was a small amount of damage to the room, one wall was said to have been burned and a bed which was near the window was scorched.

Fire Chief Vance said this morning, had fireman not received the alarm when they did, it could have been a disastrous fire.

Serious Crime at Minimum During Year Says Chief

TRENTON — Trenton's police force is "lucky" to be in a position of the year, but he added that with an increased effort on the part of members of the department, co-operating with the Ontario Provincial Police, three men were arrested, convicted and sentenced to terms in Kingston penitentiary.

The report was received.

In his report, Chief Taylor expressed his concern regarding the increasing number of juveniles being involved in minor infractions of the law. He said that 46 juveniles had appeared in family court on such charges as "breaking, entering and theft," "willful damage", "common assault" and "mischief", and that 20 of the 46 had been apprehended for shoplifting.

Chief Taylor urged parents to take corrective measures at the earliest suspicion that their children might be committing this offence. He said shoplifting quite often resulted in the youthful offenders graduating to a more serious type of crime. He said that children should not be permitted to roam the stores, through the store without having a definite purchase in mind.

Another cause of concern" said the chief in his report, "is the presence of minors (under 21) to commit offences against the liquor control act, more particularly those who do not realize that it is dangerous to use liquor early in life, since too many become addicted and the end result is alcoholism".

FIVE PERSONS KILLED

Chief Taylor said in his report that five people were killed in auto accidents in 1961. Three of these were pedestrians and two children at play. He said that he hoped this figure would be reduced during the coming year.

Fifty two persons were injured in traffic accidents during the year. This is a drop from 1961 injuries, which totalled 96.

Accidents to property damage was assessed at over $100, numbered 145, while those where damage was under $100, numbered 245.

In 1961, 1,853 cases were presented at court. In 1960, there were 1331 cases.

Cases classified as being under the Criminal Code, included and such items as "disorderly conduct," (50); "drunk driving" (15); "false pretenses, (17); and "theft" (33); and numbered 211.

Under the Highway Traffic Act, 615 persons were apprehended for speeding; 44 motorists were fined wrong way on a one-way street; 38 were charged with driving without a permit and; drivers were fined up for riding "two on a bicycle." Highway Traffic Act infractions totalled 1024 as compared with 1960 figures of 544.

Under the Liquor Control Act, 216 cases were handled, including 43 where the personal consuming liquor were under the age of 21.

Charged with the breach of various acts or by-laws were 390 persons. Nine persons were charged with having Game and Fishery regulations; six were charged under the Income Tax Act; three with firing off a rifle within town limits; eight with discharging firecrackers.

1,853 CASES IN YEAR

In a five-year survey of cases before the court, 1961, while not being the best, was far ahead of 1957, when 3,707 cases were handled.

In 1961, 395 transients were accommodated for the night in the police cells, as compared with 417 in 1960.

In 1961, 19 safes were stolen in Trenton. Twelve of these were recovered. Other property stolen was valued at $25,107.01 and of this, $7,556.29 was recovered and returned to its owners.

Shops where breaking and entry occured numbered 21; dwellings, 27. Patrolling constables found 617 doors and windows of business places not locked securely and the owners were notified.

Actual expenditures by the police department during 1961 were $314,252.36 of which $91,-724.88 went for staff salaries. Credit balance on the year, over the budget appropriation for 1961 was $372.52.

Members of the police department are: Chief P. J. Taylor; Inspector Jack Rutherford; Staff Sergeant Walter Youmans; Sgt. Gordon Steenburg and Sgt. Bradshaw; P/Sgt. Bruce Westfall and Constables R. A. King, R. E. Miller, J. A. Graham, D. E. Camp, G. J. French, H. C. Chatson, R. J. Vanderlee, A. Nokes, G. Davis, C. B. Schwager, M. Houlden and H. Kastner.

Mrs. Rosamond Smith is the clerk-stenographer; Mrs. Nellis Bain the Justice of the Peace and Mrs. Margaret E. Kenny the court reporter.

Constable Harry officer, Sgt. Gordon Steenburg, issued a warning to Trenton parents yesterday following an accident on the river Saturday night.

Police said Mrs. Ethel seven-year-old Bradley Dunning, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Dunning, 80 Meidih Street, Trenton, was pulled to safety by his 12-year-old brother Brian and a playmate, Gary Sharpe, of Murphy Ave. after he had slid down the east bank of the river and the CNR footbridge ground 6.30 Saturday night.

All three boys were soaked through and were taken home in a police cruiser called to the scene.

Sgt. Steenburg said that the young lad had had a narrow escape and he warned parents to tell their children to play only on the ice in the river. He said that if they went much more they had done a great deal to soften up the ice under the surface and that no part of the river was safe.

6 Persons Hurt As Cars Coll'd Three Severely

TRENTON — A two-car head on crash in Trenton on Saturday night, sent six people to the hospital and resulted in a charge being laid by vehicles involved or more than $1,000.

Admitted to the hospital were Dennis Atkins, 18, Trenton; Wesley Woolsey, R. R. 4, Trenton, her son, Paul, 7, and seven; Robert Church 36 and Georgia Church 35 both of Carrying Place.

Treated in the emergency ward at the hospital and released to go home Saturday night were Mrs. Woolsey, Paul, both of 77 Store St., Trenton and Nettie Ostrom of Quinte St., Trenton.

Mrs. Woolsey, who sustained injuries to her face, received stitches to her chin and facial lacerations, reported in satisfactory condition Sunday.

Paul Woolsey, who sustained a bruised forehead, was the first thought to have suffered internal injuries, but was sent home on Sunday.

Robert Church sustained facial lacerations and a dislocated jaw. George Timothy Church also sustained facial lacerations, a fractured left leg and dislocated hip.

Neil Hamilton was treated for lacerations on his chin and cheek and Nettie Ostrom was treated for back injuries.

Police say that the car being driven by Mrs. Woolsey was proceeding on Dundas Street West, when it was struck from the rear by the west bound car, driven by Neil Hamilton, at the intersection of Dundas Street with Cedarhurst Street. Hamilton is reported to have turned out to pass another east-bound vehicle and collided with Mrs. Woolsey's car, driving it backwards for some 8 yards, before coming to a hydro pole. With the exception of Paul Woolsey, all the injured persons were admitted to the Hamilton car.

The Woolsey car was damaged to the extent of $1,000 and the Hamilton car to the extent of $400. Both cars were considered "write-offs".

Drives Away With Two Cars After Mishap

TRENTON—Ronald Taft and Douglas Ferrier of Brighton appeared before Police Magistrate Brighton early Saturday morning that their car was missing. They said they could not figure out the general direction in which it was but or girl friend were ignorant of its ultimate destination.

According to the two confused motorists, they had been proceeding on Highway 2 just west of the overhead bridge near Smithfield, behind a car whose driver was acting in a very erratic manner. Mr. Taft, who was driving, observed extreme caution, and did all attempt to pass the car. However, when the car ahead came to a sudden and unexplained stop, Mr. Taft could not avoid striking the vehicle. The traffic was heavy, and wishing to avoid any further accidents, Mr. Taft and Mr. Ferrier got out from their vehicle and started waving traffic around the two stopped cars. Suddenly, they realized that they were directing traffic alright, but the cause of their efforts had disappeared from the scene. In the distance, they could see their car receding.

Alerted police followed the trail of the phantom driver by the wheel of Mr. Taft's car and eventually found the car, parked behind another car in a lane way, two and half miles down the road. It was quickly established that the Taft car had been hooked up to a boat trailer hitch on the back of the vehicle. It had struck. Driver of the Taft car, Ronald Taft, of the fact that he had taken out with the Taft car, was leaving coffee in his home when police arrived.

Police, Ken Taft, Mr. Ferrier and the "owner" all scratched their heads in bewilderment. However, the driver of the "hit-and-run" car has been charged under the criminal code.

Recover Car Stolen Jan. 2 At Toronto

TRENTON — A 1961 Pontiac car, stolen in Toronto last January 2nd was recovered in Trenton over the weekend by police. Reported the owner, Frederick Teasdale, of Cherry Ave., Toronto.

According to the police report, the car was first noticed by a member of the Trenton police department, on routine patrol. It was speeding west on Dundas East, at around 3.40 a.m., Saturday morning.

Police constable Gary Davis followed the car, which at times hit speeds close to 80 miles an hour, to the Hill Top service station, across town on Dundas St. W. The car turned into the service station lot and when the police officer arrived, a man, who gave his name as Arnold Bruce Thomson, 24, of RR 1, Frankford, was standing in front of the car, in the passenger side. The driver, Neil Lavern Smith, 19, of 9 Stanley St., in Belleville.

Thompson was unable to supply either a driver's licence or car registration slip.

Insurance cards, bearing the name of Frederick Teasdale, were found in the vehicle. Provincial police at Belleville verified the fact that the car had been stolen in Toronto on Jan. 2.

An escort from the metropolitan police department in Toronto was sent to take Thomson back to that city and Smith was allowed to proceed home after questioning.

Erie Fishing Boats Blocked By Heavy Ice

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP) Fishermen of this Lake Erie port said today they can't go out in the wind after an unsuccessful attempt Saturday to dynamite a 1,000 - metre channel in the ice.

Seven tugs have been locked in the harbor since Wednesday, clogging the harbor with ice, and the fleet is about 10 days late getting out into open water to start the season.

Dynamite was used Saturday in an attempt to clear a channel for one tug, but the stiff wind blew the harbor mouth shut.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) Lake Ontario smelt fishermen, anxiously awaiting the annual run, fear it may be delayed because of ice in the streams and on the lakeshore.

Heavy ice formations are in evidence at Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Pickering, operating bases for what are regarded as one of the best smelt grounds on the continent.

Carries Fiancee To Freedom In a Truck

BERRA, West Germany (AP)—The story of a young West German who carried his East German fiancee to freedom in a truck was told by West German police at this border town Sunday.

In Leipzig, they bought a trunk big enough to hold the petite 18-year old girl. The trunk was pierced so she would not suffocate.

They boarded a west-bound train and when it came to Eisenach, about 10 miles from the border, the girl slipped into the trunk. At the East German border checkpoint of Wartha where the train stopped, he put the trunk on the tracks, camouflaging it with snow. Then he went through the controls with a second piece of luggage.

Then he returned to his compartment and walked until the train started. At this moment, he dashed down to seize the trunk containing the girl. The handle broke off but he managed to lift the trunk up to the moving train.

The girl was hidden in a lavatory until the train finally crossed into West Germany about 10 minutes later.

Police withheld their names to protect relatives of the girl still in East Germany.

Five Arrested For Damage To Phone Boxes

Five Ottawa youths, ranging in age from 17 to 21, are being held in the county jail at Cobourg by Bowmanville Ontario Provincial Police, on charges of property damage.

The boys were picked up by provincial police at Bowmanville when it was learned they were ripping off coin boxes from pay telephones along their route. It is not known where the boys were headed.

Their names were given as Thomas Fetourney, 17; Ronald Rivet, 18, Edward Pita 20; Wayne Crepin, 20, and Thomas Arnold, 21.

Police at Bowmanville said it is not known how many boxes were broken open or how much money the boys received, but that it was a considerable amount.

One was reported stolen from the corner of North Front Street and College Street in Belleville and three from Trenton.

Will Increase Visibility At Intersection

Motorists travelling lower Colemont Street on their way to Prince Edward county will have visibility increased and the corner at the Water Street intersection eased on completion of work to be done this year by the city department of public works.

Last year city council entered into an agreement with International Hardware under which the city acquires part of the corner lot on which an old stone house is currently situated, the purpose being to reduce the turn onto Water Street.

Public works employees are now razing the old stone house following which a triangular section of the lot will be utilized to widen the street corner at this point.

City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull said the street widening project was scheduled for completion this year.

Ottawa Likely Chess Champs; Last Match Here

Kingston dominated Belleville by a 4 1-2 — 2 1-2 score in a South Eastern Ontario Chess League match played here yesterday. Ottawa clinched the title by a wide margin virtually assured. Ottawa and Kingston gave another last-minute kick and dumped six or more inches of soft slushy snow over the area.

The only encouraging aspect of the abrupt reversion to winter was that the weatherman promised the snow would turn to rain or showers sometime around noon.

But at ten-thirty this morning Spring seemed still to be a long way off with heavy snow reducing visibility to a little more than a block. Driving was treacherous and snowboots were again the order of the day.

Up until Sunday evening, however, Spring did appear to be on the way. Highways were bare and bare patches were beginning to appear on the fields in open fields and on the south side of slopes.

Warm days and cool nights slowed the run-off of melting snow with little evidence of increased flow in rivers or creeks.

Those in the know referred to today's snowfall as being "sugar snow" and promised the sap would soon be running.

And possibly they are right for Spring is officially only a little more than a week away.

Six Inches of 'Sugar Snow' Dumped on Quinte District

Just when Bay of Quinte district residents were congratulating themselves on how the winter's mantle of snow was disappearing without resulting flood waters, Old Man Winter today gave another last-minute kick and dumped six or more inches of soft slushy snow over the area.

Inch of Ice Removed From Arena Cushion

Following its arrival in the city last week the new ice planing machine at the Belleville Memorial Arena was put directly to use over the weekend when about an inch of ice was removed from the hockey cushion.

The inch of ice, (about 14 tons altogether), was removed in two cuts of one-half inch each. Then the ice surface was scraped, the planed ice piled in heaps and removed to the dump with city public works owned trucks and a mechanical loader.

The operation took from 10 o'clock Sunday night until about five o'clock this morning.

Purpose of the ice planing machine is to reduce the thickness of ice on the hockey cushion, thus making for more economical operation of the ice-making machinery.

City council about a month ago approved the purchase of the ice planing machine at a cost of about $1,400.

The feeling of the arena committee is that the machine will pay for itself through savings in the operation of the ice-making machinery and in rentals to other arenas.

A Difficult Problem

The Ontario Government has introduced into the Legislature a bill which would remove the requirement that one of the three members of a police commission be a judge or a magistrate. (In many cities the three-man commission consists of a judge and a magistrate and the mayor.)

Elmer Sopha said he was anxious that magistrates be removed from commissions because their service made conflict inevitable. "He said a man was expected to judge an officer's testimony in court and act as his employer at the same time." The same is true, though on a more limited scale, of county judges who sit on police commissions.

Since Mr. Sopha is the Liberal member for Sudbury, and since the bill has been introduced by a Progressive Conservative regime, one might conclude that there was little question about the proposed change being desirable.

Further reflection may cast considerable doubt on this conclusion. What Mr. Sopha says is true—and many newspaper reporters who have regularly attended police court for several years can remember instances where there appeared to be clashes of temperament between the magistrate and some specific constable. Defence lawyers quickly detect this and frequently give the poor constable a hard time on the witness stand. But this is only part of the story. If magistrates and judges are not members of police commissions, who are to fill the vacancies?

One might be pardoned for supposing that an efficient police commission ought to include at least one man with a professional knowledge of the law. But most lawyers have some time or other, find themselves on the other side of the fence from the police. Would it be fair to have a potential defence lawyer a member of the police commission? And alternative might be for the crown attorney to be a member. But in such a case, is there not a danger of tipping the scales too far the other way? A magistrate or a judge appears preferable to either of these alternatives.

As for what happens when police administration is left solely in the hands of laymen, one has only to recall the frequent quarrels when no police commission exists but police work is under the supervision of a committee of the town council. In most of these disputes, it is true, the often shamefully low wages paid by small towns and villages to their police officers are generally at the root of the trouble. There are, however, cases where undue pressure is brought on the police to overlook certain infractions — as St. Mary's recently it was charged that the police were losing too many parking tickets.

The average policeman, we suspect, would prefer to have a judge or a magistrate to a layman as a commission member. Though Mr. Sopha's problem of such an arrangement is valid, the policeman can generally depend on the protection of his chief of police — and if this fails there is usually a policeman's association which can give him assistance.

The Legislature, before approving of the change in existing legislation, might ponder at considerable length the question of what acceptable substitutes for magistrate or judge would be found. It is true that the proposed legislation is permissive rather than compulsive — it does not say that a magistrate or a judge cannot be a member of a police commission but rather that none of the members need be either a judge or a magistrate. In practice, though, there would be inevitably arise pressure, from men of Mr. Sopha's convictions, for the removal of all judges and magistrates from police commissions.

Duplicity Strikes?

The other day the members of the town council of St. Marys fired their police chief. The reasons given for his dismissal were most interesting. One councillor thought that the police chief did not get out "on the beat" enough and was therefore not as useful as he could be.

Another councillor argued that the former chief was too busy when he got out on the beat and that too many parking tickets were being issued.

All of which proves that there are two sides to every blade. In this instance, however, a remarkable feat was achieved in that the police chief got out with both sides.

Man consists of body, mind and imagination. His body is faulty, his mind untrustworthy, but his imagination has made him remarkable. In some centuries, his imagination has made life on this planet an intense practice of all the lovelier energies.—John Masefield.

Letter To The Editor

Snow Clearing Work Comes Under Fire

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

It was both amusement and disgust that I felt upon reading recently a broad statement stating that snow removal costs were below that of last year. It is very easy to understand why. Most of the snow was left on the streets.

I have been a resident of this fair city for ten years and can't recall a winter when the streets have been left in such a deplorable condition.

The side streets are narrow, rutted lanes, their lead-ons not even cleared sufficiently to permit the entrance and exit of two cars at the same time. Queen street has been a disgrace for a city this size. It is an endurance test for both car and driver alike.

The City Works Dept. instead of feeling proud of its saving should be more than a little embarrassed.

Iris Allan.

Maple sap, sugar and syrup played an important role in the life of the early pioneers who did not have cane sugar, which for ages has almost absorbed the entire attention because of its availability and its comparatively low price. War's stringency on cane sugar purchases will prove a boon for the syrup and sugar producers of the maple groves. Canada's sweet tooth has been sweetened to the amount of over four million dollars a year 25 million litres have been tapped annually out of the 70 million which make up the total of maple groves in the Dominion.

Miss J. Calvert and Mrs. Reta Brown, Saskatchewan, who are at the C.W.A.C. Training Centre in Kingston, have returned to duties after spending the week-end with the parents of the former, Mr. and Mrs. J. Calvert of Albert Street.

A cablegram was received yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Woodley from their son AC1 Arthur (Bud) Woodley, announcing his safe arrival in England.

More than 200 cripples children in Belleville have been given treatment by medical specialists through the efforts of the Belleville Rotary Club. Numerous cures have been made and some cases are under treatment right now in Toronto.

Traffic difficulties in the city and country caused by the recent heavy fall of snow are being overcome gradually. The roads are badly rutted and great care in driving is required.

Since the heavy snow severed the coal trestles no more rail route orders for coal than they have received for weeks. The winter has been a mild one and considerable wood has been used in the place of coal. Now it is a little anxious but not much alarmed.

Plane Faster Than a Shell

Ottawa Journal

After Col. Glenn's performance, it takes quite some doing to get a thrill. Yet there is one person anyone. But consider that U.S.S. Air Force B-58 bomber which made non-stop from Los Angeles to New York and back in 4 hours, 42 minutes and 32 seconds.

If we can pass quickly over that achievement, there we have been too satiated with wonders. Consider, however, the plane's pilot, put the thing in terms which should impress even a jaded reporter, he added:

"If a cannonball — an artillery shell — had been fired at the same time we left here (Los Angeles), we would have time to land in New York and then lunch before it got there."

How slow artillery shells are, travelling their terrific pace, think that a few years ago we were impressed by the speed of sound, that laggard.

A few years ago it was being said that supersonic planes would soon be obsolete and the ICBM would take over. There doesn't seem much obsolete about the B-58. We are glad we have them on our side.

Penguin Toes Held Off Ice

Financial Post

How do penguins keep their feet warm? They stand around all day, to the great interest of Antarctic movies know, on ice-cold blocks of solid ice. What prevents their lower extremities from freezing into icicles? This problem is probably not one that has worried many bird-watchers and animal-lovers, inside or outside, the Hudson Society. But Rowland H. Taylor, a long-time Arctic zoologist, has taken the trouble to investigate the question of temperature in penguinian feet.

Alas, his finds are not very helpful. Penguins, it seems, keep their feet warm by rocking on their heels. They are fond of this posture that even in the comparatively warm Edinburgh zoo, Mr. Taylor says, they sleep with their toes in the air.

This settles nothing. It only raises the question: How do penguins keep their heels warm? Clearly the problem of cold feet finds no answer in Antarctica. It is strictly a matter of morale or internal combustion.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE THRILL OF CERTAINTY

How marvelous is a sense of certainty! As we fumble about in semi-darkness not knowing where we stand on the big issues of life, or what we are to do in the handling of our problems, we find ourselves miserable beyond description. It is only when certainty enters our minds, when we know that we are on the right track and pressing toward the right goal, that we really begin to look up and live.

There is no one rule to be laid down whereby we can gain certainty. There are some things, however, which we must have and which we must do if certainty is to be our portion. First of all, we must be sure that the end which we would pursue are worthwhile. We must be pretty sure that there is a right and wrong side to moral questions and we must resolutely and immovably get over on the right side of those of the Rue. Then we must look into our hearts and see if there is any selfishness or deceit therein.

In other words, certainty usually comes with the exhilarating sense of a clear conscience and a pure heart. A careful comment on our part to do the right thing in every circumstance we confront, come what may. The thrill of certainty appears to be a physical thrill. As a matter of fact, it is a spiritual thrill. It arises out of our conviction that we are able to handle life because we are honest, straightforward and committed only to good ends.

Strictly Personal

Knowledge Not Always Expressible

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

After devoting a long and profound essay to the subject of "time," St. Augustine was forced to confess: "What, then, body asks me what time is, I know what it is; but if somebody asks me what it is, then I do not know what it is."

Wittgenstein has found this frank and engaging statement is not the subject of "knowledge." How can we "know" something as long as no one asks us, but not know it when someone asks?

With his customary acuteness, St. Augustine has put his finger right to the heart of the problem of "knowledge." He is saying that certain types of knowledge, for their very existence, are inexpressible.

I would go further and suggest that all basic knowledge is inexpressible. A child, for example, a famous chef once declared that the most important part of any food he prepared was not in the recipe, but in his mind.

In the same way, Schnabel or Kreisler is inconceivable if his knowledge was not in the notes he played, or in the reeds he put in the piano. There is no communicable knowledge — he says, that is not also a skill; and not know it when someone asks?

CHARLES RETURNS

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles, 13-year-old heir to the throne, returned to his boarding school Sunday night after two weeks convalescence following an emergency appendectomy last month. The prince had been spending the weekend at Windsor Castle, near London, with the Queen and Princess Anne.

Now, Paddy dear, and did you hear the news: that's going around?

The Irish Republican Army has dumped its arms, defused its bombs and henceforth will confined comment on his plans.

RCMP said they are questioning two suspects in connection with the power lower blast.

Rumors of possible reprisal against Freedomites prompted police to set up roadblocks on highways leading into and out of the East Kootenays during the weekend. There were no incidents.

Mr. Bonner warned that an emergency situation prevails in the area but not one in which civil authority is threatened by a mob. He said he has been assured there are sufficient police on hand to handle things. Mr. Bonner said RCMP forces on the Prairies are on standby alert and can be brought to the Kootenays within four or five hours.

In Vancouver, Federal Justice Minister Davie Fulton said he was "not satisfied" that the security at Kamloops, jail construction will begin immediately on a Fraser Valley prison to house convicted terrorists.

"The atmosphere in the present circumstances is certain tense and difficult," he said. "On the basis of past experience with Doukhobors, it would be undesirable and dangerous to introduce them into existing institutions."

Mr. Bonner said RCMP forces on the Prairies are on standby alert and can be brought to the Kootenays within four or five hours.

In Vancouver, Federal Justice Minister Davie Fulton said he was "not satisfied" that the security at Kamloops, jail construction will begin immediately on a Fraser Valley prison to house convicted terrorists.

"The atmosphere in the present circumstances is certain tense and difficult," he said. "On the basis of past experience with Doukhobors, it would be undesirable and dangerous to introduce them into existing institutions."

Land Owners Cannot Carry Education Alone

-- Wintermeyer

CHATHAM (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader John Winter-meyer said Premier Robarts is using horse and buggy thinking in a jet age. He used the comparison in outlining reasons why he "fundamentally disagrees" with the speech Mr. Robarts made this week urging new municipalities to tighten their belts."

He was speaking Saturday to some 250 delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Conservative Provincial Association.

Mr. Wintermeyer said he agreed the provincial government's financial responsibility but said this could not be done at the expense of the municipal government, particularly in relation to the rising costs of education.

"The responsibility of making available to anyone," anywhere in the province the education he or she must have, regardless of financial circumstances, belongs to the provincial government.

"Rural owners cannot carry it alone, and to assume they can is to revert to the dark ages."

Walter Gordon, former national chairman of the Liberal party election campaign, predicted a federal election will be held in the middle of April. He said this would mean a vote in June or, in the early fall.

He said the Liberals need to win about one-half the Ontario seats in the next federal election.

Paul Martin, Liberal member of Parliament for Essex East, said there "is no doubt the country's government will be kicked out of office in the next election."

Other officers include vice-presidents Fred Kime of London, Bob Clark of Harrow and Charles Tetham of Woodstock; secretary, Mrs. W. B. Whiteside of Windsor; treasurer, Ron Ashley of London.

County vice-presidents: Elgin, Mrs. W. J. Hulse, of St. Thomas; Essex, Henry Renaud of Riverside; Kent, Sid Clunis of Chatham; Lambton, Ray Jones of Sarnia; Middlesex, Joseph Beechie of London; Oxford, Donald Horsack of Embro.

Three Little Indian Girls Play Hookey, Two Frozen

GLEICHEN, Alta. (CP)— Three little Indian girls played hookey on a balmy winter afternoon, and were to visit only their mothers. A day later the frozen bodies of Belinda Raw Eater, 12, and Mabie Crane Bear, 12, were found on the wind-swept prairie.

Geraldine Black River, 11, told the tragic tale Sunday from her Gleichen Hospital bed, where she was in satisfactory condition suffering exposure and frost bite.

She said she and her two companions, Belinda at a school on the Blackfoot reserve 50 miles southeast of Calgary, skipped afternoon classes last Thursday and set out on a mile walk to Gleichen to visit Geraldine's mother.

The temperature was about 30 above and a mild, fine day initially said—one in a short jacket and a print dress.

At 3 p.m. they decided to return to the school just as a storm struck with winds that reached 60 miles an hour.

Police said Geraldine's stepfather, Mark Mayfield, went out into the storm to try and persuade the girls to return home. But they pressed on along a road.

GOT NO ANSWER

They ran into difficulty, Geraldine said, and made for a nearby home. No one answered they knocking.

They attempted to return to the road but were blown before the blizzard across a field.

They drifted with the storm until they came to a frozen slough. The girl struggled to the far side. Geraldine in the middle and Mabie and Belinda snuggled close on either side.

For almost 20 hours they hud-dled together in the sub-freezing temperatures.

About 3 a.m. Friday, Geraldine suddenly realized her two friends had frozen to death.

The girl struggled to her feet and began looking for help. She was spotted by Indians searching the area.

A short distance away, the drifted-over bodies of Mabel and Belinda lay, their arms and legs frozen, were found between them the imprint of Geraldine's body.

A member of the Gleichen RCMP detachment said the sufferer was "a little better clothed" than her friends, but there was no doubt she had died the night because of her position between the other two.

Rhodesia Will Hold Election On April 27

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The Rhodesian federal election, called by Sir Roy Welensky who is being strongly criticized for the move, has been set for April 27.

Most whites appeared bewildered, doubtful or frankly pessimistic about the decision of the prime minister of the Central African Federation to call the election and thus seek a mandate to fight British-proposed constitutional changes which he says will break up his white-dominated federation.

Critics were asking what Welensky hoped to achieve. They wanted to know what he would do once he got his "vote of confidence."

Welensky's call for the election of a new 44-seat federal Parliament was regarded by some as a hollow gesture on the ground it seeks to settle the future of this predominantly Negro region by the votes of a relatively small number of whites.

WHITES OUTNUMBERED

The 8,000,000 Negroes in the federation, which was formed eight years ago, outnumber the Europeans by about 26 to one. But the election will be held on the basis of an electoral roll which gives the whites a 10-to-one voting majority over the Negroes.

The April 27 election date—the earliest one legally possible—was announced in the official government Gazette after Welensky forced the election with his resignation Thursday night and the dissolution of Parliament Friday.

Welensky made his election decision shortly after returning from London where he made a fruitless bid to prevent Britain from giving Northern Rhodesia's Negroes more voting power. This proposal was touched off the present situation.

Reporters Left Meeting Before Announcement Made

QUEBEC (CP)—A project for a steel complex based at nearby Launoe was announced here Saturday but reporters were not invited to a luncheon at which the announcement was made walked out before it was concluded. They felt insufficient details about financing of the proposed industry were given out.

The project was announced by J. A. Leclerc of Montreal, president of a company called Sulpetro Consulting Corporation.

About 60 people including representatives of the town of Launoe were present at the luncheon. As well as reporters, Raymond O'Briuley, federal ministry of defence production, Pierre Sevigny, associate defence minister, and several Progressive Conservative members of Parliament attended. The two cabinet ministers left the luncheon shortly after the reporters, who decided to leave.

The reporters were Marcel Thivierge, Montreal Le Devoir, Robert McKenzie, the Montreal Gazette, Gilles Neron and Jean-L. Dufresne, Quebec Le Nouveau Journal, and Evelyn Gegenheimer, Montreal Star. Later they questioned Mr. Leclerc at a press conference in his hotel room.

After the luncheon, some of the members of the delegation were present said they had attended by invitation, not knowing it was a press affair, and that the steel industry announcement.

J. O. Latour, PC member of Parliament for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes, is listed as president of Sulpetro Converting Corporation. Marcel Chaloult, another PC member for Terrebonne, was luncheon master of ceremonies. Mr. Chaloult said in his remarks that friends had asked him to preside.

News that the announcement of a $300,000,000 steel industry for Launoe was about to be made Saturday was reported two days ago by television stations operated by La Television de Radio-Canada.

Later Premier Lesage of Quebec told newspaper men he had been informed briefly about the project. The Quebec government has plans of its own for a Quebec province steel plant to be financed through a general investment corporation, to which it would be a minority shareholder.

Mr. Leclerc said at the Saturday luncheon that capital available to him at a meeting for the Launoe project was $10,000,000. Later, at the press conference he said the company's development permits covering 600 square miles in the Chibougamau mining area 370 miles northwest of Quebec City.

200 Communist Guerillas Die In Air Strikes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — About 200 Communist guerrillas were killed, mostly in air strikes, during a three-day government offensive in the Mekong River delta, an informant said today.

Vietnamese forces launched an attack by ground and air against Viet Cong rebels encircling a government outpost in the town of Me Lang, Vinh Binh Province.

Ground forces moved in after the air assault and reported that they had captured "mountainous quantities" of rebel arms and equipment, the source said.

In Kien Hoa Province close to the China Sea, five government battalions pressed deeper into a vast inland swamp where a big rebel force was believed hiding.

A rising tide in the area Friday forced government troops to take refuge in the treetops. A Viet Cong group began moving through the area by boat during the night, apparently unaware that government troops were in the trees above them. The troops jumped into the boats, capturing at least 15.

Portraits of Scandinavia To Be Shown at Collegiate

Next Thursday evening the Kiwanis Club will present another travelogue "Adventure Series", at the Collegiate Institute on "Portraits of Scandinavia", land of the Vikings, with Curtis Nagel as narrator.

Mr. Nagel, who needs no introduction to Belleville travelogue lovers in connection with William Moore of New York, have practically photographed the globe, and his "Adventure Colorlogues", have zoomed to pre-eminence on the lecture platforms. Among these lovely color films is Scandinavia in all its interesting facets; Copenhagen with its beautiful blue sea; its centuries' old canals contrasted with modern skyscrapers; the castle of King Christian IV, and the changing of the Guard; the gardens of Trivoli; and the storybook houses of Aarhus.

In Sweden where the great seaport of Gothenburg is a gateway to the pastoral Swedish side beyond, where canal streamers ply through farmlands; forests and lakes; across the peninsula to Stockholm, the "Venice of the North". Then on to Norway where Grieg received his inspiration for the "Hall of the Mountain King", from its everlasting glaciers and beautiful fiords, all of which is accompanied by music on the stereophonic background.

"Portraits of Scandinavia" is a gem in the show case of travel presentations, reflecting the artistry of Ra producers".

Realism Is Order of Day In Canadian Toy Market

MONTREAL (CP)—With dolls that can walk, talk and even eat, realism is the order of the day in the Canadian toy market.

Sold with a little kit containing simulated pablum and baby bottle, spoon and bowl, the "eating" doll is emptied by a plug in its back. It was introduced this year at the 22nd all-Canada Toy Trade, the show that last year introduced the "talking" doll.

Another toy, recently doll, new this year, has a realistically screwing infant's face and limbs that thrash about for several minutes when a central key is wound tight.

For the more sophisticated girl there are strapless, swivel-hipped character dolls, some of them wearing striped "twist" costumes.

A similar doll but with a strikingly different appeal Soo was cast as Cleopatra and clad in a gold-trimmed pantaloon outfit. Another doll dressed with washable, waist-length hair, she had heavy eye makeup, painted toe nails and a beauty spot on one cheek.

ALSO POPULAR

Other dolls on display included life-sized little girl dolls that "wash". These dolls have been in the market for two years but their popularity shows no sign of waning. Smaller dolls included little boy dolls and dolls dressed in Brownie uniforms and in boarding school blazers.

While the dolls really stole the show this year, other interests were not neglected. Canadian boys—who have not caught the space ferver of their American counterparts—can be tempted with fire engines that spray water, heavy plastic trucks and tractors that can be set upon.

Other types of games at the show included one which—by means of plastic disks pushed into various sized slots—teaches a child to distinguish the different colors. Another was on a similar principle to teach him bedding and subtracting.

Equally practical were a series of card games and puzzles designed to keep the youngsters in the back seat occupied. By Refreshments were served and a social time of fellowship was enjoyed.

Another Cherry Pie

by Mary Moore

Judges have a difficult time because they are chosen for their conscientiousness.

Points are given to contestants on their sequence of work, arrangement of equipment, poise, neatness, etc. And what must always be kept in mind is the final product — the overall appearance and flavor of the contestant's pie.

Miss Wendy Bucknell of Brantford won third prize in 1962 National Cherry Pie Bakeoff and I am going to give you the filling for Wendy's pie. But I want to give strong credit to Lynda Long, Horton District High School of New Minas, Nova Scotia for her excellent pastry. While she did not win a prize all judges agreed that her pastry was tops.

So with your permission I will combine the two girl's recipes as Wendy's filling and Lynda's pastry.

In Many Purpose Cake Thursday, March 5th, the shortening quantity was omitted. The sentence which reads "Measure shortening into mixing bowl and allow to stand at room temperature to become soft."

This should read "Measure ½ cup shortening into mixing bowl and allow to stand at room temperature to become soft."

Pastry: (Lynda Long's of New Minas, N.S.): 2 cups sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅔ cup lard, 6 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons butter, 4-5 tablespoons ice water.

Sift flour, measure and place in sifter over bowl. Add measured salt. Sift. Add lard and butter, cut with a pastry blender until is the size of small peas. Add water by drops, working with only a small portion of flour-salt mixture, working with an upward motion of ½ fork. When dough will begin to form in balls, (about the size of teaspoon) remove by using tines of a fork and place on waxed paper. Continue in this manner until all flour-fat mixture has been moistened. Press dough together with hands. Divide into desired amounts. Chill. Roll. Lynda's method of "baking": Add cherry filling to prepared pie shell. Cover with lattice top. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. and bake for 30 minutes.

POISON AIR KILLS 20

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)— Fourteen children suffocated in a crowded movie house Wednesday at Idlib, northern Syria, interior ministry sources disclosed Sunday. The movie was repeated several times to a packed house and the build-up of carbon dioxide poisoned the air in the closed hall, the sources said.

Are You Thinking of Teaching?

Miss Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, has had special training in psychology and vocational guidance. In preparing this series, "Careers for Girls," Miss Clark has interviewed career women in the fields she is covering, teachers, counsellors and guidance counsellors. Doris Clark's human relations course, "How to Live Living" runs regularly in The Ontario Intelligencer.

by Doris C. Clark, M.S.W.

(Seventh in a series for teenagers on Careers for Girls.

Jerry's teacher, Miss Frances, was O.K. She never got impatient when the class became restless and noisy; she seemed to know that young folks had to "let off steam".

Instead of scolding, she would talk to them. It was easy to learn when Miss Frances taught.

Maybe you have had teachers who stand out in your thoughts. Perhaps they helped us in some special way; or could be they were just wonderful people who carried us blithely along on the road to learning.

If you think you would like to join their ranks, ask yourself these questions: Do I like people — young people, the ages I would be teaching? Can I understand, explain, explain, explain to a pupil what he does not easily get? Do I like the subjects I would be teaching?

How is my sense of humor? (You'll need a good one!) Am I afraid of work? (Better not be, with classes to teach, lessons for tomorrow to prepare, reports to make up, papers to mark, meetings to attend to the principals office).

Teaching must be about the oldest career known. However, we learn that ever since the invention of writing, back in 3500 B.C., the importance of education has been recognized. In the time of the Roman Empire, slaves taught young Roman boys the rudiments of education.

Today our Canadian government makes it compulsory for every child to have a basic education and this at a time when two-thirds of the world's population still cannot read nor write. The girl who becomes a teacher can be sure of a job, for educationists are in demand.

WHEN PUPIL "MAKES GOOD"

A teacher gets her greatest personal satisfaction when a successful young man (or woman) — her pupil of a few years back — pays her a visit to thank her for first pulling him on the right track. Perhaps it was about a career; maybe about a serious personal problem that he had consulted her.

Sometimes she remembers all too well the sullen, uncertain child who came in untidy clothes from a broken home, and thought nobody wanted him. She had taken the trouble to get to know him and to make him her friend, and he had responded by learning to do his work — and enjoying it!

Wouldn't it be fun any one or us to be able to take credit for helping such a young person, a time when he needed it badly?

ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES

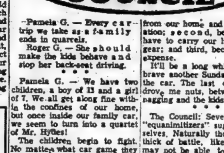
Teachers have a five-day week and a long summer holiday — a much longer one than many other occupations allows. Salaries have improved greatly in recent years and there are regular increases. There is provision for sick leave and a pension plan to provide for the teacher's retirement.

She does not need an expensive university education to teach elementary school; a year of study at Normal School after matriculation will give her an intermediate certificate with which she may start on her teaching career. Further studies may be taken, later, between school years.

Disadvantages? Well, it's no job for a wrestling. The nervous strain of working with a class of thirty or forty energetic youngsters for six or seven hours every day means that teacher is tired at four p.m. Some will find monotony the repetition of lessons.

But the knowledge that her work, with the nation's future citizens, is second to none in importance, carries its reward and makes her happy in the "worthwhileness" of what she is doing.

ARE YOU STILL INTERESTED?



If you think this may be the right career for you, try it out! That is, try your hand at teaching Sunday School or taking responsibility for leadership in a church or community club where you will have to address groups of people occasionally, or guide others in games or discussions. Look over the special areas of teaching that interest you, with your school counsellor or with a teacher. Teaching can be highly rewarding.

Here is what the famous poet Henry Van Dyke, says in his tribute to "The Unknown Teacher":

"He awakens sleeping spirits. He quickens the indolent. He encourages the eager and steadies the unstable. He communicates his own joy in learning and shares with boys and girls the best treasures of his mind. His lights many candles of aspiration in later years, will shine back to cheer him. This is his reward."

(The new secondary school program in Ontario demands your choice of subjects. To learn more about teaching and what qualifications will lead you into it, ask the teacher-guidance counsellor in your own high school.)

The next article "There's a career in nursing" for you, will appear next Thursday.

Pamela G. — Every car trip we take as a family ends in quarrels.

Roger G. — She should make the little brats behave or stop her back-seat driving.

Pamela G. — We have two children, a boy of 13 and a girl of 9. They never seem to be content to stay in the confines of our home, but once inside our family car, they start fighting. It's the same sort of Mr. Hyde!

The children begin to fight. No matter what car game they play, it isn't long before one or another of them will shout: "If they're looking for licence plates, the longer one will win." "I saw it first!" If they're finding the alphabet in road signs, the bickering will devastate his sister by claiming six or seven at a time. When we reprimand them, the tension builds. Then Roger starts to speed. When I tell him his driving makes me nervous, he yells at me. He doesn't like the way I drive either. Yet once out of the car, we act decently to each other again.

I'm for travelling by train, but Roger says it's too expensive.

Roger G.—I'm just as dumbfounded as Pam as to why getting into our car turns us into snarling wild men. But, since I refuse to travel by train, I'd like to try to improve matters and I think she's the one who can turn the tide. If she'd attend to the kids and keep them busy and amused, leaving me the driving to me, I think we could hold out for the 100-200 miles trips we take, with no sulks and no tears.

Train travel is out for us — first, because the stops are far from our home and our destination; second, because we'd be "cooped up" together and gear; and third, because of the expense.

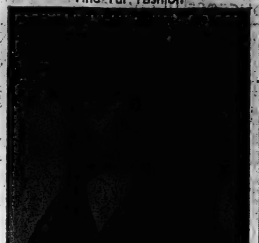
It'll be a long while before I have another Sunday outing in the car, the last one almost drove me nuts, between Pam's nagging and the kids' whining.

The Council: Several obvious "equations" suggest themselves. Naturally those in the thick of battle, like the Gs, her at-home entertaining. Let's be friends with relatives on the travelling.

As for the secret of successful motor trips "Mother's Helper" as they'd say on Madison Avenue, every member has his own, ranging from "travel alone" to "back-seat television." But for the G's, the secret seems to be better preparation. Realizing the "we things each relatives do once the wheels begin to roll they can respect it and cater to it.

What happens to Roger? He's fond of the highway and leave him alone. What happens to Pamela? With no driving to do, she's bored (or scared) all the most of the time. Her job is to amuse herself, agree with or cajole Roger, and anticipate the blowups of the children before they take place.

What happens to the kids? They go stir-crazy, of course. "Let's play" is the plea which prompts stretching, warding off the effects of a sort of claustrophobia. Further, 13 and 7 are no combo. Adding a third child as pal for either one would help. If not, Pamela should sit between them and join in the games, hand out "busy work" even lead some low-volume community singing. Many songs are good for miles.



PARTY GAME for all printing or writing ages; "What's Fallin'" According to the ages of players, select a group of unbreakable objects and spread them on table. Let everyone look at them for 10 seconds. Then, place a screen or hang a sheet between table and players. Throw items one by one in numbered order. Winner is one who correctly identifies most.

Fine Fur Fashion

BY ALICE ALDEN

New shapes and lines in furs are evident in the fine fur collections for spring.

One of the very newest and most appealing is Frederick's "belled jacket." This has boxed fur lines, flaring from one in Russian broadtail with silk ruffle trim. The uncollared top is repetitively designed to show off beautiful jewelry.

An ideal wrap to complement the full skirt or the slender sheath.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

ON WEATHERING A SOCIAL FAUX PAS

If you can't remember a person's name, what should you do about it?

It's a nightmarish situation, especially when said person rushes up, grabs your hand, calls you by your nickname and asks about everyone in your family — by name, of course.

The predicament gets even more ridiculous when you have to introduce your nameless friend to someone else. All your wizardry at name association goes up in smoke, and how you wish you could get back the money you spent on a speech course in this exacting science.

When faced with this moment of truth," how should a polite person bail himself out? The direct approach usually is best in the long run.

If your brain refuses to yield its closely-locked secret, the only recourse is to apologize, confess to an idiot, and ask for the person's name. It may deflate the other's ego a bit, but he'll probably have better manners and laugh the whole thing off.

Once names are straightened out, drop the matter immediately. Don't go into lengthy and lame stories about how bad your memory is. You might forget the just-retrieved name in the confusion.

Actually, it's not a gold-medal way of getting out of an tight spot if you still a cut above the alternative some people use — when a person can't remember a name, she sometimes plunges in and calls the person "darling," or "sweetie," or "cookie" or some other sticky form of endearment.

A man, caught in the same kettle of fish, uses more formal terms of address, but they're just as nameless. His depersonalizes his greetings with names like "Feller," or "Sport," or "Old Man." But they still betray the fact that he's a victim of non-total recall.

There's always a diplomatic "out" when a forgotten friend dashes up and — bless him — simply says "Julius!" If he doesn't say your name, then it's safe to assume he's forgotten yours, too.

Right away, then, the contrived way to jump his gun, give your own name and hope he gives you his.

Being direct is to my mind, is a little more polite than using the double, round-about, or worse yet, no name at all.

Question: We've been invited to a large dinner party in the city. Wednesday, and I'd like to call home during the evening to check with the sitter that the children are settled down. Everything is quiet. From the city, the call would cost considerable cents. How can I discreetly pay the hostess for the call afterwards? Mrs. D. Wood of Milford, Conn.

Answer: Instead of making it a cash transaction — which is usually a tricky thing — you might offer to contribute either by calling your hostess once or asking your sitter to call you at a designated time so the cost of the call will be covered in your own phone.

East Hastings District WI Workshop Held at Plainfield

GILEAD — Plainfield Branch of The Hastings District Women's Institutes was hostess on March 9th from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. when the other branches met at their District Workshop.

Mrs. Gerhald Hall welcomed all.

Mrs. James Haggerty of Napanee, president of the District, was in charge of the Workshop and presided at the business duties of the district and branches.

The members were divided into four discussion groups. Questions forwarding each group were listed, discussed and presented to the floor, with many of vital importance to the life of the Women's Institutes, including the number ways of functioning, increasing membership, developing home talent, enriching our community talent, and the necessity of better living.

One distinct point and obligated responsibility of the organization is to keep the expenses of delegates at all levels down. This was given as one of the reasons for the decline in district annuals and area conventions. The Federation will assume its responsibilities.

The secretary-treasurer at all levels is responsible for reason and should fill her office adequately.

ANNUAL ELECTION

Officers at branch level are elected each year, giving a branch member opportunity to place any officer if her duties are such that she cannot fulfil.

"Pennies for Friendship" project was explained by Mrs. Haggerty; many branches had entered into this project. The explanation received favorable wide benefits which underprivileged children will receive.

Mrs. Haggerty summarized "Consider those of other countries who have not," we are all sisters under the skin." This project could be gathered either at District annuals or at branch meetings.

This workshop, will be a memorial for all attending and a better way management should result from it.

Members attended from Canniton-Cartwville, Bethel-Zion, Chapman, Carmel, Roslin, Melville, Tyrendinaga, and Plainfield with twenty-four in attendance.

TIME LIMIT NECESSARY

Increased membership could be gained if time limit was placed on business meetings, recreation and membership participation instead of long topics.

Pass the responsibility among committees of various organizations. Children's night was suggested as a means of creating new interest among the parents.

The handbook was a wonderful guide for all who attended the workshop. It behooves the W.I. members to study the handbook before meeting with helpful information.?

Ways and ideas for shortening annuals were discussed. A vote decided that a panel discussion for giving of convener reports that was well accepted by the branch would be a good idea at all levels.

Mrs. Jessie Hems was in charge of the Workshop and presented the kinds and duties of the district and branches.

PROJECT PLANNING

Planning projects should be done by committees appointed with specific duties and amount of money to spend. Finance committees can only make recommendations not pay money.

Time limit on business is helped by the foregoing. A suggested project was outlined by Mrs. Haggerty stressing to not have too many project, it is the W.I. duty to make homes a better place in which to live. The project should be of minor consideration, not detailed responsibility of the Women's Institute. Allowment for emergency expenses of funds, example fires, disasters.

Mrs. Haggerty explained a plan of the outlay of the Women's Institute at all levels but stressed the whole setup started from the branch members, who are the foundation of the organization for home and country.

A short quiz on the handbook started up the thoughts of the class.

Mrs. Haggerty was tendered a vote of thanks by Mrs. Robert Tucker, district president, and it was that success and pleasure would go with her on the Trip to Japan, at Melbourne, Australia in October.

Mrs. Garfield Hall, Plainfield W.I. President replied to the courtesy vote given by Mrs. Tucker.

Cindy, Dog, Five Hybrid Pups Seized

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP)— John McGovern, his pet wolf Cindy, dog and five wolf-dog hybrid pups arrived in town Thursday.

Today the wolf and the pups are lodging with the Humane Society and McGovern is in Sudbury to answer a charge of keeping wild animals without permission.

McGovern, a native of Hull, Que., began his wanderings with the wolf and dog in British Columbia, where he told Vancouver newspapers he found Cindy, injured and sick, beside the road near Dawson Creek.

Since that time he has hitchhiked across and around Canada.

A month ago he was told by officials in Sudbury to get his pets out of town. Permission from the local Government to keep the wolf until the end of May was cancelled earlier last week.

He was warned Tuesday that the wolf and the pups would be seized. On Wednesday he disappeared. On Thursday he was picked up as he walked along the road near Sault Ste. Marie.

Keith Acheson, regional director of the land department, said Cindy and pups will not be destroyed, but taken to Algonquin Park.

Conservation officials have said McGovern was using his wolf and the pups for financial gain, contrary to provincial statutes.

Fiancee Dates Another

DEAR DORIS:—I have been engaged three months and am deeply in love with my fiancee. We are both over 40.

I had made arrangements to phone her on a Saturday night, but she was not home. I got tired of waiting and decided to go and see at all the places we used to go together. I landed in this dance hall and there she was dancing with an elderly man.

After the dance had stopped, I went and spoke to her and asked her what was the idea dancing behind my back. At least she should have said something about this to me the evening previous; so she never answered at all. It was as if I was speaking to the wall behind her.

Then I blew my top and said, "Listen, honey, if you prefer this, will you make your choice and return the engagement ring?" So the following week it was in the mail. This really broke my heart. I've been phoning her up every day to try to convince her that it was all a mistake and to try to forget it and start all over again, as we are deeply in love.

I do not understand her at all, so please, Doris Clark, could you help me in this predicament?—BROKEN HEARTED.

DEAR BROKEN HEARTED:—You've been jilted. The more you plead, the more she will avoid you.

Now is the time to stand on your dignity. She has not been straightforward with you and you are well rid of her.

Be glad you did not marry her before catching her cheating on you.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—After writing to a boy for about 1½ years, I quit writing because:

(1) My sister and I found out that he was doing the writing of letters she received as well, and he signed them as a friend of him. We just let it be as a joke. So we did something too. My sister and I pretended we were cousins. And that's the way he took it.

(2) He would always be telling about a girl friend he just met. But he still kept on writing.

(3) I found I couldn't express me, just through letters. Is there such a thing as failing in love through letters?

So one day I wrote and told him I was all through. He answered back, "I'm getting married to a girl a lot better than you." I didn't feel bad at all because I knew he wasn't getting married.

Now I was very lonesome, so after sight months I wrote him again. He answered that he was still crazy about me. Now he can't be that serious about me.

I wished I hadn't written him back, but I don't know what to do. I have such a strong feeling that if I do see him, I will just end up with him in the future. I don't want this to happen either, as I actually don't go for his looks.

Shall I get to love him, just through these love letters. Now I still want to write him, but how can I write and keep away from him? Is it best to quit writing to him? (He is 22 and I am 17).

* * *

DEAR BOY CRAZY—Better quit while it's still a big joke. Your unhandsome Romeo is a sharpshooter to you, to your sister; about you and about other girls. Don't believe a word he says and you'll have the fruth.

Anything more between you could start to really hurt. Right now you can have the last laugh.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—Read write-up of Red Douglas.

This I have to write. There are a very few who do not smoke, but there are still a few. One is me.

I hate the looks of men's teeth and the smell of their tobacco-stained teeth, and worse I despise the looks of women's stained teeth, also smoking. Also drinking is disgusting to me—BELLEVILLE 42.

DEAR BELLEVILLE 42:—O.K. Now that you've got that off your chest, do you feel better?

You and a million others are revolted by anything that seems unclean. But stained fingers and teeth do not necessarily go with smoking.

Beware of Poisonous Plants

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Last summer a little boy in Toronto was treated for poisoning at the Poison Centre of the hospital. He had eaten the seed pods of Datura and its sprigs known as Snow on the Mountain. Mrs. Sprig, the nurse in charge of the doctor expressed amusement that anyone would grow such a plant in their garden, when it is so dangerous to children.

Actually there is a habit few people know it is poison and this many of our common garden plants are poisonous. They may cause illness or death when they are chewed, or swallowed or the leaves or flowers may cause dermatitis (skin rash) in a mild or severe form in some people and not in others.

Children are prone to put all kinds of things in their mouth. Even when they do not like the taste they may eat things in a game or out of curiosity, and while the eating of some plant substance may cause mild discomfort, it is not called it could prove fatal to another.

KNOW YOUR PLANTS

It behooves parents to know their plants and to avoid the ones that are dangerous. If you do have any of these plants and cannot bring yourself to discard them, guard your children and their friends from them. Perhaps you had better not point out the culprits, but warn that this many plants were not meant for food and you should be certain that are not served at the table.

Long ago the women believe that they can cast a spell on their husbands if they slip a few of the poison of the Datura plant over his face while he is sleeping. It may regard such beliefs as pure superstition but there is always some grain of truth as their base.

The Datura plants is known to the stockman as Jimpson weed, a killer of cattle. The Indians called it the Devil or Angel's Trumpet. It may have the angel of death. It is listed with the ranks Belladonna as Datura Golden Queen, D Cornucopia and D. Fastuosa. Each of them are more or less poison.

Here are some more poison plants: Dictamus (Gas plant) Lupin, Helebore Niger (Christmas Rose) Aconitum (Monks Hood) Larkspur and Delphinium, Virgin's Bower, (Clematis).

Many of the spurge family are on the list such as Mexican without pronouns.

Possibility of Preventing Coronaries, Strokes Strong

TORONTO—The possibility of preventing heart disease and strokes is so strong that "we are in the same position that polio research had reached in 1954," Dr. Jeremiah Stamler, of Chicago, said here today.

"In those days they had a vaccine against polio, they'd shown it was a safe vaccine, they'd proved it in animals and knew it produced antibodies in humans," he told a public meeting of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Atherosclerosis. "All they needed was proper field trials for the final proof that it would work on a large scale.

"We are just about in that position now in relation to heart disease and strokes."

Dr. Stamler is the director of the City of Chicago Heart Disease Epidemiology Evaluation Program. He takes middle aged men in apparently perfect health, evaluates the likelihood that they will have a heart attack in the future, and then seeks to prevent it. A group of men in similar numbers, who remain unexamined, are studied for comparison purposes.

"Eventually, this project will have to be broadened: Testing may have to be done on 100,000 people," he said.

To identify men who are likely to have a heart attack, Dr. Stamler's group uses certain warning signs which have been found to be present in people before they have heart attacks. Among these are: high blood pressure, a high level of blood cholesterol (cholesterol is a waxy substance found in the blood), sedentary living, heavy smoking, obesity, and hypertension, diabetes and a family history of heart attacks.

If men have two or more of these factors they are on the "high risk" and Dr. Stamler's group works with them to remove each factor possible. Especially, fat men are slimmed down, heavy smokers encouraged to give up smoking, and meat fats are deleted from diets and exercise schedules introduced.

"The most important factor is diet," he said. "Our entire population eats a diet which is at risk level with respect to coronary disease. If dietary investigators want to find people living on the ideal diet, perhaps they have to go to Trappist monks, Seventh Day Adventists or Hunza [a people of an isolated state."

Out of every 1,000 middle aged men, 538 are overweight and 223 have too high a level of blood cholesterol, he said.

"We don't have all the answers yet. We haven't crossed every 't' and dotted every 'i'. For this reason some people say: 'I won't do anything now. I'll wait and see for the next ten years or so.' Those who take this attitude must accept the corollary that nothing significant is going to happen as a result of their efforts to cut coronary death rate in the next decade.

"We already have good possible methods of prevention and those methods are safe."

Speaking on the same program, Dr. J. M. R. Beveridge, of Queen's University, Kingston, said that "it would seem prudent that high plasma lipid levels should be taken as a sign that a person is ripe for a coronary attack. Diet is by far the most important thing that affects lipid levels in the body."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

POTENTIAL DANGER

By WINIFRED WILSON

On account of man's new way of life birds have numberless potential dangers beyond nature's imagining — a hundred years ago airplanes and their runways, automobiles, tall buildings, oil on water, and the many, many others.

Much in most of the dangers encountered by man in his airplanes because of birds. But remember we have invaded the birds' realm. They were meant to fly, we walk. Now both suffer from air collisions. Perhaps terrestrial man is more within his rights when he complains of gulls or starlings clustering on his runways — but after all they can hardly be blamed any more than a two year old can be blamed for breaking his mother's best vase if it is left within his reach. Neither birds nor children of two years know when they are doing harm. They must undet, or stand or be reasoned with; all we can do is try to prevent disaster.

KILLED BY CARS

The faster the automobile the more birds are killed as they cross country roads in low or high flight. Seen by the man up load. In bird season, particularly at the time of the vast nestling rush, motorists are a menace as they speed along the countryside along the side of a much-travelled road may find a Cardinal, Robin, or Jay all that is left of some parent bird.

Even more inaccountable reason, birds are often attracted by bright lights. After dusk is the most dangerous time of our high, city buildings are perilous, especially if the night spring and fall. Quite frequently an entire flock flies headon into a tall, well lighted skyscraper. Several hundred may be dashed to the ground in a few seconds.

OIL WORST MENACE

Probably the worst modern menace to birds is the surface of water. The oil slick spreads literally for miles, so that water birds of a sighting on its surface never stop to get to their nests on the shore. The amount of debri on their part will rid them of the sticky stuff. Not only are the feathers stuck together, preventing flight to forage for food, but water soaks into the down, with the skin. If the bird do not die of hunger they eventually die of pneumonia, for their feathers were designed to act like a waterproof and keep them dry. At times the spilling of oil is an accident as when a collision in the St. Lawrence River caused the death of thousands of birds a few years ago. October City at autumn. But dumping oil too near shore can be avoided.

150 Guests Attend IOOF Social Event

STIRLING — Stirling Lodge I.O.O.F. 236 under the sponsorship of Noble Grand Roy Vanhoe sponsored a social evening on Monday, 2nd in the I.O.O.F. hall, Charlotte Street.

Much interest in the doings of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 311 and their husbands; also widows of the late members of I.O.O.F. members.

The evening was planned in memory of Thomas Wilday the founder and father of Odd Fellowship in the Province of America. Ten members of the order served accommodatingly 150 guests when all enjoyed a delicious pot-luck supper in the dining room.

Later the group adjoined to the lodge hall and Bro. Roy Tucker officially welcomed the guests. The program consisted of duets by Gordon Ward of Tweed and Carol Pope of Belleville; vocal numbers with guitar accompaniment by Murray Bateman, Springbrook and by Bro. Walter Warren with Mrs. Bruce Stapley as piano accompanist. Jack Bush led the community singing. Item by Mrs. Mac Sherpe as accompanist. Solos by Mrs. Ruth Ward (Campbellford), Messrs Beverly Rayeroft and Jim Mackie on guitar accompaniment.

Bro. Ernest Carscallen spoke a few words of appreciation to all who had contributed to the success of the evening.

George Carlisle, District Deputy president gave a most interesting address on the life of Thomas Wilday. He was born in Sheffield, England on January 15, 1783 and at the age of 14 he went as an apprentice to a cutler, a slipping and grinding trade. In September 1817 he took up residence in Baltimore, U.S.A.

Approximately a year later Mr. Wilday and four of his friends founded the first independent Order of Odd Fellows known as Washington Lodge No. 1. Mr. Carlisle advised Thomas was the first noble grand of Wilday Lodge, and the first Grand Master of the Odd Fellows of Maryland Lodge.

What Odd Fellowship was first founded visitors were principles were laid down which required visiting the sick, relieving the distressed, burying the dignity, and reverence to the funeral of their departed brethren, care for orphans and aged people. Throughout the years Odd Fellowship has grown and flourished. Millions of people have known the warm hand of fellowship, and the helping hand of help of faithful brothers.

In 1843 Sovereign Lodge was appointed travelling agent of the Grand Lodge of the United States and in the course of yesterday, he died on October 19, 1863 in his 80th year. Thousands and four years later a hundred monument was dedicated to his memory in Baltimore, the entire brotherhood.

Brantley history has been written depicting his unparalleled work at the field of Oddfellowship. A special paper was read by Bro. of the late Grand Secretary James L. Ridgely and his creates vivid memories of the past.

A contributing factor in recent of subscriptions has been the work of the Rebekah branch founded in 1851 and dominated by the Daughters of Rebekah of Odd Fellows. The Ontario Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows as an example of the care given to the aged both Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. Old age pensions and tuberculosis fund is another principal work undertaken by the order. The achievements and programs of Oddfellowship in the past is fortunate best witness to the leadership of this organization.

Miss Diane Flindall of Brighton, who was sponsored on a trip to the Bahamas by the local Odd Fellows of this district, gave a most interesting and enthralling of her trip and what she had gleaned at that impressive meeting.

Mr. Doug Farrell, Moira, who also gave a commendary of his visit to the United Nations building.

Both of these messages were most informative and gave the audience a clearer picture of this wonderful organization and the cause of peace.

Sister Hilda Bowen, N.G., volced thanks to Miss Flindall for her message and also thanks to the I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 236 for the invitation to be its guests.

Bro. George Carlisle, DDP, graciously thanked Douglas Farrell for the privilege of his trip.

The group then enjoyed round and square dancing with Miss Elsie Martin calling the squares. The music was provided by Messrs. Phil Beaudrie, Harold Charles and the "Night Riders Orchestra."

At the close, refreshments were served and thus ended a friendly night of Oddfellowship.

Violinist Walks Out On Orchestra

PITTSBURGH (AP)—World-famous violinist Nathan Milstein walked out on the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra a few hours before a scheduled concert Friday after an artistic disagreement with conductor-William Steinberg.

Violinist Beri Senofsky flew in from New York and replaced Milstein as soloist in Tchaikovsky violin concerto. Milstein took a train back to New York.

A symphony spokesman said Milstein's walkout came after a difference of opinion on the interpretation of the work developed during rehearsal.

Milstein, he said, "repeatedly made comments directly to various players in the orchestra, thereby inviting an area which is the conductor's sole perogative."

"The rehearsal came to an abrupt halt in the middle of the third movement," the spokesman said. "At this point there was a quiet exchange of words between Milstein and Steinberg. Following the exchange, Milstein walked off the stage and the rehearsal proceeded to other matters."

The spokesman said the quarrel was unprecedented because Milstein and Steinberg had recorded this concerto together several years ago.

Habs, Leafs Keep Pace; Hull Gets '44'

Blues, Wings Spot Tied

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto-Maple Leafs extended an unbeaten streak to eight games and just about sewed up second place in the National Hockey League during the week-end.

The Leafs, getting superb goaltending from substitute Don Simmons, blanked Detroit Red Wings 3-0 on home ice Saturday night, then edged the Black Hawks 3-2 at Chicago Sunday.

The two victories gave the Leafs a commanding 10-point lead over the third-place Hawks and each club only has six more games to play.

Montreal Canadiens, within reach of a fifth straight league title, also won twice. They slapped down Boston Bruins 5-3 at Montreal Saturday and rallied for a 3-1 win at New York Sunday.

The Habitants still lead the Leafs by seven points and need a combination of three wins or Toronto defeats to wrap up the championship.

In the weekend's only other game, Detroit and Boston battled to a 2-2 tie at Boston Sunday.

WINGS CATCH RANGERS

The single point pulled the Red Wings into a tie with the Rangers for the fourth and last playoff spot. Each club has 57 points and Detroit has six more games to play to New York's five.

The Bruins' winless streak, meanwhile, was stretched to 10 games. Boston has not won since Jan. 27—tying four and losing 18.

Other weekend developments:

1. Chicago's Bobby Hull scored his 44th goal of the season against the Leafs. He needs six more in the Hawks' six remaining games to tie the 50-goal record held jointly by Boston's Bronco Horvath and Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Canadiens.

2. Geoffrion scored the 324th goal of his career against Boston, tying him with the late Nels Stewart for fourth place in the league's all-time scoring list. Only Richard, Detroit's Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay have scored more goals.

SUBSTITUTE STARS

Simmons, an emergency replacement for veteran Johnny Bower, was a standout in both Toronto victories. He stopped 28 shots for his shutout against the Wings and made 31 saves at Chicago.

He was called from the stands a few minutes before game time Saturday night after Bower bruised his left thumb catching a shot by Eddie Shack in a pre-game warm-up.

Shack re-injured his left knee against the Wings and didn't play Sunday. Injuries to the same knee sidelined him twice earlier this season for six weeks and the other time for a week.

Bob Nevin and Frank Mahovlich scored the Toronto goals against Chicago. Against Chicago, the Leaf scorers were Nevin, Tim Horton and Red Kelly.

Bill (Red) Hay and Hull potted the Chicago goals. Hull now has scored 29 times in 25 outings.

In Montreal, the Canadiens got goals from Bobby Rousseau, Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau, Gilles Tremblay and Dave Balon. Henry Toppazzini and rookie defenceman Jacques Laperriere Stapleton tallied for the Bruins.

Referee Dalton McArthur awarded Larry Leach of the Bruins a penalty shot—the ninth in the league this season—at least a few times it seemed.

A defensive lapse by Rangers left Montreal's victory at New York. The score was tied 1-1 after the first final period when Rousseau stole the puck and slapped a backhander past Rangers' goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley. Moore counted Montreal's other goal while Camille Henry tallied for Rangers.

Swedes Defeat U.S.

Canada, Sweden The Big One!

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Fresh from weekend victories over West Germany and Switzerland, Canada looked today to its next game against Sweden as the big one in the world hockey tournament now that the United States has fallen from the contenders ranks.

Canada gained sole possession of first place in the eight-country championship group with a lack-lustre 7-0 win over, Switzerland Sunday night. Some tournament observers later questioned the chances of Galt Terriers to survive the rifle for Canada.

The Canadians, although playing without the services of Ted Sloan, looked good only in the third period when they scored three goals.

The line of Sloan, Joe Malo and Jack McLeod, which accounted for nine goals in the five games, was broken up when Sloan suffered a badly-cut right eyebrow Saturday night in the 10-0 victory over West Germany at Denver.

Sloan, the former, NHL centre who has been a standout for the Terriers here with three goals and four assists, sat out the game.

Bob Martin and Harry Smith each scored two goals and Joe Bolton, Ron Ellis, Bob Brown had one apiece for Canada.

The victory over the Germans was featured by the strong goal tending of Harold (Bun) Hunter, who has the only shutout in championship play to date, and Mahi Kasurak's performance. Sloan, McLeod, Martin, Brown and Ellis, McKnight, go, singles.

Canada drew a bye Monday as victories and no losses while Sweden, the other undefeated club in the championship division, had two wins. Canada is idle today.

Sweden pulled the major upset of the tournament by defeating the U.S. 2-1 Saturday night on Ulf Sterner's goal. Roland Stoltz late in the third period.

The U.S. bounced back Sunday night, handing the winless Finns their third straight lacing 6-2. First Finn weekend victories over West Germany and Switzerland, Canada looked today to its next game against Sweden as the big one in the world hockey tournament now that the United States has fallen from the contenders ranks.

Canada gained sole possession of first place in the eight-country championship group with a lack-lustre 7-0 win over, Switzerland Sunday night. Some tournament observers later questioned the chances of Galt Terriers to survive the rifle for Canada.

The Canadians, although playing without the services of Ted Sloan, looked good only in the third period when they scored three goals.

The line of Sloan, Joe Malo and Jack McLeod, which accounted for nine goals in the five games, was broken up when Sloan suffered a badly-cut right eyebrow Saturday night in the 10-0 victory over West Germany at Denver.

NEW YORK (AP) — The scoreboard for the first two days of major league baseball's exhibition season shows:

1. A narrowly-perverted million-dollar accident when third baseman Rich Rollo and experienced first baseman Ernie Banks of Chicago Cubs collided while chasing a pop fly in a game against Boston Red Sox.

2. Mark (Poo Poo) Jones, rookie hopeful with Milwaukee Braves, leading the home run hitters.

Sando, the Cubs' outstanding third baseman selected as the sophomore of the year after a list National League campaigns in which he hit .295 with 23 homers, was carried off the field on a stretcher Sunday after the Chicago loss to the Red Sox at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Rollo's final pop in the sixth inning, Sando crashed into Banks, normally a star catch and stop, and was knocked to the ground. He suffered bruised ribs from a knee Banks was not hurt.

Jones, a .326 swinger at Louisville of the American Association up for his second try with the Braves, hit a home run in a losing effort Saturday, then powered the Braves to a 10-8 win over Detroit Tigers at Bradenton, Fla., Sunday with a pair of round-trippers and seven runs batted in.

Jones got lost their opener to the White Sox 8-2 and were kicked around 10-3 in Sunday's game at Tampa, Fla.

The National League's two new entries, Houston Colts and Houston Colts—had one victory in four games after the weekend action. The Mets edged St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 at St. Petersburg Sunday to check into the win column but the Colts were beaten 8-7 by Los Angeles Angels at Palm Springs, Calif.

In other games elsewhere, New York Yankees beat Baltimore Orioles 5-4, Philadelphia Phillies edged Cincinnati Reds Twins 3-1, San Francisco Giants nipped Cleveland Indians 4-3, Washington Senators edged Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6 and Kansas City Athletics beat Los Angeles Dodgers 7-5.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The world is full of surprises and possibilities. The topsy-turvy old globe comes up with new and or, startling events every day.

Things are getting tough up in the north woods. A lady deer was seen within the confines of the city the other day, apparently looking for a job. Probably couldn't make a buck up there in the timberlands.

Coach Murph Chamberlain, newly-appointed mentor of the Sudbury Wolves Eastern Pro League team, is walking around in a daze these days. The other night a team of unknown intermediate "B" players, the Levacks, held his do-re-mi guys to a three-all tie. And did it the hard way.

Teen-ager wants to know what we could do to help if Paul Anka is brought here. To help the city, dear. I'd throw him overboard and cut the hawser, while Chubby O'Feever's Pickled Pretzels played "Anka's Away".

And this will bring down more wrath of the Grade 10-13 population, I read where Broadway theatrical bigwigs are thinking of making Tommy Sands the big star of a Great White Way musical. That's like giving a bear-claw the leading role in "Carmen".

Funny how the sons of great sports stars seldom fill the old man's shoes. Howie Morenz faded into nothingness after a year or two in junior hockey. "Rocket" Richard told me the other night that he has a 16-year-old boy who plays junior "B" and, there it will end. Another son is "little better but not NHL stuff".

Curling apparently is one sport that doesn't need a battalion of press agents and public relations chairmen. All you need is stage the "Brier" in your community and the first applicants for tickets will be the following year will be the seniors from the Home for the Aged.

The Brier, as everyone who can read knows, was held in Kitchener recently and the sport took the Dutchmen's bellwick by storm. Nearly 10,000 saw the play and curling people up there in the home of pretzels, spare-ribs and sauerkraut figure they have 45,000 new beers and steins addicts.

And along the surplus front Peterborough which will probably give the Montreal Canadiens and junior "A" hockey the heave-ho next semester may house an Eastern Pro League team. The word is out that EPHL men would like to put a club there and have spoken with Peter hockey men anent the possibility.

The mail brings everything to a sports desk. You fill Waste Paper Basket Number One with the handouts then get down to the more interesting business. Here's an invitation to be in the Chez Chester Twist Salon (one "e", operator). Guaranteed to give you a "Jello" look after three corkscrew lessons.

It is recommended by my old "Arthur Murray" classmate, "Lou, the Waltz Queen," Mabel (the blonde secretary, boy, she did shiver and shake) Wiggle's foot), Hilda the "Keeper of the Keys" and "Al" my titian-topped colleague who is no small snakes when on the ballroom floor.

Here's a billet that asks "Are you Still Using that Greasy Kid Stuff?" Sorry, bud, I'm a no-dab man. I've never been mistaken for a fruit-fly or a pale-face girl. The grass refused to grow on the street called chastine, is, these many years. Okay, say it. The corsets was too hard.

It's against policy to use anonymous missives, but here's one that suggests I apply for that vacancy in an act in the Sportsmen's Show. Seems, the note says, one of the trained porpoises has spring fever and refuses to do its stuff. How'll it were a swell job.

More serious stuff. Maple Leaf Gardens sent a team of officials to Kitchener to look over the Brier layout and made plans to bid for the 1964 Dominion Curling Championships. God, imagine two Grey Cup fandangos in one year. Ottawa is also actively campaigning for the event:

How about this area? Mayor H. J. McFarland, if he has a "larp" big enough, could cover the Long Reach and play the national championships there. It would be the first Brier ever held where curling stuff finish through the ice between events.

Field and Stream Awards

Huge Muskies, Big Trout

NEW YORK (CP) — Quebec and Labrador waters firmly cemented their reputation as the home of North America's prize brook trout during the 1961 fishing season.

They scored almost a clean sweep in both fly-fishing and open divisions of Field and Stream Magazine's annual competition. The authoritative outdoor publication, keeper of fresh water game fish records, releases the results in its March issue.

Three Rivers in Labrador, within reach of the Goose Bay air base, proved the biggest—a 10½-pounder which took first prize in the flycasting division for Marvin D. Baird of New York.

But the lion's share of the awards went for trout from Quebec's Broadback River and its headwater lakes north of the Chibougamau mining centre, about 500 miles northwest of Quebec City.

The Broadback itself, which flows into James Bay about 50 miles south of Rupert House produced the winner in the open division and the second biggest of the 20 brook trout listed. It weighed nine pounds 10 ounces and was caught by I. M. Black of Richmond Hill, Ont. Five of the top 20 came from the Broadback.

PLACES-14

Assinica Lake, a Broadback headwater which placed 14 in top 20 the previous year, accounted for four in 1961. Cashiers Lake, part of the same system, placed another and Lac Nouveau in the same district accounted for two more. Lac Chibougouiche to the south gave up another pair.

Labrador waters placed four—three Rivers two Ashuanipi and the Fortieu River one each.

Lake Nipigon also the Nipigon River in Ontario, which produced the 14½-pound record in 1914, weren't represented and only two Ontario fish made the top 20—from Shoofly and Foot Lakes in the Sudbury district.

No records were broken in 1961 although it was a near thing in the muskie division, dominated as usual by the Lawtons of Delmar, N.Y., and the Hartmans of Ogdensburg, N.Y.

Ruth Lawton's winner was only one pound 10 ounces shy of the 69-pound 15-ounce mark set by her husband, Arthur, in 1937. The best Lawton could do last year was a fish of 53 pounds, six ounces, behind Leonard Hartman (67 pounds 15 ounces) and Betty Hartman (60 pounds two ounces). Both couples did their fishing in the Thousand Island section of the St. Lawrence River.

LANDS GIANT TROUT

Lake Superior's lake trout record of 63 pounds two ounces was equalled by a giant from Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories. It weighed 57 pounds two ounces and won first prize for Dr. W. A. Nelson of Fairbanks, Alaska.

Four provinces shared northern pike honors which were taken exclusively by Canadian waters last year. Burrows Lake, about 50 miles northeast of Greenstone, Ont., produced the winner of 25 pounds 10 ounces for Robert R. Weeklea of Cresco, Iowa.

Baby Habs Clip Flyers

Industrial League Playoffs

Booth TV's topped Napanee Pringle's Falcons 4-3 and Joyce Real Estate defeated Rollins Construction 5-1 in the opening games of the Belleville Indust[illegible] Hockey League playoffs last night.

Second games in both best-of-three semi-finals will be played next Sunday evening.

Joyces got a strong game from goalie Bob Green on the way to their 5-1 win. They went ahead 4-1 in the game's first half and potted the lone marker in the second half. Two quick goals by Archie Elliott broke up a tight 3-1 tilt and opened up Joyce's comfortable lead. Green held the fort when Rollins put on the pressure early in the second half.

Elliott, with two goals and an assist, paced the Real Estate sextet. Bert Faulkner, Hyde Hunt and Jim Sheridan each notched one goal and assisted on another. Doug Moreau also drew an assist.

Ron Atkins, aided by Jim Cowendale, scored Rollins' lone goal while Stevens was serving a penalty for Joyces. That tied the game briefly.

The match had three minor penalties and the losers two.

Booth's and Napanee were tied 1-1 at the end of the first half in the nightcap and Bob Hughes potted the winning goal at 12.30 of the second. The winners went to Trenton 4-1 before Napanee closed the scoring with ten seconds left in the game and two Booth players in the penalty box.

Hughes sparked the TV attack scoring two goals and assisting on a third. Jack Gill and Don Bishop netted the other goals with Milt Pukanecki, Kaye Elliott, Howard Shelly and Denny Sinclair picking up assists. Claude Bell came up with another [illegible] performance in the net.

Jerry Brady and Pat Marshall scored for Napanee. Dave Brady had two assists and Harvey Stombaugh one.

Booth's drew ten of the game's eleven penalties, including misconduct ones to Shelly and Doug Mowry.

Just Misses 4-Minute Barrier

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jim Grelle, the former Oregon State running star from Los Angeles Track Club, made a game bid to crack the four-minute mile barrier last night but fell short with a winning time of 4:04.4 Saturday night in the 23rd annual Knights of Columbus indoor track games.

Chester Dahl, another former OSU star, was a close second in the fast-paced event.

Grelle made a desperate sprint on the last lap but couldn't beat the clock.

Cary Weisiger of the Quantico Marines a stirring mile in 4:04.6 to push Grelle on the last two laps, but didn't have enough left. Weisiger was timed at 3:03.3, Jim Grelle at 3:03.9 and Jim Beatty of Toronto was third in 4:06.4.

Robert Shull, another runner for Los Angeles Track Club won the two-mile event in 9:36.3. Toronto Star of the same club was second and Ron Wallinford of Toronto Olympic Club finished third.

Defeats Alberta 14-7

Saskatchewan Rink Wins 3rd Brier

KITCHENER (CP) — The curling Richardsons of Saskatchewan, their third Canadian championship, in a very unusual way, board an airplane today and set off in search of their third world championship.

The Saskatchewan rink, with Ernie Richardson at the helm, won the 1962 Canadian championship here Saturday morning by handing Alberta, skipped by Hec Gervais, a 14-7 thumping in the final game.

Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba were forced into a playoff when they all finished with 8-2 win-loss records. Richardson got a bye in the first round of the playoff and walked while Gervais ousted Manitoba 8-6 Friday night.

The Richardson rink—with the same family group as each occasion—won the Canadian title in 1950 and 1960, but lost to Gervais last year, it won the world title the same years it was successful in Canada.

START THIS WEEK

With Ernie are brother Garnet and cousins Arnold and Wes. In the world championship in Scotland they will meeting rinks skipped by Willie Young of Scotland, Rolf Arrwidsson of Sweden and Frank Kiefman of the United States. The series goes March 13-30 in Falkirk and Edinburgh.

Gervais had little to say about the defeat after the game.

"I lost the first end. Then they seemed to give up. I don't know why we did."

The playoff was billed as a battle of the world's curling giants—Richardson had won in 1958-60 and Ernie in 1956—but it fizzled out early when Saskatchewan piled up a six-end 8-3 lead.

There was no doubt that the 300-pound Richardson foursome and his mates were off their usual brilliant game on a day when the ice surface changed nearly every stone where 30-year-old Ernie and Ernie should go.

MISSES DIDN'T MATTER

Saskatchewan made the infrequent shot but it didn't matter. Gervais, vice-skip Ron Rae, second Ray Werner, and lead Ken Watson couldn't get too much weight, not enough or sometimes the broom to jump in and apply the pressure.

The victory put Ernie in the driver's seat. Along with Watson of Winnipeg and Matt Baldwin of Edmonton as the only three-time title - winning skips since the classic started back in 1927, Richardson was in Alberta in 1954-57-58 and Watson for Manitoba in 1936, 1943 and 1949.

Saturday's playoff was set up when Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba ended the 11-rink round robin competition with eight victories and two losers each.

A crowd of about 1,500 watched on in amazement when Alberta blanked Ed Lukowich after ends and it was soon all over except for the official presentation of the 1962 annual Ford Motor tankard to the winners and some post-mortems.

WENT STILL BEST

And it was proof that the west was still best in the east and stays best in the season and stone game. Throughout the six-day competition fans see a farmers' played the front-end knockout, a counting game and a game that laid down in front of the house all set up to be killed. The figure is that someone is going to miss, opening the gates for the opposition to curl in with its slow-moving draw.

The records show that it is the best way to win, although spectators get more kick out of watching the draw.

Saskatchewan's victory made it No. 28 for the west in 30 years.

TAKES ALPINE TITLE

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP)— Reddy Beheon of Vancouver swept to a spectacular win the Canadian senior alpine championships on North Star Hill Saturday. He edged out Peter Duncan of Mont Tremblant, Que., by 7-10th seconds to win the slalom after taking second place Saturday in the downhill.

Crawfords Win Hoop Round

Belleville Crawford Metals advanced into the second round of the Ontario Senior Basketball Association Intermediate "C" playdowns Saturday night when they defeated the Trenton Wilsons 71-57 in Trenton.

Crawford's won the points-to-date series 123-116 and will meet Final Bi'th of Kingston in the second round. The first game will be played in Kingston this coming Saturday with the second back here on Saturday, March 24.

Belleville jumped into an early lead against the Wilsons Saturday and then came up with a strong checking game to protect it. Crawford's turned in a good all-round performance to earn the victory. It was 36-26 at half time.

The winners had only six players dressed for the game and were forced to finish with but four men when two players fouled out of the game with a little over four minutes left to play.

Bill Green and Teddy Batchelor topped the Crawford scorers, each hitting for 16 points. Don Smith collected 14 and Bert Faulkner had 11.

Stephens paced the Trenton squad with 24 points while Warren Holiday had 12 and Will Borden, Crew Wilsons' big scoring gun, ten.

The Crawford's Bill Green was given the job of checking Borden and held the Trenton ace to just ten points while scoring 18 himself.

B'nai B'rith, led by Belleville's Jerry Walters, as well as several other Belleville players attending school in Kingston, is said to have a top club that will give the Crawfords a tough battle.

Belleville Crawfords (71): B. Green 16, T. Batchelor 16, D. Smith 14, B. Faulkner 11, M. Caswell, 8, D. Skinner 6.

Trenton Wilsons (57): D. Burks 8, W. Whitley 13, Stephens 24, G. Brown 2, C. Whitley, Bambers 5, W. Borden 10, J. Theriault, M. Jeffery 1, T. Jeffery.

CAMP FORTUNE, Que. (CP) The Seventh Northern Ram Canrose, Alta., and Kaare Lien of Revelstoke, B.C., are kings of Canadian Nordic skiers as a result of weekend competitions.

Clarence Rowald raced his way to the Canadian cross-country title; his brother, Irvin, took home Nordic combined honors, and Lien led a field of 60 to victory in the Canadian ski jumping championships.

This skiing centre 32 miles north of Ottawa was also the scene of the second annual Tournament of Champions which forms part of a program aimed at improving Canada's chances in jumping events at the 1964 Olympics.

Each year, starting with last season, a Provincial is sending a team of four jumpers for a two-month training period in Europe. This year's team is made up of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, which bases its selection on the jumpers' showing in the tournament and their past records.

OTHERS IN RUNNING

The top four Sunday were Serge Dupont of Sept Iles, Marie, Ont., Jacques Charland of Trois Rivieres, Que., Lien and Real Seguin of Ottawa.

While each of the four rates consideration by the European trips for his Sunday performances, CASA officials said that Seguin, Gerry Gravelle, both of Hull, Que., and Frank Gagnon of Ottawa-Hull, will be given the nod.

Injuries kept Gravelle and Garfield out of the running Sunday but officials said their would rating would be weighed before the team is announced within the next few days.

Those who went overseas this season were Lien, Gartrell, Gravelle and Frank McInnes of Fort William, who finished fifth Sunday.

A feature of the weekend jumping were the back-to-back displays of Charland, six time Canadian champion. Charland is serving a suspension for labelling national coach Franz Beiler, "incompetent."

That cost him a trip to Europe this season but Charland came to Ottawa determined to wipe out that unhappy memory and to win back CASA favor. He was second in both the Canadian meet and the tournament.

Providence and Quebec each won, and remained in a tie for the last playoff spot in the east. The Reds took Hershey 5-3 while Quebec survived eastern leader Springfield 6-5 after being bombed Pittsburgh 9-2.

Hull-Ottawa Takes Over EPL Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For fans who get carried away by the leadership race, the Eastern Professional Hockey League gave them a bang-up weekend. Three teams had a slice of top spot.

And hockey sticks never ran such punishment.

As Hull - Ottawa Canadiens went into the position of first place Sunday, coach Wren Blair of Kingston Frontenacs, enraged over a tripping penalty to one of his players, grabbed every stick within reach and smashed them to the concrete floor.

He was thrown out of the game, as Canadiens went on to a 6-3 victory.

While this was entertaining Hull-Ottawa fans, North Bay Trappers were moving to within seven points of fourth position—the last rung on the playoff ladder. They whipped Sault Ste. Marie Thunder bird, 5-3, and the Sault's coach, Jack Stewart, blew his stack with a referee's bell. The game ended in a brawl with Stewart and trainer Ed Dallon both getting bashed by the cowbell-wielding fan.

BEAT IN SHOOT-OUT

The defeat left Sault Ste. Marie in the cellar, six points behind Kingston.

In Saturday's action Kingston moved into a second-place tie for the night by pounding fourth - place Sudbury Wolves 12-2.

This particular game featured a stick-swinging duel that nearly touched off a post-game riot. Sudbury's Ted Wright and Kingston's Bob Woytowich were leaving their sticks on the ice, then on their way to the dressing room, Wright took a hefty swipe at a fan. He also punched another.

In Kitchener, meanwhile, a record crowd of 6,000 saw Hull-Ottawa Canadiens edge the Trappers nicked Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers 3-2. Players from both teams piled over the boards and staged a free-for-all before order was finally restored.

All three games left Hull-Ottawa in first place, one point more than Kingston and Kitchener-Waterloo, both tied for second. Sudbury has 56, North Bay 39 and Sault Ste. Marie 45 points.

Minor Hockey

Quinte won the semi-final round of the bantam playoffs in Ontario Minor Hockey Association of the Maple Leafs 7-3 for a 5-3 series victory.

Ron Arrestoff sparked the winners with three goals while Ken D. Dixon, Bob Blackburn and S. LaMoore also earned two assists each with Angelina-tone for T. Harrison, C. MacFarlane and Watson, G. Lucas and Gerry Charette, markers while D. Muldoon got the other. Arrestoff already had an assist.

Exhibition games in the bantam loop saw the Barons blank Trenton Bisons 6-0, Black Hawks edge the Canadiens 3-2, Barons shutout the Red Wings 3-0 and Flyers the Rangers blank the Macs 2-0.

The first game of the peewee league finals, the Barons whipped the Red Wings 7-2 and got a five-goal hat trick into the second game Tuesday night.

John Holgate again starred for the Barons, scoring no less than four goals in the game. Scott and R. Lambert added a goal each while T. Drumen, D. Loder, C. Scott and T. Drown had assists. L. Moore fired both Red Wings markers.

Exhibition scores in the peewee league were: Browns 3 Maple Leafs 2; Canadiens 4 Rangers 4; Macs 4 Quinte 2; Black Hawks 7 Bruins 5.

Redfish Life of Sand Flats

Upper Florida Bay is just about the world's most fascinating body of water. The bay proper covers approximately 1800 square miles of territory, bounded on the east by the upper Florida Keys, on the north by the Florida mainland, and on the west by a dotted line of "outside keys" which mark the division between the bay and the Gulf of Mexico. From the Florida Keys to the western "outside keys" it is roughly 30 miles as the crow flies.

There are few places in upper Florida Bay, say the top half, that are over six feet deep. The whole area is a maze of sand flats, channels, mangrove keys (a few dry ones but most of them decidedly wet) and acres upon acres of grass, flats, shallows and practically a sea of navigable. The place makes an ideal spawning grounds for countless thousands of fish. Also, it harbors a goodly population of resident game fish in addition to the migrants which show up in season each year.

As might be expected, there is a wide variety of game fish in these waters. I believe 38 species in all. But the ones about which we hear most are tarpon, bonefish, snook, permit, crevalle and, last but not least, redfish. This fellow is, as you probably know, the channel bass and he is called most especially when along the shorelines of the eastern seaboard states. But in Florida he is known simply as the redfish.

The redfish, being a member of the drum family, is fond of crustaceans. He is far too slow to catch any of the smaller food fish, such as the mullet. So when he is hungry you will find him grubbing about in the turtle grass of the shell flats in search of crabs, shrimp, cock worms, etc. Those he can catch without too much effort.

MOVES TO SHALLOWS

Redfish, like all salt-water game fish, respond to the promptings of a solunar period. When old Mother Nature rings the dinner bell he will leave the comparative security of the pot hole or channel where he is been resting — and, believe me, he is a great fan of solunar tables — and move into the shallows in search of food. Often you will find him in water that is so shallow it doesn't cover his dorsal fin.

We fish for redfish with regular fly-rod gear — a nine-foot or so rod, preferably of the rod, a single-action reel, a forward taper line and a leader tapered to twelve-pound test nylon. Red and white or red and yellow streamer flies are good for redfish; so are white or yellow bucktails. Now and then, in very shallow water, we use the salt-water version of bass bugs or popping bugs. A redfish who is actively on the feed holds these lures in high favor.

Fishing for redfish is an interesting piece of business. The Florida redfish skiffs rarely draw more than four or five inches of water. Thus, we can move slowly across the shallows. A feeding redfish is easily spotted in shallow water. Every time he buries his nose in the grass, rooting out crabs, etc., his tail is lifted above the surface, giving that telltale flash that we recognize. Then it's a game is to move into casting position so that the fish can be reached with anything up to seventy feet of line.

Unlike the bonefish or the snook, who are shy in the extreme, a feeding redfish is not easily alarmed. You can spot your lure within two or three feet of him without spooking him. As a matter of fact, unless you do place your lure quite close to him, the chances are that he won't see it. Most of the time he is occupied with what is going on directly in front of him. After all, that is where he finds his food, say eight or ten feet away. Always I try to cast three or four feet beyond him and then bring the lure across, right in front of his nose.

The manner in which a redfish gets a relatively small lure in an amusing thing to watch. Certainly, in all of his life he never has seen anything even remotely resembling a red and white streamer fly or a bass bug. That, however, makes little difference. He regards this exotic bauble as though it were a mamma from Heaven, sent down especially for him by an everkind Providence. That being the case, he falls upon your offering with a gusto that leaves no room for doubt.

HE'S ALWAYS EASY

Always when a fish strikes I prefer to wait until he turns before I set the hook, this to avoid lip-hooking and probably losing him. With a redfish this is not always necessary. Many times, after taking the lure, he will settle down contentedly for a position, munching the lure as though savoring the new flavor. By pulling, first to one and apply gentle pressure, he is apt to settle back and go right with the line, clamping down on the lure to reduce it to a proper mouthful. Nothing if not methodical, he will then put to apply pressure with the hook that he will be set in the tough gristle of the front of his mouth.

Now and then you anticipate what a redfish will do, once he discovers that he is hooked and is in trouble. After all, he has the equipment to wage a terrific battle against the equipment, should he decide to do so. In this respect, at times he will wear himself out by thrashing around in the litle pot holes in the bay where he is feeding. Again, he will bulldog it deep, making determined little wide circles around the boat. Now and then you will find one heading for the open bay, frightened by a bonefish. Away he will go, with the bonefish heading for deep water, making the reel fairly smoke. No doubt about it, the redfish is full of variety.

Seldom do we kill many redfish. But now and then, when we happen to feel like a change of diet, we bring in one or two around the five-pound mark. Baby Friend, Bobby, chef at the Walwyn House in Islamorada, can do things with a redfish that defy description. Only by sampling can you understand the complete gustatory delight of a redfish cooked Bobby's way.

Last year, when hurricane Donna ripped Florida Bay to pieces, we were worried about the fate of the redfish. Well, we need not have worried. The redfish are back in the bay in satisfactory numbers. And that is all it should be. Without him, life on Florida Bay would be dull indeed.

London Wins Hoop Opener

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — In tooth London seniors half the game to get untracked here Saturday, but once they started to roll there was nothing Windsor's Embassy Hotel team could do about it.

The result was a decisive 90-79 victory for the former Tillsonburg Livingston crew, now playing as a London entry in their quest for the Canadian senior basketball title.

The second game of the Windsor-London series for the Ontario Basketball Association Senior A title will be played at London Saturday night.

Explaining his squad's slow start, London coach Roger Macaulay said: "We haven't been able to practice in London and it hurts us early in every game. Besides, we just got John McKibbon back with the team and Doug Marshall, who lives in Niagara Falls, never gets to see practices. We went pretty well in that second half, though."

Windsor held a 46-45 lead at half time.

The Paradine Case Whittled Down, Lost Ingredients

By CYNTHIA LOWAY

NEW YORK (AP)—After six or seven attempts it must be clear to the Theatre Guild producers that they can't whittle a good two-hour movie down to a 90-minute television show without losing something.

The last ingredients in Sunday night's NBC adaptation of The Paradine Case were the characters. It was a courtroom drama, well acted and staged, but the basic audience never felt any familiarity with the characters.

Thus, when Mrs. Paradine turned out to be, after all, a murderer, there was no surprise—even sympathy. We didn't know her, her husband or her lover well enough to really care one way or another.

Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic, on the other hand, had plenty of time earlier on CBS for leisurely production of Carmen—not the opera, but Bizet's original musical play complete with the dramatic son-mistical interludes (and two sets of Carmens and Don Josés), one set for singing and another for acting.

There was also time, of course, for Bernstein's little talks (talks!) on the work's seeding and heat.

All in all, it was a rather routine weekend of viewing.

ABC's Target: The corruptors lost no time after the death of Lesley Lucius in turning out My Native Land, an episode about a deported gangster. The writer lord is played by Cesar Romero.

Recommended tonight: Thriller, NBC, 10-11 EST—TV.

Of her own notable career: "I don't really feel I've done anything at all until back at all those years and shudder." Of the theatre: "If I had a daughter who wanted to go on the stage, I'd say 'well, alright' If I had a son who did I'd fight like a steer."

Interviewed by Army Saturday and a 3-2 conquest of Chicago Black Hawks Sunday night.

Miss Leighton, a tall, lean blonde from Britain, is appearing in The Night of the Iguana, the latest lurid dramatic sortie by Tennessee Williams.

Her vivid portrayal, by public acclaim and critical verdict, seems likely to sweep the year's feminine acting honors. The main rival for such citation is Wendy Hiller, another English spellbinder, in The Aspern Papers.

Just how does Miss Leighton go about creating a character?

"I don't work the same way and did when I was much younger," replies the lady who marked her 40th birthday a couple of weeks ago.

"I used to go into details right at the start. The more parts you play, the more you learn to get hold of the whole rather than snapping all along the line."

DOES HER BEST

"The important thing is to have done the best you could. What I feel means more to me than what I'm told."

Why does she feel the stage (on a while, anyway) is a girl, but—net a boy?

"I think the characteristics demanded—not demanded, but usually found—in theatre people are more suitable to a woman's way of life than to a man's. And I think the hazards and consequences suit a woman."

The twice-wed, twice-divorced star declines to specify whether any of this relates to her own life. Three husbands were a book publisher and actor Laurence Harvey). She simply says:

"Nobody forces me to go on stage, nobody forces me to do another play. I don't know what I'd do if I didn't though. I'd be in an awful pickle."

Astrological Forecast

For March 13
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Do not engage in gossip . . . and do not permit the gossip of others to depress or elate you. You gain most by sincerity. Seek fair way of accomplishing purpose. Key word: Versatility.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Strive for originality. No time to follow mob! Exercise independency of thought, action! Spotlight on personality. You can win your way now. Strike while iron is hot!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Emphasize the plus! . . . Don't play down the negative. Don't surround yourself with persons who complain, who depress . . . Look out for your own interests first. By so doing, you also make loved ones happy.

OUR 64th YEAR

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): You obtain what you seek. If you are looking for an unpleasant situation . . . you will find it. Opportunity for making new friends . . . expressing creative side . . . fine for romance!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): If you take care of details today, including visits, letter-writing, telephone calls, paying bills . . . it will prove fruitful. If you skip over basics . . . you miss numerous opportunities.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Temptation to path of personal progress . . . the choice is your own. If you wish to pay the price of tarrying . . . go right ahead. But, in long run, price may prove higher.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Strength is on your side . . . no need to flex muscles or "dance off." Recent days have seen you breaking through flood of red tape. Now you can begin whistling the tune and watch others "dance."

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Now is time to "lie low" . . . but you can plan, create . . . quietly. This is not time to pressure . . . nor to sign contracts. Do more listening than talking.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Attend to responsibilities at home. Going far afield might be a waste of energy, finances. Don't panic if all does not go according to plan. You are due to gain.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Stress on intellectual curiosity —which means you should not be satisfied merely to know something is happening . . . but must investigate why. Discover motive of one who may toss bouquets, and flatter.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Loosen up and allow others to communicate their thoughts, feelings . . . even resentments. This communication essential. But today . . . trend is for you to withdraw . . . check this.

* * *

If today is your birthday — this year could find you moving in or more secure domestic position. You have artistic tendencies, but to develop maximum talent you must work toward fulfillment. June and November outstanding.

* * *

General Tendencies: Kind of day when extra showmanship is required. Emphasis on travel, entertainment . . . and spotlight is on professionals. The bland, routine, everyday approach apt to fail . . . think, and go with tide.

U.S. Declines Promise to Buy Columbia Power

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province says Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia has been refused any firm undertaking by United States power agencies that they would purchase downstream benefits from power due Canada under the Columbia River Treaty if Columbia development goes ahead.

The newspaper says Mr. Bennett asked for such an undertaking in a letter to the director Charles Luce of the U.S. Bonneville Power Administration.

It says the premier asked for a written undertaking from Mr. Luce that the agency would buy Canada's share of downstream benefits. Mr. Luce replied that neither he nor any other U.S. official could make such a commitment.

It says Mr. Luce refused to make a commitment because of market uncertainties and lack of agreement between the B.C. and federal governments.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this life changing substance right in the privacy of their own homes without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, very striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem." And among these sufferers were a very large number of long-standing conditions, some of even 10 to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of surgery, injections or anaesthetics of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous scientists. Already, Bio-Dyne is in use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Money-back guarantee if not completely satisfied.

If Car Stalls Check Ignition, Fuel System

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

A stalled engine — like so many car troubles — can be caused by dozens of things. But keep in mind that an inaccurate fuel gauge (or an inattentive driver) has often let the gas tank run dry. Sometimes, the engine stalls only on sudden stops. This points an accusing finger at the carburetor dashpot, which is designed to slow down throttle closing. If it's out of adjustment or defective, the throttle closes too quickly for the engine stalls.

Other possibilities involving the fuel system include: low or idling speed, flooding, vapor lock, manifold air leakage, weak pump pressure, low carburetor float level, water or dirt in the gas and restricted fuel passages.

The usual ignition system causes are bad points, dirty (or cracked) plugs, a failing coil or faulty wiring. . .

T.T. asks: "I have a '52 model sedan with a stick shift, and the clutch squeaks. Can you say what causes this?"

(A) A good guess is that the clutch release bearing is starving for lubrication.

From F.Y.: "I don't understand your statement in last carburetor icing can develop when the temperature is 40 or 50 degrees. How is it possible if freezing occurs at 32 degrees or lower?"

(A) Ice is formed by nearly a 1-to-1 vaporization of fuel, which can create the temperature to drop 20 degrees or possibly more. When humidity is high, this drop causes moisture in the air to freeze and form ice at the carburetor throttle plate.

E.B. writes: "My car was slipping out of high gear, and a local mechanic told me I needed a new clutch. Dubious, I went to another garage where a mechanic tightened a linkage nut and cured the trouble. Can only conclude that the first mechanic is either unqualified or dishonest. How does one select a mechanic, anyhow?"

(A) A tough question. However, even a highly skilled, reputable doctor may make an incorrect diagnosis. Admittedly, there are quacks, just as there are phony mechanics who specialize in the easy dollar.

From R.S.: "I have a new '62 convertible, the first convertible I've ever owned. Are the windshield and each metal post that runs between it and the vent window supposed to vibrate and wiggle from side to side? This happens except on perfectly smooth pavement."

(A) If this were supposed to be, convertibles would be ruled off the road as unsafe. Better register a strong complaint with the dealer, right away.

Nine Canadians Implicated In Dope Racket

Moved Gold and Opium In Cities in Indochina

OTTAWA (CP)—Seven Canadian soldiers and two Canadian civil servants have been implicated in a smuggling racket in Indochina.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons Monday the smuggling involved movement of gold and opium from one city in Indochina to another.

The two civilian-canada clerks of the external affairs department—have been suspended and face dismissal, Mr. Diefenbaker said they signed statements admitting they smuggled gold and opium on behalf of a Chinese.

An officer and a non-commissioned officer were charged in gold smuggling, while five other soldiers were reported to have engaged in smuggling gold and opium.

INVESTIGATION GOES ON

Disciplinary action was taken against some of "the military personnel in Indochina, said Mr. Diefenbaker. Investigations of the others were continuing.

The mixed commission of the smuggling activities were discovered last year. Those involved in the racket still in Indochina were recalled to Canada.

The issue was raised when Canada's delegation to the international truce supervisory commission in Indochina reported they were given.

Opposition in the Commons, informants held out the possibility that the seven military men will be court martialled. Mr. Diefenbaker understood the smuggling involved movement between Hanoi, capitals of South Viet Nam and Communist North Viet Nam and Communist.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the House Mr. Pearkes had warned demanded that the record be set straight in view of "inaccurate" statements outside the Commons by Erhart Regier (CCF—Durham-Ontario).

Under questioning by Mr. Regier in the Commons last week, Defence Minister Pearkes declined refused to give any information on the case, beyond admitting that an officer had been brought home for wrongdoing.

FINDS NO EVIDENCE

Mr. Diefenbaker said there is no evidence that Canadians involved in the international commissions smuggled narcotics into Indochina. Nor was there anything to indicate that the case was connected with recent trafficking in narcotics in Canada.

Such suggestions had been made by Mr. Regier.

Mr. Diefenbaker said some of those involved received "sums of money" in connection with reports concerning the amounts involved for smuggling were greatly exaggerated.

Answering a demand by H. W. Herridge, Calgary leader of the CCF — New Democratic Party, that criminal action be taken against those implicated, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Criminal Code does not cover offences committed outside Canada.

7 Babies Dead, Fight to Save Remaining Four

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A John Hopkins specialist joined teams of experts today in the battle to save four critically ill babies fed a salt-laden formula at Binghamton General Hospital, where seven infants have died since Friday.

Dr. Lawrence Finberg flew from Baltimore to help in the round-the-clock efforts to physicians and nurses.

Ten babies who drank the formula, including the four in critical condition, all were in the city-owned hospital.

The seven deaths were being investigated by state, local and hospital authorities. Dr. Jason K. Moyer, hospital medical director, said one of the babies that died had not been fed the salt formula.

"We are not sure whether sodium intoxication (salt poisoning) was responsible for the deaths," Moyer told a press conference Monday night. He said the cause of the deaths will not be known definitely until autopsies are completed.

Finberg is an expert in dialysis — restoring chemical balance to the blood. He joined Dr. John Kiley of Albany Medical College in directing the team attempting the save the four.

The treatment consists of removal and replacement of the infants' blood by transfusion.

The latest baby to die was four-day-old Michelle Dawn Bower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bower of Binghamton.

Bank Report Highlights

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of the Bank of Canada report by Governor Louis Rasminsky, tabled Monday in the Commons:

The decline in the Canadian dollar's exchange value has given Canada a special opportunity to attack major problems of economic adjustment.

The country must avoid a new round of price and cost increases and vigorously exploit present opportunities for new business.

The money supply rose nine per cent last year.

Without the monetary expansion, interest cost would have been higher and growth in spending would have been retarded.

Gross national product rose seven per cent between the first and fourth quarters of 1961 — indicating an annual rate of some $35,000,000 in the fourth quarter.

Despite a major increase in business and government borrowing, credit conditions did not tighten and interest rates declined.

The central bank is keeping an open mind on the issue of whether it should set its bank rate, now geared to changing interest rates in the short-term money market.

Between the first and fourth quarters of last year, total personal income rose 5½ per cent, personal spending nearly five per cent and corporation profits 30 per cent.

LOWER VALUE OF DOLLAR SAID MOST HELPFUL

Bank Governor Reports to House

OTTAWA (CP)—In his first annual report as governor of the Bank of Canada, Louis Rasminsky Monday called on Canadian industry to meet the opportunities created by the lowered exchange value of the Canadian dollar.

This, he said, is "clearly essential."

And the basic requirements were "a well - trained energetic and adaptable working population, dynamic business leadership, the imaginative application of modern technology, good marketing practices, and perhaps above all the determination to be competitive."

At the same time, Mr. Rasminsky—who retires from the post E. Coyne next July 24—said it was also essential to avoid "a fresh upward thrust of domestic prices and costs."

The real determinant of our prosperity and welfare will be our ability to compete in a world of rapidly rising standards of economic productivity and efficiency," he said in the report which Finance Minister Fleming tabled in the Commons.

WON'T OBJECT

Mr. Fleming said the government would not object to Mr. Rasminsky appearing before the Commons banking and commerce committee this year. If the governor does appear, it would be the first time since 1956 that this was done.

Mr. Rasminsky, 56, in his report:

Last year's nine-per-cent rise in Canada's money supply was not of "material assistance" in encouraging economic recovery.

Price increases had been moderate.

The unemployment rate—not including seasonal factors—declined from just under eight per cent of the labor force at the beginning of 1961 to just under six per cent at the end of the year.

Total personal incomes rose 5½ per cent between the first and fourth quarters of last year.

In the same period personal spending rose nearly five per cent and corporation profits 30 per cent.

PRICES NOT TIGHTEN

Despite a big increase in borrowing—by governments, businesses and individuals — "credit conditions did not tighten."

Drizzle After Heavy Snow Results in Flooded Streets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Light snow and drizzle fell over Ontario today in the wake of rain and snow that struck parts of the province Monday.

The storm staggered traffic under ope of the heaviest snowstorms of the season, Western Ontario residents sloshed through flooded streets.

The storm dropped 10 inches of new on the capital by early Monday night, clogging streets and highways and disrupting power service.

(Many rural school children already stranded by the storm in communities of Gatineau and Temagami were bedded down at homes in the latter and their buses bogged down in snow.

Highway 17 between Ottawa and Arnprior, about 30 miles northwest of the capital, was blocked 2½ hours by snow and ice.

Power failures put Ottawa television stations off the air for short periods and downtown Sparks Street was without lights briefly. Police, appealing to motorists to stay off the streets, reported at least 300 minor accidents.

At Sarnia, bulldozers were used to break up ice and push at roadsides to permit the water to drain. Tank trucks synboned water in the streets.

Castro Announces Stringent Food Rationing This Month

CP from Reuters-AP

HAVANA —, Premier Fidel Castro announced Monday night his government plans to impose stringent rationing of food and other goods in Cuba later this month.

Castro told of the rationing plans in a television broadcast in which he declared "we have inherited a hell."

He also admitted shortcomings in his revolution, saying he and "we have not made an objective analysis."

We fell into subjectivism and promised certain things in a few months when we were unable to solve the problem in that time," Castro said.

The Cuban leader also called for a "great battle in the field of agricultural production."

Under the program, there will be three categories of rationing —those applying in Havana only, those applying in cities and towns and those in force throughout the country.

The food rationing will mean that each Cuban will receive three pounds of rice per week, two ounces of beans per week, one pound of edible eggs a month, and a half a pound of fish in 15 days.

The weekly allotment of beans will be 24 ounces, rice six pounds and potatoes or yams 15 pounds.

Liberal Charges Collusion In Timber Grant in B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Judy LaMarsh (L, Niagara Falls) charged Monday night there was "obvious, near-fraud collusion" between an employee and a former employee of the citizenship department in the granting of a licence to cut timber on the Tsimpsean No. 2 Reserve in British Columbia.

She also told the Commons it appeared that all the people connected with the firm which got the licence are supporters of the Conservative party.

Citizenship Minister Ellen Fairclough angrily interjected that she was not going to "sit here and let Miss LaMarsh accuse members of my department of collusion."

The Liberal MP replied that she did not think Mrs. Fairclough knowsy the full facts of the case. "It is my legal training," said Miss La Marsh, a lawyer, "I have never seen such an obvious, bare-faced case of collusion."

The spat between the two women grew out of the award of a timber licence to Shortline Lumber Company of Vancouver.

Miss La Marsh said the chief executive officer of the citizenship department's Vancouver office, Paul Brett, is a former associate and employee of F. J. G. Johnson, one of Shortline's directors.

She said Beaufort Industries Limited of Vancouver bid $2,237,505—to be paid in cash and kind—for the timber-cutting li-

TWO CHARGED IN BOMBING OF POWER TOWER

Both Members of Doukhobor Sect

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Two members of the fanatical sect of Freedom Doukhobor sect were to be arraigned in court here today on charges of setting the dynamite which blew up a huge power pylon on Kootenay Lake last week.

John Arishenkoff, 37, and Jack Kalmakoff, 25, were being brought here from Creston, 40 miles to the southeast. They have been charged with placing explosives with intent to cause damage.

The power tower was felled by three shots that crippled industry in the Kootenays. The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, which owns 40 per cent of the province's industry in southern B.C., has said of 1,000 men and cut production.

Attorney - General Robert Bonner said in the legislature the Social Credit government has asked the federal government to station army units in the Kootenays for practical training.

The attorney-general said the request was made in the belief the presence of troops would have a favorable psychological effect on terrorists.

MAY REPLY TODAY

A federal spokesman in Ottawa said the ministers involved have not had time to study Mr. Bonner's request but indicated a reply may be made in the House of Commons today.

Ninety-five members of the stormy religious sect have been arrested since last fall, when the RCMP cracked down on extremists which has plagued the Kootenays for almost 50 years.

There have been more than 800 burnings and bombings since 1923 and 30 attacks this year.

The Freedomites, who number nearly a trouble spot, the headquarters in the shack town of Grand Forks.

Some Freedomites ask more policing of their villages. They say they really wanted to catch terrorists and if Krestovo was really a trouble spot, the town would be placed under guard. Members of the sect say they have been in and out Krestova without being stopped by police.

Drop Proposals For Tight Check On Nuclear Tests

Kennedy's Inspection Plan Held Impractical

GENEVA (AP)—The United States and Britain were reported today to have dropped proposals by President Kennedy for a sweeping international inspection system to safeguard against secret preparations by the Soviet Union for nuclear weapon tests.

A high Western source said U.S. and British experts had advised U.S. State Secretary Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home that the proposal is impractical because of continued Russian opposition to widespread on-the-spot inspection behind the Soviet frontiers.

Rusk and Home were reported to believe the new plan gives hope to negotiate is an agreement providing for some sort of spot checks in known testing areas.

Kennedy recently cited the need for safeguards against secret test explosions because the Soviet Union caught the West by surprise when it broke its voluntary test ban moratorium last year. At the time Britain was still negotiating in Geneva for a test ban treaty.

REDS WON'T BUDGE

The Russians said the Russians, in informal talks Monday night in preparation for the 17-nation disarmament conference opening Wednesday, stood firm on their Soviet position that on-the-spot inspection is unnecessary to detect nuclear blasts.

The Soviet Union contends that detection instruments are adequate so highly developed they can detect nuclear explosions anywhere.

Monday the Russians released a statement on Soviet disarmament proposals which Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is expected to put before the disarmament conference.

Republican Senator Dirksen from Acting Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations. Gromyko called for an international convention banning the use of nuclear weapons; a pledge by the United States, France and the Soviet Union not to transfer nuclear weapons or information on how to produce them to other countries; a pledge by the nonnuclear countries not to produce or acquire nuclear weapons; and to allow their stationing on their territory of foreign troops in Africa and central Europe as bases from which nuclear weapons would be launched.

Transport Minister Diefenbaker said seven Canadian soldiers and two civil servants smuggled gold and opium in Indochina.

Mr. Diefenbaker told Mr. Regier (CCF—Durham-Ontario) that the seven military men will be court martialled.

Mr. Fleming said the government would not object to Mr. Rasminsky appearing before the Commons banking and commerce committee this year. If the governor does appear, it would be the first time since 1956 that this was done.

Mr. Rasminsky, 56, in his report:

Last year's nine-per-cent rise in Canada's money supply was not of "material assistance" in encouraging economic recovery.

Price increases had been moderate.

The unemployment rate—not including seasonal factors—declined from just under eight per cent of the labor force at the beginning of 1961 to just under six per cent at the end of the year.

Total personal incomes rose 5½ per cent between the first and fourth quarters of last year.

In the same period personal spending rose nearly five per cent and corporation profits 30 per cent.

DOORS NOT TIGHTEN

Despite a big increase in borrowing—by governments, businesses and individuals — "credit conditions did not tighten."

Saskatchewan Physician Claims He Has Found Fallout Protective

HERBERT, Sask. (CP) — A physician here claims to have developed a product that could make cattle and sheep resistant to radioactive fallout.

Dr. K. G. De Vere says the product uses sodium sulphate found in large quantities near this community, 130 miles west of Regina.

Dr. De Vere, native of Ireland, said in an interview Monday the sodium sulphate reduces the intensity of gamma rays.

He said he developed the process in his own laboratory in the last few months and tested it by bombarding the product with gamma rays.

Dr. De Vere said his product could be used to line fallout shelters and for treating fibre used in the manufacture of clothing for fallout protection. Such clothing would enable persons to move from shelter to shelter following an atomic blast or to enter a contaminated area.

He said that before becoming a physician he was a physicist and lecturer in Britain.

MEMBER CLAIMS BILL DANGEROUS IN PRINCIPLE

Cabinet Could Wipe Out OMB Decision

TORONTO (CP) — An opposition member charged Monday in the legislature that a government bill sets up a "dangerous" principle of cabinet authority over Ontario Municipal Board decisions.

Vernon Singer (L — Toronto-York Centre) said the bill "establishes a new and very dangerous principle" of cabinet authority.

Mr. Singer said the proposed amendment to the Ontario Municipal Board act gives the cabinet the right to change or wipe out a municipal board decision "without notice and without a hearing."

Minister strongly that the amendment follows a recent Ontario Appeal Court ruling that a similar order - in - council had been invalid. He said the government was trying to "bail itself out" of predicament.

The attack met with no response as the legislature gave second reading to permissive principle—to the bill. Municipal Affairs Minister Dymond told the House that it could be discussed when the standing committee on municipal law meets for clause-by-clause review of the bill.

CASE CASE

Mr. Singer cited the case of a North York subdivider who had been given permission to proceed with his subdivision by the municipal board. He said an appeal by some ratepayers had been made to the cabinet, which had ordered the municipal board to review its decision

He said it was the first time the cabinet had stepped in under a section of the Municipal Board Act which gave it the power to intervene after posting notice and the holding of a hearing.

The subdivider had gone to the Appeal Court, which had unanimously that the order-in-council was completely invalid," he said. It was not a matter for appeal and hearing, Mr. Singer said. He said the amendment now

U.S. Advisors Training Saseno To Fight Communist Guerrillas

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military advisers have started training Thailand's army to fight Communist guerrillas, apparently in anticipation that Thailand may be the next target of the Red drive to control Southeast Asia.

Informed sources said today the training to counter guerrilla and insurgent warfare began in recent months.

Although there have been no reports of significant Communist guerrilla activity in Thailand, officials of the pro-Western Bangkok government have been growing more and more concerned that they may face such a threat if a Communist-leaning neutralist regime takes over in neighboring Laos.

Laos is alleged to have been a staging area and an avenue for Communist infiltration. Reinforcements of Communist guerrilla troops to topple the government of South Viet Nam.

In an attempt to avoid hitting the child, Mr. McIntyre swung his vehicle sharply to the right, jumped the curb and struck a hydro pole.

His car was damaged to the extent of $300. No one was injured as a result of the accident. It is believed the boy was brushed by the car but he was not hurt.

Only Six Days Remain to See Big Exhibit

Only six days remain to see the big exhibit of French painting at the Art Gallery of Bloomfield. Some collectors, besides old masters, called Heritage De France, closes Sunday after noon on March 24, p.m.

Attendance, slowed down by continuous rain and snow during the first week, has climbed steadily to a daily average of 1,300 visitors, a total of 31,281 for the first 24 days of the show.

Peak day to date was last Sunday, March 11th when 2,629 people were admitted through the French paintings in a four hour period.

A new system of radio-phone tours is proving unexpectedly popular. 1,900 receivers have been rented since the transistor system was installed at the Gallery two weeks ago to supplement the four live guided tours a day.

By actual count last week, 200 school classes will have seen the Heritage De France. Students are brought to the Gallery in chartered buses under the supervision of two of their regular teachers. A member of the Gallery staff takes them through the collection, explaining both the art and history of the 17th and 18 centuries.

Of the 224 adult-groups booking private tours, a large number are from out-of-town. Recently, visitors came from Hamilton, Burlington, Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterborough and Buffalo have come to Toronto just to see the French show.

The last day for tours will be at the Art Gallery until next Sunday, March 19th. The exhibition is open on weekdays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.

The Gallery will be closed this week of March 18th to pack the French pictures for shipment to their home Gallery. Also during the Ontario Society of Artists Exhibition collection of Eskimo prints which opens March 30th and April 4th, respectively.

We Will Win Diefenbaker Says in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — In slowing pre-election form Prime Minister Diefenbaker Saturday told party supporters here and in then county organizations and declared the Progressive Conservatives will win the next federal election "when it comes."

The Prime Minister remained the election without giving a clue as to when it would come. He made the announcement after Jacques Flynn, MP for Quebec South and now minister since December.

He had this to say about the next election:

"All I can say at this time is that I have been around the country and that whenever it comes we are still going to be the government of this country.

"Indeed as the economy goes up and up, the Liberals' record to built their program on degrading our economic policy, their hopes are going down and down."

Mr. Diefenbaker described the Liberals as the prophets of doom.

"For four long years, all we have heard from them is gloom, doom, fear and pessimism," he said.

He charged that many candidates being nominated by the Liberals were former high civil servants who during and after World War II "created our Parliament around."

They belonged to "a group who pressed down the Canadian people and denied them their rights."

U.S. Jury Considers Case Involving Brockville Holdup

CHICAGO (AP)—A U.S. district court jury resumes deliberations today in the case of three men accused of trafficking in heroin from a $250,000 Canadian bank burglary.

The jury of seven men and five women got the case Monday after defence and government lawyers had concluded their closing arguments before Judge Julius Hoffman.

The jury deliberated until 11 p.m. and then were locked up overnight in a downtown hotel.

On trial are George Rosden, 36, of Somerset, Md.; Lloyd Wilson, 32, of Chicago, and Sam Caruso, 37, of New Kensington, Pa. They are charged with interstate transportation of stolen property from the 1962 theft from the Brockville, Ont., Trust and Savings Company. The trial began Jan. 21.

The defendants were declared by the government in its closing arguments as examples of "daring and dared with utter contempt for the laws under which we all live."

A defence lawyer claimed: "The government has failed to make a case beyond a reasonable doubt."

MANNARINO THE SOURCE

Government witness Joseph Mannarino as the source for the stolen bonds through his alleged connections in the underworld in Montreal.

Mannarino got in touch with Rabin, the government contended, who was a "jack-of-all-trades who had a lust for power and money." Rabin in turn got in contact with Rosden, government lawyers alleged, describing Rosden as "the interpol of the underworld" because of the entry to international finance.

Rosden operates an international law practice from Washington.

The government outlined the alleged activities of the defendents in November of 1958, after Credit Suisse, a bank in Basel, Switzerland, complained to Rosden that some bonds pledged as security there had been identified as part of the Brockville bank loot.

Mannarino's lawyer, Vincent Casey, said witnesses had established a similar transaction on those dates, when the government had contended he was in Montreal. Casey told the jury:

Richard Gorman, Rabin's lawyer, told the jury there was no evidence to show that his client knew the bonds were stolen.

Mannarino's Credit Suisse were stolen.

The lawyer for Rosden, Peyton Ford, summarizing Rosden's defence, said his client was a victim of circumstance, thinking the bonds were valid, that Rosden acted in good faith and did make restitution when he discovered the bonds were stolen, that Rosden could not be held criminally responsible for a "mistake in judgment."

12 New Members Inducted Into Rotary Club

An induction ceremony for 13 new members was the feature attraction at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club of Belleville at the Hotel Quinte yesterday afternoon.

Past president Harold Mott conducted the induction of the program and gave an outline of the history of Rotary International from its inception in 1905 by four Chicago businessmen. It was a Canadian club which made Rotary international. Mr. Mott advised, when the first Canadian Rotary Club was founded at Winnipeg in 1910. Since then more than 11,000 clubs have been established in 127 countries around the world.

The first non-English speaking club was founded at Havana, Cuba in 1916 and since that time has spread throughout South America to the extent that simultaneous editions are printed of the club's house organ. The "Rotarian" is both English and Spanish, he said.

Members were chosen on a classification system in order to obtain a membership which would not discriminate any one group and which provided an opportunity for each member every walk of life to meet together, it was stated.

The four objects of Rotary service club, vocational, community and international were explained by Rotarians Dr. Jack Marshall, Ron Cass, Dr. Alan McLean and Newt Thompson respectively.

Secretary Ewart Saunders presented the new members with their Rotary pins, information booklets and directories.

Those inducted included Jack Parrott, Bill Holway, Alan Sprague, Bill Hollingsworth, Dr. Harold Williamson, Bill Riley, Malcom Murray, Aunet Kaiser, Bob Fyffe, Mike Mallory and Art Touchie.

Following the induction ceremony vice president Harry Hagerman gave a brief report on the recent district conference held in Toronto. He advised his fellow club members that much and every Rotarian should make a definite point of attending at least one conference when possible as it offered much benefit to the serious Rotarian.

Ted Desmond, president of the electronics club at Moira Secondary School, was the student guest of the club for the meeting. He was introduced by Rotarian Art Houston.

The club secretary paid a salute to the Rotary Club of Dudley, England, which they had received a message through Miss Ruth Nightingale of this city whose brother is a member of the Dudley club.

President Virgil James presided over the meeting.

"If it is important that there be a right of appeal from Oshawa Municipal Board rulings, then the government can do better than this bill," he added.

Mr. Singer also expressed surprise that the amendments apparently give the cabinet the right to review "every order that was ever passed" by the municipal board in its history for a 80-day period after the bill becomes law.

He doubted why the amendment was necessary and what it meant.

Earl of Avon Has Chest Operation

BOSTON (AP)—Former British prime minister Anthony Eden, 64, now the Earl of Avon, underwent an operation Monday in which a surgeon removed a benign (non-cancerous) growth from his chest.

The Lahey Clinic had originally announced the operation as exploratory, after a lesion had been discovered in Lord Avon's chest during a checkup.

But at the conclusion of the operation it was reported that the surgeon, Dr. Herbert D. Adams, had removed the morbid tissue. The earl was reported in good condition after the surgery.

Eden was returning to England from a vacation in the West Indies when he developed trouble to the Lahey Clinic for a checkup. He arrived a week ago with his wife.

North Trenton Schoolroom Use Asked by Murray Twp.

TRENTON — At the regular monthly meeting of the Trenton Board of Education last night, a letter from the secretary of the school board at S. S. No. 11 Murray Township, was read to the board by board secretary Miss Eva Baker.

Recently, the Trenton board notified the township school authorities that, due to lack of space, it would be unable to accommodate township students next year, notwithstanding in September, 1962.

The letter to Murray secretary asked if Murray students could be accommodated in the North Trenton schoolroom recently vacated by the retarded children. He said that two rooms were being added to the township school but that they would not be ready for occupancy in the fall. The room could also be rented by the township and a teacher supplied, or the Trenton board would engage a teacher and charge the township $17.50 a month per child.

"Murray is caught in a pinch," explained Mr. V. F. Carswell, public school principal. "There's some idea of annexation but there's still the that case, the children would come here anyhow. Right at the moment, it's a question of dollars and cents for the township. I would be interpreting them into our system if we take them. If we hire the Murray board could have the North Trenton principal, the Murray board could have the chance to even up the teacher load. A disadvantage is that it is time to spend money for seats and equipment."

The board about 30 students are involved," said C. E. McMullen, public school inspector. The Murray board could furnish the room and use the desks, etc. in the new rooms at their own expense as they are built. The Murray board would furnish and have them here for 10 months.

It was suggest that our secretary write to Murray board and ask for a guarantee that they will furnish the room and pay for 30 students."

This action will be taken.

The attendance officer's report was then considered.

PLAN NEW CLASS

Board members were agreed to a suggestion that a fourth opportunity class for the town be set up in the public school this fall. Classes in North Trenton, Dundas Street and College Street schools have proved their worth.

The purchase of a used piano for Prince Charles School and film projectors for Dufferin and College schools will be considered.

Mr. Carswell reported that school attendance was down slightly from January. In all, 2,074 students were registered during the month. He said that the system has been re-consolidated," Rev. Ronald Reid, asked for an explanation.

Mr. Reid said that it was his understanding that the superintendent of buildings, John Cossitt, would move them, there'll be a great deal of disturbance. What comes under my committee and does that then stay where they are."

"I was led to believe that the men themselves wanted the change," persisted Mr. Reid.

"Some of them might want a change," said Mr. Carswell, "but I can't see this general fruit-basket-type of move."

REPORTS ON MEETING

Mrs. Gertrude Griffiths gave a comprehensive report about an educational conference she attended last week in Moose-rel. She said that among the subjects covered by the more than 2,000 educators in attendance were that "teaching was a primary activity making the child think for himself," and that "parents should not be responsible for improving educational standards and that pupils should be imposed as putting up new buildings." Mrs. Griffiths said that the conference had strengthened her resolve to make an attempt to get a "split" class in Grades 7 and 8 in town schools.

Mr. George Greer asked to have it recorded in the minutes that the board had endorsed the effort Mrs. Griffiths had put into her efforts.

Mr. Reid reported that six applications for the position of part-time caretaker Trenton High School had been received and that he would be charged with the school nurse. He said that his committee would not consider the applications for vice-principal. When John Hall was appointed principal on the retirement of J. Hunter Clinton, the position of vice-principal was left vacant.

Mr. Greer said that he and other members of the finance committee would meet next week with the board secretary on the 1962 budget and that an attempt to place this budget before the end of the month.

Present at last night's meeting were Mrs. Gertrude Griffiths, G. Phinney, Ronald Reid, Gerald Farrar, E. D. Topping, Dr. T. A. McCaig, Mrs. Ruth Hobson, Mrs. Gabrielle Griffiths, secretary, Mrs. Eva Baker, secretary of high school principal, W. J. Houston, V. F. Carswell, C. E. McMullen, board secretary, Miss Eva Baker, and A. R. Davey of the transportation committee, firm or Leetham - Simpson Ltd., Montreal.

Board members met with Mr. Davey after the regular meeting to discuss recommendations in a recent survey made by Leetham-Simpson on the schools' administrative set-up.

Tells of Work To Aid Crippled

TRENTON — Guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club was Arthur Smithrim, Trenton solicitor and past president of the local club.

Recently Mr. Smithrim attended the 40th annual meeting of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children in Toronto and was elected to the directorate there.

Mr. Smithrim told the club members of his tour through the province's centres in Toronto, erected at a cost of more than $2,000,000 dollars, which will be devoted to study, care and training of crippled children. He said that there were 20,000 crippled children in Ontario today.

Mr. Smithrim said that research into the causes of crippling and it's been going on since 1932,000 from sales some fringe benefits."

Beaufort had offered to under take reforestation, and to spend $500,000 on a logging road. Besides, it offered to harvest a proportion of low-grade timbers which would have brought the Tsimpsean Indians an "additional benefit." The reserve is located near Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island.

ALLEGES LINK

Miss Le Marsh said Mr. Johnson was formerly employed by the citizenship department to recommend rates to be charged for cutting timber on all Indian land in British Columbia.

She claimed he terminated his employment only a few months before the Tsimpsean tenders were opened early last year. And she charged that subsequently he offered timber companies—on a minimum fee basis —confidential information he had obtained while working for the department.

Miss Le Marsh said Beaufort Industries was formed by the department Feb. 13, 1961; that it had been accepted for licence, Eight days later the company was informed by telegram that Johnson was getting the licence instead. They were the only two firms submitting tenders.

The Liberal MP also said it gave her a "shock"—to learn that the department accepted a tender to which was attached a condition. Shoriine had stipulated that it would execute the contract unless it was allowed to export the timber to the U.S.

IS INVESTIGATING

Mrs. Fairclough, in a brief reply, said that he had ordered an investigation into the timber licence award on the reserve before the second reading resolution from the Tsimpsean band comes before the House.

"As I told the House earlier today a department official is visiting the reserve tomorrow and will report to me later," she said.

After hearing from the official, she will make a full report to the Commons.

Mother Opposes School Classes In Religion

TRENTON — Considerable time was devoted to a discussion on religion in the schools by members of the Trenton Board of Education at last night's regular monthly meeting of the board in the town hall.

The discussion was sparked by a letter from Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis, 504 Front Street, Trenton.

Mrs. Curtis said that she was adamant devoting time, which could be used for studies, to religious instruction. She said that there was a certain amount of homework in connection with such instruction and that by the time her child (a ten-year-old girl) finished her home chores and other homework, she had very little time for relaxation.

Mrs. Curtis said that religion should be taught in the home or Sunday School.

"Religion should be practised seven days a week", wrote Mrs. Curtis. Missionary work should be done in the home by teaching and example. There are so many different creeds that when you teach religion at school, it leads to dissension. Children have too much homework to do as it is".

AGREES WITH WRITER

"I don't agree with Mrs. Curtis about religion," said board member, Mrs. Gabrielle Griffiths, "but I do agree about not teaching religion in the public schools. I don't think ministers should be allowed to give real instruction or religion in the schools. Religion is a very personal matter. It should be taught at home and in the church."

"Can anyone tell me how much time the department allows us to spend on religious instruction?" asked George Greer.

"Two half hour periods a week," answered the Rev. Ronald Reid. "It's not enough, sorry. If any parent objects, he can withdraw his child for that period".

"Any board may apply to the department to have religious instruction dropped from the curriculum," said C. E. McMullen, inspector of public schools.

"In one instance, a minister told the students to take notes on his lecture and the students were led to believe that they would be tested by an examination. This is contrary to regulations," said Louis Knack.

"I don't think it's right to infer that our ministers are indoctrinating the children," said supervising principal of public schools, V. F. Carswell. "They are taught good morals and honesty. This can only be elevating and it's been going on in public schools for a long time."

Mr. Carswell said that re-

Butter Money

Manitoba farmers are losing money by selling cream from beef cattle, says the Brandon Sun in an editorial. It quotes the results of a survey taken by creamy supervisors of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture and Conservation. Most beef cows produce only $60 to $75 worth of cream per lactation, it says. The specialists estimated this cream, if fed to the calf, would provide additional returns of up to $40 compared to returns from a "pail-fed" calf. Thus producers gain only $20 to $35 in cash for all the work of milking.

All this, we presume, is familiar ground for the farm-horn. A city-bred reader, though, may perhaps be pardoned for raising his eyebrow when he learns that beef cattle should not be milked. His surprise will be the greater if he is on the wrong side of forty and if his youth was spent in beef-cattle country in this province.

There was a time when butter and egg money produced the traditional income of the farmwife and from it, more often than not, she was expected to cloth herself, and perhaps her brood, and to provide those little comforts and embellishments for the house so dear to the heart of every woman. The beef producing farmer had trouble enough making meat make ends meet — proceeds from the sale of the cattle themselves went to pay taxes, purchase implements, repair farm buildings and meet other operational costs — including paying for Western "stockers". As far as the farmwife, living of butter making, might decide to sell her cream to the creamery. In those days, in beef cattle country, much of the whole milk purchased by dairies came from Herefords and Shorthorns or Durhams.

Gradually, around the larger centres, in beef cattle country, the more progressive farmers supplying the whole milk market turned to the dairy breeds, Jerseys and Guernseys and Holsteins and Ayrshires. In time, as the dairy farmers found themselves with surplus milk, there might even be an attempt to establish a cheese factory. But creamery butter makers still depended to a large extent, and do to this day, on cream from beef cattle herds.

Paradoxically enough, the shortage of farm labor has led to farmers in dairying areas turning to beef cattle. This trend has accelerated in recent years, as smaller cheese factories have closed. Many of these former dairy farmers handle beef cattle in the Western style, letting cattle remain outdoors as much as possible during the winter months. For this reason, many of them favor Hereford, which in this province, districts of Western Ontario, Shorthorns were most popular. This permitting cattle to remain outside cuts down the tendency to milk them. Then too, a man who is used to the heavy production of the dairy breeds would appear less likely to place much importance on the smaller flow from beef cattle.

Even the city dweller can thus notice big changes in farming customs during the past few decades.

A Whole New World

The Sudbury Star published an architect's sketch with the caption: "Prototype of Sudbury's new armory at York St. Local architects, engaged for project, state the armory is unlikely to resemble this."

This opens up a whole new field of journalism, with intriguing possibilities.

On one of those quiet days, when absolutely nothing is happening, the headline writers need not worry and fret. A limitless field lies before them. "New York City Not Destroyed by Hydrogen Bomb." "Mr. K. Has Not Defected to West." "Mao Has Not Surrendered Red China to Chiang."

On the inside pages, too, there could be many eye-catching headlines. The business page — "Announcement that Connie Smythe Has Entered into Partnership with James Hoffa." The sports page — "Punch Imlach Has Not Predicted Leafs Will Finish Last."

Of course, there would be pitfalls. The sloppy headline writer might come up with the merely factual. "Defenseman No Admirer of Liberals" is obviously a novice's attempt to master a new art. The difference is subtle. For instance, no fault can be found with "Bertrand Russell Not Named New Archbishop of Canterbury."

I want, by understanding myself, to understand others. I want to be all that I am capable of becoming. This all sounds very strenuous and serious. But now that I have wrestled with it, it's no longer so. I feel happy—deep down. All is well.—Katherine Mansfield.

Offer of a Senatorship Would Interest 'The Rocket'

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Notes off the reportorial cuff . . .

. . . Making it just about unanimous, Quebec Federal Conservatives and the party's National Headquarters in the capital appear to have relinquished the dream of drafting former NHL star Maurice Richard as a hoped-for colorfully "can't miss" candidate in one of the Montreal constituencies for the approaching Federal Election . . . thus confirming The Rocket's own assessment of active politics as "not my dish of soup."

It looked, not so long ago, that the Rocket just might try stick-handling his way up Parliament Hill.

And the prospect of having him on "the team" in the Commons intrigued Prime Minister Diefenbaker to the point of observing that Maurice was "a great fellow . . . makes a pretty fair speech, too."

Turns out, though, that whilst the Rocket may be — for a Senator — the ideal party line for the rough political play in the Commons league, he wouldn't at all relish the notion of the Tory team in the more leisurely Senate loop where the sport of politics itself is quite so strenuously bruising.

LIKE THE IRISH

The Senate interests me", the Rocket has let it be known.

And well might the Senate catch his fancy . . . for a Senatorship is something that must have appealed to the imagination of just about every living, breathing adult Canadian who ever possessed the slightest inkling of the possible rewards of politics, public service and Parliament.

Probably the neatest definition of a Senatorship has been that coined by the able Winnipeg typewriter of Ottawa Journal President M. Grattan O'Leary, a working newspaperman who has had a continuing firsthand view of Parliament Hill longer than anyone else in the House.

"It's a gift," he has written. "Also it's a blessing, a storke of fortunate fate; something like drawing the right straight flush in the biggest pot of the evening, or winning the Irish National Sweepstake".

And winning Irish sweep tickets is probably considerably more difficult to come by than royal straight flushes . . . and carries greater prestige.

Over the years, the Commons has had three great Tory orators in its distinguished membership: Howie Meeker, Conservative MP for Waterloo South; Bucko McDonald, Liberal MP for Parry Sound; and Lionel Conacher, Liberal MP for Toronto-Trinity.

Maybe the fiery Rocket could be the first to score in the Senate. . . .

PARLIAMENTARY PATTER

In the Commons lobby the other day, the Prime Minister, turning aside questioning, recalled the way the Nova Scotia Counties of Queens and Lunenburg had shaken free, momentarily, in his 1958 sweep to victory.

In Queens and Lunenburg, they're a sturdy, independent lot politically — unlike those in the rest of Canada, red is the Liberal color and blue the Tory hue. Maybe Maritimers do the thing in reverse.

In the '58 campaign, nobody had bothered to tell the Prime Minister about this party color turn-around, and he was a bit taken aback by all the red bunting waved in his face by crowds along the route when he be motorcaded through the two counties.

"They seem friendly enough" he commented, but they're all Grits."

L. R. Grouse, now the Conservative MP for Queens-Lunenburg, quickly explained the facts of Maritime political life to the PM: "If you see blue, down in these parts, then that's the time to start worrying."

The Prime Minister contented "sezzis it", for the rest of the tour, but he could never quite get used to it.

To keep in touch with their constituencies during the long Sessions of Parliament, the various MPs have their different systems.

Howard Gradley, young Conservative MP for an Eastern Townships riding in Quebec, takes off two days each week to go door-knocking and introduce himself, offering his services and asking for reelection. Frank Howard, CCF member for Skeena, picks a different town or village each week for a mimeographed letter to every householder in the place, informing him he is ever out for special community interests.

Chagrin Not Thunder - On the Right

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was having lunch with an old friend the other day, supposed to be a deep-dyed conservative. He was worried and upset about the "Red" right wing scare movement in America.

"As we know," he said, "I sympathize with some of their aims and objectives. But if I go to a meeting, I'm immediately associated with a lot of crackpots, bigots and reactionary characters. And, naturally, I'd be tarred with the same brush."

"Naturally!" I agreed. "And I'm glad to see that now the shoe is on the other foot! Pinch is a bit, doesn't it?"

"What do you mean by that?" he asked sharply.

"I mean that has been the liberal's dilemma for the last 20 years. When anything bad in a group or worked for a cause that also had the communists support, he was immediately identified as a 'fellow traveller.'

"You conservatives," I went on, "have had nothing to worry any liberal as some kind of 'pinko,' and now that's happened he may have disagreed with the communists. As far as you were concerned, anyone who was for public housing or civil liberties was a communist or probably subversive character."

"But the communists did use a lot of issues to get to be tested."

"Of course they did!" I said "and so will the right-wing extremists use a lot of respectable conservative issues to get in. They can. It's in the nature of any fanatical group to try to take over wherever it can.

"What is a person to do, then?" he asked.

"It seems to me," I said, "that the one thing we can do is stop throwing dirty names around and calling everybody we oppose a 'red' or a 'fascist' and begin to learn to discriminate between people who believe in the value of processes of government and those who really don't."

"But what's the difference?" he wanted to know.

"I think it is," I said. "Both the genuine liberal and the genuine conservative have faith and people as such. But the extremists on both sides really want to tear down the system and run it for the benefit of some elite. The communists and the right-wing fascists have a lot more in common than perhaps they realize. The one is different, but their music is pretty much the same."

"You may have something there," he said. "Here, let me take the check."

"No, I'll pay it," I said. "It's only fair that the man who does the talking gets the bill."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 13th, 1942.

Thelma O'Brien, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen O'Brien of Moira Street West, was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday morning suffering from the effects of cooking gas, and it was thought to have escaped into the house from a leaky connection in the stove. Mrs. Walter Aeistine and members of the Rivers Pat Symphonette orchestra, which played to acapacity house at the McCarthy Theatre here on Sunday night in aid of the Kingmen Club "Kids for Britain" fund, have been invited to play at Trenton in the interests of the Victory Loan.

Victory Loan Campaign canvassers in Thurlow Township, Adamson plant received a surprise yesterday. Carrying a lucky can, one of the employees walked into the room where the canvassers were taking subscriptions for the loan, and without a word dropped the can with its pieces on the table. "I want to buy a Victory Bond," he said, in facetic comment; officials rapidly counted the coins and issued the bond.

Merwin Anderson, aged 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson of Herchimer Avenue suffered a painful injury on Monday when a hand and arm were caught in the family washing machine wringer with the little girl's arm being drawn into the rubber rolls to the shoulder before being released.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Gunter celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding recently at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Harry Moran and Mr. Moran of the 8th concession of Murray township near Frankford. They were presented with a purse of gold and other handsome presents. The bridesmaid of fifty years ago, Mrs. Thomas Wright of Trenton, was present together with many friends from Frankford.

Last evening at the arena the "Sixty Minute Six" of the local Hydro department put it over the Hydro heroes of the Power Department of the same organization by a score of 2 to 1, thus winning the series of two games. Those played for the usual oyster supper. In spite of the couple of inches of water on the ice surface, it was some game. Badgley for the locals introduced a new kind of trick. However, he could not get away with it as it had brass knobs on the end. Hibbert in goal packs a mean bunch of horse shoes. Frechette has a bad habit of trying to score when no one is around. The referee had some time watching Harvey Carpenter, the Hydro defence, who seems content to let the losers run about when he gets a chance. Mac is not so heavy as he looked on the ice. Should not show up well owing to the spray of water he tips on never was a good sailor. The following composed the teams: Locals — Hibbert, Frechette, Badgley, Oliphant, Arnott. Wheeler. Power Department — Cook, McElrath, Anderson, Waldorf, Brown, Langley; Lee Leslie, (Report contributed).

To Your Good Health

Children Can Be Dressed With Too Much or Too Little

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 10, was night crawling. He goes to bed about 9 o'clock. When I check him about 11, he is wet from head to feet. He sleeps in a room on the cool side.

I would like to know the cause. — G.B.

Assuming that the young fellow is in good health, it is likely that the most obvious cause is too many covers.

It's easy to become overconcerned about keeping children warm. Over-dressing a child (or loading him with too many covers) can do as much mischief as giving him too little covering. The sweating, following a chilling, can be a shock to the system. And health, of course, is a matter of avoiding as much of the small hazards as possible.

Let's say the boy plays around the house in shirt, pants, shoes and socks and underwear. Then he's bedtime. You wrap him in flannel pajamas, then you cover him with, let's say, two blankets, or a blanket and a comforter.

You say his room is "on the cool side." Meaning what, five degrees cooler than the rest of the house, perhaps? But good packs a mean bunch of horse shoes. Frechette has a bad habit of trying to score when no one is around. The referee had some time watching Harvey Carpenter, the Hydro defence, who seems content to let the losers run about when he gets a chance. Mac is not so heavy as he looked on the ice. Should not show up well owing to the spray of water he tips on never was a good sailor. The following composed the teams: Locals — Hibbert, Frechette, Badgley, Oliphant, Arnott. Wheeler. Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about using a laxative every night. My daughters eight and 10 years old, are supposed to take a laxative every night. — B.C.

Own Lounge Closed to Him

Cleveland Plain Dealer

There is, at London, Airport, so area known as "Brabazon Lounge"; named for Lord Brabazon, the 78-year-old pilot who holds Britain's very first air ticket.

It happened that some time ago, Lord Brabazon was at the airport and he thought he'd take a look at the lounge named in his honor. They wouldn't let him in.

Brabazon Lounge, he was told, is reserved for royalty, heads of state ambassadors and important visitors. Lord Brabazon was none of these things. He was only the man for whom the lounge was named.

The story hit the papers, and it very well should have done, and the Ministry of Aviation had a severe shock.

When Lord Brabazon returned by air from Switzerland, he was met by several airline officials were waiting. In the words of the Associated Press: "They ushered him into Brabazon Lounge, where he was given the VIP treatment.

Good Old Lord Brabazon!

A very nice lounge," he said, "and I don't like the VIP treatment. I'd rather be the man in the street."

He new, dance fad could be a great force for world peace. It should an enemy start a war when it seems reasonable to suppose that the West, let alone, will twist itself to death!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The newspaper profession is not without its humiliations. This is most keenly felt when the relatives or close friends of newspapermen ask them, "Is there something in the paper. Maybe a favorite daughter is going to married. Maybe take it for granted that their old friend, the assistant city editor of the best newspaper in town, will certainly see that a beautiful picture of the bride will be given preferred position on the society page.

Well, it just so happens that the society editor, in making up the page on the expected day, had six brides left over from the day before, and he can't remember everything. So the picture appears two or three days later, in the outlying districts, as they say. A couple of inches. A filler at the bottom of page seventeen. Keep remailing copies of the paper? Ah, that has got a special jinx on it.

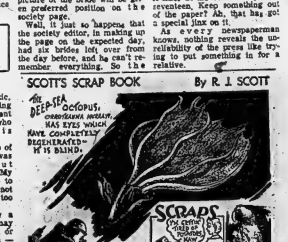
As every newspaperman knows, nothing reveals the unreliability of the press like try to get something in for a relative.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HE'S AN IMPORTANT FACTOR

How are you and your guardian angel getting along these days?



Yes, we all have guardian angels we can be quite sure of that. Jesus said of little children that their angels do always behold the face of the Father who is in heaven (Matt. 18:10). Do you think that just because you have added twenty, thirty, or fifty years to childhood that you no longer need a guardian angel? Personally I feel the need of a guardian angel more today than at any time in my life. The word angel means "messenger." The angels are those holy beings by which God constantly sends His messages to us, guides us, counsels us, and leads us in right pathways. We have freedom of will if we want to exercise it. We may go far away from angelic guidance, we have a perfect right to do so; but we do not have to do so.

As we observe how almost one child after another dies or is death at some time in his or her early life, we become aware of the wonderful work of the guardian angel at work. More and more as we grow older we attribute to ourselves, our cleverness, our industry, any apparent success we may have. But don't count out the guardian angel when you are looking at life's triumphs or when you are confronting the prospect of disaster.

Keep on good terms with your guardian angel.

Gaspe Rail Line Bill Goes Through

OTTAWA (CP) — A government bill for a $14,000,000 railway in Quebec's Gaspe region highballed through the Commons Tuesday after shunting around a CCF attempt to derail it.

The 37-mile railway between Ste. Anne des Monts and Matane got a clear track after an amendment proposed by Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam) was rejected 128 to 7, the Liberals voting with the government.

The amendment would have delayed final approval of the bill for six months—in effect killing it.

The bill's next stop is the Senate.

Mr. Regier charged that the railway is being built "merely to re-elect one member"—Roland Englad, PC—Gaspe.

He contended the railway will be an economic washout and that the government has undertaken its construction because the CNR and CPR "wouldn't touch the project with a 10-foot pole."

SUGGESTS INDUSTRIES

If "political considerations" were the only motives prompting the government to spend that amount in Gaspe, he suggested the money would be better spent in establishing 140 industries costing $100,000 each.

Although most Liberals supported the bill, Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) said he regrets that the government "did not choose to deal with the whole problem of transportation in the lower St. Lawrence region."

Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming) suggested that only "a very small minority" of Gaspe residents are interested in having the railway.

Russell Keays (PC—Isles-de-la-Madeleine) said 250,000 tons of forest products would be transported on the line each year. "That alone would be enough to justify the expenditure although an additional 60,000 to 75,000 of freight tons could be expected to move annually.

Judge Reserves Decision After Argument Heard

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—Judge Douglas Thomas Mowbray reserved judgment in an action by unseat three Toronto men who were elected councillors of the United Townships of Medora and Wood Dec. 2.

The three, all summer residents of the township, are W. J. Bushnell, R. C. Dobson and J. G. Hunter, who were elected when 500 fellow cottage owners travelled to the polls from Toronto, Oshawa and Hamilton.

Leo Gonneau, a former councillor defeated in the election, filed the action in Muskoka district court here.

Most of the six-hour hearing was taken up with legal argument after both sides admitted of the facts of the case, eliminating the calling of witnesses.

The statement of fact indicated summer residents of the township outnumber the year-round residents by about 4 to 1 and own 78.84 per cent of the total municipal assessment

BASE ON MUNICIPAL ACT

The motion to unseat the men who form a majority on the five-member council, is based on the definition of "resident" under the Ontario Municipal Act.

I. A. McEwan of Toronto, appearing for Mr. Gonneau, said the legislature had intended that councillors be close to the municipality at all times.

"If this is not so, the municipality might just as well be run from Queen's Park," he said, and "Under the act the only permanent residents are those who spend five year-round in the municipality."

Summer residents regard the area as a summer vacation playground, he said, and in trying to preserve its scenic beauty might stifle economic development.

HAVE RESIDENCES

C. F. Farwell, solicitor for the councillors, said they clearly had residences in Medora and Wood which they occupy with their families at various periods

"If the three councillors were to be disqualified it would mean taxation without representation," he said.

"The three councillors have indicated they will appeal the case if the ruling goes against them.

ALLOWS DIVORCE

CALCUTTA (AP)—A Calcutta court Monday allowed Hiralal Das Gupta to divorce his wife, Sonali, who deserted him in the summer of 1956 to live with Italian film director Roberto Rossellini. The case was not contested. Asonali left India to join Rossellini after meeting him in Bombay.

New Floor Washing Machine In Use at General Hospital

Recently a new floor washing machine which will do the approximately one acre of hospital corridor something less than eight hours was acquired by the hospital board. The machine does a better job than can be done by hand, does it faster, and with less cost for soap and detergents.

The machine will do the work of twenty-odd persons assigned with old fashioned mops.

The floor washer, a compact 200 pound unit is a self-propelled battery operated machine which will cover the ordinary width corridor in a trice. There are no wires or cords connected with the machine and no exposed wet areas are left behind during the cleaning process.

The speed of operation will permit floors to be done more often, thus keeping the corridors looking better.

And the fact that it requires one and a half cleaners for other duties about the hospital is an important labor saving factor in an institution which has a current occupancy of 123 per cent.

Fallout Shelters Lose Advocate in Man. Premier

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fallout shelters have lost an advocate in Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba.

The Conservative leader who last winter built a shelter in his Winnipeg home, told the Manitoba Legislature Monday he has decided he won't recommend shelters to the public.

He said his changed attitude was brought about by the lack of a clear federal policy on the question and because the matter doesn't seem of urgency.

"I don't think we've had sufficiently clear directives from federal authorities to make me enthusiastic about building more shelters or getting them in public buildings," he said.

WON'T RECOMMEND

"Such an area of undertaking they have not been prepared to recommend, so I will not recommend it to the public."

At the time the premier decided to build his own shelter he asked the opposition leader to follow suit.

Mr. Roblin made the comments during a debate on $87,000 spending estimates of the Progressive Conservative government on civil defence. Liberal Leader Molgat said Manitoba's basement shelter program hasn't been successful.

The premier said: "I don't recommend mine, either."

Developments in other legislatures Monday:

Edmonton—Donald S. Fleming (SC—Calgary West) said the federal government wouldn't dare set up a royal commission to study the activities of its departments as the Alberta Social Credit government once did speaking during the budget debate, he said the provincial commission found no graft or fraud existed in any provincial department. He said Social Credit theories could solve most, if not all, the basic problems of Canada and the world.

Regina — Liberal financial critic A. H. McDonald cited figures he said prove Saskatchewan's Crown corporations haven't made "one nickel's profit since their incorporation." He said the report in which the CCF government claimed the corporations had returned a $12,500,000 profit was not an audited statement and presented a false picture of the situation.

Halifax—Public accounts tabled by Premier Robert Stanfield as provincial treasurer showed Nova Scotia recorded a surplus of $71,633 for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1961.

Most of New Recruits for Combat Units

OTTAWA (CP)—The days in the Canadian Army when the tail wagged the dog appear to be at an end.

An army spokesman said Monday that of the 11,321 men in increase authorized for the army, 8,967 men or 71.5 per cent will go to combat units.

In military parlance, combat troops are known as the army's "teeth" and the support troops as the "tail." During the Second World War the "tail" far outnumbered the "teeth" and this led, at least in part, to the 1944 conscription crisis. Combat reinforcements couldn't be found though there were 210,000 general service soldiers in Canada and the United Kingdom.

The government last September authorized a manpower increase in the army of 20,200 from 41,779. Strength at March 5 was 31,842. It is calculated that the ceiling won't be reached until May, 1963.

There now are 6,048 recruits in training depots: 440 Armored Corps; 900 Artillery; 550 Engineers; 426 Service Corps; 121 Provost Corps; 581 Regiment of Canadian Guards; 1,455 Royal 22nd Regiment; 502 Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry; 721 Royal Canadian Regiment; 565 Queen's Own Rifles; 362 Black Watch.

Gromyko's letters said nothing about measures to enforce such nuclear bans.

Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder of West Germany joined the roster of Western statesmen meeting informally today with Gromyko to discuss major conflicts between East and West.

West Germany will not attend the disarmament conference but Schroeder has been holding a busy round of talks with Western leaders to keep the viewpoint of Chancellor Adenauer's government before the public.

GROMYKO WON'T GIVE

In discussions with Rusk and Home during the last two days Gromyko is reported to have been unyielding.

Western authorities ascribed this attitude to some extent to tactical considerations. They feel sure Soviet Premier Khrushchev wants a summit conference, and that to get it Gromyko will have to display a readiness to advance some way toward compromise.

The Berlin dispute dominated Rusk's talks with Gromyko Monday. One official said much of the discussion centred on the Communist harassment in the Berlin air corridors and in the city itself.

Auditors Say $19,000 Missing At Port Dover

PORT DOVER, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Harold Schneider said Monday night an interim report from auditors indicates that $19,000 is missing from municipal funds.

Officials of this town eight miles southeast of Simcoe ordered the audit early this year when property owners were billed for taxes they had paid. Mr. Schneider said a complete audit will be available in a week.

J. B. Gaudaur, who resigned as clerk treasurer of the town in December because of ill health, told council Monday night he will do "everything in my power to help straighten any mixup."

He asked for an independent audit. Council granted the request on condition that Mr. Gaudaury bear the cost. Council also stipulated that town officials are to be present during the new audit, and that it must be held in town office and be completed by March 31.

Prime Minister Denies Receiving Advance Notice

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker denied Monday receiving any advance information of plans for a $300,000,000 steel complex in Quebec by Sidbec Consulting Corporation of Montreal.

He also said in the Commons that there was no government involvement or interest in the project.

Transport Minister Balcer said there was no approval given by his department or the National Harbors Board to a proposal for port facilities.

The replies arose from a series of questions about what H. W. Herridge, CCF-NDP parliamentary leader, called a "rather remarkable luncheon" in Quebec Saturday attended by Associate Defence Minister Sevigny, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley and 10 Quebec Conservative MPs.

Newspaper reports from Quebec said J. A. Leclerc, president of Sulphur Converting, got the $300,000,000 complex idea at the luncheon and reporters walked out as a result of Mr. Leclerc's press statement about where the money would be obtained.

TALKED OF PLANS

Mr. Balcer, replying to Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur), said officers of the department discussed with him at his office here their plans in the province they intended to get in touch with Canadian National Railways to discuss construction of branch lines. He had been advised the meeting with the CNR took place and that no decision had been taken.

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) asked Mr. Diefenbaker: "Is explain now that the minister knew nothing about the complex while four of his ministers—he did not say whether he had known about it for several months."

Mr. Diefenbaker replied he did not know how Mr. Chevrier could know what the cabinet ministers knew several months ago.

Mr. Chevrier said Montreal Gazette reports indicated the company discussed the plan with four ministers months ago. They should have taken the matter to Mr. Diefenbaker.

Great Powers Approaching Point of No Return in Arms Race, Geneva Feeling

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

As the ministers of 17 countries gather in Geneva for talks on disarmament, a feeling widespread that the great powers are approaching the point of no return in the armaments race, and that there is little prospect of halting their headlong course in the few weeks remaining before the United States resumes nuclear tests.

The restrained approach to the Geneva conference is reflected in a recent quotation from the Earl of Home, British foreign secretary:

"The post-war world is littered with failed disarmament conferences, but that is no excuse for not trying and going on trying."

"Pessimism rings up the curtain at Geneva," says The Daily Telegraph, and the lack of grand expectations can be explained by reference to the "profound differences" in the Anglo-American approach to disarmament, and the "gulf between the unbridgable gap in East - West thinking."

STUMBLING BLOCK

The big stumbling block so far between Russia on one side and the Western powers on the other has been the question of international inspection, and the present jargon of disarmament means verification.

"The West considers some kind of inspection essential; Russia is intensely suspicious of any intrusion on her territory that international control posts might involve.

On the Western side, the United States is in no position to soy ban on nuclear testing is conditional on resolution of detecting secret preparations for a resumption of tests. British minister, less worried, nevertheless understand the U.S. position in view of Russia's recent massive resumption of tests, breaking a three-year moratorium.

Despite the gloom, nobody underestimates the importance of the Geneva talks. A United Nations report by 16 economists, issued during the week end, shows that the world now spends some £43,000,000,000 year on arms, a sum equivalent to at least two-thirds of the income of all the underdeveloped countries.

Some 85 per cent of the arms outlay is concentrated among seven countries. These big spenders are Russia, Red China, the United States, Britain, France, Canada and West Germany.

Files $200,000 Claim Against Conservatives

EDMONTON (CP) — Ronald B. Simmons, an Edmonton lawyer, has filed a statement of claim for $200,000 against the Progressive Conservative party and the Progressive Conservative Association of Alberta.

The statement says the Progressive Conservatives failed to keep a promise that Mr. Simmons would be suitably rewarded for his efforts on behalf of the party prior to the 1957 federal election.

The statement says Mr. Simmons provided political theory and a formula which would bring about a change of public opinion that would make the Progressive Conservative party successful in its bid to win the election. The party won.

In return, Mr. Simmons claims he was promised that the party would find a permanent solution to unemployment, take steps to separate church and state, and provide a program of birth control to prevent overpopulation.

The statement says the party failed to implement these undertakings.

As a result, Mr. Simmons claims he "is on the verge of losing the greatest gift of his life, namely the right to live in a country which enjoys self-government and he has suffered damages."

Mr. Simmons, 38, was an unsuccessful mayoralty candidate in Edmonton in 1961.

Contact Club Presents Skit at Social Meeting

This week's meeting of the Contact Club took the form of a social evening arranged by Greta Mouldy's group.

It was with a great deal of merriment that they watched the skit of a harassed mother of three lively children, busily preparing supper for a man as whiskless blow and children shrieked with combat dashing over toys. Mother finally gets everyone to the table, only the children want a bit of the cake prepared for the C.C. kinds and they do manage to get quite a few licks at the icing before mother and father get them off to bed with the usual calls for drinks.

Mother finally leaves for club with a laundry basket filled with odds and ends and the cake on top of it all.

At the club, mother gets in the swing of things as members are trying out the latest dance.

From the side door a familiar figure comes in and wonders what this world is coming to.

This was written, directed by Jane Fisher, Shirley Harris walked gaily into the arena of the year award.

Cards were played after the play, the lucky winners for euchre were: Mary Fletcher, high; Dorothy Sinclair — low; for bridge Doris Stewart was high.

Two new members were welcomed to the club by Trudy Sands, Dianne Arksey and Nikki Hustins.

Refreshments were served by Doris Stewart, Mary Bennett, June Fisher and Marilyn Smith.

2 Calgary Girls Decide School, Ballet Don't Mix

CALGARY (CP)—Some young people break out of the schooling to escape discipline, but Carole Anne Innes and Margot Cooder quit because school didn't leave them time to practise it.

The girls are trim and graceful students of the Tarco-Innes Academy of Dancing here. Anne is 17, and Margot 18, but they already had been opportunity in the art lies-in England, and they plan to leave together in March 7.

Both girls formerly had ideas of going to university but decided that school and ballet don't mix.

"You can't do well in both," said Carole Anne.

"You can't train seriously if you're going to school," said Margot. "If you're going to make a career of ballet, you can't go on to university."

Margot finished her senior matriculation in Calgary last year, and her parents let the university question rest at that.

Carole Anne said her home work "just went." She had four dancing classes a week and he could never get it done.

"I'd have had to find time for keep-fit classes, evening recreation classes for children aged 9 to 12, and Saturday morning study for the spring musical comedy production."

Margot teaches nursery classes each morning, ballet in the afternoons, at the academy's practises. She also had fitness classes, and rehearsals for three amateur musicals, for one of which she was choreographer.

Both feel that all this work will have been worth it if they can get to London. Once there, they plan to operate as free-lance dancers.

"That way, we can go to the best classes in everything," said Margot. "We can have the best teachers, since we will go to the school for jazz, another for character, and another for ballet."

Carole Anne has a background of study with the National Ballet Company summer school in Toronto, two years and last summer in Banff, Alta. She was a Junior in the Banff School of Fine Arts this summer on a scholarship.

Margot studied with the Canadian School of Ballet in Winnipeg for three years, and has had four summers at the Banff School.

Both had understudy assignments with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, but we didn't get on stage much," said Margot.

They hope to take their advanced Royal Academy examination this spring, when the examiner is on his biennial visit from England.

They have no place after Lon, don.

"I've always wanted to dance, but I don't think I could be a professional ballerina," says Margot. "I enjoy teaching, and love to do choreography."

Perhaps, some day, they will start a school in Calgary themselves. They could get everything—ballet, jazz and character dancing."

SAVE TIME AND MONEY LATER —WITH A watch check-up now!
Here's why it's so important to get a check up by a qualified, professional watchmaker. A good watch is made to work constantly, for years. But jarrings, dust, dirt or humidity can some times throw off its accurate, hard working mechanism. Or cause your watch may be working fine, but if you bring it in for a check up now you may avoid possible costly damage later.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

Question: When going through the receiving line at a wedding reception, what should one say to each member of the wedding party? Is it proper to give your name to each as you shake hands? Should each guest kiss the bride and groom? Any other tips you can offer about how to go through a receiving line gracefully would be appreciated. — G.L., Wooster, Ohio

Answer: If there's an announcer, you give him your full name and title (i.e., Miss Mary Smith) and he passes it along to the bride's mother, who heads the line. She then gives it to the groom's mother, and so on down the line, as you greet each member of the wedding party in turn. If someone on the receiving line forgets to pass your name along to the next person during the hubbub, then you may correctly repeat your name if it seems necessary.

As you proceed down the line, you should say "How do you do," to acknowledge an introduction to anyone receiving whom you don't know. Naturally, you offer a warmer greeting to friends. As you pass from one to the other, it's polite to comment, "What a lovely ceremony," or make a suitable remark about the appearance of the bride and groom and their attendants. When greeting the bride, you give her your best wishes. To the groom, you offer congratulations.

Other points to remember about going through the receiving line are these:

All guests should greet the wedding party before partaking of refreshments. A guest should never go down the line with a glass in his hand or nibbling on a canape. It's important that the line keep moving, so guests shouldn't try to monopolize friends in the wedding line. There's plenty of time for socializing and renewing old acquaintances after the receiving line breaks up.

Women guests may keep their gloves on as they go through the receiving line, then remove them later. Only those who are relatives and very close friends should kiss the bride and groom. Otherwise, it's more proper for guests to give a cordial handshake as their honour accepted greetings.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. E.K. — When he retires, I'd like him to sell the house and settle in Florida.

Mr. E.K. — That would kill me fast. Who wants to settle? I'm far from finished

Mrs. E.K. — My husband is being retired next year. We have a nice home in the suburbs, two cars, full-time household help and other comforts which Emil's hard work and ability have made possible. He's now an executive vice-president in the company he started with 40 years ago.

I'm trying to convince him to sell the house, I'm willing to give up some of the luxuries we have and live modestly in some inexpensive community in Florida. With his pension and his private income, we'll have no financial worries. And he can take it easy for the rest of his life, after so many years of strain.

But he insists he'll go right out and start to look for another job when this one ends!

Mr. E.K. — "Nothing to worry about" is all I hear when Bessie talks of the future. Quite the contrary, there's everything to worry about, starting with my sanity! I'm not the type to be content playing shuffleboard, weaving place mats or fishing off a pier all day.

Right now I'm in a key position with an important firm. Every day I make policy decisions. Yet when I turn 65 this coming, suddenly I'm supposed to be a dodo, a has-been and my wife chimes in with a chorus on that!

Well, I'll fight it. To me, the best relaxation is work. I feel there will still be business places which can use me, either as a consultant or as instructor. Mind you, I'm not averse to a visit to Florida, but retirement? Never!

The Council: Here is a vigorous presentation, indeed, of the plight of the man whom the calendar — not his health or his skill or his mind or his will — commands to retire. It is this same calendar which points to young men, 25 and 30, who must have the incentive of "room at the top" in order to dig in with an organization, and Mr. E. must move along so as not to clutter up "the top."

Some day the new problem of our day, longevity, will be humanely handled and solved. At present, stopgaps, makeshifts and expedients are devised, to meet immediate needs and, of course, some injustice and suffering are inevitable. A consolation to Mr. K. is the fact that there are places — albeit still hard to ferret out — which want and welcome the older worker and like to try Round Two in the world arena.

One of the most inspiring pilot projects in the right direction is Hastings College of Law in the Dale of California. It hires only professors who are over 65. Already including former deans of major law schools, this faculty is considered by many the best in the nation.

Just as parents are warned not to pamper a child and to expect his individual pace, so society will have to learn — the hard way, it seems — not to slow up a man artificially and arbitrarily when his natural pace, like Mr. K.'s, is to go ahead "great guns." Shall you have to swing low!

Mother's Helper.

AS SOON as she's old enough, let your daughter start laying out her own school outfits. Your guidance may be needed, at first, to prevent plaid and polka dot combinations. Most important: arrange things so you check the assortment before your small girl puts it on. Once she's dressed, having to change is usually a major disaster.

encouragements crop up. The U.S. Government is moving toward 70 as a retirement age, with an option of staying on longer. In France, a revised social security law may go the check-out age to 75.

Mrs. K. and the rest of us must admit that retirement ought not be regulated by age entirely. Some are ready for it at 60, others fight it at 90. What would happen to Mr. K., a man of brains and energy, if his quote be's were to be plowed under, with only doodling to fill his days? He'd turn into a frustrated bore.

Take a vacation, say we — a long one. But then, Mr. K., get into the swing again even if

Two Chicken Casseroles

by Mary Moore

For today's ideas I expect you to bless me. The two chicken casseroles I am giving all many conditions you express; advance preparation; low cost; casserole; buffet service.

One casserole calls for chicken breasts. The other calls for a whole chicken cut up. Ready?

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Meat Loaf with Pan Roasted Onions, Carrots, and Potatoes; Old-Fashioned Cole Slaw; Baked Apple Dumplings with Lemon Sauce; Tea.

CHICKEN CASSEROLE.

One 3 lb. roasting or frying chicken cut into serving pieces, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 clove garlic finely chopped, ¼ cup cooking oil, ½ bay leaf crumbled, ¼ teaspoon thyme, ¼ cup water, 2 tablespoons vinegar.

Mix the salt and pepper together and rub the chicken pieces with all of the mixture. Gently saute the chopped garlic in the oil in a large frying pan, then add chicken pieces and brown on all sides. Transfer chicken pieces to large casserole or baking dish. Sprinkle with bay leaf and thyme. Add the water and vinegar to the frying pan and rinse and scrape off all brown sediment and pour over chicken. Cover tightly and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for ½ hour, then reduce heat to 300 deg. for another 15 or 20 minutes or until chicken pieces are tender. This amount serves 4 or 5.

CHILI CHICKEN BREASTS

(serves 4 or 5)

2 lbs. chicken breasts, 1¼ cups water, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons butter or margarine, 1 small mild onion, chopped finely, 1 green pepper, chopped, ½ clove garlic crushed (optional), 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup chopped mushrooms, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley (or 1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes), ½ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ to ½ teaspoon chili powder, ¼ teaspoon oregano, 1½ tablespoons cornstarch.

Add water and salt to chicken in saucepan, cover and simmer 30 to 40 minutes until tender. Remove from heat and allow to cool in broth. Skin meat from breasts and slice, then turn bones and skin to broth and boil uncovered until broth is reduced to 1 cup. Strain. In a frying pan saute the onion, pepper, mushrooms and garlic in the butter or margarine until wilted but not brown. Add tomatoes, parsley, sugar, pepper, chili powder, oregano and chicken broth and simmer 15 minutes. Taste now to see if it has enough salt. If you are chili lovers you may want to add more chili powder. We did. Mix the cornstarch with just enough water to make a smooth paste and stir into the sauce until thickened. Put boned chicken breasts in large casserole. Pour sauce over. Cover. (Now if you are preparing this in advance, cool to room temperature, and refrigerate until needed next day.) Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until heated through and bubbling. This depends on whether casserole goes into oven cold from refrigerator — but is between 20-25 minutes. An excellent buffet dish.

Dispute Between Railways And Non-op Workers Likely To End Up in Govt's. Lap

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's biggest labor dispute—six railways vs. 104,000 non-operating railwaymen—seems to be running true to form, right to the last.

Barring the unexpected, a sudden settlement, the contract dispute appears bound to end up in the federal government's lap as a crisis later this year.

But when? For the railways, the unions and government, the precise timing of the developing rail crisis is extremely significant.

A railway crisis—particularly a threat of a nation-wide rail strike — could have a major bearing on the election plans of Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Conversely, the timing of dissolution of Parliament and the election date might prove a key factor in the speed and direction of the rail dispute.

Railway - union negotiations began in December for a new contract to replace the agreement that now expires late Dec. 31. Three collapsed last month. The dispute now is moving into the conciliation stage, which lasted seven months in the 1958 struggle, but could be completed at a faster clip this time.

VARIOUS STEPS

In the last dispute the parties asked for a conciliation board on Feb. 4, 1960. Labor Minister Starr paved the way for establishment of the board on Monday, Feb. 18, but an independent chairman wasn't found until March 31.

The board got to work May 9, concluded its hearings July 9, delivered a majority report to the labor minister Aug. 15 and a minority report Aug. 22. The disputants received the reports Aug. 24. The unions accepted the majority award on Sept. 2, and the railways turned it down on Sept. 15.

At that point, the stage was set for a strike crisis. It was only a matter of timing.

The unions conducted a strike vote, then set Dec. 3 as the strike deadline, threatening to tie up the railways in the heart of winter.

VITAL DATE

The key date in this chronology is Aug. 15, the day that Ottawa received the majority conciliation report.

By law, the unions would have been free to call a strike seven days later. Or the companies could have declared a lockout.

If—and this is purely a guess —the current dispute follows the past pattern, Canada's rail crisis be embroiled in a railway crisis in late August or early September.

And if this came to pass, it would have a bearing in two ways on the government's election strategy.

First, no government wants to be fighting an election campaign while the nation is crippled by a railway crisis.

Second, if Parliament is dissolved it cannot be recalled — not even for a national emergency. For at least 57 days, perhaps longer, the nation would be without its highest court of action, although the government of course would remain in power.

CAMPAIGN PERIOD

The 57-day period is the minimum needed to put federal election machinery into action.

Two months have been mentioned for a general election this year—either June or October.

If the government decided to go to the people in June, the Parliament would be out of action for most of April and May. A railway strike crisis could be pitched—if not illegal by labor procedures or not settled by then.

If the election is set for October, a strike crisis and an election campaign could be running simultaneously.

Such a possibility opens new avenues of speculation. They revolve around what role the government might try to play behind the scenes in an effort to resolve the dispute before it comes to a strike.

In past negotiations, Ottawa has often played a powerful but unseen role. In the present year, the odds are that it will do so again.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Stingy Husband Rejects Stepchildren

DEAR DORIS:—I married a widower with three children from 9 to 15 years of age. I also had four children, two that are on their own, and the youngest one lives with me.

I've been married to this man for over a year. He has never given me a cent of spending money nor bought any clothes for me or my child. When I ask him for money, he says, "You have some of your own. Use it."

Do you think this is fair? I do all the work and look after his children. He DORIS CLARK also refuses to have any of my three children visit us. Do you think I should keep on living with a man like that? — WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED:—I don't think I would even have started living with him. What kind of understanding did you have about money matters?

It is high time you found out whether you are a wife or an unpaid housekeeper. Love and respect and trust go with marriage. It is fantastic for him to refuse to have your children visit you, and to refuse interest in your financial needs.

Make up your own mind whether you want this kind of life. I know what I'd do.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I am an illegitimate child whom my grandmother raised and I go by her name. My mother married and they have a family of their own living apart from us.

Can this man tell me what to do and when? He says he can as my grandmother never took out adoption papers and neither did he. I am in my home and my grandmother supports me and always has.—WORRIED No. 2.

DEAR WORIED No. 2—There's no law to say he can. The balance of power lies with your grandmother, who has supported you and cared for you all these years.

But don't be too resentful. Many a fatherless boy would give anything for the interest of a man in his life. Stop and think before you talk back to him. His idea of what to do could be a good one.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—On reading your column last week I noticed the address of Mrs. R. T. Tanner. Through her I have corresponded with individuals all over the world in my high school days. Now that I am married I would like to take up this wonderful hobby again.

Also, my pupils are interested in having pen pals. I have a husband and son and would appreciate your publishing it again.—MRS. M. B.

DEAR MRS. M. B.:—There was an error in the name given before, so here it is again: Mrs. R. T. Tanner, Director, Overseas Correspondence Department, United Nations Association in Canada, Markham, Ontario.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—There is a boy I have gone to school with for eight years and been good friends with him. About a month ago he began going out with a girl—but this lasted for only a couple of weeks.

Well, at his home he began comparing her with me, and I seemed to win. I heard this from his mother who was telling my mother, and I accidentally overheard.

Would you say he liked me?—WONDERING SUE.

DEAR SUE:—Yes. But don't start chasing rainbows on slim evidence.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—For about three weeks I went with a young man my age (15) and greatly enjoyed my dates with him.

Now he won't even speak to me. Goodness knows why! I was wondering, is it at all possible for me to have unknowingly hurt him so deeply that he wouldn't speak to me? He used to act like me, it offers no reason for him not to speak to me. I dislike people, but I still speak to them. —W. S.

DEAR W. S.:—Were you too eager? Men, especially very young ones, like to do all the chasing.

Common courtesy is a "Cheerio!" But he may be afraid you'll catch him again. Turn tables and give him the cold shoulder for a time.

• • •

TO JANE:—As mother-of-the-groom, you are properly given the honor of being the first woman to pour at the trousseau tea. Later you are given a prominent seated position. A friend of the bride who is assisting brings guests and introduces them to you.

What to say? Ask about them and things they are interested in. Where they live, what they do, are they old friends of the bride, do they know your Jim? Admire their hats. Tell a happy incident connected with the gifts or the groom.

It is proper to wear gloves in the receiving line. A trousseau tea is the bride's tea.

The key to poise is to forget yourself in putting the other person at ease. Don't stand on ceremony.

CNR President Gives Support To Proposal

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Gordon, CNR president, Monday gave his support to a recommendation of the Turgeon royal commission that railways be given wider freedom to set rates.

"This principle of rate freedom is in accordance with the principles by which Canadian National has worked within the limitations of existing regulations," he said in a speech at a joint meeting of the Canadian and Empire Clubs of Toronto.

"Pass the camouflage, please."

He said implementation of the proposal would permit the railways to react with speed and the competitive imbalance would be corrected by the railways, freedom of entry into the trucking business and relief for un-econ branch lines.

dations, Mr. Gordon said they suggested removal of certain national obligations to redress ways to react with speed and the competitive imbalance would be corrected by the railways, freedom of entry into the trucking business and relief for un-econ branch lines.

Swedes Could Pull The Big Upset!

Meet Canada Tonight!

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP)—Canada and Sweden, the two unbeaten giants of the 1963 world hockey championships, tonight tangle in a key game looked forward to with relish by the Canadians after three relatively easy tests.

The winner will become the top-heavy favorite to skate away with the title in this round-robin tournament ending Sunday.

Canada and Sweden, each with three victories in as many starts, and Norway are tied for first place in the championship division with six points each. But Norway's record was blemished by a loss.

Sweden, a surprise 2-1 conqueror of the United States, added enough lustre to its tournament record with a 12-2 victory over winless Finland Monday night. Lars Lundvall scored three goals for the Swedes.

In other championship games young Bjorn Elvenes scored four goals to help Norway defeat Switzerland 7-5 and West Germany shut out British 9-0 in a penalty-riddled donnybrook.

TRADE ACCUSATIONS'

The German and British coaches accused each other's players of high-sticking. The Germans said three of their players were taken to hospital with broken noses.

Jason trounced Australia 13-0 in the consolation round Monday and moved into a tie with The Netherlands at the top, each with two victories. Mamoru Takahshina scored five goals.

Today's schedule: (Times EST):

Group A—Canada vs. Sweden 10:15 p.m.; United States vs. West Germany 10:15 p.m.

Group B—France vs. Poland 5:30 p.m.; The Netherlands vs. Austria 5:30 p.m.

Canada's Galt Terriers were idle Monday, along with the United States. The Canadians welcomed the day off with an old fur eight injured or ailing players. All but two—defencemen Jack Douglas and Ted Malone are expected to be ready to play against the Swedes.

Douglas, 24, Makl, both hurt in Canada's 7-2 win over Switzerland Sunday, were hobbling on bad legs. Makl suffered a bruised right shin and Douglas "hes field on his right knee."

ROUBELL CONFIDENT

Coach Lloyd Roubell, whose Terriers also trounced Finland 8-1 and West Germany 5-0, expressed confidence the club will upset the host against Sweden.

"The better and tougher the opposition, the better we play," Roubell said. "We usually come up for the big games."

Swedish officials said they hoped the referees would punish any excessive body contact by the Canadians, but Roubell warned:

"We'll hit them and we'll play our own rugged style, and we'll forecheck."

Veteran defenceman Harry Smith, who played with Trail Smoke Eaters when they won the world championship last year in Switzerland and beat Sweden with ease 6-1, cautioned the: "We can't beat them unless we forecheck well."

Following the game with Sweden, Canada plays Norway Wednesday, British Saturday and the U.S. Sunday. Sweden's last three games are with Britain Thursday, Norway Friday and West Germany Saturday.

Durelle Wins Over Labonte

MONTREAL (CP)—Joey Durelle, 23, a rugged middleweight scored a 10-round decision over Montreal's Claude Labonte Monday night in a bout billed as elimination bout for a shot at the Canadian welterweight boxing title.

Promoter Jacques Chevrier said he plans to match Durelle against Toronto's No. 1 ranking Don Rora, with the winner to meet champion Gale Kerwin of Ottawa for the crown.

Durelle, over the welterweight division's 147 - pound limit with labonte at 152 and Durelle two pounds lighter.

DRAW FOR SOCCER

LONDON (AP) — Tottenham Hotspur and Burnley Monday kept apart in the draw for the semifinals of the English Soccer Cup—and left the way open to a dream final at Wembley Stadium May 3. Tottenham was drawn against the winner of the Preston — Manchester United match and Burnley will play the winner of the Fulham-Blackburn Rovers replay.

Howe Takes Over Third

Bathgate Retains 2-Point Lead

MONTREAL (CP) — Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers drew only an assist last week but still retained a two-point lead over Chicago's Bobby Hull in the race for the National Hockey League individual scoring crown.

The assist was Bathgate's 56th of the season—one in the league lead—and raised his point total to 79, according to official league statistics released today.

Hull scored his 44th goal, with 33 assists, he now has 77 points.

New York, however, played two games and Chicago only one, leaving Hull with a game in hand. The Black Hawks have six more games to Rangers' five before the 70 - game schedule ends March 25.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings had his 30th goal and also collected two assists in three games to take over sole possession of third place with 71 points.

MIDDLE FOURTH

Howe was tied with Milt Schmidt of the Black Hawks a week ago, but has since moved past him and now ranks fourth with 69.

Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs counted a goal, his 32nd of the season, and added an assist and is just one point behind Howe.

Goalie Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens allowed only goals in a 3-1 victory over Toronto's Johnny Bower in the race for the Vezina Trophy. He has allowed 2.34 goals per game to Bower and substitute Gump Worsley's 2.38 and thus who plays the most games for the team that allows the fewest goals.

Bower and substitute Johnny Bower's up only three goals in as many games and the Toronto average stands at 2.53.

Chicago continues as the most penalized club. Its players having spent 786 minutes in the penalty box. Montreal ranks second with 699 minutes.

Defenceman Lou Fontinato of Montreal is the runaway leader as the most penalized player. He has 183 minutes in penalties. Boston defenceman Ted Green is second with 104 minutes.

Decision Macs 6-3

Kingston Squares Series

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

KINGSTON — The Kingston Frontenacs, scoring two "surprise" goals in the first period and three "quickies" in the second, dumped the Belleville Mohawks 6-3 here last night to even their OHA Eastern Junior "B" group finals at one game apiece.

The third game in the best-of-seven set will be played in Belleville at 8:00 o'clock Friday night with the fourth back in Kingston a week from today.

Kingston led 3-1 after one period last night; 6-2 after two and 6-3 at the end of a chippy tilt that threatened to erupt at any moment. The Fronts did the hitting early in the game and by the time the Macs started to hit back it was a little too late.

Belleville jumped into a 1-0 lead at 1:46 of the first when Don Hunter stole the puck from McMillan and ripped home a left-wing shot.

The lead held up until 13:05 when Eddie Long skipped a low shot toward the blue net from 60 feet out. It skipped over Parker's stick to tie it 1-1 and the Frontenacs scored new life from the fluke goal.

The Macs were slow in clearing the icing minutes of the period when Garfield Ball whipped the puck just under the Mac cross-bar at 19:39 to put the winners ahead to stay.

Early in the second, the Macs began to flounder in their own end. Kingston took quick advantage for goals by Ball at 2.08, by Chuck Convery at 2.58 and Wayne Cashman at 3.47 for the victory margin.

Referees Casterton and Martin dished out nine penalties in the second, including fighting majors to Ball and Hunter. They were both watching when Pete Weston cut the lead to 5-2 assisted by Smith.

Parker made a great save on Robertson's breakaway at 15.32 but a trailing Cashman picked up the rebound and fired it home.

Mavety banded out three jolting checks as the third opened and the Fronts didn't like it. Lavallee charged all the way across the ice to "get even" but only wound up with a penalty. Mavety followed seconds later.

The Kingston bench left its player gate open and nearly caused a riot at 6.41. Cashman charged Dave Smith into the open doorway and as he slumped to the ice Mac coach Gordie Bell charged across the ice. Referee and officials helped keep Bell and Kingston coach Danny McLeod apart. Smith was not injured but Cashman drew a penalty.

Belleville missed the scoring on Bob Boyle's goal, aided by Gary Duvall and Paul Zakos at 9.37 and they banned Zakos earlier in the winners' nets often thereafter — without success.

Kingston and Hull drew misconducts at 11.18, and Kingston picked up three minors in the final three minutes of the game. The Macs failed to score with the supernumerous advantage but it was all over at this point anyway.

Penalty-wise, Belleville drew eight minors, a major and two misconducts, while Kingston had seven, one and one.

Belleville: Parker, G. Reid, Zakos, Weston, Hunter, Smith, Ethier, McGuire, Hull, Boyle, Keller, Duvall, Mavety. Bowland.

Kingston: Desmoler, R. Reid, Long, Quinn, Curran, Convery, Cashman, McMillan, Brown, Robertson, Lavallee, Ball, Dawson.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Word from the secretary of the local branch of the Royal Society of Sports Hamiers and Debaters is that a giant feud is in the making.

Our man on the scene has it that the O'Peevers and the O'Mahoney's have joined forces in a giant Seventeenth of Ireland verbal joust against the O'Mearas and the O'Cooks on whether Lord Stanley's piece of silver crockery stays put in its Chicago wigwam or will go east and whittle another notch on Toe O'Blake's Montreal six-shooter.

George Patrick O'MoGee and Sitting Bull John O'Hill have begun hostilities because, the word has it, they are neutrals. But our undercover man's research reveals that an O'McGee was General Montcalm's batman during the Plains of Abraham disagreement, and a brave called Six-Scalp O'Mill led Chief Black Hawk's warriors on their victorious assault on the Chicago stockyards.

That, opines the cloak-and-dagger bloke, makes them as neutral as Nikita Kh. in a stop-the-bomb-test debate.

What both factions are forgetting is that unless something short of a mathematical miracle happens, the Canadiens and the Hawks won't do battle for the Stanley Cup or the league championship. Punch Mc-Imlach's Toronto Leafs, at the moment on a hit and run rampage are a cinch for second place, and that leaves the Habs and the Hawks in a rip-snorting semi-finals series.

But that's not worrying the O'Fevver-O'Mahoney brain trust. "Give us Jake O'Plante and a half dozen Canadiens and we'll pluck the Hawks until they look like a third-grade sewing chicken. We'll shoo 'em back to Chicago with their half-feathers shrogs and that goes for the Hull kaboodle."

And the war chant of the O'Mearas and the O'Cooks is no less defiant. They're yodelling:

With O'Hull and O'Hall and O'Hay
It's going to be a great day.
And what could be sweeter,
Than watching Mikita
Tucking the Habs in the hay.

As the man said, both tongs are forgetting what might happen. Regardless of whether the Canadiens or the Hawks win the semi-finals jousting, the Maple Leafs have to be considered. And the Red Wings or the Rangers could cause the biggest blow-up since the Halifax explosion by dunking the Leafs in their semi-finals tete-a-tete. Okay, okay, a pair dream can't be!

With a great driving force like Bobby Hull, Mikita and May sparking the Black Hawks offensive and a great defensive player like Plante the Canadiens Horatio on the bridge, almost anything can happen.

Last year the Habitants had Doug Harvey, but Plante's outstanding work in the Nets this season, has I believe, more than offset any decline in the Canadiens defensive ability. But last year the Hawks in a rugged drive won the Stanley Cup. For my money the winner of the Habs-Hawks semi-finals will park the Stanley pewter on the family mantle.

As for Bobby Hull, most guys I've contacted are pulling for him to equal or break the fifty-goal record held by Rocket Richard and Boom-Boom Geoffrion. As of now he needs six to tie and seven to break the mark with six games to go. He has potted 29 in the last 25 games.

If he does, and if he doesn't for that matter, and he does not get a first-team all-star spot it will be the greatest blushing since the Great Mall Robbery.

"TYKE NIGHT"

And don't forget tonight is "Tyke Night" at Memorial Arena. It is their biggest evening of the year and you dads, moms and others should go down there to cheer the little guys.

Champions in three divisions will be declared and individual stars will be honored with trophies and awards.

The squirts finals start at 6 p.m. and the peewees at 7.15. Then the big "presentation" time is 8.15 then the battles take over. A great night for the youngsters.

Canadians Are Strong Contenders

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (CP-AP) — Canadian entries shape up as strong contenders for four titles in the world figure skating championships opening Wednesday.

Don Jackson, 21, of Oshawa, Ont., favorite for the men's title, a flashy free-skater, he is claimed as edge over Alain Calmat of France and Karel Divin of Czechoslovakia.

The title was last won by Alain Calmat of France, a clinics turned professional.

Opening ceremonies are scheduled for today. The opening day's program will include many compulsory figures, compulsory dances and the pairs finals.

A plane crash at Brussels 13 months ago wiped out the entire United States team, plus coaches and skating officials. The brilliant crashed while en route to the world meet in Prague. The championships for 1961 were cancelled.

In the women's division, Mrs. Barbara Wagner Pursley, 20-year-old housewife from Montreal, is rated an edge in the United States contest. Other top contestants are Wendy Griner of Toronto, Canadian Junior champion, and Sjoukje Dijkstra of The Netherlands, the European champion.

Canada has 10 entries, the largest representation by a single country.

Maria and Otto Wilnick of Toronto, Ont., are favored among the pairs. Virginia Thompson and William Maclachlan, both of Toronto, rank high in the ice dancing competition.

"It's the toughest team we've ever had," Nigel Stephens, president of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, commented Monday.

Jackson is competing in the world meet for the fifth time. The men will take four of their six compulsory figures in morning and afternoon sessions Wednesday. The remaining two figures are slated for Thursday morning with the men's singles getting underway later that Thursday night.

Greatest threat to hook Jackson's effort are European champions Calmat and the 1960 Olympic runnerup, Divin. Other standouts include U.S. champion Timothy Brown of Denver, Manfred Schnelldorfer, of West Germany, and Donald Jackerson of Toronto, a 17-year-old who was runnerup to Jackson for the Canadian title in 1961-62.

The Jelineks are solid title favorites despite the fact they face the largest and strongest pairs field ever entered in the world meet. Most skating experts believe the native . born Czechoslovak couple to state their usual steady program to win the crown.

Other Canadian entries include Paulette Doan and Ken Ormsby, St. Thomas, Ont., and Toronto respectively; third in the Canadian senior dance

The Tracks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Longacres, father and son, will make a determined effort to win the $100,000 Gulfstream Park Handicap with Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty Saturday.

Trainer Vance Longden and his wife drew here from Los Angeles Sunday with Four-and-Twenty, winner of three stakes at Santa Anita Race Track. Jockey Johnny Longden, father of the trainer, will give the horse a workout Thursday before riding him in the $150,000 fea-ture.

Toughest competition for Four-and-Twenty is expected to come from Mount Farm's Yorky, who carries 121 pounds and is early favorite at 2 to 1. Steve Cauthen will ride the Wilcoxen entry.

Tied in the early line—and carrying equal weight of 126 pounds with Four-and-Twenty—are Forgester Farm Stable's Derry Back, seeking his first victory of the winter. Carr-Jack will have a new rider with Manuel Ycaza replacing Johnny Rotz. He is 3 for 2 in the early go. Four-and-Twenty is rated 10 1.

PROMOTER DIES

CHICAGO (AP) — George Jay, 71, wealthy sports promoter who sponsored the richest tournaments in the history of golf in the 1940s and 1950s, died Monday apparently from a heart attack. May, who sponsored the All-America and World championships, died at the O'Shanter Country Club which he owned and where he held the tournaments. He also was head of the George S. May Company, a firm of business management consultants.

Blair Draws Suspension

OTTAWA (CP)—Wren Blair, manager — coach of Kingston Frontenacs of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, has been suspended by league president John J. Urie pending payment of a $250 good-behavior bond.

Blair was thrown out of a game at Hull, Que., Sunday by referee Bruce Simms and it was the fourth time this year the Kingston coach has been ejected.

Blair objected to penalties he called against Pete Panagabko and Harry Sloden in Kingston's 6-3 loss to the league-leading Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

He reacted by breaking sticks against the boards and walls in a furious show of temper.

Hockey sticks covered the floor behind the Kingston bench and Blair's outburst was witnessed by the largest crowd to attend a game in Hull this season.

Urie said that $200 of the fine will be returned to Blair if his conduct warrants it.

Urie also announced that Bob Olzko of the Frontenacs and Ted Wright of Sudbury Wolves have been fined $50 each for a stick-swinging brawl during a game in Kingston Saturday night.

The players had both been given major penalties for deliberate intent to injure and match penalties.

The Grape-Fruit League

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts of Milwaukee Braves has found a golden boy to plug an outfield hole.

He reached for batting sticks and was hot enough to make it 5 for 8 in a game or two.

Jones, a six - foot - one, 180-pounder from Mobile, Ala., batted at Louisville last year. Toward the end of the season, the Braves brought him up for a look and he hit only 231 in 28 games in the major league.

Jones clouted No. 4 Monday and drove in another run in the Braves' 12-3 decision over Cincinnati Reds at Bradenton, Fla.

HALIFAX (CP) — Canadian football has suffered a setback in the Maritimes.

Still in its infancy in an area where English rugger was the sports rage for many years, the Canadian-style game has caught on around the Atlantic Football Conference.

The blow came recently when University of New Brunswick and Mount Allison — the only New Brunswick members — withdrew from the league and left the senior division to five teams next year.

When the Atlantic Football Conference was formed it said its ambition, besides providing a good brand of football at the intercollegiate level, was to "help develop" the Canadian game among youngsters.

AFC president Phil Carr-Harris, car dealer and one-time Toronto Argonaut backfie, contends the best way to get youngsters interested in football is to provide them with a good game by college and armed services teams.

HOPED TO GROW

Carr-Harris and Don Loney, former Ottawa coach and now coach at St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N.S., were two of the AFC's architects. They say a key idea of their plan was to develop the game from Halifax — where it has been played since 1942 — to the rest of the Maritimes.

How? Well, they said, form a league of Halifax, Moncton, Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, and get the ball rolling in Newfoundland. And, of course, help out minor teams with coaching clinics and other assistance.

As a result, the AFC was established with all willing teams in the Maritimes, mostly from college ranks. Divisions were set up.

"It was working well," says Loney, whose St. F-X team was undefeated in three seasons of conference play in the annual Atlantic Bowl game against Ontario colleges each season.

Then came the withdrawal of U.N.B. and Mount Allison. Faculties at both colleges felt the teams should play strictly intercollegiate football, whereas the AFC includes two Navy teams. U.N.B. and Mount Allison are happy because the AFC does not enforce Maritime interco-legiate Athletic Union rules on player eligibility, hoped to form

CAN APPEAL TAX CASE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson, former heavyweight boxing champion, was granted Monday a 45-day period in which to appeal a court order directing him to pay the Internal Revenue Service more than $1,000,000 from fight purses. Federal Judge David W. Dyer rejected the Swedish fighter time to file an appeal with the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of appeals in New Orleans.

Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. of Montgomery, Ala., ruled Dec. 13 that Johansson owed the money as income tax. Johnson discounted the boxer's claim that Swiss residence and business interests made him immune to paying U.S. income tax.

Racing Owners Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The owners of two horse racing publications were indicted Monday on charges of violating laws against interstate shipments of gambling materials.

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy said the indictment, returned by a federal grand jury in Louisville, Ky., was the first involving "scratch" sheets under the government's anti-racketeering laws.

The publications, carry detailed results, entries, odds and other information on racing at U.S. tracks.

Named in the 12-count Louisville indictment, Kennedy said, were Illinois Sports News of Chicago, the Louisville Daily Sports News, George L. Kelly, 46, his brother, Thomas, Francis Kelly, 34, and Thomas Francis Kelly, 31, all of Chicago.

Indicted with them, Kennedy said, were Louis Ethaman, 61, Lexington, Ky., publisher of the Louisville Daily Sports News, and the Kentucky Press Company Incorporated of Louisville, which distributes publications to retailers.

The attorney-general said all the defendants were charged with conspiracy and with illegally shipping copies of the Louisville Daily Sports News from Kentucky to Indiana for use in bookmaking.

'Need The Breaks'-Hull

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks' golden jet, is closing in on the National Hockey League record of 50 goals in one season.

"Let 'em keep coming one a game," said the muscular left winger, "Then I can do it."

Hull scored his seventh goal in the last seven games in a 3-2 loss to Toronto Sunday night. It was also his 29th in the last 32 games. His total is 44 with six games left to play.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens set the record by scoring 50 goals during the 50 - game 1944-45 season. Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion tied the mark last year in the present era of 70 games a season.

Oddly enough, Richard and Geoffrion also scored a record of scoring in nine successive games and Hull also is within reach of that mark.

"I'll be rough," said Hull when asked whether he thought he could tie or break the 50 record. "I'll have to get the breaks."

NEEDS BIG NIGHT

Bobby feels he has to have one big night and a couple of six games. "Maybe I can get lucky in one of those games and pick up two or three, then I might do it."

How does Hull explain his second-half surge?

"I got my legs back after Christmas. Before that I wasn't skating well. We had a tough time in training camp and a heavy exhibition schedule and I just got the feeling of wanting to play. . . .

"Then when I started skating things came my way. I was hot, too. Red (Hay) and Murray (Balfour) are hard in the groove. There were times they were out with injuries and you miss fellows when they're not around. They're always helping you, can't help but pass to them and you have fellows like that with you."

As a team, the Hawks can concentrate on letting Bobby shoot. They have clinched third place and have only a mathematical chance of finishing second. However, they do want to win one more game to become the winningest Hawks team in history. They have 29 triumphs to date.

Soccer Club Brake, Resigns

LONDON (Reuters)—The resignation of fourth-division Accrington Stanley from the English Football League has been accepted and its record will be expunged from the table, the Soccer League announced Monday. The club unsuccessfully attempted to withdraw its letter of resignation.

League secretary, Alan Hardaker, issued a statement saying the league's management committee "had no alternative, after discussing the matter with their legal advisers, but to accept the resignation."

Accrington first announced its resignation from the league after a creditors' meeting March 5 when it was disclosed that the club was $30,000 in debt. Immediate fixtures were cancelled, but after receiving some offers of help the Accrington club attempted to withdraw its resignation.

Its players will be taken over by the league for transfer.

Tessier Clings to Big Lead

OTTAWA (CP)—Veteran right winger Orval Tessier of Kingston Frontenacs has strengthened his chances of collecting his second scoring championship in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Tessier, top scorer two seasons ago, has a 10-point lead in the race with only three weeks to go in this season, according to league statistics released Monday.

The chunky goal-getter scored four times and picked up the same number of assists last night to bring his total to 96 points—46 goals and 54 assists. This gives him a 10-point edge on teammate Tom McCarthy who collected three goals and four assists in the week for a total of 86 points.

Bob Attersley, another Kingston player, made the front pack a one-team fight when he moved into third place with three goals and four assists. His total is 73 points.

McCarthy is tops in goals with 49 and Attersley in assists with 55.

TORONTO (CP)—Magistrate Fred Hayes ruled Monday that emotional stress is no excuse for a man clubbing his wife's lover. He sentenced Boleslaw Czernicki, 47, to 2½ years.

Final-filtered gasolines are just one more example of how we are fulfilling our pledge of continuing leadership.

During the past year our Company implemented in several important ways the promise made to the motorists of Canada—that we would continue to be in the forefront of progress, offering our customers major improvements in products and services. By far the most significant of these is our "Final Filtering," a remarkable method of gasoline dispensing that assures you of the cleanest gasoline you can buy anywhere. Crime Commission Spotlight To Be Turned on Govt.

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's royal commission on crime, set up to probe a possible network of big-time operations in the province, will first turn the searchlight on allegations of wrongdoing within the government itself, it emerged today.

The one-man commission of Mr. Justice W. D. Roach of the Ontario Court of Appeal starts hearings here March 20. When they will end is anybody's guess — and the commissioner is not guessing.

"We won't drag it out," he said, "but I don't intend to just walk across the field and miss something."

The field could be a big one. There have been charges of Ontario connections with international narcotics and gambling syndicates involving money in the multi-millions, and with the many-tentacled Mafia.

ALLEGED BRIBERY

Bribery of police has been charged in court. A Toronto man due for trial in New York on a narcotics charge was found slain and partially burned in a field near Rochester, N.Y. A Detroit man co - operating with United States narcotics officials was shot to death and his girl friend's throat cut in a hideout here.

The rough stuff will be taken up as the last part of the royal starter. It intends to look into suggestions of irregularities on the part of Ontario government officials.

These charges have come primarily from Opposition Leader John Wintermeyer, and it was a speech of his Nov. 19 in the legislature that goaded new Premier John Robarts into setting up the commission after predecessor Leslie Frost had refused such a demand for months.

Mr. Wintermeyer slammed out at some fairly well-known gambling operations but also at stuck harpoons into the government directly by accusing some unnamed government officials of, at least, laxity.

CHARGES VIOLATIONS

Some of the charges:

1. On the government's handling of charters to "social" clubs, the record shows that there have been flagrant violations of law. Some of the most notorious of these clubs (and it's no secret) that bookmaking goes on in some) had not been properly investigated by the attorney - general's department.

2. Failure of the attorney-general's department to act on police reports "indicates at the least a complete lack of liaison" between the attorney - general and the provincial secretary.

3. He quoted from the diary of a provincial police undercover agent to say that Hall-Rae stated an unnamed "senior official" of the attorney-general's department was getting $800 a month from gamblers.

Mr. Wintermeyer also suggested the undercover investigation may have been stopped on orders from Attorney-General Kelso Roberts. The attorney-general hotly denied this.

Mr. Wintermeyer was threatened with a $1,000,000 libel suit by one man he mentioned if he would make his speech outside the House. He did so. There has been no suit so far.

ASKS INDEPENDENT PROBE

Donald C. MacDonald, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, chipped in with a suggestion that independent investigations are needed to ferret out possible contributions from racketeers to political party funds.

Premier Robarts, in announcing formation of the royal commission Dec. 12, said his government will take any action necessary as a result of its report.

The commissioner was given three terms of reference. First, he is to look into social clubs. No. 2 is to be an inquiry into any improper relationships between "senior officials of the legal staff of the attorney-general" concerning terminations of investigations, suppression of evidence or payments of money. The other reference concerns crime generally in the province and the capability of law enforcement agencies to deal with it.

The commission proposes to start with No. 2, dealing with government officials. After that it will take up "social clubs" under which euphemism many gambling and bookie joints operate thousand then dive into the general crime problem.

GO BY CHAPTERS

For the present, Mr. Justice Roach says, it is planned to go through "in chapters," trying to clean up each one of the three categories in between hearings and then perhaps adjourning before going on to the next.

How long will it take before a report comes down?

One senior commission man was asked whether a year might about do it.

His answer: "Maybe."

Anti-Castro Cubans Being Given U.S. Aid

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — An efficient underground movement has been set in motion to aid the defection of anti - Castro Cubans to the United States through Canada, it was learned today in Ottawa.

A highly-qualified source said the underground movement involves persons both in Canada and the U.S., it does not involve Canadian officials.

The system has been used by 14 Cubans since last fall to escape from their Communist homeland and join compatriots in the U.S., opposed to Fidel Castro's regime.

They've made their way into the U.S. by "dumping" Cubana Airlines planes landing at Newfoundland's Gander Airport. A large number were airplane pilots.

Sunday a 15th Cuban made a similar bid to get into the U.S. He was intercepted by Royal Mounties at Lacolle, Que., 24 miles south of Montreal, after he had crossed the Canadian - U.S. border on foot.

All of the 14 Cubans who have left the planes asked the Canadian immigration department for transit privileges. This is a procedure available to nationals of any foreign country, enabling such persons to enter Canada on a temporary basis as non - immigrants provided they are passing through Canada to another country.

In asking for transit privileges, the Cubans simultaneously apply to American authorities for visas to enter the U.S. These usually come forward with the visas to six days.

There appears to be a minimum of red tape involved in the granting of visas, the source said. It was obvious that persons in the U.S. were assisting the defecting Cubans to obtain visas.

All of the 14 Cubans who have defected to date at Gander have received visas to enter the U.S. The source said it is obvious that all of the 14 Cubans were aware that they would be allowed to enter the U.S. None probably would have come to Canada if they were not being sent back to Cuba to face authorities as unsuccessful defectors.

Council Votes To Terminate Hotel Agreement

TORONTO (CP)—City council voted Monday to terminate an agreement with the Canadian Pacific Railway that exempts the Royal York Hotel from payment of business taxes and permits the company's steam heating plant to avoid payment of real property taxes.

The decision, expected to reap another $171,000 in taxes, takes effect next Jan. 1 and will be followed by an appeal to the provincial legislature next year for an amendment to the Assessment Act to permit the city to tax the two operations.

At present, the Royal York pays the city $10,000 a year in lieu of the business tax and another $7,500 annually in place of the property tax on its steam plant.

Only one other Ontario hotel is believed to enjoy such tax privileges — the Chateau Laurier Hotel in Ottawa. The steam plant provides heat for the Royal York, Union Station, the federal customs building and the post office.

The agreement between the city and the CPR was set out in a report by board of control adopted by city council in 1949. It provides for the payment of $17,500 annually, with the city promising not to seek tax legislation as long as the agreement continues.

The city and the company each reserve the right, however, to terminate the agreement in 1963 to take effect in the next following year.

Transport Dept. Bans Tipping Of Porters

MONTREAL (CP) — Three men pleaded not guilty Monday to charges of carrying on their own business as baggage-porters at the Montreal International Airport without proper authorization.

All long-time porters at the airport, they were arrested shortly after midnight, when the federal transport department officially took over the baggage-carrying service.

All three, Martin Leslie Sunter, Harold Nelson Batson and David Platt, are scheduled to appear for preliminary hearing March 20.

The transport department has also banned tipping of porters and established a fixed rate of 25 cents each for pieces of luggage carried.

The three accused are members of Professional Sky Caps Incorporated, which has opposed a fixed rate on the grounds that it would give the porter an average weekly wage of $45.

Henri Gourdeau, regional director of civil aviation, said the department has set a basic wage of $65 a week and 10 cents more for every piece of luggage carried. He estimated that a porter would carry an average of 300 pieces of luggage a week.

People Beginning to Talk Just Like TV Commercials

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The alarm went off at 7 a.m. after a week-end during which the Jones family had stayed glued to the television set.

Mrs. Jones sprang from bed and announced: "During I slept a full eight hours—and I feel so rested. No sign of sleeping pill hangover."

As Mrs. Jones went down to prepare breakfast, her husband brushed his teeth three times (once with the paste for people who can't brush after every meal, once with the bacteria-killing paste, and once with the fluoride that holds its full quota of fluoride).

Then he shaved twice (once with the lather that makes every whisker stand up straight and once with the lather that seems to reach his hidden beard).

"Do you notice the delicious, tangy aroma released when I pour water in this full, rich, tinted cup?" asked Mrs. Jones as her husband sat down at the table.

Their son entered.

"See his shirt," Mrs. Jones continued. Not his clean but Jones. clean clear through, whiter than white."

"Sure," said Mr. Jones, "but notice he's still using that greasy kid stuff on his hair." After all, nine out of 10 doctors prescribe the ingredient — no, lift a man's clagavela, . . .

AT THE PARK — For the second time in his long career Mickey Rooney uses a make-up device as he does plastic surgery on a hilarious portrayal of Satan in "The Private Lives of Adam and Eve" at the Park Theatre. Rooney, who appears in Spectacolor for Universal-International release, shares with Doreen and Marty Milner are a host of the title roles. The film, starting attraction opens Wednesday for two days only. Co-starring with Rooney in "The Private Lives of Adam and Eve" are Mamie Van Doren, Fay Spain, Mel Torme, Marty Milner, Tuesday Weld, Paul Anka and Cesar Romero.

Aries (March 21 to Apr. 19) — If visiting keep the atmosphere friendly. Debates, discussions, arguments could get out of hand. Be willing to offer aid, compliments . . . but don't expect too much in return.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — The saying, "Man does not live by bread alone" . . . could be a good one now. Tendency is to place too much emphasis on material goods. If you avoid this trap . . . you gain in long run.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Air of glamor could accomplish wonders. Dress up things, emphasize the unique . . . present everyday material in new package. Mystery . . . a key word. Keep some things to yourself. You'll be amazed at reaction!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Pep up. Take advantage of it through versatility . . . maintaining sense of humor. To become glum is to invite difficulty. Today could be most pleasant.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — The romantic side of your nature comes to the fore. Don't try to hide or deny it . . . but give it full play. Life without affection, love, is no life at all for you.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Chance to put ideas into action. Be willing to accept challenges to make changes . . . to travel if necessary. Stress social side of life by visiting friends or loved ones.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Don't confuse professional or business ambitions with family life; . . . don't take heed aches from office to your home. Otherwise, you ask for trouble . . . and could receive it.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Favorable lunar aspect to your sign gives you edge today. Remember, anything can become a reality so why permit those with less talent, vision to discourage you?

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Could be minor dispute over financial matter. You gain by taking expansive view . . . being "small" will cause dissension of your claims, rights. Indications that you come out on top, but with added responsibility.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Kind of day in which you come up against opposition. But much of this is a test. If you show you can meet obligations, you are due for increased. Might be best to wait and see, where contracts are concerned.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Not time to keep secrets. If you have anything to hide . . . better examine motives, reasons. Best to seek advice . . . from trusted friend or spiritual mentor. Highlight honesty, sincerity.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Today excellent for putting cards on table . . . for letting others know your position. Take original . . . don't allow yourself to be manoeuvered. Those in authority may prove to be better friends than you imagined.

If today is your birthday . . . year could be outstanding in business advancement, promotion, added income, personal life. Not year for halfway measure . . . go all out.

General Tendencies Cycle up for Gemini, Cancer, Leo. But caution advised for Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius. Big business matters news, through messages, investment, plans for future progress.

Canada Could Be Short Of Wheat Within 2 Years, Hinges on Two Questions

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada could be short of wheat within two years.

Decisions now are having to be made whether to pursue export market opportunities, or hedge by holding back a minimum wheat reserve.

The abrupt shift from surpluses to what could be scarcity hinges on two questions:

Will export sales continue at or about the 350,000,000 - bushel mark surpassed last year and anticipated this year?

Will the Prairies rebound from last year's drought—or was 1961 the middle or start of a dry cycle, rather than a one-year blow?

Officials now expect that exports for the current crop year ending July 31 will be about 350,000,000 bushels, a high figure for the second straight year.

The 1962 wheat crop is a question mark. Many areas remain sone dry, deep into the subsoil. Although snow this winter has generally been around, any real recovery in grain production rests on the hope of soaking rains in spring and early summer.

VITAL PERIOD

Depending on whether the spring thaw is speedy or prolonged, the prospect is for early surface warm winds and waste it mutually flushing down Prairie gullies and rivers rather than sinking deep into the land such as the late 1930's.

Without such a land soaking, the 1962 wheat crop could be as low as 200,000,000 to 261,000,000 bushels harvested last year—about crop plant 1961.

Canadian domestic consumption runs pretty steadily at 150,000,000 bushels.

The pre - harvest wheat reserve July 31 could be about 200 bushels by Aug. 1, the start of the new crop year, compared with 350,000,000 bushels that date last year.

Then, in 1963, if exports remain above 300,000,000 bushels a year and crops below 300,000,000 bushels, the reserves probably would be below 100,000,000 bushels.

This recalls the three immediate post-war years when the wheat reserve ranged between 73,000,000 and 86,000,000 bushels. From then on, reserves increased into burdensome surpluses, reaching 733,500,000 in 1956.

TWO BIG CROPS

The Korean War sparked greater demand for food cash purposes but two big crops—one of 600,000,000 and one of 700,000,000 bushels in 1951—kept the surplus high.

The question is just how much wheat constitutes a minimum reserve. It could be as low as one year's supply, or 150,000,000 bushels.

Red China, having aligned to buy 186,000,000 bushels of wheat by the end of 1963, has shown signs of wanting every kernel. Linked with demand by India, traditionally Canada's biggest wheat customer, plus Japan and West Germany, this could put exports should run fairly steadily up to halfway through the 1963-64 crop year—if the grain is there.

DROUGHT GUESSES

Agriculture Minister Hamilton has contended that last year's drought, in Saskatchewan the worst in history, was the sixth of a dry-spell cycle, and that one more remained due.

Others are less optimistic. In many areas, the soil is bone-dry deep down. And while the snowfall has generally been good, it has limited moisture benefits when the ground is frozen.

If 1962 also is dry, much more soil drifting could be expected in southeastern Alberta and in Saskatchewan—perhaps a genuine echo of the dustbowl conditions of the 30s.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER

Former supervising assessor Income Tax Department.

If you are a wife employed by your husband in his business and receive a regular weekly salary, you are one taxpayer who does not have to pay any income tax, no matter how much you receive in wages.

There is a section of the Income Tax Act that prohibits a business man from charging up as an expense the salary or wages paid-to his wife. He may pay his wife any salary he cares to, but for income tax purposes this would be considered his own money.

When the husband is a partner in a business, the wife usually gets only the amount received from the other partners. For example if there are two partners and the wife of one received a salary of $5,000 she would only show $2,000 on her return and her husband would have to add her $3,000 to the profit the additional $1,000. If a T4 slip was issued to her by the partnership for $3,000, the slip would be attached to her return with the note of explanation and reference made to her husband's return to account for the other $1,000.

Sometimes when a husband and wife operate a business they deem it a partnership and register it as such. To become tax department will not recognize such a set up until $10,000.00 from the wife's personally invested capital held in her own name in the business. If she had no capital in her own invested in the venture, then the partnership cannot be recognized and the entire profits from the business would be taxable in the husband's hands. Taxpayers in positions similar to the above have their positions clarified by the tax department before filing their returns.

Question? I work for my husband in his business. I am paid my earnings. I get no more a salary of $50.00 per week, which I deposit in the bank and hold expenses and buy my clothes. Should I get a T4 slip from him and file a tax return.

Answer: No. You do not have to file a tax return as your husband is not allowed to charge your salary as an expense against the business. You will not be paying the tax on it.

Question? I operate a small business and employ my wife and three children. Do they have to file returns or are their wages taxable, in my hands.

Answer: Your non should return from you a T4 slip as he is taxable on his earnings which you state is within an exemption. Anything paid to your wife is not an allowable expense against the business, as is taxable in your hands.

Henry Wheeler at 73 Still Driving Taxi in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — At 73, hard as iron were enough to jar Henry Wheeler can well claim to be Montreal's dean of taxi. With 50 years and 2,000,000 miles of driving through city streets to his credit.

The first taxis appeared about 1910, and just two years later Mr. Wheeler decided that taxis would be his career. He has suffered memories of the early days.

"Those Vinot automobiles went around like juggernauts, over the cobblestones and dirt up to 20 miles an hour," he recalls. "They frightened horses, and if they didn't frighten people, the rates did."

The lowest rate was a 30-cent drop fare, and 20 cents a mile during the quiet afternoon hours. At night it was 50 and 50.

Night driving was precarious with kerosene lamps for headlights and every murky yard ahead a potential hazard.

ROUGH RIDES

"The rough streets and tires

"Some people would even jump out in panic, though I'm not sure on this day whether that was fear of the ride or of the fare."

He had some troublesome passengers, such as the lanky drunk who dragged him down and then jammed him in the back with a hard object while ordering him to turn into a lane. He remembered an old trick another driver had told him about. I jammed on the brake and jumped out. The young fellow was pitched into the front seat and sat there in a daze until I stopped a passing police car.

Henry Wheeler had to take a driving test at age 70. "They might have figured I was all right," he said. "I've been getting the licence application forms by mail ever since."

But minutes after her arrival there, to the greetings of several hundred students shouting "Jacqueline Kennedy Ja! Ja!" (Victory to Jacqueline Kennedy) she drove out to watch the procession.

Mrs. Kennedy watched from the red marble loggia accompanied by Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister Nehru's daughter, and Mrs. John Kenneth Galbraith, wife of the U.S. ambassador.

Mrs. Kennedy and her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill were greeted by Nehru and his daughter, who invited Mrs. Kennedy to visit here when they were in Washington last November.

Great Nuclear Threat May Not Come From Skies But From Many Water Saboteurs

WASHINGTON (CP) — While North America bristles with radar screens, bombers and rockets, some defence department sources fear the great nuclear threat may come not from the skies but from some sudden massive development of underwater saboteurs armed with nuclear bombs and nerve gases and chemical weapons.

"We're still not fully equipped to handle this potential threat," said one informant who indicted he has been in a stiff struggle trying to convince Congress that more defence purse there must be a greater effort to expand American underwater demolition teams as an offensive and counter-offensive submarine weapon.

In contrast to rumors that the Soviet Union may have thousands of well-trained frogmen who could be carried to strategic and sensitive areas by an armada of some 400 submarines, the United States is reported to have fewer than 50 of these underwater guerrilla warriors.

"We could here many more—more than the Reds—if we could convince others in the Pentagon of the great danger and the terrific success of these so-called sabotcurs," the informant said.

DETECTION DIFFICULT

Clad in rubberized suits and equipped with flippers, oxygen tanks and special breathing apparatus, frogmen can operate from the Arctic to the tropics. They are trained to swim more than five miles at depths of between 60 and 120 feet, but have swum at depths of more than 300 feet.

They can operate almost silently and are difficult to detect with existing equipment. They can slip into harbors and shorelines; plant nuclear bombs and contaminate water supplies to demoralize and panic populations because there would be no warning."

Transferred from submarines, special small underwater craft, they could operate many miles offshore. American frogmen, or "seals" as they are called now, use an Italian craft for this purpose but are also continuing to develop new American propulsion units.

"Of all the allies," said the informant, "Italy perhaps is in the forefront. They have developed effective damage during the Second World War."

ITALY SECRETIVE

In one incident, six Italian frogmen — later captured — damaged two British battleships and a tanker in a single operation in Egypt's Alexandria Harbor in 1941.

Veteran Skipper Found Guilty By Court Martial

By TOM WATT

VICTORIA (CP) — A naval court martial Saturday found Cmdr. R. H. Leir guilty on a charge of acting to the prejudice of good order and discipline in the shelling of the logging community of Port Alice, Van., during firing practice Jan. 3.

The 40-year-old skipper of the destroyer-escort HMCS Skeena, a veteran of 22 years service, was sentenced to be reprimanded.

The five-member court entered a stay of proceedings on an alternate charge of negligently performing a military duty.

The conviction was on the grounds that Cmdr. Leir ordered the guns of the Skeena to fire, even though he knew that the shells would fall within two miles of land. This was contrary to a standing Pacific Command order.

After two days of testimony, the court required 20½ hours to reach its verdict and another 45 minutes to determine the sentence. Maximum penalty for conviction on the charge is dismissal from Her Majesty's service."

CLAIMS SUFFICIENT

Defence counsel Lloyd McKenzie, after detailing the long and splendid career of Cmdr. Leir, said that guilt in this case was sufficient punishment and that the court should impose a fine of $1 to indicate there was guilt but no moral wrong-doing.

Attending a naval personnel hall the shelling could have a bad effect on promotion for Cmdr. Leir. He is on the "navy list" and a promotion to captain was considered imminent before the court proceedings started.

Cmdr. Leir may appeal within 30 days of receipt of the transcript of the proceedings.

The shelling incident occurred while Skeena and other Canadian naval vessels were conducting a firing practice in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Cmdr. Leir testified he ordered the forward mounting fired after he had identified the target after determining from a visual bearing that the gun had cleared land.

Prosecution counsel Lt.-Cmdr. Dought Collins argued that Cmdr. Leir's sighting was 35 degrees east, and even if he had been dead on, fragments from the shells would have hit the Washington coast.

In Romania in 1962 the infant mortality rate was about six per cent, compared with 17 per cent in 1938.

Three Kingston District People Die In Accident

Car Ends on River Ice After Smashing Posts

KINGSTON (CP)—Three persons were killed and three injured early today when a car went out of control in Kingston's western outskirts, crashed through a guard rail and landed on a frozen river.

Dead are Andrea Mae Hearns, 17, of Robin Hill; Tuttana Vesrovics, 22, of Kingston, and Douglas Clifford Joy, 21, of Kingston. Miss Vesrovics is believed to have emigrated recently from Europe.

In hospital here with undetermined injuries are Howard Joy, 22, brother of the dead man; Shirley Baxter of Napanee and Roy Jackson, Kingston.

The accident was the first death alongside the Little Cataraqui River. The vehicle, a 1956 model, took out more than a dozen posts before it struck a bridge approach as it apparently rolled sideways again and again.

Bodies were strewn over hundreds of feet. Both the driver of the dead girls were severed. Police said the only person at the scene was an officer, an ambulance attendant who said he had passed his car shortly beforehand.

Police Seize Half-Pound Of Marijuana

TORONTO (CP) — Between 1,200 and 1,500 cigarettes and a rejail value of $1 each, could have been made from the half-pound of marijuana recently seized by RCMP officers, a general sessions court was told Tuesday.

Harry Hooper, 25, and Ronald Cleveland, 25, both of Toronto, are charged with illegally possessing narcotics for the purposes of trafficking and with importing marijuana into Canada from Europe.

Sergeant Kelly LaBrash of the RCMP narcotics squad testified before Senior County Judge Robert Forsyth and a jury that the marijuana seized after the two men were arrested would bring about $100 to $1,000 on the bulk market.

Another police witness said Cleveland admitted getting the marijuana in Detroit from a man whose name he did not know. Hooper denied knowing Cleveland had any marijuana.

Conviction on a charge of importing narcotics carries a minimum penalty of seven years in prison and a maximum sentence of life.

The trial is continuing.

Labor Dislikes But Won't Fight Disclosure Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress today criticized the government's plan to require unions and corporations to disclose their organizational and financial structures but added it will not oppose the measure.

"We are prepared to live with it because we have to make a bid," the CLC told the cabinet in its annual legislative brief today.

The Congress, representing most trade unions in Canada with an over-all membership of 1,070,000 workers, said unions are prepared to "co-operate in every way" and will waive provisions in their constitutions on confidential as long as details damaging to a union's collective bargaining status are not published.

"There is a much greater public interest at stake in wider information about corporate activities than about those of trade unions," it told the brief.

It urged that corporations be required to operate in full daylight.

Acquit Two Men In Brockville Burglary Case

CHICAGO (AP)—Two of three men accused of dealing in bonds stolen nearly two years ago in a $3,250,000 Canadian bank burglary have been acquitted by a federal court jury. The jury returned deliberations today.

The third defendant was dismissed on a directed verdict of acquittal at the end of the U.S. district court trial because of insufficient evidence.

The jury began consideration by the jury was the case of Wilam Rabin, 56, and a Chicago cler described by a prosecutor as a "jack-of-all-trades who had a finger in many pies."

He was described by the government as the man who served as go-between in a scheme to move stolen securities from underworld hands into the international finance.

The case went to the jury Monday night. The jury resumed deliberations Tuesday and acquitted Gerard Lebrun, 54, of Sumner, Md., as international bond broker. The jury found Rabin and Sam Mansarino, 64, of New Kensington, Pa.

The government had said Mansarino obtained stolen bonds through connections with underworld characters in Montreal, then put in touch with Rabin, who was to help him deal with a plan to market the securities. The bonds were stolen at Brockville, Ont.

NEW TENDERS WILL BE CALLED IN TIMBER DEAL

"Ladies' Day" in House Hot One

OTTAWA (CP)—It was "ladies' day" in the Commons Tuesday, featuring a windup to the first full-fledged clash between Cabinet Minister Fairclough and Liberal Judy LaMarsh.

Miss La Marsh, Liberal Indian affairs critic, thumped her desk in the face of charges of irregularities in the awarding of a timber-cutting licence on Indian land brought from the minister an announcement that new tenders will be called to "clear the air."

To the back-thumping, Mrs. Fairclough conceded that this was "the best applause I have had from the opposition since I have been in this post." But she denied the Niagara Falls MP's charge that there was collusion in the award of a licence for cutting timber on Timpson No. 2 Reserve, north of Prince Rupert, B.C.

Less than two years since male members of the Commons have watched two women cabinet ministers discharge their police responsibilities and will inquire into the administration of any force or the conduct of any of four.

Under its terms of reference the commission will have power to suspend or terminate the service of any special constable and provide provincial police enforcement to any town subject to the approval of the attorney-general's department.

The commission will have to report annually to the legislature.

Judge Macdonald said raising the standard of law enforcement would be an important step in any fight against organized crime.

"It would be pointless for one municipality to have an efficient police force while one next door had an inefficient one," he said as he stressed that uniformity in police training and qualifications would be one of the major subjects the commission will study.

The commission will be "irremediably concerned" with organized crime in the province, he said.

Judge Macdonald, born in Toronto May, 31, is best known for his prosecution of German War Criminal Adolf Meyer, sentenced to death for the killing of Canadian war prisoners. Meyer, subsequently reprieved and freed, died recently.

Judge Macdonald commanded the Essex Scottish Regiment overseas in 1943 and 1944 with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. After that, until May, 1945, he was the Canadian member of the Allies' court of inquiry into war crimes and its president for three months. He also commanded the 1st Canadian War Crimes Investigation Unit.

He is a former city solicitor of Windsor and Crown attorney for Essex County.

Gen. Sparling, born in Toronto, held several overseas commands during the war including that of corps artillery commander of the 1st Canadian Corps in Italy. He was vice-chief of the army general staff between 1950 and 1955 and later was chairman of the joint staff in Washington.

Judge Bruce J.S. Macdonald Heads Police Commission

TORONTO (CP) — Police in Ontario—provincial and municipal—soon will have a full-time watchdog body watching over them.

The new police commission of Ontario, first possible through legislation passed by the provincial house last December, will supervise the affairs of the provincial police and keep a watching brief over general law observance and enforcement in Ontario.

Full-time chairman of the police commission will be Judge Bruce J. S. Macdonald of Woodstock, who will take over his duties early April 1.

Judge Macdonald, 56, will be given a leave of absence from his judicial duties and will be supported by two other members on a part-time basis: Magistrate Herbert A. Sparling, 54, Toronto, soon to retire as general officer commanding of the army's Central Command at Oakville, and Thomas J. Graham, 48, a Toronto construction executive who has been a policeman, municipal politician and member of the provincial legislature.

Premier Robarts told the legislature Tuesday the commission will have the power "to inquire into any matter relating to the maintenance of law and order in the province; it will be able to ensure that local municipalities discharge their police responsibilities and will inquire into the administration of any force or the conduct of any of four.

Labor Body Accuses Govt. Of Ignoring Views of Unions

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress today accused the federal government of consistently and deliberately ignoring the views of organized labor on issues of national importance.

The charge was made in the CLC's annual policy presentation to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet.

The attack—most critical opens up an old wound in relations between the present government and the labor movement. Under CLC—a relationship often strained since the congress decided to help the New Democratic Party.

In appointments to royal commissions or to other public bodies, the government either completely ignores union views or consults only "safe" unions, conventions and "everyday visitors."

"It is a regrettable fact that so far as your government is concerned, the Canadian Labor Congress and organized labor in general are institutions frequently to be ignored when you are considering issues of national importance," the prime minister and his cabinet were told.

The brief suggested that theof

CLC's role in founding the New Democratic Party may have led to "this policy of indifference to labor's point of view."

"If this is so, it is hardly a justifiable reason. The congress has no apologies to make for actions which followed conventional decisions. It has every right to take such action."

To get the record straight, the brief added:

"The congress is not, nor does it intend to become, an affiliate of any political party.

"The congress is prepared to co-operate with any government in the development of sound social and economic policies through advice and information, critical appraisal of proposed legislation, the appointment of representatives, consultative bodies, commissions and inquiries, and participation in the work of such bodies."

The 12,000-word submission, drafted by CLC President Claude Jodoin, ranged over a wide field, spelling out labor's views on domestic and international affairs, including social security measures, defence, trade, culture, employment, housing and other legislative topics. Much of it was a restatement of existing policy.

Text of the CLC brief was released to the press in advance of delivery.

LONG-HERALDED ECONOMIC PLAN GIVEN HOUSE

Will Establish Research Centre

TORONTO (CP) — A 20-point program for economic growth, with emphasis on industrial research and exports, was unveiled in the legislature Tuesday by Economics and Development Minister Macaulay.

The fanfare-filled plan, contained several measures, previously announced and creation of a number of committees and study groups for specific projects.

"We feel this program will help us achieve an increase of six per cent in our gross provincial product; and may help us reach eight per cent," Mr. Macaulay said.

Among proposals in one to establish a $9,000,000 research community in Toronto, to be completed by 1965.

Also announced was the possibility of giving tax rebates and incentives to firms which increase their exports, their fiscatory obligations or their capital expenditures in comparison with a base period.

"This . . . would act as a stimulus to aggressive firms, but would not penalize those with the less efficient," the minister said.

A special committee will study this section of the plan.

STUDY BY BRANCH

Among the proposals:

1. Study a "major long-term investment fund" for the pool of research, with establishment of a satellite" research community by the CNR, to be completed by $9,000,000 and be completed by 1965. Construction of the twenty-established Ontario Economic Council is to review, the feasibility of industrial research and recommend policy.

2. A three-part survey of the Ontario Northland Railway, David Blair, former vice-president of the CNR, is studying operation and equipment; Prof. J. L. MacDougall of Queen's University is studying the railway's economic status; and Price Waterhouse and Co. are considering terminal accountants; are looking into the commercial structure.

3. Establishment of a marketing division of the trade and industry branch to "stimulate and sustained, to specialize in market studies and to help Ontario manufacturers can fill the gap now met by imports.

4. Set up a committee from the Economic Council, industry and other organizations to go to Europe to study potential markets for Ontario products. Others will go to the United States and Asia.

5. Chiefs of Ontario government offices in Chicago, New York and London to be enlarged.

6. A trade office for Ontario in the city of the 1st Canadian Corps in Italy. He was vice-chief of the army general staff between 1950 and 1955 and later was chairman of the joint staff in Washington.

Agents That Cause Human Cancer May Work Through Stomach

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The avenue for the agents that cause human cancer may be through man's own stomach, a biochemist told a meeting here.

These chemical agents may inadvertently swallows—in his daily diet and drink—or produce cancers far removed in the body from the digestive tract.

This possibility is being considered following experiments with animals, said Dr. William Lijinsky, director of the chemistry of Pittsburgh's laboratory for experimental carcinogenesis.

The two persons met at a cancer - causing agent from a nitrite, Prof. Joe Yale's American Cancer Society's science writers' seminar. Yet, he added, sane people do inadvertently swallow agents—such as cigarette smoke.

Prof. Fed agents to laboratory mice and found they caused a wide range of cancers in the mice: Skin cancers, breast cancers, lung cancers, for instance.

These tumors were heretofore believed to have been caused by ectodermal cells with a role causing agent, or by viruses, he said.

In some strains of mice, various of tumors were produced by feeding them agents such as found in cigarette smoke. These agents also are found in charcoal-broiled meats, fried foods and potato chips.

In other experiments, Poel found that there was a dose below which there was no cancer. But above that dose, cancer the agents were fed to animals over a period of time, cancers developed.

For man, it is important that known or strongly suspected cancer-causing agents be eliminated from diet and habits, Poel said, so that those still undetected will total less than a thousandth dose, should it exist in man.

U.S. Will Offer New Three-Step Disarming Plan

Geneva Parley Holds Formal Opening Today

GENEVA (CP)—The United States is expected to put forth a new three-step disarmament plan Thursday when the 17-nation disarmament conference here holds its first working session, authoritative sources said today.

Prior to today's formal opening of the disarmament parley, the United States and Britain were reported to have made a last-minute bid to convince Russia that inspections to enforce a test ban treaty was would not be the same thing as spying.

State Secretary Rusk and Foreign Secretary Lord Home met for 90 minutes with Russia's Andre Gromyko in a final round of talks here before the opening of the disarmament talks. Reliable sources said that in the pre-conference sessions the two Western statesmen have tried to wean Russia's Gromyko from the idea that foreign supervision of a nuclear test ban would be mere spies.

However, the Russians were reported to be unwilling to budge an inch in their views and to this attempt. Some hope have been unsuccessful in their hope or giving a boost to the opening of the disarmament talks here with the 14 other nations.

The Russians expressed belief, however, that it may be possible to negotiate an agreement with the Americans on the spread of nuclear weapons to countries not now possessing them, beginning in bringing the atomic arms race under some control.

The official goal of the new United Nations - sponsored conference is an all - embracing treaty for general and complete disarmament. But the Western powers regard such a treaty as an ideal which cannot be achieved in the present state of East-West relations.

The United States and Britain went into the conference with objectives far short of a blanket commitment to total disarmament. The two big Western powers hoped the conference might achieve:

1. An accord with Russia to set up a system of inspections—and the know-how for their manufacture — to countries which do not possess them.

2. An East-West non-aggression pact between the North Atlantic and Communist Warsaw alliances.

3. Measures to guard against surprise attack, including possible zones of inspection along the cold war frontiers that could be pilot projects for disarmament inspection.

COULD CLEAR WAY

Agreement on these disarmament preliminaries could clear the way for the next step in the conference—possibly in the spring—that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has proposed, a treaty with Western powers believe such limited measures would prevent a new start toward building confidence between the West and the Communist world and could be the groundwork for actual disarmament measures later.

Most of the delegations from the 17 conference nations were led by chief of state or foreign ministers in response to a call from Prime

Charge Accused With Death of Man in 1919

PEMBROKE (CP) — A true bill of manslaughter Tuesday was turned in by a Supreme Court of Ontario jury against Clifford O'Brien, 66, in the 1919 death of Michael Legge.

O'Brien, arrested last August in Wawa, Ont., was originally indicted on charges of both murder and manslaughter.

The grand jury turned in a no bill on the capital murder charge.

He pleaded not guilty Tuesday to the manslaughter charge before the Supreme Court jury at the spring assizes in this Ottawa Valley town.

Legge was found dead on the morning of July 8, 1919, after mysteriously being crushed beneath the wheels of a train.

Although the jury ruled at the time that the death was accidental, newspaper reports from Sudbury Star of that year show that two men were charged with murder in the case but charges were dropped.

O'Brien was arrested last August after an anonymous letter went to police in connection with the Legge death.

Scrap System, New Liquor Laws Asked by Provincial Hotel Men

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hotel Association today called upon the provincial government to scrap the present "patchwork" licensing system and replace it with a new one.

The proposal was made in a brief to the legislative committee on travel and publicity.

The submission urged elimination of the present system of liquor outlets, legalized sale of drinks with meals at the dining room service of liquor in hotels, expanded facilities for sale of packaged liquor and beer and a general modernization of the "confusing" Ontario laws.

"When you put liquor out in the open, where it belongs, under supervision and control you avoid trouble," the brief said. "The Province of Ontario is ready to accept a drastic modification or the elimination of the present local option voting procedures."

Referring to the liquor legislation revision of 1947, the association said: "It is time the government pulled down its trail balloon and decided once and for all to bring a little weather - beaten sense of fairness and make up its mind" about some new laws.

The association said it is regrettable that the present system of "everyday visitors."

"It is a regrettable fact that so far as your government is concerned, the Canadian Labor Congress and organized labor in general are institutions frequently to be ignored when you are considering issues of national importance," the prime minister and his cabinet were told.

Salvation Army Colonel Heard By Kiwanians

Returning to a three-line complex highway in New York State, Col. Jack Nelson, speaker at the Kiwanis meeting held on Tuesday, said there were also three lanes in Kiwanis, the lane of fellowship, the lane of high standard and the golden lane of service.

Col. Nelson, of the Salvation Army Corps, who comes from London, said he will never forget the day he received his first "K". "I thought then that every chamber of commerce and every place of administration must thank God every day that they have a Kiwanis Club. I have found it a great thrill to move in the three lanes of Kiwanis.

Col. Nelson, a former Kiwanian, said he was unable to be a fulltime member as his duties called him elsewhere.

"I will never get away from the high standard of Kiwanis," said Col. Nelson. "I wonder, in the last 39 years, how many thrills you have enjoyed. But the thrill of putting your hand in your pocket and taking out a buck and giving it to some project, but the thrill of putting your shoulder under the wheel of progress and giving of life."

The speaker's father-in-law, who last week celebrated his 89th birthday, was in attendance, and in spite of his age, recited a couple of poems and sang his favorite hymn, one he called his theme song. "What a Friend We Have In Jesus."

"Vikki's Welcome" was ably demonstrated when the District Commissioner, Assistant District Commissioner - Cubs, and Cubs from the 1st Belleville, from 18th and 17th troops, Belleville, attended "The Happy Days," presented by the Trenton Park United Church hall, Trenton, March 13. The occasion was a variety show sponsored by Minaiya Valley District Boy Scouts Association. The 12 individuals representatives were visited by Lord Baden Powell witnessing a thrilling performance.

The show was well presented by the talented members of the cast in the choruses following the accompaniment in a capable and highly polished manner from one selection to another. While following a humorous pattern, the show was at the same time highly amusing and entertaining. The Boy Scout hymn was thoroughly enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience

The visit back stage at the end of the performance was much, not only to cement a spirit of friendship with fellow Scouts and Scouters, but also to convince the Belleville representatives that there was an idea worth considering for the district in the near future.

A vote of the visit made to the District Council-meeting on the following Monday solicited further interest and indicated additional support to the idea.

Highway artery speed limits and extended bus routes for the Avondale district in West Huntingdon Ward were topics of discussion at last evening's Community Activities' meeting held by the Avondale Home and School Club.

The meeting in the school was jammed to capacity for the home and school club's major project with a panel discussion of city council and Sidney Sills-Trenton Transit Commission, answer questions from the floor.

Topics discussed at the meeting were sanitary sewers in the Avondale area to connect up with the new sanitary main recently installed along Dundas Street, Trenton.

Speaking at the meeting were Ward Alderman Bill Templeton, John Ellis, Jack Ireland, Joseph Raycroft and William E. Jarvis.

From questions fired from the floor, the city councillors learned that Avondale residents were not backing away from the proposal to erect the speed limit on Dundas Street to remain at the present 30 miles.

A year ago the Ontario Highway Department, and the city council traffic committee, recommended that limits along Dundas be raised.

But residents in the area presented a solid front against the move with result the matter was tabled by council.

In council Alderman Ellis and Alderman Templeton urged Avondale residents in their fight to have the speed limit remain unchanged. At last night Alderman Ireland fell in behind the thinking of Avondale ratepayers.

He said as far as he was concerned he was in step with the wishes of the local residents.

Lack of bus service for 65 Avondale residents now without out service of any kind was another beer aired at the meeting.

Opening of a street to allow a bus circuit through the Avondale area has been under consideration, but it is now learned that part of the street suggested to be opened actually lies outside the city boundaries.

An alternative suggestion is opening a short length of the Free Methodist Church for which act owner was said willing to consider the sale of the property.

This, however, is reported to have been turned down by the city, the reason being fear of establishing a precedent for city paying for a street in an area where part of the cost to be the sub-divider's responsibility.

Alderman Temple suggested the precedent danger could be circumvented by having the owner sign an agreement to the effect that he would pay a portion of the bus cost if the area was later sub-divided.

Running of sewer laterals to the front of properties to connect up with new sanitary sewer line will be a problem to Avondale residents, it was noted. Sewers currently connect with backyard lines.

The new problem will be to connect with streets sewers without ripping up floors in finished basements.

Alderman Joe Raycroft, chairman of city public works, told the meeting engineers thought it had the answer to the problem without damage to finished basements.

Credit Union Chapter Meets

The first meeting of the Quinte Credit Union Chapter for 1962 held at Club Canary in Belleville fairly bubbled with enthusiasm, and augured well for the coming year.

The best credit unions were, Belleville General Hospital Employees and Trenton Concrete Products Employees.

Mr. Art McIntosh, president of Wilson Concrete Products credit union, gave a short history of his union, which was chartered in 1956 with 44 members. At the end of 1961 they have 156 members and have to pay 4½ per cent dividend on shares.

Mr. R. Scott, president of the chapter, presented Mr. McIntosh with a gavel.

Mr. Bob White, president of Wilson Concrete Products credit union, also reported on the activities of his union. After only a year's operation they have 103 members. Any active member, and great plans for the coming years. Mr. Whiten was presented with a wooden block to augment the gavel his credit union received from the chapter on their charter night.

RESOLUTIONS DISCUSSED

The resolutions to be presented at the coming convention were read by the chapter directors, then discussed from the floor. A healthy rapid flow of comments clearly showed the keen interest these people have in all phases of credit union work, not merely their own individual credit unions, but the overall picture. Mr. George Currie, Ontario Credit Union League field representative, was moderator for their discussions.

Miss Stella Canning, from Northern Electric Credit Union in Belleville, who is Quinte Chapter director, entertained the group with a few songs and adeptly had everyone singing with her. Everyone wished her well in her bid for the Miss Credit Union crown at the convention to be held this year in Windsor, Ontario, March 23rd, 24th.

The meeting adjourned promptly at 10 p.m. and lunch was served. The next meeting is to be held in Trenton, April 4th at St. Peter's school. This will be a "Beat the Experts" night.

Today Last Day For Obtaining Car Licences

TORONTO (CP) — The deadline for 1962 Ontario motor vehicle licence plates and drivers' permits is midnight tonight, and will "definitely not" be extended, the Ontario Motor Department said today.

Deputy Minister Allan MacNab said his department estimates that there are about 35,500 motor vehicles still lacking 1962 plates in Ontario and about 50,000 vehicle drivers who have not renewed their permits.

GOLD PRODUCTION

Gold production in South Africa increased from 11,816,400 ounces in 1951 to 21,360,091 in 1960.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Gains and losses were almost evenly distributed on the stock market during moderate morning trading today.

Industrials inched ahead, but all other sections moved fractionally lower.

Oshawa Wholesale A was best in industrials, gaining one point. Moore Corporation climbed ¼ as did Atlas Steel, while Algoma Steel, Bell Telephone and Dominion Bridge all rose ⅛.

Among losers were Interprovincial Pipe Line, down ⅛, Abitibi, off ⅜ and Toronto-Dominion Bank, off ¼. Steel Company of Canada and Imperial Oil Commerce each fell ⅛.

On the exchange index, industrials rose .06 to 628.39. Golds dropped .18 to 86.23, base metals .21 at 207.33 and western oils .02 at 123.13. The 11 a.m. volume was 922,000 shares compared with 880,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Ventures fell ⅛ and Falconbridge ¼ in base metals, while Dominion Scottish Mining rose ⅛. Speculatives saw Nonrgate gain 15 cents to 85.95.

The stock market opened briskly Tuesday, jumping to a record high in the morning, but ran out of steam and slipped below Monday's closing.

Industrials rose to 629.05 — their highest ever — but eased back to 628.21, down .21.

Banks led the downside, with Montreal, Nova Scotia and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all down ½, Dominion off ⅓ and Royal off ¼.

Traders Finance A lost some of Monday's gain, dropping 1¼.

Despite the mild industrial setback, several good gains were made. Foundation Company, reacting to news that National Drug Company has offered to buy 42 per cent of all its outstanding common shares for an unnamed source, jumped to a 1962 high of 14½, it closed at 14. Directors of Foundation said Monday they had not been approached by any of National Trust prior to the offer.

Steel Company of Canada moved to a new 1962 high of 89, but fell back to 86¼, up ½. Consumers Gas rose ¼ to 29 while trading ex-dividend 10 cents.

An index, base metals showed the only rise, adding .82 at 207.33. Golds slipped .96 at 86.41 and western oils .36 at 123.18.

Closing volume was, 3,399,000 shares—heaviest in more than a week—compared with Monday's 3,026,000.

In base metals, Hudson Bay Mining rose to a 1962 high of 56¾, then dropped back to 57¼, down ¼. Noranda and Consolidated Mining and Smelter gained ¼, while Ventures slipped ⅛.

Montague was the speculative favorite, rising 75 cents to $5.80.

Picton Man Committed For Trial

TRENTON — In magistrate's court here yesterday, William Hudgin of Picton pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking, entering and committing an indictable offence. He also pleaded to be tried by judge and jury on the charge.

Inspector R. J. Rutherford testified that he had observed suspicious actions when he went to enter the house at 120 Division Street, occupied by Mrs. Martha Tyler, on January 27. He said that the man had emerged from the house carrying a television set and when he asked them where they were taking the set, one man had said that he was going to buy it. At the police station the accused had given his name as "Paul Martin."

Henry Bock testified that Hudgin had offered to sell him the television set at a reasonable rate and that he had gone to pick it up to test it. Mr. Bock said that he was under the impression that the house at 120 Division Street was occupied by Hudgin and that the TV belonged to him.

"I got quite a surprise when the inspector knocked on the window of the truck and asked us about the set," said Mr. Bock.

Mrs. Tyler said that Hudgin had been in her home with a friend on the evening of January 27. She said that she had gone to bed early and the door to her home unlocked.

Hudgin was committed for trial by police Magistrate Florian Surina, 21 Bocage Street in Belleville, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of committing wilful damage and also to a charge of consuming liquor while prohibited. The case was remanded until March 20.

Robert Temple, Belleville solicitor, appearing for the accused, said that it was his client's belief that Mr. Surina had damaged a property on Bocage Street when, in truth, the property belonged to Mr. Surina. Mr. Temple said that Mr. Surina's mortgage payments had not been kept up on the mortgage, had not foreclosed the mortgage, and that the property was still registered in Mr. Surina's (sic) name. Mr. Temple said that the mortgage had moved into the house and that anyone could be said to have broke and entered "it was the mortgagee."

Mr. Surina will be released on $500 bail.

Charles Gill, charged with assault, pleaded not guilty to the charge. The complainant, Mrs. A. Slaughter, testified that Gill had struck her.

"Where did he strike you?" asked Mr. Surina sternly.

"In the policeman," replied the accused.

Police Chief Taylor called for order in the court at this point.

Mr. Gill testified that after sitting in his rented bedroom in the house where Mrs. Slaueuwhite was a visitor, he had become into the room. He said that he had had a break up and argument between Mrs. Slauenwhite and a younger woman, and that he had "raised" Mrs. Slauenwhite.

Mrs. Slauenwhite testified that Mr. Gill had threatened to kill her and that he had left finger marks on her neck.

Magistrate Jackson said that as there did not seem to be any disinterested witnesses, it was a very difficult case to decide. He dismissed the charge.

Kingston Will Operate Own Bus System

KINGSTON (CP) — The city faces a $500,000 to $800,000 bill in setting up a publicly-owned transportation system, council was told Tuesday by Alderman Ian Wood.

Mrs. Elliott said the cost of the system — which council agreed to take over operation of at a meeting Monday night — depended on the type and number of buses purchased, scheduling and cost of buildings.

Council agreed to take over operation of the system after Kingston Coach Company Limited, operating with an annual subsidy of $82,000 said it would no longer be economically feasible. The company has agreed to continue operations until the city-owned system is in effect.

Mrs. Elliott said her committee, traffic and streets, favored the purchase of 15 gasoline buses with 45-passenger capacity.

"We hope the municipal system will give better service by getting rid of pay-as-you-enter," she suggested financing be arranged by debentures.

ACTRESS IN HOSPITAL

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Barbara Stanwyck entered hospital Tuesday for minor surgery. A spokesman said Miss Stanwyck, 54, probably would remain in the hospital until Friday. The nature of the operation was not disclosed.

NEW TENDERS

and start over," she said. Officials now are negotiating with the Indians to determine the terms of the new call, she said, "but we have had better get them in writing."

POLITICAL PATRONAGE?

Mr. Hudgin said that regarding the license to Shoreline was "a case of political patronage, and that Shoreline's success is in fact the department's chief for, the Hon. Vaucouver, Paul Dozois is a former employee of F. J. G. Cochrane, one of Shoreline's directors.

The only other bidder, Beaufort Industries Limited of Vancouver, was willing to pay $2,237,000 in "cash or kind" while Shoreline bid only $782,000 plus some fringe benefits."

The Beaufort tender included a reforestation project, a 250-kilometre road and timber-cutting over some 12,000 acres. The successful bid included neither of the first two items and would have cut lumber only on 4,180 acres, Miss La Marsh said.

The Indian band now refuses to let its timber be cut unless the provisions of the Beaufort tender are assumed by any party to be awarded the license, she added.

DIDN'T DISCUSS

Mrs. Fairclough said the dismissal of Shoreline came as "an after-thought" and that none of the things were discussed when officials first discussed the project with them.

She maintained that these elements of the Beaufort contract which Shoreline had rejected had been called for and that they constituted "the most flag, and hog and bleed example of bare-faced padding of a contract that . . . I have ever encountered."

The minister said reforestation was not necessary in the area because of the abundant rainfall. The trees were mostly useless at present because there were no vehicles and would be necessary only for the logging operation, anyhow, and the extra $1,000 allowed for that would be cut was mainly swamp and rock.

"I submit that a story has been very carefully built up here by the surgeon to create a false and distorted version of the facts," Mrs. Fairclough declared.

"Unfortunately, this false version appears to have been sold to the Indians."

TERMS IT FOLLOWED

Mr. Hudgin's secretary in Vancouver (East) called the dispute a struggle between a company supported by the Liberal government party and another supporting the Liberals.

When Miss La Marsh interjected that there were "no Liberals" in the dispute, Mr. Hudgin she must be "a little naive" not to believe that Conservative versus Liberal politics was at the root of the case.

Harry Hallan (PC—Comox-Alberni) said he was shocked at the way Mr. Gardiner had "smeared" the names of responsible Vancouver citizens.

He referred to Mr. Gardiner and Thomas Ladner, also a director of Shoreline, and said Miss Marsh identified Mr. Ladner as the son of Leon Ladner, "chief bag-man and valet" of Conservative party in Vancouver.

dent Kennedy and British Prime Minister Macmillan for the negotiations to begin on that level. The two Western leaders hoped that the presence of such high ranking officials would be more productive of agreement than previous disarmament negotiations carried on by lesser officials.

Back at the table from the West are the United States, Britain, Italy and Canada. France has refused to join, because Premier Charles de Gaulle thinks the conference will achieve nothing and that progress will be made only by four-power negotiations between the United States, Britain, France and Russia.

REPRESENT REDS

The Communist world once again is represented by the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Poland and United Arab Republic.

Eight neutrals are Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and United Arab Republic.

Canada is Prime Minister Green arrived with the Canadian delegation Tuesday and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

An authoritative source said Britain, the U.S., Canada and Italy were in complete agreement on the tactics they would take in the conference. In an interview Green voiced cautious hope and said: "It is hoped we will to succeed on the Communist side, I think some agreement can be reached."

Tentative Approval Given To 'Row' Housing Proposal

TRENTON — Trenton residents living in the immediate vicinity of Coulter Crescent, Rutherford Ave., and Bell Ave. are receiving visits from a T. Hugh Kerr, of the planning and development consultant firm of John W. Combs, of Toronto to settle the many problems.

Mr. Law will be sounding the residents out on the subject of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board for the rezoning of the area north of Prince Charles School to permit this type of development. The "row" housing units, which will number from eight to ten, are referred to as "maisonettes," and will provide living accommodation for upwards of 100 families.

The planning board has accepted the developer's proposals, "in principle," and their final acceptance hinges on Mr. Law's ability to convince people in the neighborhood that the development would be an asset.

SCHOOL QUESTION

"The board's ultimate acceptance also hinges on a number of other things. Board members have said that the developer submit a 'letter of intent,' outlining his plans to install services and carry out landscaping. Approval must be gained from the education department board as it is expected that approximately 100 more children will come from the development. An estimated 18 per cent of these would be of school age, and as such would present no problem, but the rest of the load would be divided between the separate school and nearby Prince Charles public school.

If the required approvals are gained, the board would then recommend to town council that the area be re-zoned to permit the erection of the "maisonettes".

Following last night's meeting of the planning board were chairman Dr. W. A. L. McDonald, Mrs. Isabel Gummow, Harriet Simmons, John Forbes, A. A. Robson, and Richard Burnet; town solicitor, R. M. Larry; town engineer, Eric Mahoney; representative of the engineer, Arie Hoornweeg; building inspector William Anderson; Mr. Law of the firm Combs Ltd.; R. N. Percival, of Project Planners Associates of Toronto, and Mr. Flannery, formulated Trenton's official plan and advise the town on all matters pertaining to planning, zoning and so on.

The "maisonettes" will be a "first" for Trenton, and a first for this area. This type of row housing is very popular in the Toronto area.

SAYS SITE IDEAL

Mr. Law said that his firm considered the site ideal for the purpose. It is close to a public school and a park. It is also handy to the city's existing easy driving distance of the Lake shore.

Mr. Law said that as many local firms as possible would be engaged in the construction of the units. He said that the developer would guarantee adequate parking space, landscaping, and would consider some sharing of responsibility with the town in the paving of Coulter Crescent. A full-time superintendent would be employed to see to the upkeep of the development.

Mr. Law said that the development would net the town twice as much in assessment, as single family dwellings.

If all goes smoothly, building should start in June and the first unit should be completed by late summer.

LONG-HERALDED

He also suggested that the Minister could be called a "czar"—might be exceeding his powers.

A somewhat similar view was expressed by Ken Brydon (PC—Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) who said there seemed to be more power in basic dealing with federal matters than with provincial ones which the province is empowered to deal.

Also included in the plan are studies of Northern Ontario development, mining exploration, retraining of workers, industrial incentives to encourage new production, and the creation of an Ontario development fund and co - operative agencies to represent manufacturers abroad.

Unions Locked In Battle Over Commies

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—For the second time in less than a year a union affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress is already locked in combat with the mainstream of labor regards as a Communist-dominated union.

In the first battle, the creation of the Steelworkers of America, with CLC support, became the battle ground for a battle with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter workers at Port Colborne and Sudbury.

Currently, the CLC-affiliated United textile workers of America is attempting to capture the biggest single plant in the Canadian textile council — its 600-member local at Wabasso Cotton Co. Ltd., in Cowansville.

The Welland campaign is being directed from the Hamilton office of Alderman William Ley, UTW Ontario director.

Like unions, the CTC is an independent union.

Mine-mill has lost its 1,800-member Port Colborne local to steel.

The result of an Ontario Labor Relations board vote to discover what will become of mine-mill's 1,200-member Sudbury local not be known for two months.

It may not be counted until accreditation boards have heard the misrepresentation against steel are heard.

MOUNTS CAMPAIGN

At Welland, meanwhile, the UTW has mounted what it expects will be a winning campaign.

Following a ruling in the Ontario Labor Relations Board the UTW can apply to represent the 600 employees there anytime between April 27 and May 27, a terminal date of a two-year contract.

In order to do so it must sign up at least 40 per cent of the eligible employees.

Foley said that his union will have more than the 45 per cent and expects to make application for the first legal date, April 27.

Steel failed in its earlier attempt to wrest the Wabasso workers from CTC control.

In a 1959 vote by a simple majority required for victory, the CTC won by 274 to 272.

Says Murder Case Evidence Too Frail

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada was told today that the evidence of the three children of Arthur James Kendall, 31, was too frail to convict him of murdering his wife.

Charles Dubin of Toronto, counsel for Kendall, made this statement as he launched an appeal against Kendall's conviction of the murder of his wife Helen Robson Kendall, in August, 1961.

Kendall was convicted of capital murder by a 12-man jury at Walkerton, Ont., last October. He was sentenced to be hanged Jan. 23, but stays of execution were granted pending appeals in the Ontario Appeal Court and the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Ontario Court of Appeal denied his appeal.

Kendall was convicted of the murder of his wife while the family was living in a remote Bruce Peninsula area of the province. The body of Mrs. Kendall has never been found.

Mr. Dubin said the foundation of the Crown's case was the evidence of the three children, Ann, Margaret, and James, aged 8 to 12, respectively, in 1952.

CROWN'S CASE UNIQUE

He said the Crown's case is unique in that the children gave evidence of the events their Steelworkers of America, with CLC support, became involved in a battle with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter workers at Port Colborne and Sudbury.

"It is submitted," Mr. Dubin said, "that the evidence of the children given nine years after the alleged event required special accommodation in consideration to the trial judge's charge to the jury.

"The frailty that attaches to the evidence of children of tender years is a matter of danger of their not appreciating the nature of an oath or of their obligation to speak the truth," Mr. Dubin said.

Where the children were sworn and satisfied that test other basic weaknesses of such evidence were still there. Those included the incapacity of children to observe and relate events, lack of accurate powers of observation and lack of memory and lack of independent recollection of events.

Firemen Save Policemen Who Rescued Women

TORONTO (CP) — Three police officers who rescued two women from their apartment above a blazing downtown business Tuesday night had to be rescued themselves by firemen.

The women and two of the policemen required treatment in hospital for smoke inhalation, which firemen estimated caused more than $50,000 damage to the building on Yonge Street and Trinity Square.

Three police officers, Const. Ford, Ron Gillespie and David James had rescued Mrs. Jean Harrower and Miss Linda Lemon from their third-floor apartments and managed to reach the street by a fire ladder before smoke and flames drove them back.

The fire, which is being investigated by the Metropolitan Toronto fire arson squad, apparently broke out in first-floor premises occupied by Antonio's Bootery and Hide.

Consts. Ford and Gillespie were treated in hospital for cuts and burns. They and the women were released following treatment.

Nearly 90 firemen and 17 trucks were at the scene of the fire, which was finally brought under control after firemen had stretched to spread to several nearby stores.

Peterborough Gets Third Bomb Threat

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Bomb threats are becoming old hat in Peterborough.

Police said today that a telephone caller reported that an anonymous caller Tuesday that a bomb was set to explode in the office within five minutes.

But police manager Glen McRae didn't get around to calling police until 15 minutes later.

"He apparently did not take it seriously," said S. Sgt. Bert Howden. No bomb was found.

It was the third such report in Peterborough in the last three months.

Both Guns and Butter

A report from Moscow says that Khrushchev now believes Russia can produce both guns and butter.

The report refers to reliance on a combination of youthful enthusiasm, stricter party control and a more intensive use of existing food production resources.

This sounds like a lot of blarney.

But the report makes eminent good sense if we accept the opinions of Prof. P. M. S. Blackett, a Nobel prize-winning British physicist. In the New Statesman of London, Prof. Blackett has propounded the view that a surprise Russian nuclear attack on the West was never a real threat .Russia, says Prof. Blackett, since it first developed nuclear weapons, has always pinned its hopes on avoiding nuclear war on the possession of a minimum deterrent. He defines this as a striking force capable of the destruction of possibly a hundred key targets in the U.S., plus targets in Europe including American overseas bases. As long as it possesses this capability, Russia is convinced only a madman would start a war against it.

The U.S., on the other hand, since it lost its monopoly on nuclear weapons, has steadily increased its nuclear striking power so that now, according to Prof. Blackett, its nuclear stockpile is thirty times as great as Russia's and is the equivalent of 615 tons of TNT for every man, woman and child in Russia. While the Russians are depending on a counter-city deterrent, the U.S. objective appears to be a counter-force deterrent, a force capable of wiping out Russia's striking power.

If it ever achieves this, Russia's counter-city deterrent will no longer serve its purpose. It is for this reason, according to Prof. Blackett, that the Russians were so indignant about Powers' flight and are so concerned about espionage. Their policy makes it essential that the location of their missile bases be kept secret.

If this is a correct analysis, then every effort to get the Russians to open their country to inspection, every possibility of "spy-in-the-sky" satellites and every proposal to build shelters for a large proportion of the U.S. population will be viewed by Russia with the gravest misgiving.

Russia, according to Prof. Blackett, knows that the U.S. could defend itself as long as it believes a first strike by the U.S. would still leave Russia capable of destroying scores of U.S. cities and killing millions of Americans, it feels safe from attack.

"If Khrushchev today believes Russia can produce both guns and butter, surely it can only be because he still places faith in Russia's "minimum deterrent" policy, and feels there is no necessity of attempting to match the American "counter-force" policy.

If this is the correct interpretation of the Moscow story, the world is fortunate. For if both the U.S. and Russia were to go ahead with the counter-force policy, there would almost inevitably come a day when one or other of them would believe it had to strike first, to avoid total destruction.

A Little Arithmetic

Last June Canada had 18,238,247 residents. This was 4,228,818 more than in June of 1951. A mere four million people is only a drop in the bucket in today's world population. But the important thing to note is not the actual size of the increase, but the rate as expressed as a ratio of the population ten years ago. Then we can get some picture of the probable trend in the immediate future.

During the past decade the population increased at the rate of 30.2 per cent. At this rate, we shall have 23,500,000 people by June of 1971. Ten years later the population will have grown to a nation of thirty million. By 1991 the population will be up to 39,000,000. And by 2,000 A.D. it should be over the fifty million mark.

That would be over two and a half times the present population of Canada. So we have forty years to build a home and a half, a school and a half, a factory and a half, and a shopping centre and a half for every one in the land today.

What is more, this is only the beginning. By 2,011 the population will be 65 million, by 2,021 85 million, by 2,031 110 million, by 2,041 140 million, by 2,051 180 million and by 2,062, a hundred years from now, it will be well on the way to a quarter billion.

Is everybody happy — or frightened?

Extremists in our time share a fear and a hatred for the evolving world of the present. Together they lack the wit or the stomach for the hard work of peaceful change.—Harlan Cleveland, U.S. assistant secretary of state.

Letters to the Editor

Protests Hiring Of Social Service Director at Hospital

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

The writer of this letter would like to protest the hiring of a director of social service at a starting salary of $5,000 per annum by the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital as reported in the Ontario Intelligencer of February 24th. In the past few months of depression and seemingly unrestricted provincial and federal spending it appears to be possible to get in the municipal level to a lesser degree, this would seem to be a very unnecessary and slightly ridiculous additional drain on the already burdened supplier of the public coffers.

It is evident examples of irretrievable inflationary practices which prevails in our economy today and which even Canadian should be doing his best to combat in order to check the spiralling cost of merely staying alive. Many things such as this are very difficult to do, but whereas the benefit may be measured in hundreds of dollars, the actual cost can only be computed in the thousands and as a result hundreds of proposals must be classed as unnecessary and relegated to the category of a "frill."

It is really correct to say that the sick are in hospital because lengthy stays in hospital because the patients are in need of social service director which is what is implied by this newly hired account? It would imagine that it is not for this reason at all but because a patient has been discharged by his family doctor or because of an unfavourable diagnosis and the beginning and in neither case would even a trained social worker be of any assistance to him less professionally equipped to decide when the patient should or should not be discharged.

How can a social worker, who at most institutions would be a complete stranger to the patient, achieve a state of mind? Has it not always been the duty and prerogative of the attending physician to do this well as being concerned for his patient as he leaves the hospital? Is a physician only interested in a patient's welfare so long as he remains in hospital? Surely generally would not care to enlist the services of a doctor at all if he dropped me like a hot potato on my discharge from hospital. Is it right for a doctor to do by nature to mediate between a patient and his family and what of the all important doctor-patient relationship?

The question of this office would reduce the function of the social worker to that of purely medical adviser and consign to the background the very humanitarian aspect of the work which is an accepted and important part of the social service medicine as we know it in this country. If a medical man has no time for his patient and is interviewing to gain a complete picture of his patient and the patient's needs, just exactly where does his interest lie?

And as for not being prepared as a social worker, would you prefer to have your needs as a patient, analyzed by your own doctor, assuming he is also a practising psychiatrist, or by a trial stranger pocketing your cash? Is he a social service director? Granted, these workers may have their place and fill the very capacity of intermediary for a doctor and his patient.

Neither is a director of social services required for selective assistance to patients towards healthy, useful communities. Surely this is the purpose of your family, your friends, your neighbors and your church affiliations. Must all be become of individual initiative? Is our civilization becoming so heartless and enlightened that it requires a social service director to replace any or all of these?

Cannot Obtain Work Though Health Good

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Would you please give me a few lines in answer to Ald. Jarrah's remarks in the effect that when a man reaches the age of 70 his usefulness is done in any payroll.

Two years ago I was retired from 6 R.D. Trenton, I applied in the employment office for a caretaker's job as janitor at the Secondary School here in Belleville and was told I was too old. Just before Christmas of last year I had a medical examination and was told I was OK 100 per cent and I have a paper to that effect. If we have lost our usefulness, what about Canada, Ontario, senators and a number of M.P.'s who are this age? Only they get pensioned off at a big pension. Not $65.

Jazz in Church Brings Protest

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

After reading a news report in your paper about the Sydenham Street United Church hall in Kingston "jumping with jazz" I would like to make a few comments in passing.

I think this United Church and the politics are in bed together. The "Old Rugged Cross" for a jazz medley, when the Christian symbol is the salvation of Lent, or does the ministers in charge of the church not believe in the Cross of Calvary? The sermon on "Religion and the Arts" at the beginning and in neither case would even a trained social worker be of any assistance to him less professionally equipped to decide when the patient should or should not be discharged.

How can a social worker, who at most institutions would be a complete stranger to the patient, achieve a state of mind? LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 14th, 1942

Robbers entered two local places of business some time last night and were enticed to the extent of $4 for their efforts. At the Missionary Dairy offices on Pinnacle Street the marauders obtained the cash; while at Ralph Wooser's confectionery store next to the fire hall on Upper Front Street, nothing of value was missed, with as having been stolen. High winds blew heavily and snuffed any notes that might have led to detection. Cash registers and office drawers in both places were ransacked.

High winds accompanying yesterday's storm were responsible for an epidemic of chimney fires in the city, with firemen being called to answer no less than six alarms throughout the day, no damage being reported in any instance.

A "Victory Ball" was held last night in favor of the British War Victims' Fund by Mrs. Charles Reid of Bridge Street, who originated a handmade quilt which was won by Mr. W. J. Reid's war charity effort.

Swelling of tributary waters of the Moira River during the recent mild weather and rain, was reported to have led to a seasonal high yesterday and today. The level rose at least 8 inches, perhaps surprising to official estimates.

30 YEARS AGO

March 14th, 1932

The frame house in which the engineer on the Toronto local for the Deal resided, up to the time it was destroyed by fire last January, will be rebuilt.

Mrs. and Mrs. R. I. Adams, Mr. George Adams and Mrs. Carpenden, of Sidney, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams of Bridge Street east.

The mercury dropped to the skids on top of a car, and I suspect that as many people have taken up the sport for its social value as athletic commotions as for its physical appeal. Golf has many devotees, but it's tempo is slow.

Curve sports, engaged in for their own sake, are extremely rare among the populace. Even bowling alleys are being invaded with the kind of contestants who are more interested in the hedges the scenery likes, the dashing goggles and the sun than in bowling with actual racing.

Bowling is another, activity that has been transformed, in a few years, from a slightly disreputable pastime to more than a tremendous family pastime. Even golf, I suspect, with its bowling itself is more incidental to the socializing. As the local pub in England, with its darts and skittles, is the poor man's club, so the bowling lanes serve as the poor man's club in America. Perhaps some day a pool hall will return as a respectable hangout.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RIDING THE TIDE

The man or woman who is making a great deal of money, with luck turning his or her way, thinks little of the chance that luck will turn against it a year, a month, or a day.

And the one who is gathered up and carried away in the arms of flattery and pleasure, may not realize that the lonely hours when the friends of fortune have gone, are piling up also sharing the days of disappointment and loss.

There is, on the tide of human affairs, no stability and no security. It is the food upon which they live. And their fortune is the fortune of others.

Only the man of character can smile at all ills. He, too, may ride the tide, but he knows all too well, how cheap and brief it all is. And so he garners into the store-house of his heart and soul-life, all that is fine and beautiful in the world.

And how one needs this saving grace. Sometimes the kind and loved, prove untrue, and the dearest of friends will betray one among the silent hours, like the brown and gold leaves of autumn.

How comforting to know that when the tide in the affairs of fortune has turned, there may be someone, somewhere, who is big and strong, vital and understanding, who will take your hand and press it with a silent language that only hearts are able to translate.

But when that someone isn't bid away in your life, what a great world it is, filled with the gold and glitter.

Don't envy those who ride the tide. Smile as a spectator!

Cipt a Frequent Source Of Pain and Annoyance

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

The cyst, that frequent source of pain and annoyance, is not a boil, not a carbuncle, not an abscess.

In short, it is not an infection — not to begin with.

A cyst, strictly by definition, an enclosed sac containing some sort of material.

As an example, one of the millions of small glands of the skin may become plugged, thus forming a cyst. The material which the gland should secrete — and excrete — is trapped inside. As another example, take one of the common parasites, the trichina, which can lodge in a muscle somewhere and become encysted. That is, it becomes a sort of little capsule containing the dormant trichinae inside. A cyst!

It is entirely possible, indeed quite common, for a cyst to exist even a group of cysts to form — and all in blissful ignorance that they are small "lumps" under the skin, or elsewhere. Many a cyst is best left alone. If it is neither painful nor a nuisance.

On the other hand, if it hurts, if it is in a place it should not be or location is a nuisance, it is best to have it removed.

Some glands are very slow-acting. Others act vigorously, secrete a considerable amount of material. And when such a gland can be engorged to such an extent that it is — to put it in an old phrase — "more as a boil."

Over the generations we have become quite accustomed to "having a boil lanced" — not to know the swift relief that comes from the release of pressure inside. But, a boil isn't a cyst. A boil is an area (perhaps a pore in the skin) which is being painfully attacked by the ravage multiplication of germs in an infection.

A cyst isn't a violent attack of germs. Rather, it is a sac, or closed pouch, of tissue in which something else is contained, often something quite useful or at least neutral material.

True, a cyst may and sometimes does become invaded by germs, in which case we have not only the cyst but an infection. Sometimes this happens, often it does not.

A boil (or other infected area of the same sort) will come under the right circumstances be relieved by lancing, or puncturing, after which it heals, often of its own with the aid of antibiotics.

But a cyst is not relieved in important — won't clear up by being punctured. If it is painful, the lancing may relieve the pressure and bring swift relief.

The cyst's fact is that a cyst then usually tends to seal over the puncture — and fill up again, and soon there is pressure to be painful again. A cyst, unlike a boil, does not have a "core.")

There, and keep this in mind. A cyst cannot be relieved by lanced. The whole lining of the sac should be removed. Leave the sac, or even part of it, and you presently have a new cyst. So if your doctor wants to remove your cyst (usually quite small, anyway) let him do so. Don't be misled by the fact that lancing relieves it. You want to be rid of it for good.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have always wanted to try sex steroids but have been told it will cause a lump or tumor, and also leave a mark or scar. Is this true. — V.A.S.

Not if done under careful antiseptic conditions.

Mrs. J.T.: No, there's nothing "impossible" about curing trichomonas. The treatment is not always quick, but it generally succeeds.

Full My leaflet, "The Lost Secret of Reducing," tells how and why it is best to lose weight. Cricket Ball Crisis Looms.

Montreal Star

Britain is girding itself for a crisis of catastrophic proportions: the workers in the cricket-ball industry are threatening a strike.

There are just 120 of these specialists, and the power they wield is enormous. Consider what will happen if they walk out.

There will be a rush to grab such of the maroon-colored balls as remain on the shelves of sporting goods stores. The black market will spring up. Vast sums will be made by men locked in the safe at night and grimly handled by day. It will be hoped that it will be done without one over the boundary or a leg-before-wicket becoming stonewalling affairs—and no fast balls, please. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The TV advertising boys seem to have found a new and evil coma in which mothers may be put. Then all they have to do, each of them, wakes up with a violent start and a new idea. And immediately the mothers' problem jumps on it, and we get every conceivable kind of mess or derangement of the idea, until it is wrung dry. For example, three or four years ago, one of the boys got the idea of having a beautiful young high-school teacher come whirling on stage in diaphanous garments and, by whirling, cause the chiffon scarves trailing, the praises of the soap or lipstick were being sung off stage by an obviously upper-class lady soprano. In no time, the air was the advertising boys and beautiful young lady high-school teacher types were whirling.

Not so long ago, one of the boys got the idea of having an Irish washerwoman type scrubbing at the sink when the ice to have the right effect. And shows how how to get the to stop. For years afterward we were in for months and months of kitchen drama as the result of advertising men's and their imaginations on the subject.

Cancer Still Ranks Second Of Death Causes in Canada

During 1960 (the last year for which there are complete figures) 33,181 Canadians died of cancer. Of these 12,606 were males and 10,575 were females. This was 2,313 more than died from cancer in 1956 and, allowing for the increase in population, it indicates that the cancer death rate is about the same. So, cancer is still the second cause of death in Canada and one of our most serious and baffling health problems, according to a National Health Week release.

It has been calculated that about twice as many persons develop cancer each year as die of the disease; many are cured by radiation or surgery or a combination of both. Although the scientific fight against cancer is the greatest single project in medical history, the cause or causes of cancer are not yet known.

While it is felt unlikely that one vaccine or other device will ever be found which might be considered a "cure" for cancer, cancer specialists generally believe that cancer will eventually be brought under control.

MORE 'SURVIVALS'

Indeed, there has been in Canada a rising rate of "five-year survivals" — persons usually preferred by cancer-logists over their colleagues since there is always the possibility of recurrence due partly to improved techniques of diagnosis and treatment, partly to more exhaustive tests which emphasizes the importance of early treatment.

In recent years it has been possible to speak of the prevention of cancer directly, by the avoidance of over-exposure to sunlight and indirectly, by maintaining one's maximum health and by regular physical examinations.

It is because early diagnosis and treatment are so vital to the control of cancer that the Canadian Medical Association first promoted the establishment of a lay volunteer organization to help fight cancer.

The result was the Canadian Cancer Society which was established in Montreal, Quebec in 1938. Today it has divisions in all ten provinces and service units in more than 1,000 communities. The Society helps to fight cancer in three ways.

The first is research. The Society recognizes the fact that the final conquest of cancer must be achieved by scientists working in laboratories. Also, every country must do its part because no one can foretell where or by what means the final "break through" will be made.

RESEARCH WORK

The major cancer research effort in Canada is through National Cancer Institute of Canada which derives 80 per cent of its income from the Canadian Cancer Society.

Since its formation in 1947, the National Cancer Institute (which includes representation from all professional bodies concerned with the problem), has developed a system for the evaluation and support of research projects that has made Canada an important participant in the world's scientific attack on cancer. This year its budget for research will be close to a million dollars, and 80 separate projects are being supported and a number of outstanding scientists have been established as fulltime cancer workers.

The Society's second attack on cancer is through education. Volunteers use every means of communication to present the facts about cancer in a clear, spectacular way to people in homes, schools, service groups and through the industrial education program, to workers in offices and factories. This program, which emphasizes the importance of early diagnosis and treatment, by having its effect, Clinicians and others in the cancer field state definitely that, largely because of it, more and more people are applying for treatment with cancers in early and more curable stages.

HELP PATIENTS

The third thing method of cancer control practised by the Society concerns the welfare of the cancer patient. By making available volunteers (during the annual April Campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society, in the 25 years from 1947 to 1961, the Society provided $9,668,966. In the future, as research expands, even more money will be needed for cancer control.

What Do You Want MOST in a Home?

We a large family, the most important factor is selecting a home may be finding enough rooms. To a retired couple, it may be a secluded neighborhood.

Golfers like to be near a course. Working wives don't want to be bothered far. And everything EVERYONE wants in; opposite to every other.

We have a fine selection of properties to cheer you. But chances are you won't locate your home on the wrong side. For, as we've said before, nobody — we won't be happy UNLESS YOU ARE!

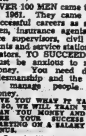
EIC Growth Traced at Dinner Meet

The local branch of the Belleville Engineering Institute of Canada held a dinner meeting at the Shrine Club on Monday evening at which Mr. E. A. Cross, Ontario regional vice-president of the E.I.C., and Col. T. M. Medland, executive director of the Association of Professional Engineers of the Province of Ontario, spoke on the subject of Confederation. Both speakers were well known to most members, were introduced by Mr. W. W. Thorpe.

Mr. Cross opened his address by tracing the growth of the E.I.C. from its formation in 1883 at which time it was known as the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, becoming the Engineering Institute of Canada in 1918 when it received all the main branches of engineering.

During the following years by the terms of the B.N.A. Act.the province developed that each province should have its own licensing body for engineers and by 1936 only those engineers who were registered with a provincial association were entitled to call themselves engineers.



In 1953 the idea of confederation was promoted so that the provincial associations and the Engineering Institute of Canada would become one single body and so avoid duplicating effort. A feceration commission was set up to study the proposed unification and has issued a report which is presently being examined by the E.I.C. and the various provincial associations.

As a result of the report, there appear to be many problems still to be settled before confederation is acceptable to the various engineering bodies involved and solution to the many difficulties which have arisen cannot be seen in the immediate future.

Col. T. Medland, in his address, confirmed many of the difficulties associated with Confederation mentioned by Mr. Cross but suggested that perhaps a solution would be to start confederation on a local level by uniting the local APEO Chapters and the EIC branches. From this, unification could eventually lead to confederation on a national level. Col. Medland stated that already many steps had been taken towards unity and cited many examples such as the standardization of examination requirements for entry into the provincial associations.

Both speakers were thanked by Mr. J. A. Grant for their interesting talks on a subject of great interest to all engineers.

Ice Fishermen Requested to Clean House

By R. E. WHITFIELD

Lands and Forests patrols on foot and by aircraft over district lakes in recent weeks have revealed a remarkable improvement in cleanliness around fish huts and in the general areas where open water ice fishing is being carried on.

Officials take this opportunity to complement those who have contributed to the protection of keeping the ice surfaces clean.

There are, however, a few who still persist in leaving rubbish upon the ice surface, and in this respect we again point out that this type of carelessness can only eventually lead to more restrictive regulations governing ice fishing.

Since ice break-up time is approaching it is suggested that the season commencing March 1962, be declared "ice and closeup week" whereby all ice fishermen are requested to make an extra effort to remove all rubbish from around their ice huts and where open ice fishing is carried on and deposit at the nearest authorized garbage dump.

Those who have ice huts on district lakes should be making plans now for their removal before ice weakens to the point when it is unsafe to travel on.

Carmon Sea Wounds Self While Hunting

BONARLAW — Carmon Sea, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sea, met with a serious accident on Saturday while he was hunting with a rifle. As it discharged, the bullet entered his stomach. He was taken by ambulance to Campbellford Hospital where he underwent surgery. The injured youth is a pupil at Stirling High School.

Scarcity of Nurses Blamed On Low Pay, Hospital Board Urged to Increase Salaries

PICTON — "Hospital boards are 75 per cent to blame for the continual shortage of registered nurses in Ontario," Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital Board member Jess Mason, charged at the hospital's annual meeting last night.

"Most hospital boards appear unwilling to face facts or refuse to take action to remedy the situation. Today, many nurses working in hospitals are married and the boards take the attitude these nurses will not leave the community, so why change anything?

"Certainly nurses are dedicated — but they also have to live," Mr. Mason continued. "Statistics indicate that nursing no longer has the same attraction it once had. In the immediate post war years almost twice as many women entered nursing schools as entered colleges (1638 to 881) in 1946. Now the proportions are reversed — from 1950 to 1959 the number of women entering teachers' colleges jumped 130 per cent (1263 to 4336) while the intake to nursing schools increased less than 30% (2151 to 3555). Why? Because school boards provided adequate and encouraging salary schedules which enabled a young woman to know what to expect. In the nursing profession today there is an adequate starting salary but very little encouragement from there on."

UNION POSSIBLE

"You no doubt have read recently in the newspapers that the nursing profession is one of the groups unions are out to organize. I had hoped, and still do, that this will not occur, but it will if boards fail to recognize their responsibility and continue to take the line of least resistance. Today janitors at the local county home, orderlies at the Toronto sub-normal school receive more than your general 'duty registered nurses.

"Your hospital requires efficient and adequate nursing care and if you have a schedule favorably comparable to other provinces it will encourage more girls to enter the profession, thus more graduates, better staffed hospitals and therefore effective and necessary nursing care. Even if boards take action it would no doubt be five to ten years before all the nurses required to staff the hospitals, as well as for private duty, could be obtained.

"Consequently, I would recommend to the new board of government that they prepare and implement an adequate salary schedule for our professional nurses," Mr. Mason said in conclusion.

No action on the above recommendation was taken at last night's meeting and it was laid over for discussion at a future meeting of the board.

Film Board Shows The Test At H-S Assoc.

A film by the National Film Board, titled, "The Test," was the highlight of the Bayview P.S. meeting last Tuesday. Star of the film was Frances Hyland, whose performance as the teacher, was good. The idea of this film was to create controversy and stimulate discussion amongst the viewers. For this reason it did exactly these, and brought forth many points of view in a lively manner. Whereas of this film in technicolor about a class of thirteen-year-olds was presenting their test placing the action of the teacher; the way she was judged by the people of the town, who asked for her dismissal and why she was reinstated.

CHILDREN'S FUND SOUND

The fund for the children's reference library was announced to be in a sound condition, due mainly to the success of the valentine card party. Support of this by the parents of Bayview pupils, was gratifying to all concerned with the organizing of the project.

An announcement was made to the effect that the program for the next meeting will be a symposium, held by the Children's Aid Society on April 3rd.

Fire Safety Topic at White Cane Club

President Pat Baverstock welcomed all members and guests at the March meeting of the White Cane Club held at the Kiwanis Centre Monday evening.

All joined in singing the new club song accompanied at the piano by Reg Coleman. The roll call showed a splendid attendance.

The correspondence was read by Maude Rollins, which included an invitation to a dinner on May 24th from the Trenton Lions Club and a thank-you note from Sara O'Shea, who has improved somewhat in health.

A letter from the Ontario division of the Canadian Council of the Blind, through the convener of education, was read explaining that the greatest single cause of domestic fires is careless smoking. As physiation from smoke is a greater hazard than flames to those not involved in domestic fires. Other causes of home fires which should be guarded against are faulty wiring, frayed cords, overloading outlets and improperly placed or covered heaters.

Every blind person should together with others living in his house, sit down and plan what each of them would do in case of fire; such as, escape routes and alternate routes if some are blocked by fire or smoke.

Many suggested rules were given for safety such as: do not attempt to dress or gather valuable possessions, if awakened by the smell of smoke, place a wet towel over your head such as a pillow case and roll out on the floor. Crawl to the window and open it. Make your exit by sliding feet first over the sill, stomach down. Lower yourself until you are hanging by your fingertips, flex the knees and slightly drop.

Residences for the blind school and most other Institutions have well-planned evacuation programs and drilling; but, it is the families and blind people living alone that are of great concern.

BIRTHDAYS NOTED

Birthdays for the month were: Kay Dix and Mrs. Allen Morton.

Archie Scott played a record from the Christian Record Braille Foundation, Lincoln, Nebraska, U.S.A. called "Music for the Birds" by Richard C. Darby. It gave many beautiful bird songs and habits of the birds as they sing.

This interesting recording ended with poetry written by a blind lady entitled, "My Book of Thanks."

President Pat thanked Archie on the club's behalf.

Music was played by Mr. Thos. Dewier, banjo, Mr. Hubert Amero, violin and Ted Rowe at the piano.

Helen Wardbaugh thanked the entertainers.

Lunch was served by the Kiwanis ladies and thanks expressed by Vi Weise.

Golden Slippers

By TRACY ADRIAN

Big news in footwear fashions for spring is emphasis on the Midas touch. The result is that gold seems to be getting in the picture for all occasions.

Here it is seen in an exciting spectator of crushed kid leather with a panache, flat stacked heel. The crescent toe is highlighted by a square throatline and an airy perforation design across the vamp.

Viola Macmillan Is Still Queen Bee of Prospectors

TORONTO (CP) — Viola MacMillan of Toronto, who made a riches because she stopped to pick up a hitchhiker, has been re-elected president of the Prospectors and Developers Association for the 19th consecutive year.

The association is the largest organization of mining men on the continent, and the 39-year-old woman, Miss Windermere, Ont., has been head of it since 1944.

She got the nickname Queen Bee in the 1930's when she joined a Kirkland Lake gold rush and proved her right to it by becoming the association's first woman president.

Before she began prospecting about 1925 with her husband George, Mrs. MacMillan had been a clerk, switchboard operator, real estate salesman, legal secretary and Christmas card salesman.

She and friends picked up a boy hitchhiking one day but Queen ill and had to be taken to Kirkland Lake.

There, she heard rumors of a gold rush to Kirkland Lake and got there in time to stake 2,000 acres of claims at 4 a.m. by the light of a flashlight.

Since then she is said to have become a millionaire several times over. She's associated with Hollinger, a gold mine in the Noranda complex, Violaire in British Columbia; Lake Cinch in Saskatchewan and Knee Rolls Porcupine, a new Ontario copper property.

A few years back she had her penthouse here done over completely in pink—down to the champagne bucket.

She's about five feet, three inches and more than 100 pounds, and buys her size 10 dresses on 5th Avenue in New York.

But she still remembers when she and George lived on beans supplemented with large quantities of onions that grew around their prospecting shack.

"I'm going out into the bush again this year," she says.

"There are things I want to look into."

A New Batch of Marmalade Gives A Late Winter Lift

by Mary Moore

Nudged by a reader I am arriving late this year with my marmalade recipes.

My Sunday School co-teacher, Doug MacAllum, and his wife Mary have a big freezer which they filled to capacity last fall. But with a big family, right now it is at a low ebb and they are trying to restock their shelves. Dorothy and Ray McKnight with a family of four tell me their supply of fruit is dwindling on their fruit cellar shelves.

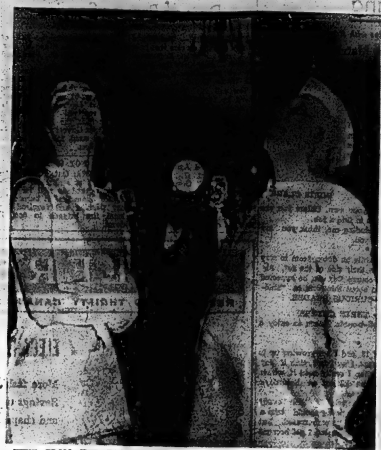
I think a new batch of marmalade might give good providers a lift.

WEDNESDAY (Gemini)

Dinner Menu

Chicken Casserole (see Tuesday); Mixed Kernel Corn and Baby Almas; Creamed Carrots; Tossed Salad with Roquefort French Dressing; Lattice Cherry Pie (see Monday); Coffee.

GRAPEFRUIT, ORANGE AND LEMON MARMALADE:



1 medium grapefruit, 1 medium orange, 1 medium lemon, sugar (see below), juice of 1 additional lemon.

Wipe the fruit, squeeze out juice; reserve seeds and scrape out white membrane with spoon and reserve. Cut rind into thread-like strips. Put rind and juice in kettle, add 2 cups boiling water; cover; let stand overnight. In morning boil 25 minutes. Cover seeds and white membrane with 2 cups water; cover; let stand overnight in morning, boil 25 minutes, drain, reserve liquid. Add 2 more cups water to rind and another 1 cup water to drained seeds and membrane. Boil each again 20 minutes; drain water from seeds and membrane, add with first amount of reserved seed water to rind; heat. Discard seeds and membrane. Test fruit juices for pectin by adding 1 teaspoon methyl alcohol (poison) to 1 teaspoon fruit juice mixture. If sufficient pectin is present juice will form a thick mass. Measure. For every cup add 1¼ cups warmed granulated sugar; stir until dissolved; cover, heat to boiling, then boil uncovered 10 to 20 minutes or until marmalade will jell when tested on cold plate. Add lemon juice; remove from heat; pour into sterile jars and seal with paraffin while hot, adding a second coating when first is set.

4 large, navel oranges, 2 lemons, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups water, 6 cups sugar.

Cut oranges and the 2 lemons into 8 sections each; scoop out pulp, discarding any seeds; cut up and put in saucepan. Then slice rind with pair scissors paper-thin and add to kettle. Add the additional lemon juice and water, heat to boiling, simmer 1 hour uncovered. Add sugar, stir until dissolved and return to heat; simmer 1 hour longer and simmer about 30 minutes longer. Remove pan from heat. Test for doneness by dropping a teaspoon of the hot liquid onto a thoroughly chilled plate and place in refrigerator for 2 minutes; if jelled at end of this time, the marmalade is done; if not, continue cooking for four minutes longer and again test for doneness, but do not overcook or sugar may caramelize. When done, pour into hot sterilized jelly glasses to cover immediately with melted paraffin. When set, add another thin layer of paraffin. Makes about eight 8-oz. glasses.

Gregory S. — Stop worrying. There are worse drunks than me on the payroll.

Pauline S. — Greg has reported in sick just once too often and Mel, even the union can save him from dismissal if his drinking interferes with his work again.

He's a loader in the shipping department of a big manufacturing plant. Up to a few months ago, he was able to keep his predilection for hard liquor a secret from his foreman. But when he pulled a few boners on the job while under the "influence," he caused a bad mash for the company, he was reprimanded and warned. If not for this union, he might have been fired.

Now he's taking chances again and I'm worried stiff. They won't go on excusing him indefinitely. He claims a few morning drinks steady him. He used to be steady without them. What's happening?

They say time flies me. I've had perfect attendance for a month now. I'm being very careful. No more pocket flasks. Just a few nips at home to start the day right. They keep me in good shape — no colds, no coughs. As long as I don't empty my bottles during working hours, I'm as good as the next guy. And I don't go near a bottle all day.

It's funny the way everybody thinks it's all right to take pills for your heart and tranquilizers for your nerves. Yet when I take a few drinks for the same reasons, I get warned and threatened.

The Council: Pauline has a good cause to be worried, but also, as we shall outline below, the cause is to be encouraged. And Gregory must be informed that he cannot equate pills and tranquilizers with liquor.

More and more we learn of the millions who, openly or secretly, always desperately and compulsively reach for the bottle to solve their problems of the moment, to try and escape hard reality. It is estimated that there are 6,000,000 who, because they can't stop drinking in time, to avoid embarrassment, are called "alcoholics."

When lunch hour is upon at a bar instead of a cafeteria, when the host's help-yourself bottle is handed to him as a guest at the cocktail party — well, you're in the presence of an illness, not an idiosyncrasy.

Of comfort to Pauline, however, is the enlightened attitude of employers when the worker admits his problem and agrees to attack it through the medical department of the organization. Pauline should waste no more time, take no further risk of losing him self or others, wrecking his home and family life. From his admission of a need for something to "steady" him, he sounds dangerously wobbly. Proper treatment can show him a dozen other roads to steadiness.

Melrose UCW Plans for June Festival

The March meeting of Melrose United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. Mac Lucas with a large attendance.

The theme of the program was "The Family", Mrs. Clayton Osborne in her reading, expressed the opinion that every thing is made up of little things. Any small thing you can do can be turned to the comfort and happiness of someone.

Mrs. Sherman Lazier read a poem, "Thoughts", Your first thought on awakening colors all your day and a kindly thought blesses that whole day.

Mrs. Roy McLaren discussed the characteristics of true Christians. "Christians are a family; they take their family name from Christ. Fellow Christians are our brothers and sisters. We should live in mutual affection and fellowship."

Mrs. Elliott Embury, program convener, gave a resume of a chapter of the book "Signals for the Sixties". She brought forth the question, "Is the family a dying institution". Many authorities point an alarming picture of the break-down of family life. If we look around at our church on Sunday morning we have evidence that it is not so. But the divorce rate is serious, crime and alcoholism on the increase; schools are being forced to assume responsibility for education in the field that should belong to the family. This is a challenge to the church. What can the church do? Every church member is doing something to make or mar this world. Each one can slow down and take more time for family life'.

A most interesting paper was given by Mrs. John Milligan. She said that families are important. The future of the world depends on the preservation of the family. If family life is destroyed the foundation of life is destroyed.

"Jesus lived in a family. The influence of family life can be tremendous. There is no such thing as a Christian nation or community; just Christian homes. Is our convener an parents deep enough? There is a place for all members of the family in church but home is the place where children first learn good qualities. Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it".

Mrs. Embury closed her program with a quiz on "Family Life".

WORSHIP SERVICE

Mrs. Grant McLaren, president, led in a worship service based on the theme, "What is the Task of the Church?" Do we need new churches or one brought back afresh in the task Jesus gave. The church is called to worship God; to watch over all within her; to fellowship; to preach the gospel to all mankind; to minister to the needy; to wage war on evil and to stand for right relationships among men."

The Scripture was read by Mrs. William McLaren.

Mrs. McLaren conducted a brief business meeting.

Members of McLaren were thanked for opening their home for a quilting. Everyone willing to take the "United Church Observer" is so to signify at the next meeting. If three-quarters of the families of the church subscribe, it can be obtained at a reduced rate. Mrs. Jack Sherman, treasurer, reported a profitable project from the Co-op banquet. The date for the strawberry social was set for late in June.

Mrs. Lazier and assistants served lunch and a social time was enjoyed.

CHEESE GLUT

LONDON (CP) — Britain's farmhouse cheesemakers, whose craft is among the country's oldest, are taking a month's enforced vacation this year because a surplus otherwise might cause a slump in prices.

Mother's Helper

PRIDE GOES a long way to-ward keeping your ears warm when he thinks it's square to wear a hat or cap in freezing weather. Ear muffs? Another nuisance. Bet by him with a real sister's knitted headscarf. It keeps ears cosy, and can be stuffed into any handy pocket.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

LITTLE BOYS SHOULD BE LITTLE GENTLEMEN

Little boy, should tip their hats and not their chairs.

They also should hold doors for their elders, stand when a woman enters the room and shake hands with a man without being coaxed.

They should — but not many do.

Unfortunately, little boys very often get short-changed in the manners department. Mothers — fathers, too — frequently neglect this phase of their education for fear the lads may be considered pansy-waists.

The fear actually is groundless.

Like their little sisters, even very young lads like to feel their behavior is sanctioned and admired. At home, a youngster's sloppy table manners may be overlooked merely to get the meal finished. But this may not be the case when he goes visiting.

Another mother may not appreciate his antics and may make him lose a different mark. Better home training would save him embarrassment on the outside.

Good manners actually are as much of an asset to little boys as to little girls. They are not automatically "worn" to be bright-cheeked youngsters who can shake hands nicely and look a person squarely in the eye as he says, "How do you do, Sir."

Proper behavior, also wooes friends, among contemporaries. Other children prefer to hobnob with a boy who has a sense of fair play and doesn't assert himself by fighting and insisting on having his own way.

How do you get a rough-edged little fellow to behave like a courteous little man? Example is the best teacher — and father the best prototype.

If a boy's father is courteous, opens doors for the ladies in the family, stands when visitors come in and conducts himself with ease at table, the same sort of behavior will naturally rub off on his observant little copy.

Training should start well before a boy enters school, in addition to the habits mentioned before, ideally a boy, by the time he goes int a kindergarten, should be able to:

Answer questions promptly.

Say "Yes, Sir," or No, Miss Smith," to properly respond to a question.

Keep his feet on the floor and off the rungs of his chair — most of the time, anyway.

Walk — not clop — along halls and up and down stairs.

Close doors fairly quietly, or, at least, without shaking the building.

Say "Excuse me," when he bumps someone.

Wait until a grown-up stops talking before he starts.

W.I. Sponsors Successful Social Event

STIRLING—On March 9th, 73 people gathered at the I.O.O.F. dining hall Stirling and enjoyed a pot-luck supper sponsored by River Valley Women's Institute.

The tables were laden with delicious food and all enjoyed an appetizing supper. The meal was served by the conveners of entertaining and education and their members. The conveners are Mrs. Gerald Brooks and Mrs. Ernest Carr.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Philip Conley and Mrs. Glenn Bush. Mr. Glenn Bush was master of ceremonies and the assembly singing was led by Jack Bush, with Mrs. Philip Conley as pianist. Six children gave recitations, Jackie Bush, Trudy Bush, Grant Carr, Susan Bush, Nellie Bartells and Johnnie Myers and Mrs. Conley. Mrs. Ernest Carr read a humorous selection.

Mrs. Ed Heasman and Mrs. Jack Bush used their projectors to present a series of community pictures, consisting of various folk who live in the River Valley community; also scenic views of this area. There were also scenes of the 1961 Christmas concert held at the school.

The dancing was arranged by Mrs. E. C. Hay-Zills and Mrs. Jack Bush and both round and square dancing was enjoyed. The musicians were Glenn Morrow, violin; Mrs. Philip Conley, piano; Ernest Rosebush, banjo and Kenneth Myers, guitar.

The squares were called by Ed Kent and James McDonnell.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Anyone Object to Matrimony?

DEAR DORIS: —I am a widower only 43 years old and I have been trying to locate a real nice young woman.

I know it may seem funny to you, but I am on Welfare as I am not able to work this winter, but I would not object to a decent woman working if she wished to. I know my age and size young women between 33 and 40, but they all tell me that they want a man that works every day. But I am easy to get along with. I can be brought up not to dance or play cards as well as not to drink. I have a car. — VERY LONESOME.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR VERY:—You are on your own. Unless you are ill or disabled, your first move is to find a job.

Otherwise, all the girls, including me, think you are looking for someone to support you.

• • •

DEAR DORIS: — Some girls, while on dates, seem to stay in an unfriendly mood by sitting on their side of the car, although conversation goes well. Of course this can be expected on first dates, but what can one do about this form of "anti-socialness" on subsequent dates?—CURIOUS READER.

DEAR CURIOUS:—I'd say THREE CHEERS!

It's not anti-social but anti-trouble. Learn to enjoy a good conversation.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I am a girl of 13, and I am growing up to be a very stinky one, instead of sweet. I wouldn't stink if my mother would let me take a bath when I really need it, which is every night. This she doesn't let me do; just on Saturdays she lets me take a bath.

She says, "It's such a fuss having to take a bath every night of the week." I've already told her that I should take a bath so I wouldn't stink the next day or be embarrassed. But she doesn't care how I stink, or how embarrassed I get because when she was young she was the same.

What should I do to get my mother to let me take a bath? —UNSWEET.

DEAR UNSWEET:—Do you have a hot water problem? Not long ago water for bathing was doled out like precious ointment. This may have been the case when your mother was a girl.

It's easier now. And we know better than to harbor germs on unclean, sweaty bodies. Not to mention that horrible social offense we call "B.O."

Until your mother sees the light, could you settle for two baths a week, and a sponge bath other nights? This calls for just a handful of warm water.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I am happily married and the mother of three children. My problem is that when in company or during the day, my husband pays me more than enough attention, but when night comes he curls up on the couch with a western pocket book.

I got a new black nightie for Christmas, but even that doesn't attract him. How do I get my husband's attention.—ALWAYS TRYING.

DEAR ALWAYS—The nightie was a good try, but something deeper than dressing up is likely involved. Boredom, fatigue, escape from business pressures of some unspoken concern.

This is something to clear the air about. And read about. Your husband should not underestimate the value of the physical side of marriage if he appreciates your love and wants to stay happy.

Want the name of a book about it? Then write again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

• • •

TO MRS. A. C.—For an ambitious group like yours, the thing to do is write to YOS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). The Canadian organizer (Mrs. Jean P. Flatt, 346 York Road, Dundas, Ontario) can tell you how to go about developing your group. There is no reason why you should not be successful with this as long as you all work at it. There are many successful YOS groups going in various parts of Canada and the U.S.A.

CONFIDENTIAL TO L. J.:—Drinking is block caused by something else: unhappiness, inferiority feelings, worry. Then when you drink you become more disgusted with yourself. So you drink again to drown your sorrows.

Somebody this vicious circle has to be broken and you are the only one who can do it. For literature and direction to your nearest resource, write to the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Foundation, 34 Harbord Street, Toronto 5, Ontario.

Curry of Frankford Full Gospel Church, after which the gathering sang "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling". The Act of Thanksgiving was taken by Mrs. Merle Moore of Frankford Free Methodist Church, the Act of Intercession was taken by Mrs. Preston Chase of Frankford United Church.

The Experts Say

Women Should Become Informed on Planning

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP)—If Canadian women would form a collective and informed opinion they could exert a tremendous influence on the kind of city in which they would like their children to grow up.

That's the opinion of Jennifer R. Jeynes, editor of the Community Planning Review, quarterly magazine of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

Women are involved in town and city planning in two ways—as professional planners and as citizens.

The ordinary citizen should make her wishes known, but her opinion must be an informed one, she says. The opinion would of course gain strength in numbers.

One of the best ways to become informed is to have the town or city planner speak to a group.

JOINT EFFORT

"One of the most important parts of a city planner's job is to speak to groups," Mrs. Jeynes says.

Many women who complained they didn't really understand the problem had not taken advantage of the opportunity to learn the broader view. The planner would explain this.

"You don't have to be a university woman to be interested," she added. "Home and school groups, ratepayers associations and women's organizations also take quite part in planning programs."

Well - planned communities offered adequate recreation facilities for all ages, "You must look beyond the baseball diamond."

Convenient shopping centres were necessary. If women weren't satisfied with modern shopping facilities, perhaps they had better ideas.

Not nearly enough was being done about slum clearance. "Surely," she said, "this is something that women have a conscience about."

SAFETY FACTOR

Public transportation was important, particularly to families in which father takes the car to work. The children should be safely transported to and from school, and other centres.

"Safety is a by-product of every well-planned city," Mrs. Jeynes says.

With the Confederation centennial only five years away, there isn't much time left to make cities beautiful.

"But if women exert their influence, urban areas could become a credit to Canada by 1967," she said.

Since 1946, many communities had undertaken planning programs. Master plans were important.

"It's just like a woman doing her housework. It takes sensible management."

EDUCATION BOARD

The education set of 1869 created Britain's Board of Education.

Good Traveler

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Here is a dress that will travel beautifully, which makes it an ideal resort choice just now.

Arnel crepe, in three shades color story. The yoke is in medium beige, the mid-section is a much paler tone and the pleated skirt takes on a deep tone. The deeper tone is also used for the contour belt.

The dress is sleeveless except for a slight covering over the shoulders and has permanent pleats that need no pressing after washing.

Irish Dishes That Satisfy The Hungry

On Saturday, March 17th, when smiling-eyed cousins join together to honor St. Patrick, there will be parades and dancing and much hearty singing. All this will call for good plein and wholesome Irish food like potato soup; Irish stew-hot pot; potato cakes; peas pudding; gingerbread and so on. If you haven't your Irish mother's recipe for potato soup, the Consumer Section of Ottawa says this one will warm the cockles of your heart. Method: Sauté ¼ cup minced onion in 2 tablespoons butter. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour and season with 1½ teaspoons salt; ¼ teaspoon celery salt and a few grains of pepper. Gradually add 4½ cups milk and stir until thickened; continue cooking for 5 minutes. Blend in 3 cups cooked sieved potatoes. Heat thoroughly. Pour into 6 mugs and garnish with bright green parsley.

Fluoridation Issue, Control And Cost of Drugs Principal Themes of Hearing in B.C.

By JACK BEST

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pro-fluoridation groups vented their frustrations at the Alberta-British Columbia hearings of the royal commission on health services.

The fluoridation question and the control and cost, of drugs were the two principal themes of the two weeks of hearings in Edmonton, Victoria and Vancouver.

Another highlight was a charge by CCF - NDP leader Robert Strachan of British Columbia that the medical profession has established a political action fund to fight against a national health plan for Canada. The charge was denied by the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association.

The seven-member commission headed by Saskatchewan's Chief Justice Emmett Hall now has gone across the country and visited eight provinces in its inquiry into the health needs of Canadians.

OTTAWA NEXT

To come are public hearings in Ottawa, opening March 19, in Quebec City and Montreal in April and in Toronto in May. Finally there may be a set of public hearings back in Ottawa toward the end of spring.

A succession of health organizations led by dental groups, pleaded at the Alberta - B.C. hearings for federal action to break down the barriers to fluoridation — the program of adding fluorides to community water supplies to fight tooth decay.

These organizations insisted that the water-treatment process is safe, cheap and capable of cutting dental decay among children by 60 per cent.

Through their presentations ran a note of discouragement and often a bafflement at the kind of opposition they have to buck — feeling that sympathetic commission members seemed to share.

PUBLIC SCARED

They complained that opponents of fluoridation scare the public without offering scientific evidence to support their case.

"Their propaganda has been much more effective than the educational material we have been distributing," said Dr. Douglas Yeo, a spokesman for the B.C. Dental Association.

Dr. L. K. Brooks, past-president of the Alberta Dental Association, offered this description of how opponents work:

"A reputedly responsible individual tells the people, 'Take a fluoride ion and if you are pregnant you will abort; if you are an older person you will grow bald; no matter who you are, you might get cancer.'

Gallstones, arthritis, cancer, fallen arches and even housemaid's knee some other malladies the commission was told are attributed by anti-fluoridation groups to fluorides.

POOR IMPRESSED

The commission was also told that fluoridation opponents have been particularly successful in reaching the elderly and the poorer people and that, paradoxically, it is the children of the poor who most need fluoridation.

There was criticism of provincial laws requiring that a fluoridation plebiscite carry by a two-thirds majority in Alberta and a three-fifths majority in B.C.

In British Columbia only nine communities with 3.2 per cent of the population had voted to fluoridate their water while 25 others had rejected it. In Alberta 16 of 29 communities where plebiscites had been held turned it down.

The commission heard from one group opposed to fluoridation. The Vancouver branch of the National Health Federation claimed the process can "damage" up to 20 per cent of the nation's children and that it "abrogates each person's right to decide for himself what shall be done to his own body."

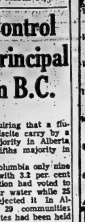
DRUG COSTS

The question of how to control drugs and their cost came up repeatedly. The Alberta government said a federal agency should be established to bring down prices—not through price-fixing but simply by throwing a spotlight on the cost - revenue position of individual drugs. Alberta also charged there is no price competition in drugs at the retail level.

The B.C. Pharmaceutical Association told much of the public criticism on mounting drug costs is unjustified. These had gone up less than the overall cost-of-living index. The criticism actually amounted to criticism of increased use of drugs.

The B.C. Medical Association said many "so - called" new drugs appearing on the market are releases of established preparations "sometimes in shotgun combinations with each other, in a new guise and under a catchy new name." It said the federal food and drug directorate should have facilities to control quality and reliability of all drugs sold in Canada.

Two Use Keys Made in 'Pen' To Steal Mail



TORONTO (CP)—The keys to street mail boxes unlocked Kingston penitentiary for two former convicts.

Gerald Labiondе, 39, and Gerald Sullivan, 36, both of Toronto, were sentenced Monday to three years on charges of theft from the mails after a resident saw them opening a box.

They said the keys they had used on this and other boxes were made in the penitentiary during a previous sentence. The pair have records dating to 1943.

Under a £50,000 project an equestrian statue of the Bruce will be erected, a 14th-century stockade constructed and an exhibition arranged to explain the Scots' battle strategy.

Says Canadians Fear to Invest In Own Growth

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians are timid about investing in their own development, H. L. Rowland, Toronto investment executive, said Monday in an address to the Prospectors and Developers Association.

They apparently prefer to save their money and let foreigners do the investing in Canadian companies, he said.

"Our savings banks are bulging with money but we complain bitterly when a project, unable to obtain Canadian capital, has to finance through foreign capital, notably from the United States.

"Many of our most important companies, particularly in the mining industry, would not have come into being without being able to attract capital in the U.S. from sophisticated investing groups with perhaps more vision and faith then we have ourselves."

Mr. Rowland, vice-president and a director of Annett and Company Limited, said Canadians are saving at a relatively high rate compared with other countries—nearly a quarter of the gross national product—but much of the money is going into institutional channels and thence to debt securities (bonds) rather than equities (common stocks).

Australia's Trade Glance Begins to Fall on Asia

By JOHN HEATH

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australia is looking away from its traditional trade markets in the United States, Britain and Europe and its commercial glance is falling on Asia.

When Britain announced in July its intention to seek entry into the European Common Market, Australia increased its efforts to tap the vast trade potential in Asia and thereby replace the markets it expects to lose in Britain.

Figures released recently show that Australia's future probably will be closely tied up with Japan and Communist China.

Export figures for the 12 months to last June 30 showed that Japan had purchased £161,700,000 of Australian goods, up £27,000,000 over the previous year. Red China bought about £40,000,000, an increase of £34,000,000.

Australian exporters have made a number of trips to the Far East. Last October, for example, 80 Victoria businessmen travelled through Asia in order to establish new markets. Another 20 visited New Caledonia, Fiji and other South-west Pacific islands.

Businessmen and traders now head almost daily for Singapore, Hong Kong, Manila, Bombay, Rangoon, Bangkok, Jakarta and Colombo.

GOVERNMENT HELPS

To co-ordinate these moves, the federal government has sponsored an Export Development Council which includes advertising, accountancy, retailers, metal trade employers, exporting manufacturers, bankers and consulting engineers.

To advertise Australia, the trade commissioner in Singapore, the Strait Banks, at an exports showcase in 1960, put on a trip which took 11 from Bangkok to Bombay. The venture produced orders worth a few score of pounds for products Australia had never before successfully considered saleable on the Southeast Asian market.

This Strait Banks's success has inspired more plans for similar trips to the Persian Gulf and parts of the Middle East.

Australia sent a herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle to Japan and helped Japan willing to take more to supply the increase in demand for beef and milk.

Now Australian exporters, already one of the largest suppliers of food to Malaya, are pushing to replace Britain and North America as the chief supplier of canned meats and fruit.

Eggs are selling in Singapore and Hong Kong, and Australian export firms are working to refine their packing of milk, butter and cheese to colors, and designs and consistencies of goods to appeal to the many different Asian markets, particularly the standards of literacy.

Eye Appeal Largely Matter Of Color

OTTAWA (CP)—Eye appeal of foods, largely a matter of color, is 45 per cent of the assessment of quality, say federal experts.

Electronics is playing a role in improving that eye appeal, and is helping set more precise grading standards.

A beam of white light is focused on the item. The amount and color of reflected light then is measured on a scale ranging from zero—for black—to 100, for white.

One result has been specifications for a uniform yellow butter color year around across the country. Jams production doesn't need any touching up but a substance called carotene has been used for paler products in other months.

Agreement hasn't been reached among consumers on just what color standards are desirable in different products or whether the same should prevail in all regions, federal scientists say.

Once plant breeders know such standards exist, they can get to work on types that qualify.

Researchers at the Morden, Man., experimental farm have been working on tomato colorings. The best readings, results show, come in tomatoes picked the last week of August. Those harvested later or earlier have less redness and more yellow.

CANCER SOCIETY

The Canadian Cancer Society, established in 1938, now has divisions in all 19 provinces and active units in more than 2,000 communities.

SUPERSONIC SPECIALS — The RCAF's Air Defence Command will soon have five operational squadrons of supersonic CF-101B interceptors. British Columbia will be the home of 409 "Night Hawk" Squadron based at RCAF Station Comox on Vancouver Island. Other squadrons of the 1200 MPH all-weather, twin-jet interceptors will fly from Chatham, N.B.; Bagotville, P.Q.; Uplands, near Ottawa, and North Bay, Ont. The swept-wing, two-seat CF-101B is capable of altitudes over 50,000 feet.

Havana's Once-Luxurious Hotels Now House Russians

By JOHN BLAND

HAVANA (Reuters) — Havana's once-luxurious hotels are being turned more and more into places of accommodation for "technicians" from Communist countries and Cuban peasant youths brought into the capital under educational programs.

Tourists scarcely exist any more in this once gay holiday island. The closing of the last remaining casinos last September left the hotels even more depleted of clients.

Now the Communist technicians and Cuban workers awarded government-paid holidays for having exceeded their work norms.

NO MORE TIPS

Since neither these visitors nor touring teams of sympathizers from abroad normally are paying guests, waiters and hotel porters no longer expect tips and the standards of service and catering have declined.

Nevertheless, as no staff may be dismissed, many hotels are considerably overstaffed. Many of the staff wear military uniform and it is not unusual to see a militiaman lay aside his machine-gun to carry a tray to the table.

What the revolution undoubtedly has improved are the prices.

A room in Havana's most luxurious hotel, which would have cost $40 three years ago, today costs a foreign visitor $10. A Cuban pays still less.

Turbulent Ottawa River Tamed by 6 Massive Gates For $200,000,000 Project

MONTREAL (CP) — The turbulent Ottawa River has been tamed by six massive gates of the $200,000,000 Carillon Dam, 40 miles west of Montreal.

At midnight Tuesday, Feb. 27, the six 61-ton barriers were low-ered, and the condition of the openings deep beneath the surface of the river.

When the last one was locked into place the river bed below Carillon ran dry. The full weight of the Ottawa began piling up behind the dam, key to a mammoth power project destined to alter the shoreline of the Ottawa Valley from Carillon to the suburbs of Ottawa and Hull, 80 miles upstream.

By summer, when the first generator is tested, the surface of the river above the dam is expected to reach 125 feet above sea level, 45 feet higher than normal.

PEAK POWER

The project, to operate for as little as two hours a day, is designed to produce spurts of electricity during even power-usage peaks in the Montreal area.

When the dam reaches full operation some time in 1964, its waters will be able to gulp a maximum of 15,000 cubic feet of water each second, more than triple the Ottawa's normal summer flow.

Obstruction has posed problems for engineers. Because of imperfect geological structure on the site, rock beneath the dam had to be strengthened with liquid concrete.

More than 200,000 bags of cement were pumped into holes that resulted from miles of drilling through solid rock and gravel.

Despite such problems, general construction has proceeded well and upriver from Carillon the shoreline already shows signs of preparation for flooding this summer.

On the Quebec side some problems have arisen. Provincial law states that the crown owns all property from the centre of the river bed to the natural highwater mark on the Quebec side. This mark represents the height normally reached by spring floods.

When the dam is in operation the river will be somewhat higher than in previous years. However, its height will never exceed the natural peak water level. For this reason Quebec Hydro considers all affected land on the Quebec side, from Grenville to Hull, to be crown property. About 70 families in this area have been moved.

The decision to brand this land as crown property is expected to spark court action from landowners who hold ancient and sweeping seigniorial rights. Hydro officials have said they will pay compensation for any affected land which the courts say is privately owned.

Leading Jesuit Preacher Advocates Wide Reforms in R.C. Church Administration

By ADRIENNE FARRELL

ROME (Reuters) — A controversy in lay and clerical circles, has been touched off by a new book by Rev. Riccardo Lombardi, Italy's leading Jesuit preacher, advocating wide-spread reforms in the administration of the Roman Catholic Church.

Despite initial church disapproval, the book is viewed by many Roman Catholics here as an honest attempt to promote a "reformation" of the church from within.

The book criticizes the church for not being geared to meet the challenge of the modern age, particularly from ailmistic communism, and deplores "careerism" and "bureaucracy" in the church's administration.

It deprecates the practice by some priests of varying the degree of ceremony provided at church functions, particularly marriages and funerals, according to the fee paid. Parish priests, Father Lombardi suggests, should be permitted to celebrate only one standard form of ceremony for marriages and funerals.

He goes on:

"No precaution can be considered excessive which prevents giving to the faithful the impression of marketing and trading in holy things, or the other impression, equally humiliating, that the church is always on the side of the rich."

WANTS AGE LIMITS

His proposals for reform include:

1. Age limits for retirement of cardinals and bishops.

2. Reduction of pomp and eclogy in the dress of high prelates.

3. Consideration of the use of languages other than Latin for church services.

4. A more important role for the laity in the church's affairs, including the formation of a "world senate" of leading laymen to review current material problems in the light of Christian teaching.

5. Formation of a new order of "consecrated persons" who would be neither priests nor laymen and who would be able to officiate at simple rites in areas where priests are too few.

The book bears the title: The Council: For a Reform in Charity. It appeared in December, bearing the imprimatur (permission to publish) of Father Lombardi's Jesuit superior.

OUT FOR POPE

Lombardi himself placed a copy on Pope John's desk during a routine audience.

A few days later, however, the Vatican newspaper l'Osservatore Romano launched an attack which circles here say was written by a senior ecclesiastic.

The newspaper described as "rash and unfaithful" the author's criticism of the clergy and the Roman Catholic cardinals and departments who control the central church government — "whose high merits and magnificent work for the church and for souls are not put in their just light."

This was followed by an indirect rebuke from Pope John himself. In a speech to the central preparatory commission of this year's ecumenical council, the Pope advised individuals who contribute works on the council, "especially when they are authors of some fame," to write "with prudence and objectivity so that their contribution may not be the cause of perplexity and confusion."

SUSPENDED PLANS

Father Lombardi wrote to the Pope, reaffirming his obedience and submission, and has suspended plans for a second Italian edition—the first edition of 2,000 copies sold out in a few weeks—and for its translation into other languages.

Many Roman Catholics here feel the book only states publicly what many clergy are discussing in private, though they agree its tone is somewhat patronizing and some of its criticisms of the clergy are too harsh.

The 53-year-old Jesuit, who won world-wide fame for his preaching against communism after the Second World War, bases his book on the need for reform, through more unity of effort and through more charity and love, to make the church more salutious in facing the problems of today.

He considers that the present structure of the church's administration, built over centuries, is unwieldy and suggests that much should be pulled down to enable the organization to be built on simpler, modern lines.

There should be no "careerism" among cardinals and no clinging to office. Senior clergy should be content to work in more modest positions if they ceased to be effective.

A Pope need not necessarily be chosen from among the College of Cardinals, though this generally was the most likely place to find one. A simple permit — Pope Celestine V — was called to the pontifical throne in 1292 and a similar event, even only once every 500 years, would do much for the good of the church.

IGNORING PAST

Bishops were criticized by Father Lombardi for sometimes sweeping away the work of their predecessors in office to go ahead with plans of their own.

Priests and funds should be distributed on a rational basis throughout the world, wherever they are needed most. To counter the shortage of priests, there should be a new order of "consecrated persons" with power to baptize, catechize, organize simple services, officiate at weddings, administer communion and help the sick and dying.

Monks should be ready to be sent to any part of the world instead of serving within the confines of their order. Nuns should modernize their costume while "retaining its modesty, but making it less unlike the dress of other peoples."

Laymen should form a "world senate" of leading persons, such as lawyers, sociologists, politicians, scientists, economists and journalists, to consider the material problems of mankind in the spiritual light of Christianity.

To enable laymen to join more effectively in the church's liturgy, he suggests more consideration be given to the use of languages other than Latin in church services. The majority of churchgoers now, because they do not understand Latin, are "condemned to understand almost nothing of what is happening at the altar."

Says Scouting Must Change With Times

HAMILTON (CP) — Fred J. Finlay, chief executive commissioner of scouting for Canada, said Monday night the Boy Scouts program will have to be changed to suit the needs of the modern boy.

But the changes, he told 400 scout leaders, should be introduced progressively, not violently. Mr. Finlay said the laws and promises of scouting are still the valid basis of scouting and warned against the failure of leaders to practise and teach these principles.

Total Disarmament Would Be Blessing and Not Cause Depression Says UN Study

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—With proper planning, total disarmament would be "an unqualified blessing to all mankind" and not a cause of depression, says a United Nations study.

The study, prepared by economists from 10 countries—Western, Communist and non-aligned —says fears that disarmament would throw many workers into idleness and bring about great hardship are not valid provided governments acted with foresight and co-operation.

Canada is named as one of the seven biggest military spenders in the report, released during the weekend.

"While the burden of armaments is widespread, the great bulk of the world's military expenditure is highly concentrated in a handful of countries.

"Available indications are that about 85 per cent of the world's military outlay is accounted for by seven countries—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France, Red China, West Germany and Canada.

TOTALS ARE HUGE

The report, in its introduction written by Acting Secretary-General U. Thant—admits that complete data is incomplete but estimates that total military spending now amounts to $120,000,000,000, at least two-thirds of the total income of all underdeveloped countries. Also, than 30,000,000 people — some three times the Canadian population—were in uniform or producing for those in uniform.

The economists were appointed in 1960 by the late secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold and—acting as individuals rather than as national representatives — came from such countries as the U.S., Britain, Russia, France, Canada and Sudan.

It was a source of "profound gratification," said Thant, that on a subject beset with ideological differences experts from countries with different economic systems and at different stages of development had been able to reach unanimous agreement.

An earlier report by a group of U.N. experts said disarmament could be carried out over 10 to 15 years without causing a depression in the U.S.

NEEDS PEACE USE

The 95-page UN analysis, studying all the vital military statistures range between one and five per cent of gross national product in some countries and between five and 10 per cent in others, said peace dividends would bring a new era of prosperity and could be transferred to peaceful uses.

It mentioned: Foreign aid increased; new data in increasing living; expanding and modernizing capital equipment; promoting housing, urban renewal; slum clearance and rural development; and increasing expenditure on health, education, health, social security and scientific research.

LANDMARKS TO GO . . . This century mill house and grist mill (seen beyond the bridge) at Milltown are due to go to make way for improved highway intersection at junction of Highway 2 and Milltown Road. Buildings were sold at public auction by the Ontario Department of Highways.

Old Landmarks Give Way To Highway Improvements

A grist mill for $35 and a house for an even $100.

Prices like the above sound like economical steals these days and in fact the figures represent amount paid Monday for two old Milltown landmarks sold at auction to make way for improved highway intersection in the hamlet.

But with the sale of the old Milltown grist mill and sawmill and a century old home, two of the few remaining landmarks in the village will shortly disappear.

The mills, known in recent years as Vance's Mill, is to be torn down, while the 100 house, as one time known as the "Dockie Greene" home, will be moved to another location as accommodation for a Thurlow township family whose home was destroyed by fire two weeks ago.

The machinery in the old mill was sold separately and the grinding mill will be installed in a mill at Stirling.

Mrs. Sidney Fitzgerald, who admits to being the oldest "native born" resident of the village is one who is sorry to see the old landmarks go.

ONLY FEW LEFT

"There are only a few of them left and they are greatly sadly disappearing. Soon there won't be any Milltown left," she says.

One of the village landmarks still in use is the Milltown public school where five pupils are now enrolled. Mrs. Fitzgerald's family have attended, and her grandchild is attending classes in the old log school building.

"I well before the turn of the last century the hamlet of Milltown boasted of a hotel, a busy place with, as many as three grist and flour mills, a carriage factory and a cheese factory adding to the economy of the village.

Now with the sale of the Vance Grist Mill (it had been out of operation for some last fall) the last grist mill will have disappeared.

Over the years fire has been the big destroyer at Milltown. In 1916 the old Milltown home before Mrs. Fitzgerald's time, but she recalls the Vance mill, the old log school and the cheese structure, burning when she was a girl. Her father, Mr. Wesley Pennock rebuilt the mill and used in the intervening years it has been operated by several owners.

OTHER OWNERS

Other owners of the mill before Mr. Vance purchased the property about eight years ago were Robert Little, Jesse Milton and a man named MacDonald.

WATER POWER

It was one of the few mills in the district still operated by water power (when there was sufficient water in the Salmon River to roll the machinery).

A gas-operated stationary engine provided the power during periods of low water.

Lumber was also sawn at the mill although this phase of operation had been on the decline in recent years.

A year or so ago the Ontario Highways Department decided to do something about the blind intersection in Milltown at the junction of No. 2 Highway and the Milltown Road.

Several houses on the south side of the highway were either torn down or moved and now the two old landmarks on the north side of the highway are to disappear.

The irony of it all is that even with the proposed new highway intersection, the Milltown Road is to be closed off a short distance to the north where it crosses 401 highway.

Republicans Oppose Kennedy Low Tariff Plan

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy's bid for vast power to reduce United States tariffs, has run into stiff Republican opposition. Some modifications are likely before the presidential bill completes the long journey in Congress.

Congressman John Byrnes of Wisconsin, the Republicans' top spokesman on trade policy, says he still is searching "for the mechanisms he believes essential to safeguard American industries against indiscriminate tariff slashing."

But he believes, he added in an interview, that most Republicans in Congress and even some Democrats want modifications written into the bill to make sure the administration doesn't give away too much in specific commodity without getting an equal concession on that commodity from other countries.

Threat to Bomb Hospital Made As 6 Babes Die

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—Police patrolled Binghamton General Hospital today in the wake of repeated bomb threats following the death of the babies, apparently from salt poisoning, at the hospital.

Police officers were teamed on dark corners of the hospital grounds Tuesday night after a male caller, believed to be an adult, told a switchboard operator "everybody will be dead in this hospital" from a bomb explosion.

Police said the bomb threats were the work of a "screwball." Hospital authorities ruled out the possibility that the pay-off of any of the babies were involved in the bomb threats.

Police said they found no evidence of a bomb, but continued to check visitors and the buildings.

The six babies, who ranged in age from three days to eight months, died during the last six days after being fed a formula that contained salt instead of sugar. One infant remained in critical condition and another was in serious condition. Eight others have been made ill, in all, 30 infants were fed the formula.

Defence Planners Looking To Tests for Information

OTTAWA (CP)—From a military and scientific standpoint, the next series of American nuclear tests will have more usual interest, says the chairman of the Canadian defence planners.

The tests are scheduled for the latter part of April over Christmas Island in the South Pacific and Nikolai Russia agrees to a test ban treaty in the meantime.

The reason for this Canadian scientist explained, is that Canada may have a bearing on future developments of North American Air Defence Command's entire radar and communications system, most of which is located in Canada.

From the American tests over Christmas Island in the Pacific in August, 1958, it is known that radio-active bursts can jam radar, and black out radio communications.

HIGHER ALTITUDES

The question naturally arises: Could Russia in any attack on North America employ high-altitude nuclear explosions to disrupt our early communications system? The system is fundamental to operation of manned interceptor bases, interceptors and of the command structure.

Consensus of authorities acquainted with the problem is that there could be local disrupt, ion of the communications system. However, there is as yet no undue concern that the entire system could be jammed.

Canadian scientists are also interested in the tests from another standpoint: The effects of nuclear bursts on any counter, missile system.

Defence planners here long ago ruled out as too expensive any counter-missile system to blanket North America. But it is considered possible that a limited system may be built to protect intercontinental rocket sites.

EFFECTS UNCERTAIN

But assuming March 2 the new series of American tests, President Kennedy said great sums are being spent on radar and communications. He added: "What we cannot certain how much of this preparation will turn out to be useless, blacked out, paralyzed or destroyed by the complex effects of nuclear explosions."

"We know enough from earlier tests to be concerned about such possibilities. We know that the Soviets conducted such tests last fall. We know the immediate and effects of actual explosions in the atmosphere under realistic conditions. But we do not precisely how, to prepare our equip, our missiles for penetration of an anti-missile system, and we do not yet if possible to achieve such a system for our defence."

Mr. Kennedy said the Russian tests last fall were designed in part to test communications effects of nuclear blasts on radar, and communications.

Liberals Will Soon Announce Health Program

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson says his party soon will announce a proposed national health program. He said the Liberals are working on a detailed program which would be contributory to those who can afford to pay and which must be acceptable to the provinces and to medical authorities.

"Liberals believe that every Canadian ought to be able to get health care when he needs it without the crippling effect of bills he can't afford to pay," he said in an address to the Mount Allison University branch.

The Liberal party will submit "a carefully designed program for that purpose which can be put into effect with practical good sense."

Quebec Tries To Speed Mine Development

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A bill introduced in the Quebec legislature Tuesday would employ incentives in attempting to force a provincial mining firms to speed up exploitation of its mineral rights.

A spokesman for the provincial natural resources department said the bill, affecting Atlantic Iron Ores Limited, sets the pattern for future agreements between mining firms and the province.

E. LeBlanc spoke against the idea. He said he felt there was no need for conference since the government has appointed a royal commission on municipal finance and taxation.

Port Stanley Floods Cause Much Damage

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Spring floods got a head start on the calendar in southwestern Ontario Tuesday as the first official spring still a week away, as thousands of dollars of damage was reported in the area of Port Stanley.

Hundreds of acres of Lambton County farmland were also covered by flood water as a combination of 50 inches of rain and heavy rain caused the sudden thawing of snow to begin melting.

At one point in Port Stanley, a 300-foot section of the 50 feet of Highway 4 were under water as the Kettle Creek, which flows through the village was caused what Reeve Lloyd Gurr described as the worst flood he had ever seen.

ABANDON HOMES

An estimated $50,000 damage was reported in the Lake Erie village and at least five families were forced to abandon their homes.

The provincial weather authorities Tuesday night issued a flood warning for the area still to come.

At Sarnia, pumps and bulldozers were called out to clear streets of deep slush.

Elsewhere in Windsor also experienced floods.

Liberals Publish New Farm Policy Campaign Pamphlet In Preparation for Election

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal party has published a new farm policy campaign pamphlet highlighting 15 points—but not emphasizing the six points advocated earlier this parliamentary session by its newest acquisition, Hazen Argue (L—Assiniboia).

The former House leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party group, now the only Liberal party MP from west of the lakehead, declared his farm policy points in speeches in the Commons before he bolted the socialist group and joined the Liberals Feb. 22.

He called for support prices or deficiency payments on hogs, cattle and poultry. Canada's wheat board jurisdiction over all grains sold in Western Canada, increased prairie farm assistance payments for drought, stricter control of two - price system for wheat, increased acreages payments for all grain payments, and vastly heavier federal government responsibility in crop insurance.

MAY BE POLICY

None of these points are covered explicitly in the new Liberal campaign pamphlet, A Square Deal for Farmers. It is however, worded in such a way that some of the Argue policy objectives could be construed as Liberal policy.

Mr. Argue was not available immediately for comment. He is on a lecture tour of Western Canada.

Conservative MPs, meanwhile, were perusing the new Liberal campaign leaflet with interest and — naturally, perhaps—derision.

The Liberal pamphlet is somewhat more vague than the Argue policy statements. It says only that the government will "continue to study" the question of crop insurance.

And Labor Minister Starr replied that action is being taken and "more planned."

Mr. Starr, speaking to a legislative brief from Quebec's Conseil du travail de la province de Quebec, said automation and its consequences are "a matter for the domestic challenge of this decade—an idea advanced by Conservative Leader Diefenbaker.

"New skills, new training, and new techniques must be developed in order to keep pace with the new technology," Mr. Starr said.

He promised that special studies now under way on the effects of automation "will form the basis of an approach to this problem which will enable us to bring the attendant dislocations within reasonable control."

PLEDGES STUDY

Mr. Starr did not elaborate but he pledged careful study to the CNTU's proposals for new legislation to provide compensation for displaced workers, for notice of technological change and other measures to avert the ills of automation.

The CNTU brief also urged a royal commission investigation into the "after-effects" of automation.

A similar plea for government action to minimize the social impact of technological change was made Monday before the national legislative committee of the international railway brotherhoods.

This delegation, lead by A. A. Heaps, international president of Canadian railway workers, It called for changes to the Railway Act to provide adequate compensation to rail workers whose jobs suffered from the cause of railway efforts to streamline services and operations.

The brotherhoods also urged that railway workers be given a role a new over-all transportation authority to regulate both railways and inter - provincial truck operators.

Similar moves inter-provincial trucking was delegated by the federal government in the provinces, on a common basis of provincial regulation.

TO BUILD YORK CAMPUS

TORONTO (CP) — Governor-General Vanier was in Toronto Tuesday for treatment in the orthopaedic clinic at Sunnybrook Veteran's Hospital. Officials said the Governor-General received treatment in the artificial limb department but was not admitted. He has his right leg above the knee in the First World War and wears an artificial leg.

TORONTO (CP) — A $5,000,000 construction program for the north Toronto campus of York University, to be completed by the fall of 1963, was announced Tuesday by Robert Winters, chairman of the board of governors. The program will see the construction of a residence, library, fieldhouse and additional academic wing to York Hall.

Labor, Govt. Leaders Take Look at Automation Here

OTTAWA (CP) — Both labor and government leaders Monday threw a new spotlight on the impact of automation in Canada.

The labor leaders representing 110,000 organized workers in Quebec asked for action—parliamentary action—to protect the "victims" of technological change.

And Labor Minister Starr replied that action is being taken and "more planned."

Report Linking Cigarettes With Cancer Causes Flurry

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Cigarettes are being stubbed out all over Britain as a result of last week's report by the Royal College of Physicians which indicates a direct link between smoking and lung cancer.

Health Minister Powell said in Parliament the government accepts the report as demonstrating "unmistakably and scientifically the causal connection" between smoking and the lung disease.

Tobacco shares slumped sharply and there was a heavy exchange following the report, which is the talking point throughout Britain.

Debate centres on whether the public should be told and advertise will continue and what steps the government should take to ensure that it does.

Already the education and health ministries have launched campaigns to prevent and reduce cigarette smoking among school children. The rate in high school has increased alarmingly in recent years.

One headmaster wrote that a survey in his 1,000-pupil girls' school showed that 125 boys and 50 girls smoked regularly and about 35 started smoking in primary school.

STRONGER WARNING WANTED

The report's supporters recommend that cigarette advertising be banned completely and laws prohibiting the sale of tobacco to persons under 16 be rigidly enforced.

Other suggestions directed at adults include: Make the habit include public choices and a higher, perhaps punitive, tax on cigarettes.

This last action might prove the quickest means the government caught between the desire to reduce cancer and the lucrative blue ribbon tax on cigarette smoke.

Tobacco taxes, the biggest single source of revenue for the government, bring in about $200,000,000 a year. Higher taxes could discourage smoking but keep revenues at the same level.

Taxes on cigars and pipe tobacco may be lowered and cigarette smokers thus encouraged to switch if the report says is a less dangerous form of smoking.

REPORT OPPOSED

Meanwhile cigarette manufacturers are hastily mounting a counter attack. They say the report's conclusions are based on questionable statistical methods and are campaigning for more research into the pollution as a cause of lung cancer.

They also claim there are psychological and pharmacological benefits in smoking.

How the tobacco manufacturers will be able to inhibit government action remains to be seen.

They demonstrated powerful pressure in Westminster recently when the government received a monopolies commission recommendation that one tobacco firm should not hold more holdings in a rival company.

S.A. Terrorists Attack French Police Barracks

ALGIERS—Secret army terrorists attacked a French riot police barracks in Algiers at dawn today, firing rockets and machine-guns for 15 minutes at the big building.

Riot police quartered in the building returned the European terrorists' fire, according to residents of the area watched from their windows. 44 rockets exploded and guns crackled.

There was no immediate information on casualties in the attack.

Elsewhere in Algiers terrorists had killed four Moslems, including a major in the French Army, and wounded five before noon. Three Europeans were wounded by gunfire.

In France meanwhile the government conflicted all troops in the Paris area to barracks and cancelled all leave as cease-fire talks between French and Algerian negotiators went into their eighth day.

The move to confine troops to barracks came amid growing feelings that the cease-fire talks at Evian, just on the Swiss border would be concluded by Thursday.

GUARD ARSENAL

In another move to strengthen military security in the face of any right-wing extremist attempt to sabotage the impending ceasefire talks, marines in combat gear and armed with sub-machine guns guarded the approaches to be arsenal at the Toulon naval base.

France's Mediterranean fleet, which sailed from Toulon last week, was officially on a winter training cruise but its manoeuvres kept it within easy reach of the Algerian coast.

Tuesday night sources close to the French government said all essential points in a French-Algerian agreement to end the Moslem insurrection had been settled in the Evian talks.

However, the sources hinted that the two sides had failed to agree to spell out in detail all points on which there was still disagreement so as to avoid possible sterile disputes once the cease-fire takes effect.

STRANGLES WIFE

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Stephen Kent, 36, told police he strangled his wife Maybel, 36, in their apartment here Tuesday to end her suffering. Police quoted him as saying: "She suffered from asthma terribly. I couldn't stand watching her suffer any longer." He was charged with first-degree murder.

Cattle Dying Of Malnutrition Say Experts

REGINA (CP)—Two Saskatchewan agricultural experts say large numbers of livestock are dying of malnutrition in the province.

Dr. V. E. Senior provincial veterinarian, said Monday he expects worse results of the two-year drought and lack of good fodder to show up at calving and lambing time.

During the weekend, Dr. C. M. Williams of the department of animal husbandry at the University of Saskatchewan said large numbers of cattle are dying from lack of food or because food doesn't contain necessary vitamins, minerals and proteins.

Dr. Williams said the animal diet is worse now than it ever has been since ranching first began in Saskatchewan.

Dr. Senior said the greatest need of cattle is green grass.

Dr. Williams said that since 1950 there has been a shortage of green grass in Saskatchewan and hay produced last year lacked substances needed to protect animals.

Future Jobs of Railwaymen Will Be Basis of Discussion At Conciliation Hearings

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — The future jobs of many railwaymen perhaps the future of the railways themselves — will be discussed when conciliation hearings open soon on the contract dispute between the big railways and their non-operating employees.

Labor Minister Starr is expected shortly to set up a three-man conciliation board, which will have the task of trying to settle one of the most complex labor disputes in railway history.

The board itself may fail to settle the dispute, but it could produce a report that might be basis for a settlement.

The board's hearings will be in the arena in which the railways and unions will fight out their rival contract proposals.

THE ISSUES

The 15 non-op unions, bargaining for some 104,000 employees, want improvements in two - year contract, a 22 - cent hourly pay boost, plus a job security plan that will protect all workers with five years or more service.

Breaking new ground, the railways filed a counter-proposal of a three - year contract, a work security program, a new inspection service increase and other benefits in return for a major overhaul of traditional seniority groupings, without violating craft lines.

Each side balked at the other's proposals. Their talks collapsed last month, without getting to grips on any real bargaining. Now the fight shifts to the conciliation board.

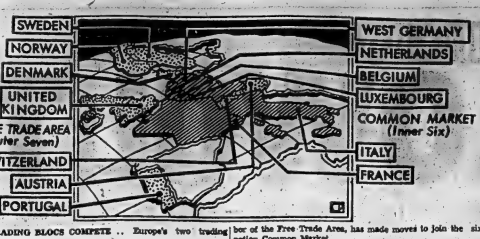
On wages, the unions are insisting that pay increases must be related to the earnings of workers in the durable goods industry. They contend this industry has been established by past conciliation settlements as the yardstick for railway pay.

The railways reject the claim that the durable goods standard is firmly rooted. They have offered a pay increase only as part of an over-all economy package that includes revamped work rules and new seniority rosters.

CHNGING SCENE

Far-reaching changes already have taken place in the rail industry — changes brought about by the need of the railways to streamline their entire operations in the face of mounting competition from other forms of transport.

The result of this trend is a rapid decline in the railway work force.



The unions want new technological devices introduced in a planned, gradual manner, tied to a five-per-cent attrition rate in the railway work force. In essence, this would preserve most of the current jobs held by non-service workers — even jobs that are no longer necessary.

The railways, dismissing this plan, offered to guarantee work — not specific jobs — for long-service employees. But the proposal is conditional on union acceptance of a consolidated seniority roster, reducing the 2,000 or so separate "joint and craft" seniority groups that tend to make the non-operating work force immobile.

The companies' proposal would have provided a measure of employment stability for the workers, while giving the railways a more flexible work force. The unions rejected the offer as "too little, too late."

FREDERICTON (CP)— George E. TRADING BLOCS COMPETE .. Europe's two trading blocs, the the Common Market and Free Trade Area, are anxiously awaiting the outcome of negotiations between the United Kingdom and the Common Market. The U.K., a member of the Free Trade Area, has made moves to join the six-nation Common Market.

Machines May Win Battle Over Men in Next 20 Years

NEW YORK (CP)—The next 20 years should determine who'll win in the battle between men and machines, says a report prepared for the U.S. Fund for the Republic.

And watch out, it adds—it may be the machines.

Computers already have begun to show "originality and unpredictability" in games of skill, says the report's author, Donald N. Michael.

"There is every reason to believe that within the next two decades machines will be available outside the laboratory that will do a creditable job of original thinking, certainly as good thinking as is expected of middle-level people who are supposed to 'use their minds'."

Michael, director of planning and programs of the Peace Research Institute in Washington, predicts that four different classes, each with its own problems of adjustment, will develop from the transition to a fully-automated society.

MAY BECOME RADICALS

The first will include workers displaced by machines—mostly unskilled or semi - skilled, but some of them relatively well-trained white - collar workers. Boredom will be a problem for this class and the less-educated may turn to radical organizations through which to vent their hostility over being made insecure and useless.

The second class will include low - income groups working shorter hours and spending more time at home — adding "very real difficulties to the already inadequate, ambiguous and frustrating personal relationships that typify much of middle-class family life."

The third class, mostly professional, semi - professional or skilled workers, also will have shorter hours and more leisure time but will be able to use it better because of their values and education.

But the fourth class—the professionals and executives — will have little leisure in the machine age.

This group already is overworked, the report says, and although computers may remove some of the more tedious aspects of their work, they probably will continue to be overburdened in the future.

The Fund for the Republic is a non-profit educational foundation set up a decade ago by a Ford Foundation grant.

EARTH'S AGE

Greater Part Party Members Are Workers

MOSCOW (AP) — After 44 years of rule as the dictatorship of the proletariat, the Soviet Communist party can finally boast that workers and peasants are in the majority of its membership.

A basic shift in the ruling party's composition is reflected in statistical claims that 51 per cent of the Soviet Union's Communists are factory and farm workers.

Commenting on the new statistics, the magazine Kommunist says:

"Bourgeoisie slanderers resort to every possible means to represent the party as an 'elite' and as a party composed exclusively of party functionaries and civil servants. . . . The greater part of party members are now workers and collective farmers."

Kommunist emphasizes that the 48 per cent described as employees included "mental workers," intellectuals and various types of specialists.

The magazine notes that on Oct. 1, 1961, the party numbered 9,767,000 members and candidate members.

Astronauts Use Money to Buy Real Estate

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. astronauts are committing their money to real estate ventures put in Florida, Washington, D.C., and the Grand Bahamas, the New York Times says.

They are using $500,000 research service known as "pilot and craft" seniority groups that tend to make the non-operating work force immobile.

The companies' proposal would have provided a measure of employment stability for the workers, while giving the railways a more flexible work force. The unions rejected the offer as "too little, too late."

CHARGES GIVEAWAY

FREDERICTON (CP)— George E. Ice Forecaster Makes Sure Disaster Such as Titanic Loss Will Not Occur Again

HALIFAX (CP)—Fifty years ago the Titanic sank after ramming an iceberg. Of 2,224 passengers, 1,513 were drowned.

The sinking and Second World War needs were among factors resulting in formation of an international ice patrol.

The man who directs ice forecasting on the Atlantic and Arctic coasts is William E. Markham, 41, formerly of Edmonton, whose many duties include making sure that a disaster such as the Titanic sinking will not occur again.

From his staff of six in the meteorological branch of the transport department come all-round reports go out to ships and shipping companies. The reports are compiled with the aid of planes, ships' radio and photographs.

"We have three kinds of forecasts," Mr. Markham explained. "The first is a 36-hour one for ships actually working in the ice fields; the second a five-day for planning ship movements. Both of these are communicated by radio. The third is a 30-day forecast, for overseas shippers, who are told by mail.

"Our main problem is that we still do not know enough about water currents, hence the studies being made by oceanographers. The currents will move the ice, and wind can change its direction. So you have two strikes against you start forecasting."

During the winter aircraft check ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and around Newfoundland. In summer the check extends from Hudson Bay through the Arctic to Alaska.

From Thursday some 14 ice observers in chartered Dakotas and fighters range over thousands of square miles of northern ice.

Reporting a year the charter plane puts in 2,000 to 2,500 hours—and that's a lot of flying," said Mr. Markham, who has made 19 trips himself by plane and air as a forecaster out of Edmonton.

Ice forecasting by convoys during the Second World War followed the formation of the Ice Patrol—1903—which continued to tighten up the safety factor.

Mr. Markham says the next step may be a satellite photo graph which has already been tested by the United States on a limited basis.

CANCER VANISHES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Physicist Leo Szilard, 64, who in 1940 thought he might die of cancer within a year, said Monday his symptoms have vanished. Szilard, who is one of the fathers of the atomic bomb, was stricken some years ago with cancer of the bladder and was treated with x-rays in the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Centre in New York.

Remember When

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You've marched into middle age—or, in some cases, old age—if you can look back in your lifetime and remember when:

You and your wife could stay at a good hotel for less than a penny a night, and no one tried to park your cat or dog overnight.

One of the functions of a rich man's poor relation was to break in his new shoes for him.

Women going on trips always toted along a jar of smelling salts because they never knew when they might encounter a strange sight that could cause them to faint.

Nobody went on a 45 - mile train journey without a basket of food big enough to feed half of starving China.

Muggers feared to attack long ladies because they carried long hatpins sharp enough to skewer a man as neatly as if he were a piece of errant shish-kebob.

Streetcar trolleys carried both a motorman and a conductor because no one in his right senses could expect a man to collect fares and drive a dangerous vehicle at the same time.

Every home had two social centres — the kitchen and the front porch.

The sophisticated repartee was to shake your head and exclaim "boy, that's the cat's pajamas!"

SMOKED PRIVATELY

The wealthiest man in town was the one who had a two-buggy stable, and a bathroom with a real tub.

Only young daredevils ventured out in cold weather without a pair of spats.

No matter what ailed you, you took castor oil if you were a child—and calomel if you were older.

In any discussion of major illness, the person who had the first aspirin to offer who could brag of having the longest spasms of sneezing. (Anybody who was anybody socially, sooner or later developed appendicitis.)

It was perfectly all right for a grandmother to puff her pipe at home but any woman who smoked a cigarette in the presence of men was regarded as the devil's plaything.

During the depression you got a free piece of china everytime you bought a ticket to the movies.

Flappers wore knee - length dresses with tassels on them, sitting in a motel at Freeport in the Grand Bahamas, and in Washington housing project that may be called Friendship —the same, given the capsule in which John Glenn Jr., made his orbital flight.

The Coco Beach motel, to be called the Cape Colony Inn, will have 130 rooms, including suites, named after each of the astronauts—Glenn, Virgil Grissom, Alan Shepard Jr., Scott Carpenter, Gordon Cooper, Jr., Walter Schirra Jr. and Donald Slayton.

INCOME INCREASE

Between 1951 and 1960 personal incomes in Britain rose on an average by about 6½ per cent a year, while industrial output was higher by 2½ per cent.

TO VISIT AIR BASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will inspect missile sites at Vandenberg Air Force Base, California next week. He will also inspect the Minuteman missile silo complex, Titan and Atlas sites, and the Thor-Discoverer facilities, the White House said.

Canada Suffering Serious Loss of Trained Scientific Workers to United States

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is suffering a serious loss of trained scientific and professional workers to the United States.

A new federal labor department report on emigration from Canada shows the flow of Canadian talent to the south has been increasing in recent years, and predicts this trend will continue.

Canadian and American statistics show that for every two professional workers admitted to Canada as immigrants in the 1956-60 period, one left Canada for the U.S.

However, the labor department says there are several offsetting factors which make the picture slightly less black than these figures paint it.

During the three-year period, a total of 84,356 professional and technical workers entered Canada as immigrants. The loss to the U.S. of this type of worker was 46,014.

Total immigration to Canada in 1950-60 was 1,548,733. In the same period 441,881 Canadians left Canada for the U.S., or one-half of every three who came to Canada.

TRAINED CLASS

The labor department says an analysis of these figures shows that the occupational level of persons migrating to the U.S. is higher than those entering Canada as immigrants. The loss is accentuated by the fact that the great majority of Canadians entering the U.S. are Canadian trained and educated.

The loss to the U.S. of a Canadian professional is not necessarily offset by the gain of a qualified professional immigrant, the labor department bulletin says.

"We are losing a worker who is acclimatized to this country and who is familiar with Canadian industrial techniques and ways of doing things, while on the other hand, the immigrant is not."

The labor department says that available figures on the migration and migration of professional workers have a number of weaknesses.

Immigration figures represent the occupations that the immigrants said they intended to follow when they arrived in Canada. They may not be the occupations actually followed.

ONE-WAY FIGURES

The chief weakness in emigration figures is that information is available only on the movement to the U.S. These figures are supplied by the U.S. department of justice.

There are no figures on the number of Canadian professionals who return home after migrating from Canada. However, in the 1950-60 period, a total of 46,630 Canadians returned to Canada after having lived in the U.S.

"It is certain that a number of professionals were involved although it is not possible to determine how many," the labor department said.

The loss of Canadian professionals to the U.S. is being offset to an increasing extent by the arrival of trained American immigrants. In 1960 Canada had 5,409 professional to the U.S. but gained 1,628 American professionals.

Another factor operates to increase the immigration of U.S. professionals into Canada but it cannot be measured. Many Americans who come to Canada to work for Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms classify themselves as managers but are actually engineers and other professionals.

STUDENTS FACTOR

The labor department lists another factor offsetting the loss of Canadians who study in the U.S. and remain there. American universities subsidize the professional training of many thousands of Canadians. While this leads to some emigration, "it results in a greater inflow to Canada of skills acquired by Canadian students at no expense to the Canadian taxpayer."

Labor department officials agree that the loss of professionals to the U.S. is serious but say "we should be jumping with joy that the loss isn't greater."

The report says that the average starting salary of an engineer in the U.S. is $6,500, compared with $4,950 in Canada. The U.S. offered better jobs at the top to which professionals could aspire and in more occupations there were few if any openings in Canada.

Emigration to the U.S. was facilitated by the fact that educational standards in Canadian universities were generally higher. American industry sought and persuaded trained Canadians to migrate.

The large number of Canadians studying in the U.S. were more exposed to job opportunities in that country than those in Canada. American employers actively recruited Canadians while they were still attending U.S. universities.

The report says that immigration of professionals is expected to remain stable while emigration to the U.S. will continue to rise.

"This means that relatively more professional workers will have to be trained in Canada to meet the expected requirements for this type of worker."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Teacher takes a back seat in the special Grade 5 class at North Vancouver's Braemar Elementary School.

She lets the pupils run the show themselves and they have the time of their lives doing it.

They chatter among themselves, wander around the room, sit down and do their lessons when the spirit moves them or engage in sometimes heated group arguments.

There's an air of complete informality in the class, where up to five or six activities are carried on at the same time.

It's an unusual classroom—but these are unusual students.

They are the top 30 Grade 5 students in the North Vancouver school system, picked from their own schools and placed in Braemar's special enrichment class.

POLITICS AND PHYSICS

Along with a similar group of Grade 4 students, they are in a program which leaves the regular curriculum far behind and takes them into the realms of politics, higher mathematics, physics, international affairs and a host of other subjects.

R. V. McLean, North Vancouver supervisor of elementary education, said the classes were formed because "we felt we weren't doing enough for the really bright students."

He said many of them were bored with their work in the regular classroom and were working far beneath their ability.

"Students such as these, with extremely high IQs, must be challenged and stimulated in their school work," he says.

At the same time they must have full freedom to explore and research and express themselves.

Teacher Olive Tait regards herself as a consultant rather than a teacher—almost a member of the class. Her desk at the back of the room is seldom occupied as she moves among her bright-eyed, eager-to-learn pupils.

TEACHING A JOY

Pretty Joanne Marrocco, teacher of the Grade 4 class, says her job is a joy to work with.

"I have quite a time getting them to leave the classroom at recess," she says. "They are so interested with what they are doing that they don't want to go outside."

Principal Don McEwen admits the classes "take some getting used to."

Here is what he is apt to see:

At one side of the room, a knot of boys and girls sit around a table in an animated debate.

Others are sitting copying notes, undisturbed by the conversation. One is studying science, another English, another geography.

A 10-year-old casually leafs through an airmail edition of The Times of London.

If the noise does get out of hand—and it often does—class president Susan Paxton raps a home-made gavel on her desk. "Quiet down, please," she cries, and the din subsides.

TEACHER TAKES BACK SEAT — Teacher Olive Tait takes a back seat but keeps a close eye on proceedings as Grade V pupils of North Vancouver's Braemar Elementary School discuss atomic reactors. Thirty students, specially selected, are studying an advanced curriculum which includes oil politics, higher mathematics and nuclear physics. Kevin Monahan, 10, (standing at blackboard) directs the discussion. (CP Photo).

LABOR LEADER. — Otto Andersen, 25, son of a former Danish count, is the youngest man to be elected president of the 2,000-member Winnipeg Building Trades Council. Mr. Andersen, an iron worker, came to Canada in 1956 and worked in Edmonton, Kitimat, B.C., and Vancouver before settling in Winnipeg. (CP Photo).

Son of Former Danish Count Climbs Rapidly

WINNIPEG (CP)—The son of a former Danish count has made a rapid climb in the labor movement here to reach a top union post at the age of 25.

Otto Andersen is the youngest man ever to be elected president of the Winnipeg Building Trades Council. The council has 20 unions and 2,000 members under its wing.

Its new leader is the son of Count Ernst von Oels of Oels, Denmark, who renounced his title in the 1920s and changed his name to Andersen.

The elder Andersen was an ironworker and young Otto followed his father's craft, serving a five-year apprenticeship as a structural ironworker in Copenhagen.

Wanderlust brought him to Canada in 1956. He worked in Edmonton, Kitimat, B.C., and Vancouver before settling in Winnipeg.

Andersen, tall and blonde, married a Norwegian immigrant here and they have two children.

In Winnipeg, fellow ironworkers elected Andersen business agent of his local and two years later he became head man on the Building Trades Council.

Andersen says his big job is to organize thousands of building trades workers still outside the union.

"The first thing I found out here was that compared with back in Europe, workers are poorly organized," he said.

Liberals Get No Firm Replies On Questions

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals again peppered cabinet ministers in the Commons Tuesday with questions aimed at finding out whether the government endorses a proposed steel complex for Launon, Que. They got no firm replies.

Most of the opposition attention was directed at State Secretary Dorion.

The questions arose from a luncheon in Quebec City Saturday which was attended by Associate Defence Minister Sevigny, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley and several Conservative MPs.

The the luncheon, J. A. Leclerc, president of a company called Sulphur Converting Corporation, announced plans for a $300,000,000 steel complex at Launon.

The ministers left the luncheon shortly after a group of Montreal reporters walked out. The reporters felt insufficient financing information was given out. Premier Lesage of Quebec has been quoted as expressing "very serious doubts" about the project.

Lucien Cardin (L—Richelieu-Verchères) asked Mr. Dorion Tuesday whether it were true he had spoken in favor of the project last December.

Mr. Dorion said he recalled "rather vaguely" speaking of "the possible establishment" of such a steel complex, according to information that had been supplied him, and "I hoped it would be established."

Arelius Denis (L—Montreal St. Denis) asked whether Prime Minister Diefenbaker should not warn the people of Canada against investing in the company. Speaker Roland Michener said the sale of securities was a provincial jurisdiction.

Terriers Muzzled By Swede Goalie

Beaten 5-3 In Big Upset

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — Sweden has virtually clinched the 1962 world hockey championship with a stunning 5-3 upset of Canada — a triumph that is doubly sweet for the Swedes who are the hosts at next year's tournament in Stockholm.

The undefeated Swedes, who almost didn't come to Colorado after Russia and Czechoslovakia decided to pull out, took sole possession of first place in the round-robin championship division Thursday night by handing the Canadians their first loss of the tournament.

The superb goal-tending of Lennart Haggroth was a big factor in the victory. He held off the Canadians for the first 34 minutes of play while his teammates piled up a 4-0 lead they could not overcome.

Ulf Sterner and Bjorn Nilsson scored two goals apiece and Sven (Tumba) Johansson had one for Sweden while Floyd (Butch) Martin, Harry Smith and Jack McLeod accounted for Canada's goals.

"The best team certainly didn't win," insisted coach Lloyd Roubell, speaking in the cold, dismal, dressing room.

"Even if I am Canadian, I am proud of you. You deserved your victory. You were the better team."

Roubell said before the game that Gail Terriers, herded up with several former professionals, were "all fired up" over reports calling the team the worst to represent Canada in five years.

Injuries and sickness hurt the Canadians and Tuesday night they found themselves unable to crack the Swedish defence until late in the second period when Martin got the first goal.

It was Sweden's fourth straight victory and the first over Canada in world and Olympic hockey history. It gave Sweden eight points with three games to go and dropped Gail into a three-way tie with the United States and Norway for second place.

U.S. BEATS GERMANY

Tuesday night in Denver the U.S. scored four goals in the second period to defeat West Germany 8-4. Austria tied for the lead with Japan in consolation play, swamping The Netherlands 14-1 while France crushed winless Australia 13-1.

Bitter words were exchanged between the French and Aussie coaches. Pete La Liberte, the French coach who was born in Canada, said the Aussies "don't know a single thing about hockey" and shouldn't be allowed to play in world championship. Aussie coach Russ Carson, with a team full of injuries, said the whole setup "stinks."

The remainder of the seven-game schedule strongly favors the Swedes. Only the weak British and West German clubs, and a fairly Norwegian squad stand between the Swedes and their first world championship since 1957 in Moscow.

That year Canada and other Western countries boycotted the tournament in protest over Russia's crushing of the Hungarian revolt.

All Canada and the U.S. can hope for now to keep their raised chin chances alive is for Sweden to lose a game. The Swedes could clinch the title with two wins and a tie provided Canada beats the U.S. with all three remaining games.

Following the Norwegian game tonight, Canada plays Britain Saturday and the U.S. Sunday, in a contest to be televised by the CBS and CBC. If Sweden romps through the remainder of its schedule, the Canada-U.S. game is likely to be a battle for second place.

SWEDES CONFIDENT

"That was the big one," said Swedish coach Arne Stromberg of the win over Canada. "We've still got to win the other three games and I'm confident that we will."

Roubell still hoped that a near miracle would help the Gail club. "Tu, world didn't end our team," he told the disappointed Canadians. "They (the Swedes) still have some big ones to go and anything can happen."

But the heart had been taken out of the Canadian team by the netminding of Haggroth, a younger just turned 22. He has been spelling the regular Swedish goalie Kjell Svensson who was hurt before the tournament started last Thursday.

HALTS THREE ALL

Time after time Haggroth stopped streaking forwards on breakaways with sensational poking, stick and glove saves. He stopped a total of 35 shots while marked goalie Harold (Bosa) Hurley made 18.

Thirteen penalties were called including a major to Martin for spearing Bert Nordquist in the closing moments of play. Martin said he later apologized to the Swede. The Canadians drew eight of the penalties. Berti Karlsson, the big Swedish defenceman, collected four penalties in the second period, including a misconduct.

Penalties hurt the Canadians deeply when they were behind only 3-0. Twice the Swedes, with a two - man advantage each time, scored to go ahead 4-0.

After Haggroth had made sensational stops on shots by Joe Malo, Bill Wylie and Bill Mitchell, Sterner broke the first-period scoreless deadlock at 19:06 when he knocked in his own rebound. Roland Stoltz got an assist.

Fifteen seconds later Tumba Johansson turned in his 56th goal in championship competition since 1951, racing in to beat Hurley with a 15-foot shot.

SLAPS BACKHANDER

With McLeod and Smith in the penalty box Nilsson climaxed a beautifully-executed power play after only 56 seconds of the middle session, rapping home a 20-foot backhander. Stoltz and Nordlander drew assists.

Sterner made it 4-0 at 10:42 of the same period with Canada again short two men — Martin and McLeod. This time Per-Olov Hardin set the play up and Sterner completed it by beating Hurley from 25 feet out.

Martin notched his fifth goal of the tournament to break the Swedes. Only the weak British and West German clubs, and a fairly Norwegian squad stand between the Swedes and their first world championship since 1957 in Moscow.

That year Canada and other Western countries boycotted the tournament in protest over Russia's crushing of the Hungarian revolt.

Leafs, Habs at Toronto
Wings, Blues In Big One Tonight

Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers meet in New York tonight and the outcome of the game could go a long way toward determining which team gets the last Stanley Cup playoff berth.

It'll be the final meeting of the season between the two clubs, now tied for fourth place in the National Hockey League standings. After tonight, Detroit will have five more games to play and New York only four.

"We need a win," says freshman player-coach Doug Harvey of the Rangers. "A tie won't be good enough." The Rangers have not made the playoffs since the spring of 1958.

Elsewhere tonight, the league's top two clubs—Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs—clash in Toronto.

CLOSE TO TITLE

The Canadiens have a seven-point lead atop the standings and need a combination of just three more wins or Toronto defeats to wrap up a fifth straight league title.

Rangers big test will be in stopping Gordie Howe, the fabulous Detroit winger who will play his 500th regular-season goal. Only retired Maurice Richard has scored more goals: 544.

Howe has been blanked in his last three outings, but has scored eight of his 30 goals this season against Rangers.

Both Rangers and Wings are reported in good shape for their showdown battle.

The Red Wings hold an edge over Rangers in the clubs' 13 meetings this season. In six earlier games at New York, Wings won three, lost two and tied one. In seven games at Detroit, Wings won three, lost two and tied two.

Now the Gals Get Into The Act

MONTREAL (CP) — Two girls are hooked in a stick-swinging duel and had to be pried apart by the officials Tuesday night in the championship game of the Montreal Juvenile Girls' Hockey League.

Laura Alascow of St. Laurent and Nicole Gamache, St. Andre's goalie, tangled after a melee. Miss Alascow tried to poke the puck out of Miss Gamache's possession. Miss Gamache chased her all the way to the bluelines.

Both were given five-minute penalties for fighting, the first minor penalties assessed in league play.

St. Laurent won 5-0 with Miss Alascow scoring three goals.

Series Locked Two Each
Flyers Shade Habs 5-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers, who fought like tigers to get into the playoffs of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, are refusing to fall down and play dead now that the payoff games are at hand.

The Flyers went into the semi-finals against the tough Montreal Canadiens, who normally are murder once they get the lead. But the Flyers bounced back twice Tuesday night from two-goal deficits and won 5-4 when red-haired Terry Crisp fired the winner before 1,400 screaming Falls fans.

The same combination that clicked in a crucial pre-playoff game with Guelph Royals, Crisp from Jean Paul Parise, deadlocked the best-of-seven series 2-2.

At St. Catharines, the Teepees lived up to predictions that the semi-finals were ripe for an upset. They battled Hamilton Red Wings to a 3-3 tie, leaving the Wings ahead 3-1 in games with one tie.

Fifth games are in Hamilton Thursday and Montreal Friday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carven, Sports Editor

That's gold in them thar skated heels and the National Hockey League jockeys who get their "fastest get the mostest."

True, the place and show boys together with the fourth-spotters pick up their share of the post-season look but this year all hands will find their payoff pokes a lot fatter than previous seasons.

The golden melon that will be cut by the four top four clubs this year is king-size with no filler. The N.H.L. Fort Knoxers have shredded the purse strings and upped the gratuity take to $160,000 as compared to the $153,000 jackpot of a year ago.

Let's start a tithe top. Should the team that finishes first in the league standing and takes the Prince of Wales Trophy pass on to grabbe the Stanley Cup, the traditional champagne and the all-round kudoes, each player will receive a lump sum of $5,000.

If the fourth-place club knocks off the opposition to win the Stanley Cup pewterware each player pockets a cheque for $3,750. Sort of play now-pay later.

Let's break it down. The first four teams finishing in the schedule is awarded $54,000. The team finishing on top gets $27,000 from the league. This divided into 18 units means $1,500 per player. Second-place team player get $750 each. Third-spotters get $500 apiece and the fourth-sletters $250 each. This is roughly a 33 per cent increase.

Now for the semi-finalists. Players on the club that emerge victorious and gird their loins for the Cup and the pot 'o gold that goes with it, pocket cheques for $1,500. Members of the losing teams bank $750 each.

Now for the top dogs. There's $9,000 added incentive money to be distributed between these clubs. Last year the Stanley Cup winners received $1,750 each, the runners-up $750.

This year the Stanley Cup carries with it $1,000 each members of the winning club; $1,000 apiece for the losers.

Now you know why the Boston Bruins go into hibernation drooling, and the Red Wings and Rangers are at each other's throats for that fourth-spot berth.

And don't forget, those super-stars who take home the various trophies and awards add an extra thousand or two to the Big Payoff, not to mention club bonuses.

Andy Bathgate the Ranger star and Bobby Hull are staging a neck-and-neck stretch race for the league scoring championship. Hull has lacked it away once but the Randy Andy of the Gotham Blues has yet to nail down the flag. If he does he will be the first New Yorker to do it in 26 years. Last time a Broadway Blue did the trick was in the 1941-45 season when Brian Hextall finished the 48-game schedule with 24 goals and 22 assists for 56 points. Bathgate could break Jean Beliveau's league assists record of 58 set last season.

Speaking of records the Boston Bruins have played 19 consecutive games without a win up to March 10. The record for most consecutive games without a victory is held jointly by the Hawks and Rangers. Chicago went winless for 21 games in the 1950-51 season and the Rangers did likewise in the 1943-44 season.

Boston has allowed 318 goals to be scored against them in 66 games. The record is 318 goals and was set by the Rangers in the 1943-44 50-game season.

Prague Figure Skating
Czech Shades Canadian

PRAGUE (CP-AP)—Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia held a narrow early lead over Canadian favorite Don Jackson today after the first of six compulsory figures—first event of the 1962 world figure skating championships.

Divin scored 109.3 points for his slim margin over Jackson, the Canadian champion from Oshawa, Ont., who had 108.1.

Alain Calmat of France was third with 107.2 and Donald McPherson, a 17-year - old high school student from Stratford, Ont., was fourth with 102.4.

Divin, runner-up in the 1960 Olympics when Jackson placed third, received six first-place votes from the nine-judge panel for the figure, a right forward outside counter, Jackson had the other three.

Four of the figures will be skated today with the final two scheduled Thursday morning. The four - day championships wind up Saturday.

Jackson, a 20-year-old veteran of international competition, is rated one of the world's best free skaters but is weaker in the compulsory figures.

Crack Down on High Sticks

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Referees at the world hockey championships have been told a crack down on play. are wie, carry their sticks high.

Kurt Hauser, Swiss chief of the refereeing staff, Tuesday told his men to give out penalties to offenders whose high sticks, cause injuries.

Hauser, a veteran referee, was displeased with the calls in the British-West Germany game in which 22 penalties were imposed.

Two West German players suffered broken noses and several other players were cut on the face. The British had a flock of casualties too. Most of the injuries were caused by players holding their sticks high.

"High - sticking that draws blood or causes injury calls for a mandatory five-minute major penalty," said Hauser. "The officials have not been calling them. They have been handing out only two-minute minor penalties."

'Best Team Didn't Win'-Roudball

Swedes Jubilant Over Big Victory

By MURRAY ROSE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—"This was the big one," said Swedish coach Arne Strom, after Sweden's big win after the team beat Canada 5-3 in a vital game in the world amateur ice hockey championship.

"We've still got to win the olibic hockey title," he added, "I'm confident we will," he added. "I'm sure the boys will be just as determined as ever in getting through beating Canada has to be our biggest thrill."

The Swedes, who had tossed goalie Lennart Haggroth up in the air three times at the end of the game, whooped and hollered as they stormed into the dressing room.

"The happiest moment of my life," said Sven (Tumba) Johansson, veteran centre who played on Sweden's 1957, world championship team. "We haven't won this one yet but we will. Beating Canada was something I've waited a long time for and now it feels marvelous."

SWEDES GET GOAL

The 31-year-old star scored his 54th goal in the world champion, European and Olympic play and picked after Ulf Sterner had scored the first one for Sweden.

"Oh talk to Haggroth," said Tumba. "He was the big hero."

Haggroth, who had a big year all week, was spectacular. Rated the position mark of the team by coach Sivonnen, he saved his team with a series of acrobatic stops.

"It was just wonderful," Haggroth beamed. "I never believed this could happen to me but it did. I'm so happy."

He said this was his first year in Sweden's premier league and his first appearance in world competition.

Sterner, who scored two goals, was jubilant over the victory but he was critical of what he called Canada's extra rough play.

"It's like a game before with them," he said. "They speared me six times. This is not hockey. Floyd Martin (of Canada) speared (Bert) Nordlander-Berg in the groin once. Why must they do that? That is not hockey."

IT HURT

Nordlander said Martin "dug the stick in my belly. It hurt real bad." He said he felt better now that the game was won.

Strombergs said:

"I still can't understand why the Canadians must play like that. Also I disagree with the referees.

"Hooking is not hockey. Knocking down a man is not hockey. Holding is not hockey. Sticks are for the players to use on pucks, not on the other players."

They won't dare use those tactics against the United States. The Americans are used to that and they have several Canadians on their team. If the Canadians try rough stuff with them, they'll get a taste of it right back. I think the Americans now have a good chance to beat them Monday."

CONGRATULATE TEAM

Robert LeBel of Chambly, Que., president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, Jack Kenburgh, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and J. F. Ahearne, head of the IIHF's European division, visited the Swedes' dressing room to congratulate the team.

In the tomb ... the Canadian dressing room Canadian coach Lloyd Roubell said: "The best team, certainly didn't win tonight."

"We outplayed them all the way about the puck wouldn't bounce for us," he said. "That goalie was their whole team."

"That's the best I've ever seen a Swedish goalie play," praised defenceman Harry Smith, a member of the Trail Smoke Eaters, champions a year ago, and one of the Canadian scorers Tuesday night.

Jack Mcleod, another Smokie a year ago, wasn't sure whether the present Swedish club was better than the one that bowed to Trail 5-1 last year. "They may be a bit better but we outplayed them and couldn't score."

THOUGHT THEY SCORED

Some of the Canadians thought they had tied the game late in the third period when Bill Sweeney's shot from the point appeared to have gone in the net. But referee Bill Chadwick disallowed the goal.

Sweeney said: "I thought I saw the twine bulge," explained Wylie.

Floyd (Butch) Martin, who drew a major for intent to injure in the final minute, explained that he apologized after the game. "Nordlander laughed at me in front of the net and I jabbed him with the stick."

Young Champions Honored

Minor Hockey Night!

It was minor hockey's night in town Monday in Memorial Arena last night, and boy! it did, collectively and individually. Over 1,000 members of youthful champions received the victors' accolades and awards while individual stars were presented with symbols of their prowess.

Some 500 parents, fans and players of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's lower brackets watched hard-fought minute battles and cheered presentation of the contenders to the echo.

The highlight of the presentations were the "squirts. mamship" awards given to representatives of the twelve teams in the association's squirt division.

Mayor A. McLean Haig, introduced by W. Brennan, president of the Minor Hockey Association, presented the handsome symbols to the young winners.

In a brief pre-presentation address, Mayor Haig paid tribute to the minor association and the boys "who willingly and unselfishly are making a fine contribution t othe youth of the city.

To the youthful players the chief magistrate said he extended the best wishes of the city and himself for a long successful career not only in hockey but in whatever life holds for them.

The mayor personally congratulated each squirt winner paying a special tribute to Steven Brown, winner of the Tommy McNevin Trophy and of the team's squirtsmanship award.

He also paid tribute to the work of Lloyd G. Doran, the city's recreation director in his connection with minor hockey and other official duties.

SMHA official Norm. Carter did an excellent job introducing players over the public address system.

Other awards went to the winners of the "most sportsmanlike," "most improved," "most valuable" players and to the best goalie.

The names of the winners and awards were published in this newspaper on Saturday.

Tom Nelli's Maple Leafs won the championship of the squirt division after defeating the Rangers 5-1 on the round.

Their team is principally composed of Nelli Furrey's Quintes who defeated the Bruins 10-3 on the round.

Crests were presented to all the winning teams in post-games ceremonies.

Macs, Leafs, Barons, Quintes Win Minor Hockey Titles

The Quinte bantams, Barons peewees and the Maple Leaf and Macs squirts captured their division championships at the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's "Annual Playoff games" last evening.

The midget finals will be played tonight from six to eight o'clock.

The Macs won the squirt "B" division title the hard way, overcoming a first-game 6-1 deficit with a 5-1 victory last night. They squeezed past the Bruins 6-5 on the round.

Steve Moore scored two goals for the Macs with single goals going to Don Beecher, Peter Fralick and Ricky Forsythe. Lattimer also fired the hat trick.

Rangers held the Maple Leafs to a 3-3 tie in the squirt "A" final last night but lost the round 8-7.

Scott Reid scored two goals and Denny Lynch got one for the champion Leafs. Brian Cousins, Terry Meagher and Bill Beckwith scored for the Rangers.

The Barons edged the Red Wings 4-3 last night and captured the peewee championship by a round score of 11-8.

John Holgate triggered two goals and Don Cheney, with a Lambert and B. Mulvihill getting the others. T. Drumm, Dennis and D. Lucas drew assists. L. Moore had two goals and an assist, Blanchford a goal and assist and Scott Collier one helper for the Wings.

Wayne Lucas scored the Bruins' 4-3 last night and took the banten title by a total score of 10-6.

Dave Beresford with two goals and Don Cheney with a goal and two assists, paced the title-winning Quinte crew. Bob Lambert scored the other goal and Carl McFarlane had one assist. Norm Dupuyall and Steve White fired the Bruins' goals. Steve Carswell drew one assist.

Indians Nip Aces

QUEBEC (CP)—Ken Douglas scored once and assisted on three other goals to lead Spokane Flesh Indians to a 4-2 American Hockey League victory over Quebec Aces Tuesday night.

The loss left the Aces tied with Providence for the last playoff spot. Each team has six games to play.

Jimmy Anderson, Billy McCreary and Brian Kilrea scored the other Spokane goals. Quebec scorers were Guy Rousseau, Jean-Marie Cossette and Jim Morrison.

Banned From World Hockey

Exit the Old Pros!

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The International Ice Hockey Federation, set in motion down Tuesday on Canada's professional ice hockey players seeking to play in world amateur tournaments.

After next year's tournament, any player who was in professional hockey after Sept. 1 of any year will not be permitted to play in the following year's tournament, said Robert LeBel of Montreal, IIHF president.

The question of reinstated amateurs has been a thorny problem for the IIHF, Ted Sloan, former star of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, was reinstated last Dec. 30, one day before the deadline.

"We'll still have the Dec. 31 deadline for next year's tournament in Stockholm," LeBel said. "The change will come after that. I think that is one of the most constructive things we've done."

Tom Lockhart, president of the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, said "I think this is the first move towards eliminating former professionals altogether. The European nations have been pushing it. It may come off in four or five years."

The Grape-Fruit League

NEW YORK (AP) — It has taken manager Bob Scheffing of Detroit Tigers just four days to figure out the club's main strength if it is going anywhere in the American League this year. Just as in the 1961 season, the Tigers are going to rely on hitting.

Last year, the Bengals led the league in batting and produced the league's two top hitters, Norm Cash at .361 and Al Kaline at .324. Also around was Rocky Colavito, who had 140 runs batted in and 45 home runs.

Now, in four exhibition games, the Tigers have clubbed 46 hits, an average of more than 10 a game and enough to put fear in any pitcher's heart.

The Tigers won their third game Tuesday, pulling off St. Louis Cardinals, 7-4. They broke the game open with five runs in the seventh inning, four of them as a result of home runs by pinch hitter Bubba Morton and rookie Furnal Goby.

In a couple of all-National League encounters, Los Angeles Dodgers clobbered Milwaukee Braves 10-5 and Chicago Cubs subdued San Francisco Giants 12-7. The Dodgers got homers from Tommy and Willie Davis, the former with the bases loaded, while Ernie Banks, George Altman and rookie Ken Hubbs homered for the Cubs.

New York Mets got eye-opening three - hit pitching from Roger Craig and Evans Killeen to whip Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 and Floyd Robinson's three-run homer gave Baltimore Orioles a 5-2 decision over Philadelphia Phillies.

Houston Colts scored their first exhibition victory, edging Cleveland Indians 2-1, Boston Red Sox shaded Los Angeles Angels 3-2, Kansas City Athletics downed Washington Senators 5-1 and the champion New York Yankees beat Minnesota Twins 4-2 for their fourth straight triumph against no losses.

ASK DISMISSAL

BALTIMORE (AP)—The National Football League asked States district court Tuesday to dismiss the $60,000,000 anti-trust suit filed against it by the American Football League.

Arguments on the motion will be presented today before Chief Judge Roszel Thomsen, who is hearing the case without a jury.

The three-page written motion contends the AFL has failed to prove, during more than two weeks of testimony, that the NFL has the power to exclude competing professional teams from either local or national markets.

Swift Canadian Approval Seen To Wheat Pact

By ARCH MacKINNON

OTTAWA (CP)—Russia's interest in the new International Wheat Agreement — plus depleted world supplies — helped bring a new look to the arrangement which 37 countries will be asked to ratify.

Swift Canadian approval is expected.

Russia's entry would provide the fightest exporter alliance since the first wheat agreement was signed in 1949.

Reduced world supplies, have prompted an increase of 13½ cents a bushel in the maximum and minimum prices set to protect importers and exporters.

The wheat agreement is a multi-nation attempt to stabilize world wheat prices. If those prices rise unduly, importers can buy a certain quantity of wheat from IWA suppliers, at a maximum level which will be $2.02½ a bushel after July 31.

If prices sag sharply, which seems unlikely barring bumper crops in the next few years, exporters are assured of selling some wheat at a level of $1.62½ a bushel — the lowest minimum prices might be lower.

The new pact, see No. 1 Northern wheat in United States ports.

PRICES RISE

Canadian prices have been rising steadily for several months, starting with devaluation of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency, No. 1 Northern is $1.90¾ a bushel Tuesday at Winnipeg or about 10 cents lower than last July.

Informants say that the Russian delegate at the Geneva wheat agreement talks were reasonable and cooperative enough, not particularly tough with the importing nations, apparently in contrast to his usual attitude on such possible future custom.

At the same time, the Russian team indicated the Soviet Union will be willing and able to buy more grain from Canada — within that 7,500,000 bushels last year—if her eastern provinces need it. Russia's exports last year of 135,000,000 bushels, were primarily to western Europe.

Canada's exports last year totalled 353,500,000 bushels, third highest on record, but only 240,000,000 were under the IWA. Sales to Poland, Czechoslovakia and Red China are excluded since none is an IWA member.

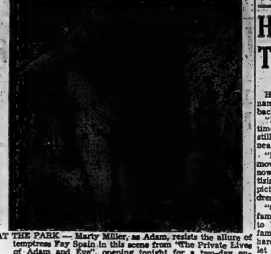
Oil Industry Has Indicated Lack of Interest

TORONTO (CP) — The highways department announced Tuesday it has accepted and cancelled all further calling of tenders for service stations on Highway 401, as only one qualified tender was received for the first station.

A department statement said the "oil industry has indicated its lack of interest" in the department's proposal to provide service stations, since only one bid was received for construction of a proposed station near Woodstock.

The department added that it plans to go ahead with the proposed stations, although they will be delayed while a revised basis for bidding is set up.

TO HONOR DIEPPE



MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Corps Association, Thursday announced a $14,000 fund campaign to build a memorial to Canadian soldiers who fell in the 1942 Dieppe raid. Site of the monument is to be the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, opposite Montreal.

Networks Spend Big Money To Bring in Current Events

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television networks are currently spending big money and ordering their staffs about in the way they are loudly about the way they are not spending money.

Documentaries, "white papers," CBS Reports, editorial comment and features dot the prime evening time schedules like lights on a Christmas tree.

Network "correspondents" are stationed around the world.

But television beat is yet to produce one series with an "electronic journalist" (I like to call him) as the glamorous hero.

No, the newspaper correspondent or reporter, even the magazine writer, remains the undheroic figure of this adventure-story era.

This season ABC seems to have a corner on beautiful, glamorous journalists. There's the fun-loving, adventure-prone threesome on Follow the Sun, who don't seem to have any deadlines or even spend much time taking notes or writing their magazine articles.

FIND FRUSTRATING

The way television—and movies—portray newspaper men is an unending source of amusement and frustration to members of the profession.

The strong, brave newspaperman will continue to be conspicuously amongst us next season.

ABC has definitely set a new series, called Battle Zone in its Sunday night schedule, and one of the heroes is a war correspondent. A private packager is preparing a pilot film based on the experiences of the late Ernie Pyle.

So how about an adventure series about a TV correspondent, traveling over with his mobile equipment, its technical crews, director, 'producer and writers?

Harold Lloyd at 69 Will Take Crack at Theatres

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A great name of movie history will be back in the theatres this season. "I figured this might be the time for it," said Harold Lloyd, still amazingly youthful as he nears 68.

"I'm astounded at the kind of movies that are being shown nowadays. They're even advertising that this is the kind of picture you shouldn't take children to.

"Our business was built on family entertainment. You used to be able to take the whole family to any movie; now it's hard to find even one you can let your children see. It seems to me we've got to get back to family movies. I hope my picture can help that along."

IT'S A COMEDY

His movie is called Harold Lloyd's World of Comedy, and he says that it is not a retrospective.

"This is a new picture, a new concept," explained the comedian. "We start with an introduction which uses bits of old photographs. Then we tell a sort of prologue—brief bits from various films that show the ingredients of screen comedy.

"Then we go into longer sequences from eight different pictures. Four are silent—Hot Water, The Freshman, Safety Last and Girl Shy. Four of them are talkies—Milky Way, Professor Beware, Movie Crazy and Feet First.

"The result is what you might call an anthology or composite. I think it's funny."

LAST SEEN IN 1950

Lloyd appeared in his last starring film in 1938, returned briefly for Preston Sturges' Mad Wednesday in 1950.

"I didn't purposely retire," he said. "I didn't like the last picture; it had its good points, but it wasn't suitable for me. After a couple of years I got involved in my hobbies and travelling and I lost touch with work. I always wanted to quit before I started going downhill."

Would he consider a return now? "Perhaps," he said. "But the adolescent character say more, so I might be able to play a man in his forties."

He could indeed.

At the Belle

"COLUSSUS OF RHODES", Ghost Spectacle At Odeon, Next Cathcart Heads Cast.

In the year 224 B.C. a gigantic bronze statue more than twice the height of the Statue of Liberty, the Sun God, which had been erected at the entrance to the port of Rhodes, near Asia Minor, was toppled by a spectacular earthquake and a resultant tidal wave. This statue the "Colossus of Rhodes", required twelve years and thousands of slaves to build. Its demolishment by the earthquake put an end to what now is called the 7th Wonder of the World.

This imperishable event of legendary history is recreated in realistic detail in the thrilling climax of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular new film, blending romance, intrigue, "The Colossus of Rhodes", a mammoth picture in Blazing Color and Cinemascope, opens tomorrow, Thursday, at the Belle Theatre, starring Rory Calhoun with lovely Italian actress, Lea Massari, Georges Marchal, Conrado Sammartin, Angel Aranda, and other noted stars in a cast of thousands of players.

Added, on the same program is MGM's new Tom and Jerry Colorfun Cartoon, "Two Little Indians".

Close Race in Figures

PRAGUE (CP-AP) — The men's compulsory figures, first event of the 1962 world figure skating championships, are set up into a top-of-war between Czechoslovakia's Karol Divin, Canada's Donald Jackson and France's Alain Calmat today.

While Divin, whose strength is in the figures, built a slim lead after the first two of six figures, Jackson and Calmat kept sadly within striking distance in second and third position. Although school figures count 80 per cent toward the over-all title, Jackson and Calmat are with his mobile equipment, its technical ice skating.

Although the international skating union keeps standings on the basis of total points scored, the actual placement is determined by majority vote of the nine-judge panel.

Divin had six first-place votes to three for Jackson, the 20-year-old Canadian champion from Oshawa. Divin scored 341.3 points in the first two figures to Jackson's 331.4 and Calmat's 321.2.

Donald McPherson, a 17-year-old high school student from Stratford, Ont., was in fourth place after both the first two figures.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotarians Hear Talk on Farm Changes

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. Gordon Bennett, chief of the marketing service division of the Ontario government, was the guest speaker at the annual Farmers' Night held under the auspices of the Rotary Club in St. John's auditorium recently.

The speaker pointed out some of the radical changes in farming in the past 30 years. Two hogs per acre, 10 and 12 per cent of the population were farmers. Today there are about 12 per cent. Though there is more farmed it costs a lot more overhead. And production is increased as much as 30 per cent. This is not quite accurate as to acres, production per acre is food for human consumption and there is no gap in the decrease in animal population. It used to require 10 million acres under cultivation to feed Canada's horses.

Recently, emphasis was chiefly on amount produced now the farmer must pay more attention to the selling of his product. In order to make a modest profit the farm unit should have a certain volume. The government has many commodity boards and the consultation of which have been initiated by the farmers themselves. Mr. Bennett stated 2 million dollars worth of produce is sold every year, including pizza, 234 million, at Ontario. The speaker urged the farmers to object in any way the plans operated if they were dissatisfied. The farmers' lobby he maybe said, is he who will say nothing.

Any marketing plan must aim at more than price. It must provide for a continuous supply of a quality product, encourage the public to buy by reasonable prices and provide a program of research to better serve the consumer.

"Some studies have been made in marketing, but there will be more", concluded Mr. Bennett.

The speaker was introduced by Reeve Bedford and is a department of Agriculture, Brighton.

Seated at the head table and introduced by Rotary President Gordon Fisher were Reeve Ellis Nelson, representing 4-H members; Mrs. Gordon Fisher, representing 4-H women; Ralph Bandy, Wm. Downey, H. McCann; Mrs. Morley McMullen, Campbellford, Grant Anderson; Hay Township Reeve Donald Don. Meyers and President W. Downson in addition to the speaker.

Rotarian Ralph Beckwith thanked Mr. Bennett for his address and presented him with a gift on behalf of the Rotary Club.

A musical program under the direction of Rotarian George Bowerman, entertainment by Bruce Elmhirst and his violin with Don, at the piano. A choir consisting of Rotarians Oder, Johnson and Bowerman, with Mac Rutherford; also Mesdames Bowerman by Marshall Ellis, accompanied by Mrs. Oder, rendered out the entertainment.

The ladies of St. John's United Church provided a tasty meal for the gathering.

Castro's Rationing Plan Shows Cuban People in For Long Stringent Period

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro's rationing plan for food and other household staples gives a hint of what Cubans are in for a period of restful lightening.

Castro laid part of the blame for Cuba's plight on "the brutal blockade" by the U.S. and United States. But the embargo Cuba's own President Kennedy has been in effect only a month and in that period of time a nation's own production does not fall from a situation of plenty to one of scarcity.

By Castro's own admission, the fault lies in economic bungling. Cuba has been receiving from the Soviet Union and Communist China and from the collective farm system set up in Cuba.

There have been reports that despite shortages at home, Cuba has been sending food to the Curtain countries. They to receive but not been able or willing to supply the hard pork, vegetable oil and other products Cuba formerly imported from the U.S.

HAD LOTS OF FOOD

Cubans for generations have been people, with an independence of spirit in farming, business and politics. Under Batista they enjoyed good food and plenty of it.

Cuses of the slowdown in production in Cuba are the collective methods and the loss of industrial skills.

Cuba is short of fish, which abound in the Gulf of Mexico, because of the Castro policies allowing Cuba's fishermen to export their catch to the gulf for fear they will defect.

Cuba is short of meat because the cattle population is down, flourishing ranches and a cattle industry is being ruined as it is ranced by U.S. interests, and turned the ranches over to communist control.

Working class Cubans who decide for himself, has been forced from the Soviet Union and Communist China and from the collective farm system set up in Cuba.

Guiana Still Hopes to Get Independence

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Janet Jagan, wife of Premier Cheddi Jagan of British Guiana, says her country still hopes to obtain its independence from Britain this year.

She said in an interview Tuesday she does not think the recent disturbances in Georgetown—which cost six lives and caused millions of dollars damage—will delay indefinitely the attainment of full autonomy.

"The world has been forgotten since this year began," she said. "It will be demanding it in the constitutional talks in London beginning in May." At present the top country situation on South America's northern coast has internal self-government.

Mrs. Jagan came here Tuesday to press the Guianese government's appeal for economic assistance from Canada.

Working class Cubans who decide for himself, has been forced to live on new, simple staples as rice and beans, now find themselves on a near-starvation diet. The rice diet of six pounds a month would mean that a small family would have rice perhaps 15 of the 90 times a month a family ate down at the Cuba Pure Food Store on Pinnacle, a favorite with Cubans.

And the stringency before the heat requires one or two baths a day there is one bag of toilet soap a month.

Social Workers Are Executed By Secret Army

Invade Regional Meet, Read List of 6 Names

ALGIERS (AP) — A commando unit of armed Europeans invaded a meeting of social workers today and shot six of them in the name of the right-wing Secret Army Organization.

When police arrived at the scene, five Algerians were dead. The sixth died later in hospital.

The daring raid took place several hours after Europeans fighting in a year of terrorism gunned a Moslem crowd waiting for a bus in the suburb of Hussein Dey. Today's victims were selected from six to 10 dead and 13 wounded in that shooting.

Some 15 terrorist attacks killed about 20 persons and wounded 50 in the past two years of violence.

The attack on the social center of the suburb of El Biar came while 18 men charged with educating Moslem youths gathered for a regional meeting.

Three men armed with submachine guns entered the room and announced they had come to kill those who were condemned to death by the organization.

NAMED SIX MEN

In deadly silence, the names of the six were read out one by one of the gunmen. Three were Europeans and three were Moslems.

"Those whose names were read out will be put to the wall, outside," one of the gunmen ordered.

Under the barrels of tommy-guns, the six walked into the small courtyard outside, near a church in the heart of the residential suburb. Those who remained in the room said they heard machine-gun fire seconds afterward.

The underground secret army and the rebels killed 18 persons each weekend in a terrorist attack Wednesday throughout Algeria.

NEGOTIATIONS CONTINUE

In the Lake Geneva resort of Evian, the Algerian nationalist negotiators were reported standing firm for more of a role for their army of "freedom fighters" in the transition period between an interim state and Algerian independence.

French sources tended to play down the sharp difference that arose in the last minute in passes between the nine Algerian sources predicted many more days of negotiation, before they reach agreement.

Each side showed concern that the war was a part that gave the impression it acknowledged defeat—or surrender—in the Algerian war.

SLIDING SCALE OF FISHING FEES IS OPPOSED

Proposal Made By Federation

TORONTO (CP)—A proposal for a sliding scale of licence fees for non-resident fishermen drew opposition Wednesday when it was made to the legislature's standing committee on fish and game.

The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters contended in a brief to the committee that with the elimination of export coupons for non-resident fishermen, licence should be a gradient scale of licences.

The federation suggested a $1 licence for seven days of ice fishing, a $6.50 licence for two separate periods, each during a year, $15 for either summer or winter and $25 for year-round fishing.

Federation President Stan Hodgkiss said many tourists in the border area and those making trips through Ontario decide by flip of a coin — looking at lakes, while passing through.

TO WET LINEY

He said the federation feels the present flat fee of $6.50 for non-resident fishermen "is a little too much for those just to wet their line when they don't know the condition of a lake or the local conditions."

The higher fee for year-round fishing would help provide revenue to help the department continue its program of fish-stocking.

Many of the 40,000 to persons last year to the government and suggested the $15 and $25 fees "would be a deterrent to the tourist industry."

HEAR VARIOUS OPINIONS

Representatives of groups heard from the Conservation Council of Sturmont, Dundas and Glengarry, Prince Army of Canada, Provision Association of Tweed district, Ontario Federation and Lincoln County Game and Fish Protective Association, the Ontario Commercial Fishermen, Fishermen, the Ontario Northland Conservation Federation and the Fish and Game Advisory Committee of Essex County.

The St. Catharine, group, which has a fish hatch, suggested resolutions as well, suggested the department issue a large badge to be worn by all hunters as a means of identification.

It said the badge could be issued at the same time as a licence. It said it would contain, in large numerals, the same number as on the hunting licence and that it would help hunters and others to identify hunters if necessary.

ROADSIDE HEARTBREAK — A little girl sobs beside the body of her dog, killed by a car as it crossed the highway. A playmate of the victim sorrowfully looks on. The poignant scene was captured by photographer Roger St. Jean of Montreal La Presse near Grande Aldouane, N.B., while on a motor trip through the Maritimes. He was so touched he didn't interrupt the girl's mourning to ask for her name. (CP Wirephoto).

Kennedy Will Go to Summit Meet in National Interest

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy says he would be willing to go to the summit only if the simple condition that it serve "our national interest."

Kennedy, who previously had maintained there must be certain specific pre-conditions reached before he would be willing to hold talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, relaxed his diplomatic posture to emphasize the "national interest" generality.

Reviewing his position, Kennedy told a press conference Wednesday he previously had stated he would go to the summit to sign a nuclear test ban treaty or to avert a crisis.

"I would add a third one—I would go if I thought it was in our national interest."

This seemed to be more in line with the views of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who has told Khrushchev there would be a matter of months that would justify holding summit talks in the spring.

Kennedy said he would go if any one of the three conditions he had set out are met, but he did not intend to go "unless there is a situation developed which I believe would make it worthwhile."

20 Members of Doukhobor Sect on Trial for Terrorism

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Twenty of the 27 Freedom Doukhobor—the largest group to appear in a special court that opened in Jan.—were on trial here Wednesday.

Said at Trail, 60 miles to the northwest, a Kootenay citizens' group—with the City of Trail—formed a special committee to study the problem of the United Church's paid terrorism in British Columbia's southeast corner is not being carried out by orthodox Doukhobors, but by a small, clear naming of those responsible.

In a statement over the signatures of nine ministers, the presbytery said police have been "woolly thinking regarding the Doukhobor problem."

The 30 Sons of Freedom who appeared Wednesday all pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiring to set fire to orthodox Doukhobor villages at Pass Creek and Oollachenie, near here, with all exempting to burn six "villages" and two community halls in the settlements. Villages are communal buildings shared by several families.

None of the accused was represented by counsel.

It is against the Freedomsect that much blame has been placed for the 50 bombs set by Kootenay terrorism, and already in the winter assize more than half a dozen men have been sentenced to terms of up to 28 years.

The City of Trail and the citizens' committee sent wires to Premier Bennett, Attorney-General B.C. Attorney - general Robert Bonner and Bonner has already suggested he set up to discourage the lawbreaking.

The ministers' group said the "disturbing situation" must be replaced "with some realistic thought about a plain, simple

PM Says Canada Entering Period of Great Growth

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday that indicators point to a tremendous period of growth in Canada's economy.

He said in a national television address that Canada is entering on a period of tremendous growth.

Total private and public investment for expansion and modernization of capital facilities during the next 12 months was expected to exceed $6,500,000,000.

Mr. Diefenbaker appeared on the CBC network program The Nation's Business.

"Canada, in common with the United States, has passed through a recession—of which there have been several since the war," he said. "But the indicators now point to a tremendous upsurge in the economy."

Mr. Diefenbaker asserted that such a trip, fruitful and rewarding.

"We will have to wait and see whether events make such a trip useful."

The Communist seeding of the Berlin air corridors with aluminum "chaff" was a "particularly dangerous kind of action" and both Britain and the U.S. had lodged vigorous protests.

He said Soviet harassment of Western planes in the airlanes threatened the safety of travel with radar, although a Pentagon spokesman told reporters that the Soviet actions have not created any operational problems.

Kennedy also announced plans for a trip to Mexico before June 30. At the same time he said he is considering what further steps should be taken against the Castro regime in Cuba.

"Now we have also carried out certain actions describing our position in regard to Cuba and we were continuing to consider what can usefully be done to expand freedom of this hemisphere," he said.

COMMONS HEARS HEATED DEBATE ON JOBLESS

Starr Shakes Fists At Opposition

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition tormenting had Labor Minister Starr shaking his fists during a heated debate on unemployment in the Commons Wednesday.

Opposition members charged the government for allegedly failing to tackle the problem with sufficient vigor. They insisted during the public gets its money's worth out of vocational training institutes heavily financed by the federal treasury.

Government supporters, led by Mr. Starr, accused the opposition of making false innuendoes and irresponsible statements.

The angry Mr. Starr shook his fists in arguing a point of privilege, he raised concerning an allegation by Paul Martin (L—Essex East), his principal tormentor on unemployment.

MEMBERS SHOUT

The debate was punctuated by points of privilege, points of order, shouts, charges and counter-charges. One such exchange lasted 10 minutes before Deputy Speaker Paul Martineau was able to restore order.

Under discussion was a $28,400,000 item in the labor department's supplementary estimates covering additional payments to the provinces under the Technical and Vocational Training Assistance Act. Under this statute the federal government pays 75

SUGGESTS RENOUNCE

TORONTO (CP) — David Lewis, national vice-president of the New Democratic Party, said Wednesday night Canada could make a substantial contribution to the current Geneva disarmament talks by renouncing nuclear arms. Lewis told a New York West nomination meeting that such a declaration would help strengthen the non-nuclear club.

Rusk Gives New 4-Point Scheme For Disarming

48-Article Red Plan Presented to Parley

GENEVA (CP)—Russia and the United States put forward rival plans for general and complete disarmament today as the 17-nation disarmament conference completed its first working session.

U.S. State Secretary Rusk proposed a four-point plan, tabled for a 30-per-cent cut in nuclear delivery vehicles and major conventional forces in the first stage of a disarmament program.

The other three points in the U.S. plan were:

1. The United States and Russia would agree to transfer immediately 35 tons of weapons-grade uranium to peaceful purposes to "cut at the heart of nuclear weapons production."

2. Early action would be taken on specific worldwide measures to reduce the risk of war by accident, miscalculation, failure of communications or surprise attack.

3. Nations taking part in the conference would undertake an urgent search for "mutually acceptable ways" for verifying the fulfilment of obligations for arms reductions.

SAYS REALISTIC

Rusk, in a 3,300-word statement to the conference as it got down to work behind closed doors, described the four proposals as "a first step" and "examples of the specific measures" that could be taken. The disarmament proposals made by President Kennedy in a speech to the United Nations last Sept. 25.

Rusk's proposals came hard on the heels of a rival Russian proposal presented to the conference by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The 48-article Russian plan is six parts provided for "general and complete disarmament under strict international control."

The Russian disarmament policy provided that the armed forces of the United States and Russia be cut to 1,900,000 men each in the first stage.

The first stage also provided for destruction of the means of delivering nuclear weapons and foreign military bases on alien territory, withdrawal of foreign troops from such territories and could over such measures.

CRITICIZES U.S.

At the same time, Gromyko lashed out at the United States, calling American plans to hold back nuclear testing in the atmosphere a "hairy heavy blow" to the disarmament talks that even before they began.

He repeated warnings by Premier Khrushchev that the U.S. and its allies went through with the plan for further tests.

He said it was "a camouflage of obscenity under the guise of literature" and was rampant with promiscuity and adultery.

Lady Chatterley's Lover Ruled Not Obscene by Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada ruled today in a 5 to 4 decision that the controversial novel Lady Chatterley's Lover is not obscene.

The court's decision means that the D. H. Lawrence novel can be sold in Canada because it does not violate a section of the Criminal Code prohibiting obscene literature.

The decision was announced from the bench by Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau. He stated that the four dissenting judgments were by Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin and Justices Ronald Fauteux, C. H. Locke and himself.

The five judges who made the majority decision were Justices Taschereau, Roland Ritchie, John R. Cartwright, Wishart Spence and Gerald Judson.

The Supreme Court's judgment set aside the decision of Judge T. A. Foulds of Montreal in June, 1960, and the Quebec Court of Appeal.

The court's ruling means that the novel—the story of the love affair between an English gamekeeper and her gamekeeper —does not come within the Criminal Code definition of obscenity as being an undue exploitation of sex.

It was the first time that the Supreme Court had been given the task of deciding whether a novel is obscene under that criminal law.

In the hearing last fall, Prof. Frank Scott, dean of the law faculty at McGill University, argued that the novel is a story of the "spiritual beauty of physical love between a man and a woman.

He said there was no more undue exploitation of sex in the novel than there is in the dead figures painted by Michelangelo in the Sistine Chapel in Vatican City.

The Criminal Code was designed to protect the sale of "cheap, vile trash" and not important works of literature, Mr. Scott said.

Claude Wagner, counsel for the attorney-general of Quebec, argued last fall that the book was not only obscene "but it devalues no moral teaching whatsoever."

Conservatives Take Thumping In Byelections

LONDON (CP — Reuters)—Britain's ruling Conservative party took a thumping in two byelections Wednesday as a Labor party candidate retained one seat with an increased voting edge and a Liberal won a riding formerly held by a Conservative.

Liberal Victor Eric Lubbock gave the governing party its severest setback in a contest in Orpington, a riding the Conservatives held by almost 15,000 votes in the 1959 general election.

Lubbock had a total of 22,846 votes Monday to defeat Conservative Peter Goldman, who had 14,991. Alan Jenkinson, a Labor party candidate, had 5,336 votes.

The Conservatives held the seat with a 14,000-vote edge in 1959. That also was a Conservative-Liberal race.

The Labor candidate won a prestige victory in the contest at Middlesbrough, Arthur Blumenfeld ran up a total of 18,925 votes, a thumping better margin than Labor held over the Conservatives in the 1959 election.

Liberals got 5,050 votes. Conservative F. A. S. Wood 4613 votes and J. Hamm, running for the Union movement, got 550.

Labor's edge in the 1959 general election was 11,026 votes in a straight fight with the Conservatives.

Results of the byelections made the standings in the 630-seat House of Commons:

Conservatives 365; Labor 251; Liberals seven; Independent one; vacant six.

Second Ejection Since December For Jet Pilot

GARLAND, N.C. (AP) — A U.S. Air Force pilot, who flew December sisered a crippled jet into the Niagara River gorge, was forced to eject from another plane Wednesday.

Lieut. Edward M. Mothes, 30, of The Bronx, N.Y., parachuted to safety when he experienced trouble in an F-100 jet fighter while on a training flight from Shaw Air Force Base, S.C.

The pilot was commended for his bravery last December when he rode a flaming F-100 into the Niagara gorge in order not to land in a populated area. He ejected secondly before the aircraft crashed.

Kennedy Sends Many Proposals To House to Protect Consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today sent Congress a large package of proposals to protect the consumer's "right to safety."

In recommendations that would cost about $10,000,000 a year in addition to programs already covered in budget requests, he urged steps to assure:

1. Safe, effective drugs for everybody.

2. Beauty aids that won't burn a lady's skin.

3. TV sets that will get more channels.

4. Installment contracts that reveal the true rate of interest.

5. Wider inspection to bar unsafe, unwholesome foods from the table.

Also, a bill to have housewives, Kennedy said:

"Told of the new products used in the home are highly complex. The housewife is called upon to be an amateur electrician, mechanic, chemist, toxicologist, dietitian, and manufacturer—but she is rarely furnished the information she needs to perform these tasks proficiently."

On cosmetics, Kennedy urged legislation to require their testing for safety before marketing. He said many of the $2,000,000,000 worth marketed in the U.S. presently "are not undergoing adequate safety testing" and that "thousands of women have suffered burns and other injuries to the eyes, skin and hair by the use of contaminated beauty aids."

Many of Kennedy's recommendations are in legislation already before Congress—though others would be new—and some have been beyond the pending bills.

The president also announced he has ordered:

1. Establishment of economic advisers to create a consumers' advisory council.

2. Various federal agency heads to name special assistants to consumer problems.

3. The post office department to start a study program for displaying, in 100 post offices, publications useful to consumers.

As for drugs, Kennedy said 9,000 new ones developed in the last quarter-century have saved countless lives. But many had not lived up to sponsors' claims. He urged, among other things, that manufacturers be required to show that a drug is effective, as well as safe, before marketing it.

PETERSBOROUGH (CP) Douglas Fisher, CCF-NDP member of Parliament for Port Arthur, said Monday Canadian Canadians are "instinctively socialistic."

"There is no such thing as an unsocialistic Canadian, especially those who think they are," he said. "They are lined up at Ottawa at all times looking for subsidies and other assistance."

He was addressing a nomination meeting at which Walter Pitman, 32-year-old Peterborough West school teacher, was named to defend the seat he won in a byelection 17 months ago. Mr. Pitman is the first Commons member elected on an NDP ticket.

RUSK GIVES NEW

six, too, would have to hold talks with four of new types of its own nuclear weapons" he asserted.

Rusk later departed from the prepared text of his speech to say that the Soviet Union attack. He declared that plans for the conference were "born amid the shocked silence that followed the fiendish nucleus explosions" and destruction.

"A 50-megaton bomb does not make the mold of a cooing dove."

In this circumstance he thought there was the one reason "which would have to be found it possible" to criticize the American testing plans.

The Soviet plan also called for reductions in conventional armaments and military expenditures, plus means to ensure the security of states and to deal with such points as the prevention of the spread of nuclear weapons to other countries.

The Russian plan covered elimination of nuclear, chemical, biological and radiological weapons. It also called for prohibition of the use of bases in United Nations Security Council and limited the functions and functions of an international disarmament organization.

In a second-round explanatory memorandum said Russia would not insist on a veto in the proposed disarmament organization. But the organization's control functions would be limited to checking compliance with agreements reached by unanimous vote and it would have no right to verify the arms for and forces retained by each nation until after the completion of total disarmament.

The first and second stages of the Russian proposals would cover 12 months each. The third stage one year. The first stage would provide that the armament would come six months after the treaty took effect and would call for the establishment of an international disarmament organization.

Gromyko told the conference the implementation of the first stage of the Soviet plan would "practically remove the danger of a attack with nuclear weapons."

He said Russia is convinced such disarmament plan will help end to nuclear tests forever if the U.S. and its allies have also showed a "sincere desire" to do so.

The Soviet and American spokesmen made their proposals at a session attended also by Canadian External Affairs Minister Green.

He was invited to preside under a rotation arrangement decided on at the formal opening of the talks.

Rusk told the conference a turning point in the world exists with regard to the cessation of nuclear weapons tests.

"We call for early action on a matter that would yield priority benefits, and would lead to a clear weapon tests.

"Time is critical at a turning point. If a treaty cannot be signed, and signed quickly, to stop the spread of nuclear weapons testing with appropriate arrangements for international verification, the spiral of competition will continue upward.

"But if we can begin with an agreement, this development can be stopped, and stopped before ever."

"We shall press this matter here in Geneva with the utmost reasonable effort to conclude an agreement which can bring an end to testing."

Rusk said that the delegates should not try to agree on all the outline of a total disarmament program. "Such an ambitious they should seek specific commitments that could be put into effect promptly," he said.

"This need not await agreement on the outline as a whole, nor should it impede development of the broad program to be solved.

Authoritative sources said the three other Western participants — Britain, Canada and Italy — fully supported the new American proposals.

They noted that the conference also had before it a 1960 Russian plan and commented:

"A disarmament plan on two plans will show some area of agreement. We believe that the task of the conference to search for broader areas of accord should be approached in which all can take with confidence."

Observers said there would appear to be any major new elements in the plan presented by the Russians, with the possible brief reference to the prohibition of nuclear tests.

The American proposal emphasized such control provisions as the establishment of a system of inspection areas, ground observation posts and a system of notification of missile firings to prevent the world from being plunged into war by accident or surprise attack.

Sportsmen Vote Against Ice Fishing Above No. 6 Dam At Frankford to Glen Ross

TRENTON—Members of the Trenton Sportsmen's Association at their meeting last night voted against a proposal advanced by the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Association that the department of Lands and Forests be requested to permit ice fishing on the Trent River from above No. 6 Dam at Frankford to Glen Ross.

The motion to support the Frankford group in its request was made by Ralph Mond, previous-president of the Trenton Club.

Speaking out against the proposal were George Condette, Dennis Atkins and Jim Moore.

The general feeling of the group was that the river was overfished and there is no need for those who do not know the physical characteristics.

Lands and forest representative George Warner said that he was not personally interested in the matter and that the wishes of the majority would rule.

Last night, the Trenton association played host to a number of junior boys, and the program was given by minstrel entertainment.

Chairman Roy Cornish welcomed the guests and conducted a brief business session.

Reporting on the 17 ice-fishing derby, membership chairman George Condette said that the derby had been very successful in spite of wintry weather and variable winds. He said that the event had paved the way for a more ambitious program next year and announced that the club sponsor a "Winiarama" on a small scale in 1965.

Mr. Condette said that the club membership stood at 76 and that club members were very interested in the growth of the club, especially in the junior section.

GIVEN MEMBERSHIP

The membership to give an honorary membership to Harold Rostratt in recognition of his contribution to the ice-fishing derby. Mr. Bassett praised Rostratt for taking to the fishing area on the ice and he kept a car park space free down there.

Club secretary Elmer Bonter reported that John Guenther had agreed to share supper and tea with him.

During a number of discussions on fishing, came the conclusion that more men must get on his toes if they want to catch fish. Psychology plays a part in fishing and anglers are not only the habits of fish but also the habits and characteristics of the fish they are using as bait. One argument was that instead of a person to favors a certain type of bait, the fish will like it too; as human beings sometimes go along with this theory.

Mr. Bassett and Rostratt said that in order to catch brown trout, a man must be both may and patient, because the brown trout is both lazy and patient.

At the meet, Dept. Steenburg said that he had experimented worms, but that he had seen minnows caught with a small morsel of lumbujner cheese tied in a piece of nylon stocking which he had bought one day in fellow with a merchandise.

MUST OBSERVE RULES

Sgt. Steenburg advised fishermen that they must be courtesy when fishing in creeks on private property and that they must observe the rules of good fishing.

Mr. Bassett said that a request that the club be permitted to place picnic tables on the west bank of the river near the 401 overpass, would be forwarded to the Ontario department of highways.

Mr. Menzies said that the Trenton Rod and Gun Club members might like to place a tourist booth at this spot also.

Allen Ward reminded the members that a hunter safety course would be held in the town hall, over the police station on Monday, March 19 and Monday, March 26. Class will start at 7.30 p.m.

Many films on the subject of sport were shown to the members and their guests by George Wenger.

Would Permit Semi-Detached Homes, Stores

TRENTON — Acting on advice from R. N. Percival of Ontario Municipal Board with headquarters in Toronto, the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board will recommend the rezoning of certain sides of 5th Ave. in the Stanley Heights sub-division to town council.

The new zoning will permit the erection of semi-detached dwellings, and a neighborhood store may be built on two of the lots.

Mr. Percival said that such a change "does not lend to setting a precedent and would not be inappropriate existing" with single family dwellings in the area.

Developer Stan Klemencsik will be asked to submit a letter of intent, guaranteeing that the store and sewer services will be properly installed and that the erection of multiple-dwelling surves will be taken.

Also recommended to council will be the re-zoning of an area in east. Trenton, (border-line Campbell Street on the west; Broken Front Road on the north; St. Mary's School property on the south and the town boundary on the east), to permit the erection of multiple-dwelling types of buildings.

Two Deer Play In Schoolyard

TRENTON Jessee Acorn, principal of Trenton Charles Public School, reports that two half-grown deer spent the better part of Wednesday morning on the yard, back of the school, playing in the snow.

Mr. Acorn said that a large collie dog made a belligerent pass at the deer, but took off with his tail between his legs.

The school caretaker was asked to chase the deer away before recess, as the children in the room overlooking the back yard were obviously excited and Mr. Acorn was afraid that someone, if only the deer, might be hurt.

The deer tried to jump the fence but found it too high.

One little girl is still proudly displaying a part of her, lost by the deer which tried to jump the fence.

Finally, the deer made their way around the fence and took off in the direction of Hoard Park, where, it is presumed, they have set up housekeeping.

Jaycees Hear Address on Aluminum Foil

Mr. L. C. Lawson of the Aluminum Company of Canada, in addressing the Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting, explained to these present how a piece of metal much thicker than inches could be pressed down to the thickness of .00025, ten millionths of an inch, thus becoming a piece of aluminum foil.

In explaining this fantastic drawing machine, he said that a person with only a public school education could not acquired.

The reason for this being, he stated, that the machine is operated by a huge panel control centre, which consists of buttons and switches (if contains eight tons of electrical wire) and a great deal of knowledge is required to operate it. He said being able to read a blueprint is one of the requirements and that a person out of public school cannot read the print.

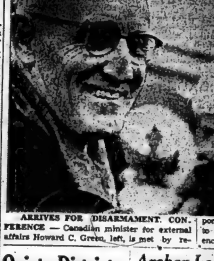
These machines, Mr. Lawson indicated, were custom-made, and not purchased from an assembly line; delivery being made some 12 to 15 months after the order has been given.

Then, he said, it takes another five to six months to have the machine installed by a crew of expert maintenance men, and at least an additional six months to, as he put it, "get the bugs out of it", meaning correcting any defects which might lie in the machine.

"So you see," said Mr. Lawson, "what one of these machines involves, and why an individual with only a public school education could not put the machine into production."

Earlier in his address the speaker touched on points concerning labor relations and education, pointing out that there was a great lack of education, in our country. The speaker said that only 8 million people in Canada, seven million have only a public school education.

In conclusion the speaker stated that while there are miracles in modern machinery, they are also creating many problems.



The speaker was introduced by Jaycee Tom Lally and thanked by Jaycee John Harris. The meeting was chaired by Jaycee Don Wright.

Following the speaker's address, committee reports were read and new business was discussed.

The first Junior Chamber was established in 1915 in the United States and then in 1923, the first Canadian Junior Chamber established itself in Winnipeg.

The Belleville club of the Junior Chamber of Commerce was started about one year ago and now has close to 40 members.

The purpose of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is to train young men for leadership, to create a sense of civic responsibility, and to train young men to be worthy of responsibilities of leadership.

Quinte District Beagle Club Is Formed

Local residents in this district may hear the multi-throated howl of beagles on the run in the near future if the newly formed Quinte District Beagle Club gets some of its prospective plans into action.Organized this past Tuesday evening by local beagle owners, the club's first president is Bill Peebles of Belleville.

The main purpose of the club is to better the beagle breed and to provide the opportunity for local owners to train their dogs for entry in field trials. It is also hoped once the club is recognized by the Canadian Kennel Club, to organize and run a championship field trial in this district for beagle enthusiasts from both Canada and the United States.

The possibility would appear likely and the local club has the talent necessary to get it organized in the person of the newly elected vice-president, Hugh Healip, a former field trial championship judge.

The club has also be run to give local owners a chance to run their dogs. The best dogs in the club are expected to be entered in various trials organized by other clubs.

Others elected to the club executive are Ivan Leask, secretary - treasurer; Dinny Brenot; membership chairman; Jim Carruthers and Bryce Nuttall, trials committee.

The next meeting of the club is planned for April 3 and persons interested are requested to contact Mr. Brenot at WO 8-8811.

LONDON (AP) — A Robin Hood from London, Ont., mistook a deer and was disarmed Wednesday in a brush with the law and the lord of the manor.

The sharpshooter, Patrick Carty, 32, had his prized longbow confiscated by magistrates Wednesday for killing a deer on the Duke of Bedford's wooded Woburn estate. The magistrates also fined him £20.

Federal Grant For Quinte SS Addition OKed

The Federal government will contribute 75 per cent, or $833,778 toward the cost of the new technical and vocational addition planned for the Quinte Secondary School, it was announced today by Mr. Lee Grills, member for South Hastings.

Total estimated cost of the school addition, including equipment, is estimated at $1,150,011. The other 25 per cent will be paid by the Ontario government.

The project, announced some months ago, will add about 29,550 square feet of instructional space for vocational training purposes, while in addition there will be structural changes to the existing building will be made.

It is expected that about 420 students will be enrolled in the commercial and industrial training courses.

Rep of Quinte High School District secretary, Mr. Roy Dulmage, said this morning that plans for the new proposed addition had now been approved by the Ontario Dept. of Education and the Federal government.

Mr. Dulmage said he'll now draw final plans and call tenders for the construction of the addition.

Albert College Principal Will Be Adjudicator

The Stirling Festival of Sacred Praise, which has become an annual event in the village of Stirling, is again the locale of conversation in many circles as the date approaches. May 14, 15 and 16 are the days set apart for contestants to perform in the various classes and to learn from kindly criticism and manual observation methods of presenting their talents to the public in a more acceptable and pleasing manner.

Each year the committee responsible for the arrangements has endeavored to secure for adjudications persons whose qualifications and experience will cause them to be endeared even into the distant future. Thus far, few errors of judgment have been made. Contacts have been established and some instances adjudicators have returned by popular request.

This year promises to be no exception. It is with pride that the announcement is made of the introduction to this district of Mr. Henry Rosevear, FTCL, FTCL, of Toronto, for musical classes and the Rev. J. Allistar Haig, BPHE, BA, BD, STM, of Belleville, for Scriptural numbers.

Mr. Rosevear presently serves Glenview Presbyterian Church, directing adult, junior and intermediate choirs and acting as organist. He is a lecturer on church music and the choir director of Knox and Erskine and Ewart Colleges. He accompanies a group of choirs each spring on a recruitment tour for the Presbyterian ministry.

His musical career is worthy of note. He became a church organist at the age of 11 in Camborne, Cornwall, England, and played cornet and trombone in orchestras and solo baritone and euphonium in brass bands in England He came to Toronto in 1925 and has played with Capitolian and Old St. Andrew's Churches. He is president of the Royal Canadian College of Organists, a valued adviser in many music organizations and has a wide acquaintance with leading musicians on both sides of the Atlantic.

Mr. Haig is not quite a stranger in the locality, having assumed the responsibilities of principal of Albert College during the summer of 1961. His qualifications have been tested in the pulpit and have been invoked to give protection.

Cuba in Trouble

Cuba is in trouble.

Nobody could read Premier Castro's program for food rationing and doubt that. The meagre allotments, the prohibition on shopping at stores more than four blocks from the shopper's home and above all the severity of the proposed penalties for black marketers provide all the proof any person could ask that Cuba is facing a most difficult time. . .

However, it would be easy for us in a prosperous land like Canada to over-estimate the impact of these regulations on the Cubans themselves. A half-dozen eggs a month does not sound like much in a land where some people eat two eggs every morning for breakfast. But amongst the poverty-stricken Cubans, there will be some to whom the ration represents luxury." Indeed, this may be the explanation for the imposition of rationing, the desire to distribute equitably that food which is available, rather than to let supply and demand determine this distribution through the medium of rising prices.

There is another mistake which could easily be made — to blame the food shortage on mal-administration. Actually, though, Cuba's food production has increased since Castro came to power. Cuba always had to depend on imported food. Now, as the result of the U.S. trade embargo, she is probably finding difficulty paying for such imports.

Whatever one may think of Castro, one cannot welcome the possibility of famine in Cuba. It is good to know that the Canadian Government has followed a realistic and humane policy on trade with Cuba and that Canadian hens and Canadian cows are helping to increase that country's ability to produce food for its own people.

Health Insurance

"People speak of 'health insurance' when they mean 'sickness insurance'" observes an editorial by Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, in the magazine "Health." The editorial was published in connection with the observance this week of Canada's 18th National Health Week. The implication appears to be that, while so-called "health insurance" does nothing but provide the necessary funds for the care of people who, are sick, National Health Week is aimed primarily at keeping people healthy.

Much of the dissemination of information regarding various diseases and ailments can promote health — and it can achieve much — the criticism is valid.

A little reflection, though, will suggest that "health insurance" is not the only misnomer. We speak of life insurance, which does no more to insure that we live than health insurance does to insure that we remain healthy. But this topsy-turvy nomenclature does not apply to all types of insurance. Accident insurance is insurance paid in the event of accident and fire insurance is paid after a fire. It is consistent we suppose to make these "non-accident insurance" and "non-fire insurance," to keep in tune with health insurance and life insurance, or, if we keep accident insurance and fire insurance, then we should talk, as Dr. Bates suggests, of sickness insurance. But does anybody really expect to see the day when life underwriters, or should it be death underwriters, will sell death insurance?

Racial Superiority a Myth

Robert Ruark, an author and newspaper columnist whose specialty is Africa, is annoyed. Africans in the newly independent countries are treating the white man abominably. They insult him, make rude advances to his women, call vindictive strikes, make unreasonable demands — all because his skin is white. In short; they are proving as susceptible to racial prejudice as their white bosses of the past.

Why is Mr. Ruark surprised? He surely does not believe in racial superiority, does he? So why should he expect Africans to prove by their behavior that they are superior to Europeans?

The surest test of the civilization of a people —at least, as sure as any—afforded by mechanical art is to be found in their architecture, which presents so noble a field for the display of the grand and the beautiful, and which, at the same time, is so intimately connected with the essential comforts of life.—William Hickling Prescott.

Experience is not what happens to a man. It is what a man does with what happens to him.—Writer Aldous Huxley.

Diefenbaker Well Aware It Pays to Read Papers

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — A large part of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's politically formidable public appeal — and he was a national figure long before he became PM — always has been his talent for personally reflecting the contemporary tenses and situation.

Of all the Frontbenchers in the House, he most accurately reflects the mood of the day, keeping closely attuned to the times by a regular and careful reading of the daily newspapers.

He can't read them all; or even a fraction of the more than 90 currently being published across the country.

But he does run through a carefully selected cross-section thumbing regularly through one or two from each region.

Because its population gives it first political importance — more now than ever before with the coming election pivoted on Ontario — the press of that province has the largest representation on the prime ministerial list of "must" reading. .

Kath pays, as regularly as he has breakfast, the Prime Minister quickly glances through a half dozen Toronto papers as reached his home and office overnight from various Ontario centres.

CHANGING SAMPLE

On the basis that the provincial dailies are more representative and provide a better reflection of political trends than do the larger metropolitan dailies, he pays particular attention to the editorial pages of what all Federal party leaders know as "Home-town Ontario."

Of course, he keeps abreast, too, of what's going on in the Toronto papers . . . but it is to opinion in St. Thomas, Kitchener, Owen Sound, Brantford, Belleville Sudbury, the Lakehead and other centres that he gives more careful thought.

In the conviction that on the editorial pages of "Hometown Ontario" beats the political pulse of the province the Prime Minister regularly "samples" all of the dailies in their turn.

Additionally, he has people spotted around the province who regularly read all the papers in their regions, and faithfully clip and forward items for his attention.

By geographical accident of being written and published in the political centre of things, the Ottawa papers naturally occupy a special place in the Prime Minister's routine of reading.

So what does he get out of all this?

A sensitive "feel" for changing moods and trends among the people — a sense of being in tune with the times on top of things as they occur . . . and, as important perhaps as anything else, ideas.

It was from the press — in fact from an editorial column in every newspaper — that the Prime Minister plucked the idea of "the Northern Vision" to ridicule the Opposition.

TREMENDOUS MILEAGE

The Liberals in one of their bad luck breaks, among the Conservatives' "We've got little lambs who have lost our way" — at the annual meeting of their National Convention.

They did three choruses despite the obvious anguish of Liberal Leader Mackenzie who knew instinctively that this was hardly a political issue. But he simply could re-echo to hearse him in the days to come.

The Prime Minister obviously wasn't at the big Liberal get-together, but he read the papers, and so spotted and latched onto what has become the "Whatever-it-was."

Since then, in every speech he has made since, "Conservating" outside the Commons — in Edmonton, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, and points east and west — he has "Whatever-it-was" the opposition.

The mileage he has been getting out of this political spoof has been amazing.

It was from the press, too — a front page news story in The Ottawa Journal, as it so happened — that he plucked the idea of publicly launching the big budget deficit as a matter of pride rather than shame.

The story reported that certain young and forward-thinking Conservative MPs were on the side of the political detriment, but as an advantage. They argued that it had been piled up through the Government spending in the public interest — to create employment, to better social security and the good of all . . . and suggested that the opposition be asked where it would have saved as much as a billion dollars. It is, they said, difficult for the opposition to refute.

Or, it pays to read the papers, the Prime Minister long ago discovered, and he has been making it pay ever since.

Anglo-Saxons Outclassed

Financial Post

A boy named John Ruggio, who came to Canada five years ago from Florence, Italy, and almost no English, won a recent public speaking competition open to all high school students in Metropolitan Toronto. There were forty-four other students in the final round of the contest. Their surnames were Kolnicki, Ottenburger, Pratz and Weihs.

It is plain that Toronto is no longer, as it used to be, the most "Anglo-Saxon" city in Canada. It is also evident that New Canadian boys and girls are already demonstrating a zeal in learning the language of the country. Those with talent for easy expression of their ideas will no doubt become, as they should, leaders in business and public affairs.

This is all to the good but it is permissible to wish that the offspring of families long established in Canada and in prosperous fully familiar with English are lagging behind, as they appear to be in this city, saying what you mean and saying it correctly are two of mother tongue offer no challenge to them?

Perhaps the answer, the example of young John Ruggio and the others should make them and their parents think.

Today in History

MARCH 15, 1962 . . .

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd of South Africa, one of the British Commonwealth one year ago today, said he is disappointed he would become a republic May 31. His announcement ended a series of behind-the-scenes wealth prime ministers' conferences in London which one day earlier had drawn up a statement of principles calling for racial harmony in the group of nations.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

"LITTLE EVENTS"

Masaccio, an Italian painter, had a distinguished career in the early part of the 15th century. He painted quite a number of pictures, died at the age of 26 — probably killed in a street brawl — yet one of his pictures, "The Tribute Money," stands as probably the most important picture ever painted.

It was Masaccio who first brought perspective into painting. Giotto's painting and the paintings of those who came before Masaccio had been flat with no range of depth. In "The Tribute Money" and in two other paintings, "The Temptation" and "The Expulsion From The Garden," Masaccio laid down principles in the field of art which would be followed by painters from his day forward.

One picture, A young man is living only twenty-six years and coming to his end in a street brawl. This is the story of Masaccio. Or is it? The real story of the man is that he developed a new and passed on to future generations of artists that new insight of how to portray on canvas a whole area of creative techniques.

Jesus was born in a manger. The birth of a Babe in a stable. The death of a Nazarene on Calvary. The assassination of the Archduke of Austria at Sarajevo.

World history is being made in our own day and probably in no day is insignificant that we give them no attention. We look at the events of each day and decide (which is God) look to the little events and uses it to turn the course of history.

Public Utilities Commission employees of the Hydro branch were busied Tuesday night removing the political decorations, but as an advantage. They argued it had been piled up through the Government spending in the public interest to create employment, better social security and the good of all . . . and suggested that the opposition be asked where it would have saved as much as a billion dollars. Or, it pays to read the papers, the Prime Minister long ago discovered, and he has been making it pay ever since.

Recognized as one of the most active organizations of its kind in Ontario, and the third largest numerically, the Belleville Public Utilities Employees Association held its annual meeting in the auditorium of the Y. In this picture Mr. Arliss takes the part of a great concert pianist who suddenly becomes deaf. In order to make the scenes in which he has to carry on conversation in sign language as real as possible Mr. Arliss has taken up the study of reading the lips of the deaf. Mrs. Balls is a teacher and was fortunate to secure one of the most difficult parts in the picture in Mrs. Balls' With her assistance Mr. Arliss was able to make this odd role very realistic.

To Your Good Health

Shingles Is a Virus Infection of the Nerves

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has had shingles for several months, and although he is not seen to a doctor, he has been told by several people that there is nothing to be done but to wait for them to heal. Others have told me about people who have gone to the doctor and were cured in a few weeks.

In this modern day and age, surely something has been discovered to take care of them. — B.O.R.

Shingles is a virus infection of a nerve — and even in these times we know almost nothing about curing virus infections although we can prevent some of them with vaccines.

In shingles, we can do mighty little to cure an attack, except to support general health. This is important. We also can give medications to relieve pain and that, too, is important.

Dear Dr. Molner: I'd like your comments on a reducing system which I have been told is low in count calories. My husband is a fatty — about 15 pounds above average, and I worry about him. I've tried to induce him to get his weight within normal limits. So have doctors. Nothing works. He just eats all the time.

The best I can say for the notion of not counting calories is that the counting doesn't mean anything — but the number of calories you consume certainly matters. So why try to kid ourselves?

Sometimes, it seems, the only way to get an obese man to reduce is to have him commencing his health to scare the daylights out of him.

I recently talked to a man who joined a "reducing class" in a hospital and went down from 220 pounds to 180. His simple explanation of how he did what they told me to eat and nothing else. I found that amazing. It's the only man in the class. And it was the only person who reduced."

Dear Dr. Molner: How many of the strongest sleeping pills are considered safe today? My friend says 20 and I say 10. — Mrs. R.S.

The things people worry about! But your inquiry raises a useful point. I've been trying for years to explain that the dosage of any drug must be the amount that fits the patient's needs. What's right for one person isn't, exactly right for another.

So for some people, one strong sleeping pill would be overdose for another, perhaps enough. But 10 — let alone 20 — would be an overdose for anybody. I don't necessarily mean a fatal overdose, since some people might live through such an amount, especially if they received prompt medical care. But either would be extremely dangerous. . . .

Dear Dr. Molner: I recently read that honey is the purest of all foods. Would it be detrimental to a person suffering from phlebitis? Or hardening of the arteries? The article also stated that diabetics can take honey where they can't take sugar. Does this mean it is not fattening in itself? — Mrs. O.N.

I get more than a bit tired of people thinking that this food or that is "purest." What is pure nourishment? Honey and dug potato is 100 per cent pure potato. An apple is 100 pay cent pure apple. So is an egg. They're all absolutely "pure" foods.

However, I can see no possible reason why honey should be given anyone with phlebitis, hardening arteries or anything else. It is a concentrated food, containing a great deal of sugar,

The remark about diabetes, however, is dangerous. Diabetics must keep their sugar intake low no matter what the source. Honey is about as much sugar in honey. Honey is just as fattening as any other concentrated sugar, and it's loaded with it.

Hemorrhoids can be cured: Symptoms are: Bleeding, pain, itching and other rectal misery. Write for Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 136, Chicago, 11, requesting a copy of my booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 25c in coin to cover handling and postage.

Strictly Personal

All Genius Is Rejected in The Beginning

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

All works of genius are at first opposed and rejected; but not all that are opposed and rejected are works of genius. It is a common error in logic made by best artists and by readers to justify their failure.

Dissatisfactions do not generate works of genius; they merely change. The poor man wants to make the rich man wealthy, while the rich man fears losing what he has; the plain woman wants to become more attractive, while the beautiful woman fears getting old.

When a man commits a crime, we look for the cause in the exclusive company of men who have committed it; when a woman does it, we eager to impart to him — and this is what I call "the psychoanalytic fallacy" or "rehabilitation."

More than 40 years ago, in his book on Psychoanalysis, Ernest Jones exposed the true motivation of such behavior. He observed: "It is the people with secret attractions to various temptations, who busy themselves with removing those temptations from others, while really they are defending them. Those under the pretext of defending others, because at heart they fear their own weakness."

Men want what they can get, while women want what they can't get — this is why men customarily read non-fiction while women read historical romances.

The surest thing about unexpected wealth is that there will rapidly arise an unexpected use for it.

What the slow, deliberate ones fail to realize is that they can listen much faster than anyone can talk: a slow speech merely permits the mind to wander widely away from the speaker.

Affectation is natural to youth, for young people can't know who they are, and so they begin trying on different personalities and finally find one that fits; but in the normal adult only sikew in the adolescent who gives the impression of "naturalness."

The cultural climber is worse than the social climber; the latter, at least, is willing to go to great pains to make the ascent; but the former wants the fruit of knowledge without getting his intellectual clothes dirty or disarrayed, which is a pathetic and futile quest.

The greatest and most prevalent dropback in clever people is that they don't know how to listen; and not all the bright talk in the world can compensate for this defect in communication.

Around The Tee

Curling at its best was witnessed at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club on Wednesday afternoon when a Quinte Curling Club rink of Jack Meehan, Ron Sem, Bill Riley with Mac White as skip won three games on the third day of a week's bonspiel, which will be culminated with the finals on Sunday. The members of the rinks will be getting a lot of curling during the coming weekend, White and Sem will curl in Hamilton with their wives on Friday in the Diamond Provincial finals, while Riley will be curling at Trenton in the open spiel along with Al McCalham in the Victoria and Grey spiel at the local club.

The local rink tackled a real tartar in Bill Trewin with Tom Roberts, Gordon McMullen and Herb Bradburn, president of the Peterborough club as vice in the first game and this match was sure a toughie. A four-ender clinched it for the local rink with a score of 9-7 and each rink scored on four ends. In the second game the Belleville rink tied into Harvey Acton of Uxbridge with Tim Brethour, M. Taylor and Bill Bradburn as vice skip. The Uxbridge rink missed at critical times and White soon covered up the mistakes. In the meantime, Herm Chambers of Trenton with Dr. Robert Patrick, Don Bell and Tom Hetherington as vice skip were winning two games and the two Quinte rinks met in the final game of the draw and it was a dandy. Chambers took a 3-0 lead in the first end, and White got two back on the second and then in the fourth missed a four-ender when he was wide with his last rock but he made up for the mistake in the sixth when he made two perfect shots to count two.

Chambers came right back with a four-ender in the seventh and the rinks came home all tied with White having last rock. When he went to deliver Chambers was lying two but Mac smacked out the shot rock and laid for the 8-7 victory. All members of the rink had their off moments but on the whole curled most consistently and were full value for their wins. The rink's accurate game was nearly perfect all day and the rink was watched by a large gallery at every game.

Just to keep the record straight, Art Benson was at Brampton with Bill Gault, Steve Dakey and Ernie Richardson on Saturday last and he has a nice new pair of curling shoes to prove his point. The writer inadvertently had him in Lindsay. The rink won their three games and had a real good time doingit.

Up at Lindsay on the second day Ernie Jones and his rink of G8 Wamboldt, Ron Benn and Jack Murphy had a good day.

The curling season is fast drawing to a close but there are three main events to be staged at the Quinte Club before the end of a most successful and enjoyable year. The Victoria and Grey Trust Company will hold their spiel on Saturday with sixteen rinks in play while on the following Wednesday the Sales and Ad Club will be holding forth with the same number of rinks. These are two popular spiels and there will be plenty of fun for all. Specials have been secured for these two events. The Northern Electric mixed spiel, under the chairmanship of Bill Riley will run for five nights at the end of the month and already 35 rinks have been entered to compete for the beautiful trophy. It is hoped that at least 40 rinks will be in play and there will be two draws each evening.

per cent of the cost of building schools to re-train unemployed workers.

What got Mr. Starr angry was a suggestion by Mr. Martin that the government may have withheld the latest unemployment figures because it was receiving a delegation from the Canadian Labor Congress Wednesday, and because the departmental supplementary estimates were before the House.

He says they are being withheld purposely because of the representations of the Canadian Labor Congress and be, cause.....". The minister was interrupted by J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista-Twillingate), rising on a point of order to say he claimed should apologize Mr. Starr's question of privilege.

SIT DOWN!

Mr. Starr (to Mr. Pickersgill): "You have too much to say. You had better sit down. I have the floor now. You can push somebody else around, but you are not pushing me around. I hope you would like to very much."

The minister said what Mr. Martin had suggested was "wrong and false, and the honorable member knows it very well.

Mr. Pickersgill then accused Mr. Starr of raising a "phony" question of privilege in order to "get in first with another" Mr. Martin before the Essex East member had a chance to finish it.

"Just pure nonsense and hot air," retorted the minister.

Again getting the floor, Mr. Martin said Canada faces a more serious unemployment problem than any other Western country. And he charged:

"This government is not giving any evidence of its appreciation of the character of this particular problem."

Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam) condemned the government for "irresponsibility" in committing $179,000,000 for construction of new vocational training schools "without ensuring that the taxpayer is going to receive real value."

But British Columbia MP also demanded to know "why the province of Ontario is able to absorb two-third of the money being contributed by all of Canada."

Frank McGee (PC — York-Scarborough) said Mr. Regier had made "one of the most irresponsible speeches I have heard in the House since arriving here in 1957."

"The fact of the matter is," said Mr. McGee, "that this particular program is one of the most effective efforts put forward by this government as a short-term, medium-term and long term answer to the problem of unemployment."

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) said Canada hasn't got the teachers to get a proper technical training program started. And the government's program wasn't going any place because it hadn't taken the trouble to find out what was needed.

Canada was going to need people to operate computers, radar, and complex electronic equipment, not the woodworkers and sheet metalworkers being turned out by the schools.

Technicians Hear Transport Dept. Inspector

Monday evening W. A. Doubleday, the Department of Transport inspector, in charge of radio regulations described the role of the Department of Transport as it relates to radio communications, before a meeting of the Radio Electronic Technician's Association in Bellville. He outlined the methods used by DOT engineers to create new radio space for the increasing needs of airways, satellites, television, radio broadcasting, taxi and other commercial radio users. In discussing the use of radio channels he paid tribute to the Federal Communications Commission in the USA, for its cooperation in reducing mutual interference between the two countries as commercial radio frequencies.

When listening to the radio or watching your favorite TV show people seldom consider that the relative freedom from interference which we enjoy is due to the continued efforts of DOT. In instances, through the Canadian Radio Technical Planning Committee, commercial and domestic equipment is standardized to reduce interference problems. Upon request DOT will locate and remove sources of undesired emission. Frequent sources of interference are heating pads, old light bulbs and defective TV receivers.

Citizen's band radio, soon to be authorized in Canada, has been carefully developed by DOT and the regulations governing this public use of radio require both the user of equipment, the seller and the serviceman to acquire a government licence. These licences are issued by DOT after the applicant has completed a little examination and paid a small licence fee. All equipment used in the citizen's radio service must be governmental-type approved thus ensuring the user of minimum interference, good stability of equipment and long term reliability. Kit constructed stations will not be permitted under Canadian regulations.

At the conclusion of his address, the speaker was thanked by Mr. Geoffry Calvert, SMIRETA, member of the 1962 Board of Directors of RETA in the Quinte District.

Parish Guild Plans Blossom Tea

Business was the order of the day when the Parish Guild of Christ Church met on Tuesday afternoon for its regular monthly meeting. President, Mrs. J. R. Slavin, warmly welcomed the large number present and expressed the hope that all would try to take an active part in the busy program of the year.

The devotional portion of the meeting was presented by the vice-president, Mrs. Jean Adams, who offered two thought-provoking suggestions for the season of Lent. First that one should "give up worrying for Lent" — At first this might sound a little absurd, but actually it is a real and wonderful kind of fasting and self-discipline — to eliminate self-indulgent worries, carelessness and the crowding in of petty worldly irritations and frustrations. The second suggestion was that at the end of each day one should give thanks to God for His many blessings. The main part of the devotions.

REPORTS GIVEN

Reports were given by secretary, Mrs. Wesley Weseure, Mrs. Boyd Jones, convenor, Mrs. E. Stacey Jones, and Mrs. Dawson.

It was announced that there would be a wedding this month to which the Guild would be catering. A date was set for the Guild's annual Blossom tea which will be held in June. The April meeting of the Guild will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Wright, West Moira Street, and will take the form of a "sewing bee" when members will work on items to be sold at the "Blossom Tea".

Members were reminded that on March 21st, at 10.15 a.m., there will be a Corporate Communion service for the Parish Guild and all were urged to attend.

Tea was served by the hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. W. Adams and Mrs. Marion Walbridge.

Ash Wed. Service Held by Chi Rho Club

Chi Rho members gathered in Church last Wednesday to spend all evening. It was to begin the evening in worship at the Ash Wednesday service.

Following the service, members retired to the parish for recreation, where a variety of games were played for group points. Everyone became so absorbed that time was forgotten and a larger than usual period was enjoyed by all.

Business came to order which included several points of interest. The Rev. Michael Caswell asked the Chi Rho crew for their consideration in helping with the Christ Church Boys' Club. He stated the boys gander every Friday evening from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. And that volunteers would be much appreciated in supervising the gander club. An appeal was made by Herb Cavalier for 8 men to compose a bike club crew. A number of these labels would enable the purchase of a large coffee urn. This would be given to a branch of Christ Church in Point Anne. He felt this would be a good project for the members to undertake.

COSTUME MATERIAL

A motion was made by Bill Deck, for a loan, to be authorized from the Chi Rho treasurer, to aid in the cost of material for costumes in the coming play. It was considered a necessity as the production was carried by all members.

The group was favored with a talk from Mr. Caswell. His talk was interesting as it told of his days preparing for the ministry to which he had just recently been ordained. However, time ran out and the talk had to end much to the group's disappointment. But Mr. Caswell will continue it at the next meeting on 21st and an open discussion will follow.

The fellowship was pleased to meet a new couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Coon, who were introduced at the meeting.

Refreshments consisting of hot cross buns, tea and coffee were served by Mrs. Evelyn Warwick, Mrs. Marion Bailey and Mrs. Marg Deck.

Women's Activities

ST. JAMES C.W.L.

STIRLING —Final plans were made for the St. Patrick's euchre to be held in the recreation rooms this month, at the general meeting of the C.W.L. on March 8th.

A bake sale will be held in May at which time a draw will be made on a blanket donated to the league by Mrs. J. L. Donohoe. Sometime in the near future, members of the parish will be able to obtain Catholic reading material from a library at the rear of the church. Any member having books to donate is asked to get in touch with the president.

An article entitled "Feasts Meet Myth" from the League Magazine, was read by Mrs. Donohoe who later served lunch, assisted by Mrs. H. Baker.

Navy Predominant Color Often Shown With Red, Ruffles Are Abundant

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Regina women like the dress-and-jacket ensemble, and the controlled A-line is popular there.

Full-backed coats with short sleeves, and richly-colored hats, are being shown in Edmonton, and popular in Vancouver are clutch coats with notched collars and bracelet-length sleeves.

There's something for everyone in the Canadian collection of spring fashions.

Shoes are available in a variety of low shapes and heel heights. Heels come with and without brims. Coats have collars, or no collars, and styles range the gamut of the rainbow.

But amid all the variety some definite trends are indicated in a survey by The Canadian Press.

Navy is the predominant color, for instance, and is frequently shown with red and white. Ruffles are everywhere, and clothes cling to the body in a soft feminine line.

POINTED TOE STAYS

Although women like slim high heels for evening wear and the bulky stacked heel for walking shoes, the lower illusion heel is being worn by women from coast to coast. Canadian women have failed to accept the square or crescent toes to any extent, and still prefer the pointed variety.

In hats, brims are the big news. Large brims are worn either up or down. Bretons and sailors are being shown with tailored clothes, but the bunch hat made popular by Greta Garbo is a fashion leader. Pillboxes and turbans are also being shown. Straw braids and flowers are popular, and cone shapes where has stocked patent hats in many colors.

Dresses fit the body gently, and even tailored shirtwaists are softened with ruffles. Navy is the top color, but all the blue shades are here. Pastels are popular are block prints, many of them in beige and black. Offbeat colors and pink shades are expected to be heralded by summer.

VARIED SUITS

Suits and coats come in a variety of styles, some softly fitted and others full. Suit jackets are short, or long and belted. Some have a flare to the bustline, then fall from well seaming to a wider, flared hemline. This princess line is also seen in dresses.

In the neatlines, ruffles turn up on both dresses and blouses. Red, Ontario, is tailed shirt worn outside slims has a frill sewn to the bottom.

Two-button shoes are being shown in Montreal, Ottawa Regina and Edmonton. One Ottawa store is promoting gold shoes for daytime wear.

Other regional trends include the return of the classic double-breasted checkered coat in Montreal, and a trend toward high quality gloves in Winnipeg. Regina finds tweed the color of many coats and suits being shown in Winnipeg spring collections, with red, white and blue turning up in sports clothes.

Belleville Division Girl Guide Commissioner, Mrs. D. Stewart and the executive body, met with the District Commissioners at the home of Mrs. J. G. Deneza on Monday evening; to hear reports of the Guiding activities for the past two months.

Two new members were present to be introduced to the group; Mrs. J. Hunter and Mrs. D. Bannon, both future commissioners for the Belleville West whose chosen duties commence upon the retirement of Mrs. D. Settle.

Mrs Stewart commended the ladies on the success of the annual "Tea" and bake sale with a special thanks directed to Mrs. F. Lennox, convener and Mrs. R. B. McCulloch, who acted as co-convener.

After giving a financial statement, in regard to the "Tea", Mrs. Lennox noted the attendance had dropped from that of the previous year, which she attributed to the weather conditions and the number of people who were ill with the "flu. She was pleased to announce that Mrs. McCulloch has consented to convene the "Tea" in 1963.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

As the need for a social committee, to assist with the entertaining of out-of-town guests prevails, Mrs. Lennox was appointed to act as chairman.

Mrs. B. Floyd, commissioner for the south-east district, expressed the desire to make the joint Guide and Scout "Thinking Day" church service an annual occasion rotating among the churches due to the gratifying response given to the services held at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill on February 25. She also reported that the old St. Joseph's Church has been made available to the girls as a meeting place.

FLAG DEDICATED

From the northeast area, Mrs. Betty Hay said the Guides are staging a successful neatness campaign; also the Union Jack belonging to Company 38 had been dedicated by Rev. A. A. Page at the recent "Thinking Day" service.

Mrs. D. Settle speaking for the west district stated the coffee party sponsored by the Mary Conquest Guild has been well attended. With "Cook-a-Day" slated for May 8th each commissioner has placed the required order for her respective district.

Of the 12 Rangers in the city, Mrs. Stewart told the group, nine are taking the senior St. John Ambulance course and that their candy table at the recent "Tea" had been well patronized.

TRAINING COURSE

Training chairman, Mrs. J. Gist, reported that 60 Leaders had attended the Blue and Brown Training Course held in the Kiwanis Centre, which was conducted by Mrs. D. Settle and Mrs. J. Watkin. A training designed for Commissioners will be held at Doe Lake the last weekend in May.

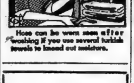
Speaking as camp representatives, Mrs. A. Steenburg, brought the ladies up to date with the camping regulations. And, although the month of July is completely booked at Wanipoe, there are dates open for Brownie Pack holidays in August. Both she and Mrs. O. Grenor have made plans to go camping in July. Acting on a request from the Quinte Area, the motion made by Mrs. M. Arnott, that the Division purchase two fire shelters and one sink cubicle, to be used at Wanipoe, was approved.

INTERNATIONAL CAMPS

The International advisor, Mrs. M. Arnott, spoke of camping in the Netherlands, Norway, Denmark, Iceland, Mexico and U.S.A. during the summer of 1963. Ontario received more than 80 applications to attend these camps with 36 chosen by the Ontario Selection committee as having the required high standards. The Belleville Division was pleased that two local girls Sheryl Drysdale of the city and Donna Chase from Frankford were included. However, since the cross-Canada quota is 44 girls a number of the successful candidates will be unable to attend the above named camps, an alternative trip is being offered; a five-week tour of England and Scotland, which the local Guides are considering.

For three days this week, Mrs. Arnott will be hostess to an International Girl Scout visitor Observer, Mrs. Burgland, who has completed a tour of Western Canada. Following her stop in here, during which, a visit to the O.S.D. Guide Company on Thursday evening is planned, Mrs. Burgland will continue through the eastern provinces.

JOINT CHURCH PARADE



Tentative plans for a joint Guide and Scout Church parade were outlined by Mrs. Stewart the grouping of the Brownies with the Cubs and the Guides and Scouts together; both for ease in marching and giving the minister a more equal age level to address. Mrs. Betty Hay was asked to head the committee.

O April 4th, Lady Baden-Powell will be in Toronto, with 35 Belleville girls invited to attend the rally in the Queen Elizabeth Building; giving each Pack and Company the opportunity to send one representative. Mrs. D. Bannon will take charge of the trip.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Stewart was pleasantly surprised; Mrs. Demens had prepared a special luncheon complete with cake and candles to celebrate the Commissioner's birthday.

There's a Career in Knowing Books

Miss Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, has had special training in psychology and vocational guidance. In preparing this series, "Careers For Girls," Miss Clark has interviewed career women in the fields she is covering, as well as employers and guidance counsellors.

Doris Clark's human relations column, "Successful Living" runs regularly in The Ontario Intelligencer.

by Doris C. Clark, M.S.W.
Master of Social Work

(Eighth in a series for Teen-Agers on Careers for Girls).

Ever since you could read, you have been reading books; picture books first, then fairy stories and children's stories.

For several years school texts demanded a great deal of your time. And for news of your own country, of international events and of a hundred and one other things, you look to books and newspapers.

Libraries are the very core of our culture and education.

TYPICAL ENQUIRIES

Let's for a few minutes stand at the elbow of a librarian and listen to the requests which come to her by telephone and personal enquiry.

A boyish voice asks anxiously, "Would you please tell me how I should go about finding a lost homing pigeon?"

A teen-ager enquires, "Could you give me a list of the different kinds of nuts there are? I belong to a girls' camp and we are going to name our groups after nuts - to form a Nutcracker Suite".

Next comes a ruddy-faced man in working clothes who asks for a picture of a stage coach. He explains: "I am designing a fret-work decoration for my front door."

The librarian is interested in all her callers' needs and knows what to do. It is not always easy to come up with specific literature asked for, and may mean hours of searching files, leafing through magazines and typing out reference lists.

The librarian who loves her books and enjoys helping people is fascinated by this challenge. To put it simply, books to be of any use must reach the hands of people who need them.

And not only when they are asked for! When a new book comes in about the Dignitaries of Protocol in Courts for Annual Feeds, the librarian remembers that young man who has just started a stock farm and aims to raise the best pigs and chickens in the country. She knows he is bound to want to see this new book - so she gives him a call or sends a card.

A book on Recreation for Aging Citizens comes in and she notifies the social worker whose group is organizing an "Over-Sixty Club."

The task of reading and classifying books; the careful work of cataloguing; the courteous serving of people; the management incidental to positions of responsibility in the library; all these require special education.

To become a trained librarian, you must first obtain a Bachelor of Arts degree (which requires four years at university), then study for a year in library school. McGill University in Montreal and the University of Toronto have the two accredited library schools in Canada.

MANY OPPORTUNITIES

Once graduated, you have many choices. If you enjoy working with children you may become a children's librarian.

A fondness for detail and organization might indicate your specialty as book classifier or cataloguer.

As a circulation librarian you would be helping folk to find books they want; keeping track of books which are borrowed; and, at all times, presenting yourself as a pleasant unruffled servant of the public.

The reference librarian is the one who gets a great many questions to answer, so if you have detective inclinations, this part of the work will interest you.

If you have a knowledge and love of rural life, you may be most attracted by the job of regional or country librarian. And here you may be running a travelling library. For this you will need all the stamina of the rural mailman. Folk who can get reading material in no other way will be depending on you to bring your truck through to them in all kinds of weather.

There are school and university libraries; special librarians in the employ of industrial concerns, including science librarians with responsibility in connection with research operations.

CONDITIONS OF WORK

In public libraries the work week approximates 37½ hours, including, in some positions, two evenings a week. Pension plans go with most positions, with the Canadian Library Association offering its own for those who need it.

Vacations of three, then four weeks, is the rule. Salaries are increasing, with a starting salary, in 1962, of between $4600 and $200 per year.

It is a constantly expanding field. All government departments and many large concerns now have their own libraries, and at present the demand for trained librarians far exceeds the supply.

(The new secondary school program in Ontario broadens your choice of subjects. To learn more about the career of librarian and what studies will lead you into it, ask the teacher or guidance counsellor in your high school.)

The next article, "Dietetics, for the Girl who Loves to Cook" will appear next Monday.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Harry P. — I'm tired of suburban problems. I want to move to town.

Shirley P. — The city is even more frustrating. Let's stay here.

• • •

Harry P. — I've had it. We moved to this upstate suburb for the children's sake. But after ten years of it, I'm ready, for my own sake, to move away from so much pettiness. Give me the city where no one pesters you about making your lawn match the others, how much Christmas decorating you're supposed to do for and when, a disgrace your 1950 car is.

I've had my fill of the Joneses. I'm tired of the soul-less round of cocktail parties which must be reciprocated or else! Why, the neighbors even butt into how I dress! Shirley tells me they've asked her to throw out the old wool skating hat I wear weekends.

Shirley objects to leaving. But the proof of her inconsistency is that she's in town several times a week anyway, meeting friends at the galleries, matinees, meetings and lectures.

• • •

Shirley P. — Harry exaggerates the drawbacks of suburban life. At heart he's a city boy and he's stubborn about admitting the good side of our present way of life.

He'd find it hard to get used to crowding into a four-room apartment, which is all we could afford of the city's high rents. Right now we rattle around comfortably in a nine room split-level. As to our friends and neighbors, our here they're more like members of the family. It's like a team, and they speak up when necessary. Harry shouldn't resent them, any more than he'd resent a well-meaning relative who assumes nervy prerogatives.

And I don't go to the city for everything cultural. We have art shows and libraries here, too. This isn't exactly the Sahara Desert! Aside from the commuting, life is better here.

• • •

The Council: The arguments here seem so evenly balanced that the tie-breaker may have to be the vote of the children — unless they're tied, too, on the question of where to live. We don't know how many children the P.'s have, but one. Three or two could swing the decision.

In the final analysis, where people live depends upon what people want most out of life. And the P.'s have reached a point where what one of them — Harry — wants is changing. Hence, full and open debate is in order.

To get what they want most, people must concomitantly be prepared to give up a few things they'd like but can't have in the new setup.

Thus, Harry and Shirley are faced with a simple problem of double-entry bookkeeping. Each must list first the conditions of life which presently mean most to him. Then comes the follow-up list as to where — city or suburb — these values are more readily obtainable. Finally comes the "juggling act," intrinsic in a good marriage, where each gives a little to add to the other's gratifications. Only in this way, not by asking the Council or anyone else, can the P's reach a compromise, fair and custom-tailored.

But the Council has a few tips to spice the discussion. Pro the suburbs: Some people adore commuting! It gives them a quiet interlude for reading and meditating, or, if they prefer, for relaxed chatting. Also, it's easier to bring the outdoors into, one's life. Children have back yards. Pro the city: There is more privacy, more stimulation to follow one's fancy, more time for "optional." One's friends aren't deterred principally by the accident of proximity.

A Jiggs' Dinner For St. Patrick's Day

by Mary Moore

If corned beef is not one of the beef cuts that you habitually buy take a jump of faith this week — faith in me — and try a Jiggs' dinner for St. Patrick's Day. Buy a piece that is big to have some left over because one of the joys of this cut of beef is the second time possibilities. For sandwiches and luncheon plates it cannot be surpassed.

JIGGS' DINNER (using "little" cabbages):

1 6-lb. piece corned brisket beef, 2 cloves of garlic, 1 bay leaf, crumbled, 1 teaspoon celery seed (optional), 6 to 8 whole medium carrots, 1 quart Brussels sprouts.

Place corned beef brisket in a deep kettle and cover it with water. Add garlic, bay leaf and celery seed, if used. Cover, simmer 3½ hours. After 2 hours or thirty minutes before serving time add carrots. Cover and continue cooking. Fifteen minutes before serving time add Brussels sprouts. Continue cooking, uncovered, until sprouts are tender but still bright green. Arrange vegetables attractively around corned beef on warm platter. Serve with

HOT MUSTARD SAUCE (if cooked):

½ cup brown sugar, 1 or 2 tablespoons dry mustard, ½ teaspoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 bouillon cube, ¼ cup hot water, ½ cup vinegar, 1 egg.

In top of double boiler mix the brown sugar, mustard, flour and salt. Dissolve the bouillon cube in hot water and add the vinegar. Add this to the dry ingredients and mix well. Add the well-beaten egg. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly, until consistency of soft custard. Cool. Delicious with hot or cold corned beef, tongue, ham or headcheese.

NOTE:

If you prefer to serve additional cabbage with your Jiggs' dinner buy a new one and trim and wash it and cut it into 8 wedges, being sure they are held together by the heart section and cook as above, quickly until tender but still slightly crisp and bright green.

DESSERT IDEA:

Make a lime meringue pie — using canned fresh frozen lime juice (instead of lemon juice as you would in a lemon meringue pie). Tint it pale green with green food coloring. After you have made the meringue tint it also a delicate green. This will cause quite a sensation at any St. Patrick's festivities.

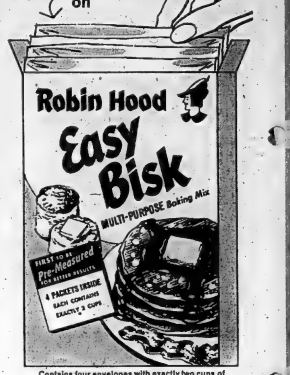
SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL



Question: My husband died a few months ago, and I've accepted no social invitations since. However, a cousin is having a small dinner for a mutual friend who is visiting in town and whom I haven't seen in a long time. I'd like to attend, but wonder if it would be in good taste. — Mrs. V.J.S., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: Despite your recent bereavement, you could correctly attend a small dinner party, so you needn't feel it would be bad taste to accept the invitation, especially since the guests are limited to family and close friends.

Question: My wedding invitations will arrive from the printer next week. In going over the list, I find that I'm not sure that I have the correct addresses of several friends who live out of town. Would it be permissible to write my return address on the envelopes, so they'll be returned if the addressee is born not to be home correct? — Miss M.D., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: A return address usually is not put on envelopes containing invitations, but, if you have any doubt about a n address, then you may write your return address on the upper left-hand corner.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

When should a man speak up? When should he keep his peace? Wisdom, which comes with maturity helps supply answers to these crucial questions.

The author of that remarkable book of wisdom, the Book of Ecclesiastes, reminds us in simple, yet penetrating cadences, that one should assess his deeds in relation to time.

Absolutes, he suggested, are refracted through the prism of changing times and circumstances.

"To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven.

"A time to be born and a time to die . . . a time to weep and a time to laugh.

"A time to mourn and a time to dance,

"A time to seek and a time to lose,

"A time to keep and a time to cast away,

"A time to rend and a time to sew,

"A time to keep silent and a time to speak!"

Suggested here is the double dilemma which faces us: not only what to do, but when to do it. The same attitude, expressed at different moments of life, with the same conviction, meaning and feeling — once it may lead to belligerent, again it may bring victory.

To be sure, the whole weight of Jewish ethical tradition is on the side of courage to speak out, to denounce evil, that it may be uprooted from the community midst.

Scripture repeatedly admonishes "Thou shalt put away the evil". And the Rabbis go a step further:

Not only must he who commits the wrong be punished, but so must he who is the victim of wrong, if he refuses to cry out in protest, as a sound of alarm for the whole community.

The sin of silence is as serious as the sin of attack — both lead to the spread of moral decay.

To turn the other cheek may not be the height of spiritual strength; more it can be the abandonment of ethical responsibility, a neutralism without convictions or principles.

To protest and to condemn wrong has been translated by Jewish teaching into a highly desirable ethical imperative.

As a people, then, Jews did not flinch from the role of history seemed to assign them — the people of protest and courageous dissent.

When we are convinced that we are speaking up for those who have been wronged — not our own petty self-interest — then we must speak out. When we truly feel the hurt ourselves — as if we were the victims — then we are obligated to speak out.

Psychologists call this quality of maturity empathy — not sympathy. When we are sympathetic, to someone, we may feel sorry for him, and yet do nothing about our sorrow.

Empathy is a deeper experience. It is the mature ability to feel our own face stapped — and to protest our hurt — when, for no good reason, another man has been stapped.

Real concern cannot end up in indifference. And real concern moves us to recognize that all of society is endangered when the defenceless are unprotected because the protected will not protest.

Those who stand idly by when the blood of others is shed are kinsmen of the murderer. They have hushed truth and buried it with the dead.

Here is the universal appeal of the Jewish prophets. They are the great dissenters of history, the great speech-makers pitted against all of the power of tyranny; little Amos speaking up to the king at Beth El; unfrightened and unflinching.

But the greatness of the prophets is not only their dissent and protest. They had another quality. Running through the most denunciatory and inflammatory prophetic speeches is a spirit of reconciliation.

They speak out because they believe in what they say they live by their words. They protest because they can see the ultimate outcome of immediate wrongdoings.

They castigate because they love the good — not merely because they hate the evil.

They teach us to know when to speak up.

Mother's Helper

A FORTUNE - TELLING CAKE was the climax of any children's party. Special small favors for this purpose —with puzzle prophecies to be read—can be purchased at novelty and stationery stores. Wrap them in foil, push them into the cake dough after it's in the pan, so there'll be one baked in each slice. Warn the children to bite cautiously!

U.C.W. Meetings

JOHNSTOWN—An "at home" was held at the home of the U.C.W. president of Johnstown, Mrs. Earl Stickle, the evening of March 9th, with a good attendance.

At the business session it was announced that the bazaar scheduled for May would be held at Glen Miller hall in the evening.

Mrs. E. Bush and Mrs. Ira Clapp are responsible for the church through March.

Mrs. Stickle welcomed the visitors.

Mrs. Ernest Bush and Mrs. Fred Meyers, who are on the social committee, presented their program for the evening. Community singing was enjoyed; these were old songs starting with "In The Good Old Summer Time", led by Thelma Stickle in one room and in another by Beverley Clapp with Mrs. Alex Vandervoort as pianist.

Blanche Bush gave an interesting reading on "A Busy Life of A Busy Wife." The quartet, composed of Betty Harry, Dolly Curtis, Douglas Harry and Earl Stickle, sang "Seek the Lord."

Arnold Harry gave a reading called "Change of Color."

Mrs. Bush and Mrs. Meyers handed each one a part of a card which had to be matched to its other part, to get a partner for contests. An interesting Bibleopoly was put on by Mrs. Bush; also a contest. These were won by Beverley Clapp, Heather Huffman and Donna Naylor.

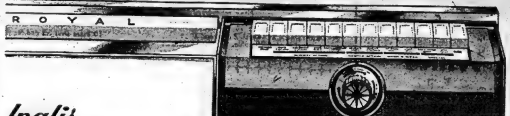
A jar of peanuts was passed around and members asked to guess how many were in the jar. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harry guessed almost the right number. Questions and answers were then passed around, causing a lot of merriment.

Mrs. Stickle asked the ladies to look at the sewing table, baking table, candy or "touch and take" tables while lunch was being prepared.

Mrs. Stickle was thanked for her kindness in offering her home for this occasion.

Friends Honor Nonogenarian On Birthday

STIRLING — On March 8th, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Munro, Wellington Street, Stirling, entertained at dinner in honor of Mrs. Jane Munro, who was observing her 90th birthday.



The guests included her three sons, Lawrence, Ernest and Lloyd, and during the afternoon several friends and relatives called to extend their felicitations. The honored guest was delighted to spend such a pleasant afternoon. Mrs. Munro was the recipient of a large decorated birthday cake and several lovely birthday cards.

Justices Think if Children Saw Father Kill Mother They Would Never Forget

OTTAWA (CP) — Three justices of the Supreme Court of Canada said Wednesday that if three children saw their father kill their mother they would never forget it as long as they lived.

Justices Robert Taschereau, Charles H. Locke and Gerald Fauteux made this observation during an appeal by Arthur James Kendall, St., against his conviction at Walkerton, Ont., last October of the capital murder of his wife, Helen Robson Kendall, in August, 1952.

Kendall was sentenced to be hanged Jan. 22 but stays of execution were granted pending appeals to the Ontario Appeal Court and the Supreme Court of Canada. His appeal to the Ontario Appeal Court was denied Jan. 29. And a date between Mar. 17 was set as the execution date.

BODY NEVER FOUND

The father of five children, Kendall was convicted of the murder of his wife when the family was staying at Johnson's Harbor on Bruce Peninsula. Mrs. Kendall's body has never been found.

Charles Dubin of Toronto, counsel for Kendall, said the Crown's case against his client was based on the evidence of three of Kendall's children. They are Ann, Margaret, and James who were aged, 9, 11 and 13, respectively, in 1952.

Mr. Dubin said if there was no reason to accept the story they told in 1952, that their father left home, there was no reason to accept their evidence at Kendall's trial. Both stories might not be true, but one story might have been made up by the children.

Mr. Justice Locke said that if the children saw the father kill the mother they would never forget it. They would remember parts of the event for as long as they lived.

Mr. Justice Taschereau and Mr. Justice Fauteux doubted that any child would ever forget such an event. They also said that the three children all told the same story.

GAVE DETAILS

Mr. Dubin said that when police questioned the children nine years ago, the youngsters said their mother had left home. He said James and Margaret described with considerable detail the mother leaving home, the circumstances in which she left and the clothes she was wearing.

At Kendall's trial, however, the children gave evidence "completely contradictory to what they had told the police some nine years before," Mr. Dubin said. They told of a commotion in the home, of hearing their mother limp in their father's room, of their father placing a blood-stained knife on a table and of their mother being dragged down the road by their father.

Mr. Crown, Mr. Dubin said, contended the children did not give a true account of the quality of what happened because they feared their father. However, the children told many opportunities during the nine years when their mother disappeared to tell authorities their father in the absence of the father.

Mr. Dubin took strong exception to the trial judge instructing the jury that it was unlikely the children would concoct their second story. This type of testimony did not impress him, Mr. Dubin argued.

SAYS EVIDENCE FRAIL

Mr. Dubin said the trial judge had not instructed the jury of the danger of convicting Kendall on events the children allegedly had witnessed when they were of tender years. Their evidence was frail to warrant a conviction.

He submitted," Mr. Dubin said, "that in the absence of the children given nine years after the event and started warning, the trial instruction and considered, tion in the trial judge's charge to the jury.

The frailty attached to the evidence of children of tender years was not solely the danger of them not appreciating the nature of an oath or the obligation to speak the truth. There also was the incapacity of children to accurately observe events, their lack of accurate memory of observed and their lack of memory to the significant recollection of events.

Mr. Dubin is asking the court to quash the conviction and order a new trial. The case continues today.

Attempt Made By Teen-Agers To Slug Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. was cursed and an attempt was made to slug him in an encounter with young teen-agers at a church he attends in Arlington, Va., last Saturday night, police reported Wednesday.

Glenn easily restrained his assailant and was not injured.

The Washington Star, reporting in the incident, says an investigation was demanded by county board members as soon as they heard of the affair, and police are busy on it.

Police Sgt. Warren Sloka said this is what happened:

Glenn, during a brief stay at home after the honors that followed his successful orbit flight, went to a home in Arlington to pick up his daughter from a teen-age party.

On arrival he found a rowdy group of youths who apparently had been refused admittance to the party.

THROWS BEER CAN

One of the gang threw a beer can into the yard and Glenn ordered him to pick it up, giving him 10 seconds to do so. Words were exchanged, but the youth complied.

When the United States astronaut (Lieutenant - Colonel) emerged from the house he heard some of the boys say they had not finished the job started at the Little Falls United Presbyterian church.

Thinking it was at they might cause trouble there, Glenn drove to the church to assist his pastor, Rev. Frank Erwin. At the church Glenn asked the boys, who were misbehaving, to leave the centre. One of them cursed and started scuffling.

Glenn ordered the youths who were misbehaving to leave and, after they retorted with obscene remarks, he said he would report the license number of their car and call police.

A boy jumped in front of the licence plaate to obscure it. As Glenn pushed him aside, one of the teen-agers swung at the astronaut, who promptly pinned the boy's arms behind the car until other persons came from the church to help.

Glenn then went into the church and called police, but the gang fled before they arrived.

'I Think I Could Do Twist' Says Mrs. Emily Runnalls, Frankford, 99 Wednesday

"I never saw it done, but I think I could do the twist."

The above comment, in reference to the newest "twist" dance craze, is indicative of the agility and confidence of Mrs. Emily Runnalls of Springbrook and Frankford, who Wednesday observed her 99th birthday.

Chipper as a five-year-old and more active than many 30 years younger, the 99-year-old Runnalls lady was the "belle" to a wide circle of friends and neighbors who called to offer congratulations and best wishes. She received well over 100 birthday cards.

Mrs. Runnalls still has her own home at Springbrook north of Stirling but for the past two years she has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Jack Dafoe, of Frankford.

HELPS WITH HOUSEWORK

She helps with the housework in her daughter's home, and, unable to remain inactive during her active years throughout the winter, hand-quilted two patchwork quilts and knitted seven pairs of socks.

Her eyesight is still extremely good and she is exceptionally active on her feet. Her hearing affliction is being slightly hard of hearing.

"I am thankful for my good health," she told a Belleville reporter matter," stated Mrs. Runnalls as she demonstrated with her arm, namely fingers.

Born in the Brighton area, Mrs. Runnalls was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cooney who moved with their family to Prince Edward Island where she was but one year old.

RECALLS OCEAN

She recalls her older brother, who died in the virgin land with oxen and she was a grown woman before such "modern" things as sewing devices as grain binders, cream seperators and churning churns came on the farm scene.

As a girl it was her job to "scare" the crows, a duties she still pokes fun at, when the crows was properly-conditioned, she would retire to the old fashioned dash churn.

Mrs. Runnalls has been married twice. Her first husband was James Fleming and all her children were by her first husband. Her second husband Abram Runnells, died about three years ago. They quit the farm about 15 years ago.

Her husband never learned to drive anything but a Model T Ford.

She has outlived two of her sons who died some years ago. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Jack Dafoe at Frankford, there is a son Nicholas Fleming, a building contractor in Mount Vernon, New York State.

The Spaniards have been on strike for 24 days. A British cook has been preparing meals for the crew. He took up of Italians, Arabs, Britons and Dutch.

Two strikers were carried from the vessel Wednesday with what their fellows claimed was malnutrition. However, port authorities said one has influenza. The other man was not ill, they said.

Representatives of the Seafarers' International Union also boarded the vessel. They said later there was no valid cause for the strike.

Police Officer Claims He Was Offered Bribe

TORONTO (CP)—A provincial police officer testified Wednesday he was told he could make $2,000 a month by accepting bribes on impending raids by the OPP gambling squad.

Constable George Scott was testifying at the trial of former OPP constable Robert Wright of Joseph McDermott, Port Credit, Ont., and Vincent Feeley, Toronto.

They are charged with conspiring to bribe information from a police officer.

Const. Scott, who acted as an undercover agent for the anti-gambling squad of the OPP after he was approached, told the court he was told by Wright that gamblers needed the tip-off to protect themselves from snoops attending the Veterans' Club in Cooksville and the Ramsay Club in Niagara Falls.

"Wright said there were few raids on the club . . . and I would not hinder my work," Const. Scott told the court.

WERE ACQUITTED

The three men charged were acquitted of a charge of conspiring to bribe a police officer. Evidence being heard in the case before Mr. Justice J. F. Donnelly closely followed that in the 1960 case.

Const. Scott told the court he and Wright set up a code to inform each other of raids. Wright told him later, he testified, that there was a change to start protection services for a proposed club in St. Catharines but that they "decided not to bother" because it would pay them only $25 a week.

Wright faces three additional counts of offering bribe money and McDermott and Feeley are jointly charged with operating a gaming house in the Toronto area.

The trial is continuing.

CONTROLLED BY MAFIA

During his testimony, Scott said Wright told him the Niagara Falls area was controlled by the Mafia, international crime syndicate.

He said Wright told him it was "controlled by a U.S. citizen identified only as Joe" and a member of the Mafia who was among those attend in a police raid on a summit meeting of underworld leaders at Appalachin, N.Y., in 1957.

McDermott and Feeley, conducting their own defence, used hand themselves referred to as "the thieves."

The undercover agent said the two and another man identified only as Ray Hamilton, also known to the anti-gambling squad as "the same-name-Ryan had left and the designation was transferred to the other Ryan."

Describing a telephone call he had with Wright in March, 1960, Scott said Wright told him Feeley Borelli was "the thieves' representative" at the Niagara Falls club.

Pet Wolf, Five Pups Taken From Owner

SUDBURY (CP)—John McGovern was officially deprived of ownership of his pet wolf, Cindy, and her five pups after Magistrate Anthony Palestrie ordered the wolf and family turned over to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

After a court hearing which failed to establish whether Cindy was a wolf or a husky, senior conservation officer Charles Bibby said Cindy and her pups will be sent to the wildlife research project at Algonquin Park.

Magistrate Anthony Palestrie said Mr. McGovern had been unlawfully in possession of a female wolf and eight pups. He ruled that Cindy was a wolf within the meaning of the act.

McGovern, carrying a briefcase packed with documents and news stories about Cindy, said he intended to appeal the court decision if he can raise the money.

He was defended at his trial by Bernard Dumont, a young Sudbury lawyer who is also a civil committee of the Sudbury Humane Society.

Cindy and her five remaining pups now are lodged in the dog pound at Salt Ste. Marie, Conservative officer Merle Watson of Sault Ste. Marie said Mr. McGovern became violent when the animals were seized March 2.

Bibby said his department had done everything possible to persuade McGovern to leave the province before charges were laid.

The magistrate said he believed McGovern had become attached to Cindy. "I don't think he would intentionally harm the animal," he said, adding there was sufficient punishment.

Smuggling of Gold, Opium In Indochina by Canadians Dates Back Seven Years

OTTAWA (CP) Reliable sources said Wednesday that smuggling in Indochina by Canadian members of the international truce commissions there dates back some seven years.

They said the smuggling of gold by Canadian servicemen began not long after Canada, along with India and Poland, became a member, of the truce commissions in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia in 1954. Most of this smuggling was between non-Communist South Viet Nam and Communist North Viet Nam. Smuggling of opium between Laos and South Viet Nam began later.

Other informed sources said Canadian soldiers caught smuggling in Indochina late last year were dealt with on the spot by their commanding officers and were not court-martialled in Canada on the same charge.

They said the Canadian Army officer involved in the case was discovered smuggling gold and was dealt with summarily by his commanding officer. The sentence was believed to be a fine together with a reprimand.

Plan to Stop Municipalities Hiring Private Agencies To Support Police Forces

BY THE CANADIAN PRE

The Quebec government's plan to stop municipalities from hiring private detective agencies to supplant regular police forces has aroused some resentment among communities that have taken the practice.

Lucien Cliche, Quebec minister of municipal affairs, announced after a cabinet meeting Wednesday that the Cities and Towns Act will be amended to outlaw such actions.

Among municipal officials opposed to the government's plan was Mayor Fernand Legault of Lacolle, the first Quebec municipality to replace its police force with a private one.

Mayor Legault said the Provincial Investigation Bureau has been polling the town for about a year and is faster, more efficient and more polite than was the regular force.

Support of the proposed ban on private services was voiced early by Police Chief Pierre Gatineau of Sherbrooke and City Coun. Bee Police and Fire Chiefs' Association. He said a private police force "is a menace to the regular police force "for its own purposes, and they might be illegal."

Meanwhile, in Edmonton, the Local Government Board of Alberta legislature Wednesday pleaded for immediate development of the province's oil sands in the province's far northeast.

Milo Macdonald, Conservative of Lacia Riche, Alta., said raising of the oil should make it possible to develop the province's oil reserves, at least on a limited basis, before the start of development of the oil sands can be undertaken.

Financier Found Guilty in Stolen Bonds Case

CHICAGO (AP) — William Hatch, Chicago financier, was convicted Wednesday in a defrauding scheme of the bonds taken in a $2,250,000 Canadian bank robbery.

A jury in U.S. district court found him guilty on four counts of the 10-count indictment. He was based on pledging $230,000 of the bonds with Chicago banks as collateral for loans.

The jurors had begun their deliberations at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Hatch, a light-haired, appleCheeked man of 38 with a carrier's cane, faces a possible maximum sentence of 40 years in prison and a $40,000 fine.

Sentencing was deferred until March 26, when testimony will be heard. Rabin remained free on $5,000 bond.

The verdict was the latest development in an unfinished international drama of bonds that stretched from Canada to the United States and to Switzerland.

The story began May 3, 1953, when $2,250,000 worth of bonds were stolen from the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Brockville, Ont., Trust and Savings Bank through a hole cut in the first floor ceiling and burned their way into the basement safe.

CLAIMS BACKED LOANS

Some of the bonds were earmarked for the Canadian construction in the Chicago trial Hatch had acquired a shelf of them and pledged $230,000 worth with banks in Chicago and Toronto as collateral for loans.

Only part of an elaborate and abortive plan, the prosecution said, to buy a European bank with the bonds used for converting stolen bonds into cash.

Only one of the burglars has been caught. He is Rene Marcel Boisvert, 36, who was arrested in 1956 to serve 12 years in prison.

Thus far there have been seven convictions for possessing stolen securities in Montreal, two in New Haven, Conn., one in Miami, Fla., and one in Chicago.

Three co-defendants went to trial with Hatch in Toronto in Jan. 15 on charges of transporting or conspiring to transport stolen bonds. Norman Rothman, 46, of Miami Beach, Fla., was found not guilty and directed verdict during the trial. The jury could not agree on others Toronto. They are George E. Rosenberg, 47, Washington lawyer who lives in Somerset, Md., and Sam Mannarino, 58, of New Kensington, Pa.

U.S. May Launch Appeal For Embargo Against Castro

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Within a matter of weeks, the along with other food.

U.S. administration is expected to launch a new appeal among the Latin powers for a trade embargo against Premier Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

The new appeal, it is understood, would be taken up at the each NATO country individually, in contrast to the broad approach made to representatives of all NATO powers at one time in Paris last month.

By negotiating with each country individually, the United States hopes to gain support for one or two NATO members who in turn might be persuaded to influence others in a gradual build-up of a stronger anti-Castro club in NATO.

U.S. authorities admit the Paris negotiations that produced the NATO powers would like to align their policies with those of the Organization of American States on Cuba did not produce the desired results.

The OAS has not gone as far as the United States in embargoing trade with Cuba. But that undoubtedly is the direction in which the OAS hopes to lead her Latin friends.

NATO reluctance to support the U.S. on Cuba is regarded by Castro's announcement of recognition for the Cuban people — a decision which American officials interpret as indicating growing internal unrest, mismanagement by his regime, coupled with a shortage of foreign currency in Cuba caused mainly by the U.S. trade embargo.

Cuban sugar, long known as land and other basic foodstuff, from the United States, paying for them with dollars from sugar sold on the U.S. market. Cubans supplemented imports with home - grown production that is easier years included development of a rather large cattle ranching industry.

It included big ranches, belonging mostly to Americans, confiscated by the Cuban regime soon after Castro took power. A lot of cattle since then have been slaughtered and now finds itself short of beef

While Cuba still produces large quantities of sugar for export, this prop is cut off from Communist countries who pay for Cuban sugar with oil, arms for Cuba's defence build-up.

Eventually, U.S. diplomats in Cuba and Washington doubtless should help lead to increased internal dissatisfaction and unrest.

They feel their policy is paying off. They can show the Allies the prospects of Castro maintaining a permanent hold on power in Cuba are more than questionable. The U.S. would be grateful to the countries who slip speed up his departure and perhaps not as grateful to those who did not.

General Vanier Making Plans For West Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier, completing five years as the Queen's representative in Canada today, is making plans for a western tour this spring.

It promises to be the kind of tour he likes best. It will combine official responsibilities with opportunities to interpret one province to another to strengthen national unity.

Plans for the trip are only in the formative stage.

Gen. Vanier, who will be 74 next month, will present new Queen's and college colors to the Royal Roads Military College at Victoria and to the Government House sources said.

The themes he has stressed in will complete the governor-general's vice-regal visits to Canada's three territories. He presented Queen's and college colors at Kingston last June and at St. John's, Que., in October.

During the western tour, Gen. Vanier probably will make a number of speeches following the themes he has stressed in the past, particularly the unity of country of various elements marching shoulder to shoulder.

Proposals for Nuclear-Free Zones May Be Major Issue

GENEVA (Reuters)—Creation of nuclear-free zones throughout the world is expected to be one of the major issues as the possible source of embarrassment to the West—at the 17-nation disarmament conference which opened Wednesday.

Observers feel the West may find itself on the defensive against initiatives by the Communist delegates, that should find support among the non-aligned nations, to designate neutral geographical areas where no nuclear arms can be stationed.

Russia signalled it might propose such a plan when it published Monday a letter to United Nations Acting Secretary-General U Thant, reaffirming support for nuclear-free zones in Africa, Central Europe, the Far East, Middle East, Balkans and "other areas of the world."

WEST WARY

The West has been wary of such proposals in the past for two reasons.

It feels creation of nuclear-free zones which are not part of a general disarmament plan would encourage power vacuums without really lessening the danger of war.

In addition, it feels the effect of such zones would be to weaken the Western military position without requiring similar concessions from the Soviet Union.

There is one aspect of the issue on which might be an advantage to the West.

If Russia proposes to create a nuclear-free zone in the Far East, it will be confirmation that the Soviet Union is prepared to deny nuclear arms to the Chinese Communists.

There have been indications in the past that Russia might be ready to take such a step in return for a guarantee that West Germany would not have atomic arms.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tests this week: A pain chemical, remedies for hiccups and the role of eye color in skin diseases.

WHY PAINT

Scientists believe they have isolated the main chemical in the body responsible for producing pain. Named Neurokinin, it was extracted from areas of skin which had been intentionally injured.

Injected into normal skin sites, Neurokinin produces pain and inflammation, report Dr. Lorand Chapman, and associates of the Neuropsychiatric Institute, University of California at Los Angeles. Neurokinin may be released by nerves in the injured area, thus lowering pain thresholds, Dr. Chapman says.

HANKERING HICCUP

Just about everyone has his sure-fire remedy for hiccups. The most important thing, though, in stopping them is to relax, says Sidney Hecht, inganalna and his experts offer other tips:

For babies, give them sips of warm water, hold the child and pat his back.

In older children and adults, one of the best remedies is to lie down and relax.

It can also be helpful to: Drink warm water; breathe in and out into a paper bag to raise the level of carbon dioxide in the blood; and if an upset stomach brought on the hiccups, take a teaspoonful of baking soda in water.

HEREDITY A CAUSE

Persons with brown eyes seem to be afflicted more often than others with skin diseases due to inheritable allergic tendencies, says Dr. Robert G. Carney, University of Iowa dermatologist.

In two studies 10 years apart, he and associates noticed that almost two-thirds of patients with atopic dermatitis, the familiar type of skin ailments, had brown eyes. Dr. Carney made other comparisons between eye color and incidence of the skin ailments, and found the same thing still true.

Eye color may serve as a rough index of skin pigmentation, he says. The skin of dark-skinned persons perhaps tends to become leathery and hardened and more susceptible to ailments than that of lighter-skinned individuals.

NEW LODGER — This iguana, a new lodger at Vancouver's Stanley Park zoo, is fed a banana by Billy Woog. The zoo acquired a pair of the large lizards during a recent Pacific expedition off the coast of Mexico. Officials are hoping they will breed in captivity. About five-feet-long, the iguanas normally lives in trees. (CP Photo).

Two Iguanas Are Captured, May Breed in Captivity

VANCOUVER (CP) — Somewhere off the Pacific coast of Mexico there's a lonesome baby crocodile who didn't want to come to Vancouver's Stanley Park zoo.

The two-pound reptile was one of nine small crocodiles caught by Mexican fishermen at a river mouth for Vancouver curator Dr. Murray Newman on his tailed trip to the sea for aquarium exhibits.

The reluctant crocodile disappeared from a box on the forward deck while they were being brought to Vancouver on the yacht Marijean, owned by B.C. lumber magnate H. R. MacMillan.

It probably dived overboard and swam back to its nest, said Dr. Newman.

Dr. Newman's new exhibits also include 14 tropical fish and two iguanas, large lizards that live in trees.

The iguanas, both five feet long, are believed to be male and female and "may breed in captivity," the curator said. MIGHT BE PREGNANT

"The female looks as though she might be pregnant. I believe they lay eggs."

The expedition will also add a 1,000-pound manta ray and a sawfish weighing 175 pounds to the aquarium.

Fishermen gave Dr. Newman the sawfish but the shooting of the manta ray was a sea saga in the best Hemingway tradition.

The manta, measuring nearly 23 feet from tip to tip, was caught in a net put out at night by the Marijean.

"It took us an hour to bring it up then we had trouble putting it into the deep-freeze so the captain took the Marijean alongside a big tuna boat which had a derrick to lift the ray into the deep freeze."

Homosexual Advance Made By Man Killed in 1919 Says Accused in Pembroke Trial

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP)—The Crown submitted as evidence in Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday a statement by 68-year-old Clifford O'Brien saying he killed a Pembroke tobacconist 43 years ago after the man made homosexual advances.

O'Brien made the statement to police at his Otto, Ont., last August after giving himself up for allegedly killing Michael Legge in 1919. He is charged with manslaughter.

Legge's mangled body was discovered on railway tracks here. A coroner's jury at the time called the death accidental. Two men, later charged with murder, were released for lack of evidence.

OPP Constable Grant Hill of Wawa read Wednesday portions of the statement made to him by O'Brien when he went to police last year.

LOOKED AT BOAT

In it, O'Brien said he had been negotiating with Legge to buy a boat and on the night of the death went to have a look at the craft.

O'Brien's statement said Legge made homosexual advances en route and O'Brien knocked him unconscious and dragged his body across the tracks. He said a train was coming at the time and he watched it run over the man.

A murder bill of manslaughter was turned in Wednesday against the part - time house painter from Wawa, Ont., after a charge of capital murder in the 1919 death was dismissed by the Supreme Court of Ontario jury.

Two other witnesses at the Ontario Supreme Court trial said O'Brien had told them the same death story earlier.

Rev. George Bombay of Mesford, Ont., said O'Brien went to him some time between 1933 and 1936 when he was Pentecostal minister in Pembroke.

RETURNS LATER

Mr. Bombay said O'Brien was drunk when he told the story but returned a few days later when he was sober to say it was true.

The minister said he asked O'Brien to go with him and tell the story to police but O'Brien refused because he had a wife and two children.

"But he promised me then that he would make a confession before he died," said Mr. Bombay.

Mr. Bombay said he had told O'Brien's father about the incident but that he refused to believe it.

SIMILAR STORY

The accused told a similar story to Brigadier Joshua Monk Salvation Army director of a clinic for alcoholics where O'Brien was treated in 1960.

Brig. Monk testified that O'Brien had been drinking heavily and he could not quite accept the story because of O'Brien's condition.

Brig. Monk said O'Brien had a guilt complex for failing to live up to the strong religious beliefs he had been taught as a young man. It was reasonably common, he said, for people in O'Brien's position to greatly exaggerate their own sense of guilt.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Len Gaudette, coach of the Galt Terriers, Canada's defending world hockey representatives, said some time ago his club would finish fourth or fifth. Had political gimmicks not caused the Russians and Czechs to cancel their invitations to the world hockey party at Colorado Springs, Mr.ieu Gaudette would have been 100 per correct.

The coach of the Swedish team said a few days ago the Terriers were the weakest team Canada has sent to the world tournament since 1954. He said they were not in the same class, or words to that effect, with the Whitby Dunlops, Belleville McFarlands, Kitchener Dutchmen, Trail and other squads. He, too, seems to be a prophet with honor outside his own country.

The Terriers are the remnants of a dead or dying senior "A" hockey dynasty in the country that gave it birth, brought is gravesides by the suicidal hand of under-the table professionalism.

You can count what is left of topflight senior "A" hockey players in Canada on the palms of your hands. The rest, orphans of priced out-of-existence teams and leagues, are grazing in the lettuce-pressure pastures of American fields.

The Terriers followed the same pattern of former Canadian national tournament representatives. A community club bolstered at the last moments by other senior players and ministerial professionals.

But clubs of other years had a strong nucleus. They fought their way to the Allan Cup national championship by defeating regional champions of almost equal calibre. They were the best "amateurs" senior-wise the country produced.

The Colorado Springs tournament may well produce the dirge that is the death-knell of Canadian prestige. For the edict has been passed that Canada-wise no reinstated professionals will be allowed to play on the country's amateur representatives.

It would seem now that the time has come when the "teacher" must take a lesson from the "students". Our senior clubs, like the Fort Arthur Bearcats, only got their share of victories playing second-class teams on a European tour. With the reinstated pro ban in effect, it would appear our best solution is to emulate European countries, and select a national team months before the tournament and train and play it as such. Either that or send the Memorial Cup junior "A" champions to do theghore.

In fairness to the Terriers they were up against a tough tournament-wise Swedish club. The Tumba Johansson and Nilsson they have two of the best players in world tournament hockey. In the rookie goalie Haegroth they had the Jacques Plante of the tourney roster.

As Lou Smrke, former McFarland star puts it, "The Terriers were not mentally up for the game. They were too confident and took the Swedes too lightly. They had the attitude that we can win. We are superior and can go out and get it anytime. They had this attitude even after they were two goals down."

"They kept saying to themselves" said Lou, "we'll do it in the next period — but the next period never came. When they realized it in the third period their 'we were up against a tough club, it was too late. Besides they played patterned hockey and Tumba and the boys got what to it yyr quicker."

"The majority of the Swedes" said Lou, "are older players who know the Canadian style of hockey. The Terriers were weak in front of the net. Three wide open chances in the first period and they goofed by not concentrating on what they were doing."

As good as the Maori Lou laughed. "Give Lammy Lamirande, Ike and a couple of the old boys and his Fopels's would beat them hands down."

Patterson, Liston

Sign for Fight Friday

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson will sign Friday for a defence of his world heavyweight boxing title against Sonny Liston.

Promoter Tom Bolan of Championship Sports Incorporated, said Patterson's attorney, Julius November, informed him that the champion will sign at 1:30 p.m. EST, probably in New York.

The announcement that beat the deadline set by the National Boxing Association for a poll of 11 members to decide whether Patterson should be deprived of the title for failing to defend against an approved challenger within a year.

Patterson's last title defence against an approved challenger was his knockout of Ingemar Johansson on March 13, 1961. He signed Tom Mcavoy to fight Floyd in Los Angeles Dec. 4 at Toronto, but the fight was not approved by the NBA.

Site and date of the Patterson-Liston fight has not yet been announced, although it is widely rumored it will be in New York in June or July.

RATED NO. 1 -

Liston is rated the No. 1 challenger by both the NBA and Ring Magazine.

The champion will get 55 per cent of the gate, and radio, television and movie rights. Liston has agreed to 15% per cent after first balking—and a return bout clause.

Conservative estimate of the gate would be $1,000,000 with double that for the radio, television and movie (ancillary) rights. It could go much higher.

Even at the conservative figure, Patterson would collect more than $1,500,000, and Liston better than $350,000. It could be the richest pay day in sports history.

Wings Lose, But Howe Scores No. 500

Leafs Dump Habs 5-2

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit right winger, Gordie Howe finally bagged his 500th goal in regular-season National Hockey League play Wednesday night.

But some of the lustre was taken off the milestone by a penalty shot awarded to Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers in the third period. The league's leading scorer beat Detroit goalie Hank Bassen for a goal that gave Rangers an important 3-2 win over the Red Wings at New York.

It was Bathgate's second goal of the game and the victory pushed the Blueshirts into a two-point lead, 58 to 57, over the Wings in the scramble for the fourth and last Stanley Cup playoff berth.

Detroit, however, still has a game in hand, having five more games to play to New York's four before the 10-game schedule ends March 25.

Elsewhere Wednesday night, Toronto Maple Leafs dumped the league-leading Montreal Canadiens 5-2 at Toronto.

The win put the second-place Leafs just five points behind Canadiens, Montreal still has a game in hand.

Barrie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion got one of Montreal's goals—the 325th of his 12-season NHL career. The goal broke a tie for fourth place with the late Nels Stewart of Montreal Maroons' fame in the league's all-time scoring derby.

Only three players have more goals, Maurice Richard retired after 18 seasons with Canadiens, before the 1958-59 season got under way with 544. Howe has 500 and retired Gordon Lindsay of the Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks had 404.

At New York, Howe picked up his big goal at 17:10 of the second period. He got it the hard way—while his own team was shorthanded.

The 33-year-old veteran of 16 big-league seasons took a pass at centre ice from Alex Delvecchio. Other Canadian hopes were pinned on Virginia Thompson of Sault Ste. Catherines, Ont., and William McLachlen of Toronto in the dance competition and on Wendy Griner of Toronto in the ladies' singles. Both Miss Thompson and Miss Griner are figure skaters.

Today's competition includes the final two figures for men, the first two figures for ladies, the two compulsory dance patterns and the men's free skating. The ice dance title will be decided Friday night and the ladies' singles Saturday night.

The Jelineks turned back Russia's bid for the first international figure skating title by pipping Ludmilla Belousova and Oleg Protopopov in the pairs. West Germany's Margret Goebl and Franz Ningel were third, while Marika Kilius and Hans Juergen Baeumler withdrew after a fall which injured Baeumler and damaged their chances.

The Jelineks who said they will retire after this competition, drew a bare majority on five first place votes. Their points margin was 26.2 to 162.1 for the Russians and their margin in ordinals was 13 to 14.5.

ENDS LONG CAMPAIGN

Our Jelineks Win Pairs Crown

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (CP-AP) — Canadian skaters were aiming for more honors today in the wake of the brilliant but close victory by Maria and Otto Jelinek in the pairs competition of the world figure skating championships.

The pair, husband brother - sister team from Bronte, Ont., skating before a capacity crowd of 18,000 in the city where they were born, beat out Russian and West German skaters for the pairs title Wednesday night.

Canadian champion Don Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., was still in the running for the men's singles title Wednesday night, although he trailed Czechoslovakia's Karol Divin.

After completion of five of six compulsory school figures, Divin had a slim victory by Maria 1,001.1 points according to unofficial tabulations, while Jackson had 971.8. France's Alain Calmat continued in third spot with 947.7 points while Hayes Alan Jenkins, McPherson of Stratford, Ont., had fourth with 931.3.

CAN OUTPOINT

Jackson, considered to be one of the world's finest free skaters, was expected to outpoint Divin in this final phase of the championships by rounding off 60 per cent in the judging.

Swedes May Play Galt In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Possibility of an exhibition game between the Swedish national hockey team and Galt Terriers at Maple Leaf Gardens here will be considered by the board of directors, President Stafford Smythe said Wednesday night.

"It might be a natural," Smythe said.

The Swedes defeated the Terriers, Canada's representatives, 5-3 in Colorado Springs Tuesday night and became virtually assured of the world amateur hockey championship.

In Colorado Springs Jack Roxburgh president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said he already has received invitations to have the Swedish team play in Victoria and Fort Arthur.

Roxburgh said he would approach the Swedes but their travel arrangements might make games in Canada difficult.

"It's terrific," 21 - year - old Otto exclaimed. "We had planned to retire a year ago. But when the 1961 championships were cancelled because of the American team's tragic plane crash, we decided to give it one more shot."

Will Join Training Camp

Bruins Tab Swede Goalie

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have replaced Lennart Haggroth, second-string goalie of the Swedish national team, on their negotiation list.

This was revealed Wednesday by Lynn Patrick, general manager of the NHL club.

"This gives us the right to negotiate with him to turn pro," Patrick explained long distance from Boston. "He will come to our training camp this September. It will be a terrific thing if he can make it. All we need is a good goalie and we can move up in a hurry."

The Bruins are a poor last in the NHL race.

Haggroth, 22 has turned in two sensational performances during the world amateur championships here. He sparkled during Sweden's 5-1 upset of the U.S. last Saturday and Tuesday night he was the big reason his team knocked off defending Can. ada 5-3 and virtually clinched the 1962 title.

WON'T BE COMMITTED

"There are a few things I have to consider before I can think of playing professional hockey," Haggroth said later.

"First I have two more years left to go in engineering school.

Then, I would like to play in the world championships in Stockholm next year and the the winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, in 1964. I have never played in the Olympics and that is the highest honor in sports.

"It is very nice to hear that Boston is thinking of me," Haggroth added, "but no contracts! I would like to play in the big pro league."

Boosters Big 'Prize Night' On Saturday

The Pepsi's Booster Club's big "prize night" will be held Saturday at Memorial Arena when the high-flying Belleville Pepsi's play host to the Lindsay Lumbermen in the first game of their best-of-five OHA intermediate "A" playoff series.

While the J-P Lamirande-coached Pepsi's will be going all out on the ice, the Booster club has done the same in arranging the "prize night."

Club president Jim Matthews says that the merchants have been more than generous with their donations and at the present time, the prize list stands at $0.

Included among the many beautiful gifts will be a 25-pound turkey, lamps, cushions nykons, wallets, cologne, drink coolers, compacts, flight bags, bike mirrors, flashlights, cigarettes, lubrications, costume jewellery, cocktail shakers and sets of glasses.

There will be no extra charge for a try at winning one of these prizes. Eggsy person who buys a ticket to the hockey game itself will stand a good chance of taking home a prize.

And, to top it off, there will be free handouts to the first 300 persons buying tickets to the game.

The Pepsi's hope to be at full strength for this one, and as coach Lamirande put it, "We don't intend to underestimate this Lindsay club."

The Lumbermen have one real good line in Johnny Horton, who scored nine goals in two games against Kingston. Ron Jewell and Don Kelly.

It should be quite a hockey game.

The opening faceoff is at 8.30.

Criticize Calibre, Praise Swedes

Sports Writers Concur 'On Terriers'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

". . . If the Galt 'Terribles' had rehearsed for a week how they were going to lose to Sweden, they couldn't have achieved their objective more effectively. . . ."

Baz O'Meara, writing in the Montreal Star, just about summed up the feelings of Canadian sportswriters following Tuesday night's loss by Canada to Sweden in the world hockey tournament in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Swedish team rolled to a 4-0 lead over Galt Terriers, then held on for a 5-3 victory.

Canadian sportswriters were almost unanimous in criticizing the calibre of the team representing Canada and the way in which it played. They were just as unanimous in praising the heady, improved play of the Swedes—especially the screeball, young goalie, Lennart Haggroth.

If they faulted the Swedes at all, it was for their "dying swan" acts which they slipped into every time they were belted by a hefty Canadian body-check.

Some of the comments:

O'Meara: ". . . The cold, hard fact is that the Terriers couldn't adjust to the basic stratagems of hockey. . . . They picked up foolish penalties. . . . You could sense overconfidence all through the team right from the start. . . . The Scandinavians didn't panic under pressure and they got gorgeous goaltending to help them out."

Ted Reeve, Brantford Expositor: ". . . It makes you shudder to think how bad our side might have looked if the Czechs—supposedly superior to anything else on ice in Europe—had showed up."

Milt Dunnell, Toronto Star: ". . . The Canadians blew this one with their heads and their heads. They couldn't shoot and they didn't seem to think. . . ."

Hal Walker, Toronto Telegram: "Galt showing last night was a sick thing. . . . Canada's prestige as a nation of underlying people, who can laugh win or lose . . . was lowered considerably. . . ."

Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal: ". . . What was surprising was the familiar story of Canadian penalties. Some Canadian clubs have learned their lesson, but the system of a new team always seems to produce another club to falter in this respect. . . . The old cry about European rules is out of date by now."

Mike Rodden, Kingston Whig-Standard: "The Swedes . . . surpassed the Canadians in stick-handling, passing, breakaways and observance of the rules. They were the more resourceful team and Terriers were more than slightly frustrated."

Len Taylor, Kitchener-Waterloo Record: "It was obvious early in the tourney that the Swedes were a major threat. They need to continue their lessons and learn how to play 60 minutes without several exhibitions of the "Swedish swan," an act which Hollywood may enjoy. . . . Two of the factors that determined the outcome . . . were the atrocious Canadian marksmanship and unbelievable goaltending by . . . Haggroth."

George H. Carver, Belleville Ontario Intelligencer: "If Canada is to regain her prestige she will have to form, train and send a national club recruited from the best senior amateurs in the country, not a weak individual club bolstered by over-the - hill reinforcements. And with our best senior 'amateurs' playing with American clubs, it is doubtful if a team of the calibre of former world champions can be obtained. . . . Galt Terriers were far from the best that could have been recruited from the ranks of those who resisted the lure of across-the-border inducements."

Carl Fletcher, Galt Reporter: "Terriers showed inability to score, coupled with foolish penalties) . . . and a 22-year-old Swedish goalie stood the Canucks on their heads and emerged as the individual hero of the tournament."

Hugh Newman, Guelph Mercury: "The fact that they couldn't put the puck in the ocean was the big factor last

Canada Defeats Norway

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP)—Canada has the next 48 hours off in the world hockey tournament after its 14-1 victory over Norway Wednesday night, hopeful that title-bound Sweden will lose a game and give the defending champion Canadians a mathematical chance to reach the top rung once more.

The unbeaten Swedes have beaten both Canada and the United States and now face the easiest part of their schedule—three games on successive nights against Britain, Norway and West Germany.

If all goes according to form, Sweden should clinch its first world title since 1957 Saturday night against the Germans. Two more wins and a tie is all that Sweden needs to earn the 13 points that would put the champions beyond the reach of either Canada or the U.S., who each have two games to play.

MIGHT TIE UP

A combination of a Swedish loss and a pair of Canadian wins would throw the tournament into a points-deadlock. In that event, Sweden and Canada would be tied with 12 points, The tournament winner would be decided on the best goal spread—the difference between goals scored and goals allowed.

But only the scores of the games played among the first five countries in the final standings would be added up.

Should the U.S. be the case, Canada's 14 goals against Norway would be a decisive factor since the Norwegian figure is a flat fourth or fifth.

The lopsided win was Galt "terriers' best performance of the tournament although the Norwegians didn't dress their scoring ace, Bjorn Elvenes, saying him for the game with Sweden Friday night.

Jack McLeod and Floyd Martin each scored three goals for Canada while Bill Wylie had two. Norway didn't score until after Canada led 8-0.

The United States admitted it wasn't trying too hard in winning a sloppy 13-5 decision over Britain, a country that didn't want to take part in the championship class in the first place. Canadian-born players on the U.S. squad scored eight goals. Dick Roberge, a native of Hoosiers, Sask., netted three.

FINNS BREAK DEADLOCK

In the other championship game, Finland broke a 4-4 tie with three goals in the last seven minutes to defeat Switzerland 7-4. Heino Pulli, Teppo Rasanen and Matuna Nurmi scored the winning rally. Pulli netting the third and Rastio his second of the game.

For the happy Finns, who arrived as Canadian of Finnish descent, Ville Wirkkunen of Fort Arthur, Ont., it was their first victory after four losses.

Japan virtually clinched the consolation championship with a 7-3 triumph over Austria to remain undefeated at 5-0 with only The Netherlands and Denmark both much weaker clubs, left on the schedule. Saito Nawata scored four goals.

Sweden, Canada and the U.S. are in a three-way tie for first place in the first division, each with eight points on 4-0 records. But Sweden has a goal-for margin of 14-1 over Canada's 14-2 and the U.S. 13-2.

CHANGES LINEUP

After the gruelling 5-3 loss to Sweden, Canadian coach Lloyd Ronbeck made several changes in the lineup for the Norwegian game.

John Sotlak spelled Richard (Boat) Hurley at goal and turned in a creditable performance with 15 saves.

The Canadians scored four goals in the first period, five in the second and five more in the finale Martin scored two of his goals in the opening session and added his third in the final period to bring his tournament total to eight goals and three assists for 11 points.

McLeod knocked in two within 30 seconds of each other in the second period and wound up the scoring in the third period. He is tied for fourth scoring honors with Martin and Ted Sloan. McLeod has six goals and five assists and Sloan four goals and seven assists.

Captain Bob McKnight was hurt in the rout. He received a stiff-stitch gash on the forehead in the second period.

"We're going to be mean from now on," said Ronbeell.

"The spirit of the fellows is good. You can bet they aren't going to lose any more games here."

"COLLOSSUS OF RHODES" Giant Spectacle From Metro-Goldwyn Mayer, Rory Calhoun Heads Cast.

The spectacular fighting scenes and daring physical feats called for in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer romantic spectacle, "Colossus of Rhodes", opening today at the Belle Theatre, required actors with plenty of brawn, and "Muscle Men", from all over Europe were recruited for the big action picture in Color and Cinemascope.

Italy, Spain and France each contributed an Olympic standing athlete, Mimmo Palmara, who plays a Greek patriot in the film, was once a member of Italian National rugby team. Fernando Calzado, a noted weightlifter, won Spain's national title and the Castilian weightlifting championship four times.

Yann Larvor, a powerfully built athlete, won the title of "Mr. France" in 1959. His brawn has won him roles in several spectacle films, including "The Vikings" with Kirk Douglas.

Rory Calhoun and lovely Les Massari are the romantic interest in "The Colossus of Rhodes". Rory can also hold his own in the athletic department. He twice was an inter-conference boxing champ as a middleweight and lightweight, winning a total of fifteen bouts.

AT THE PARK — Beautiful Linda Cristal, as the queenly and seductive temptress of the Nile, and the cruel Pharaoh, played by European star Armando Francioli, in a scene from "The Pharaohs' Woman", opening Friday at the Park Theatre, TechniScope and color screen spectacular. Walter Cronkite Takes Over Edwards' Seat on Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A combination of ratings rivalry with NBC and a recent change in top management in the news department probably is the cause of CBS' sudden switch of Walter Cronkite in Douglas Edwards' seat on its early evening news show.

Edwards, on the air at the dinner hour for almost 14 years, is a steady, unemotional type of reporter.

Cronkite recently has been attracting critical bouquets on "location" assignments. He was CBS' top reporter covering John Glenn's space trip, and was also praised highly for his thoughtful, well - prepared interviews with former president Eisenhower in a return there - part CBS reports series.

CBS, since it took a bad licking on U.S. political convention coverage two summers back and hired a new commentator, Edward R. Murrow, has been trying to find a way back to its former news pre-eminence.

AT THE PARK — Audie Murphy plays as ex-gunfighter who goes on a deputy marshal's badge to lead a citizens' posse from the four outlaw killers in Universal-International's "Posse From Hell", opening Friday at the Park Theatre. The feature is in color and has war-time flashbacks with John Saxon in the outdoor color adventure. On the same program in Technicolor "The Pharaohs' Woman", starring Linda Cristal and a cast of thousands. Both features are first showings.

GETS GOOD OFFER

Edwards, whose CBS contract still has 18 months to run, wanted to leave the network, which offered him only a five-minute mid-afternoon news show to replace the prime-time plum it is taking away. He has received a good offer elsewhere.

His request, however, was turned down on the simple ground that "Doug opposite our show on another network would be harmful to CBS."

Actually, the shift may not be all bad for Doug. It will give him a chance to get back into real reporting for the first time since 1948. A daily network news program does confine a man—even if the cocoon is mink-lined.

Woodstock Edges Maroons

CHATHAM (CP)—Woodstock Athletics moved four points ahead in their best-of-seven game Ontario Hockey Association Senior semi-final Wednesday night as they scored a 5-4 victory over Chatham Maroons.

The game, before more than 700 fans, saw the two clubs battle to a 1-1 first-period score and Woodstock grab a 3-2 second-period lead which they never relinquished.

Gerry Theberge fired two goals to pace the victory. Single markers were tallied by Rio Caron, Buddy Horne and Lefty Marc Aiselle.

For Chatham, playing coach Ted Power tallied a pair, with Ernie Dick and Dave Laciuk getting the others.

Maroon goalie Al Bennett turned aside 28 shots in the first period kept Maroons in the game as he made 11 saves. Woodstock had 20 shots of at least four sure goals.

Wilsons Turn Back Lightfoots

Trenton Wilsons, taking a commanding lead in the game's opening minutes, turned back the Belleville Lightfoots 70-58 last night. Brighten Wilsons led at the top of the Bay of Quinte Basketball League.

The Wilsons moved past the Lightfoots by opening up a 14-1 lead in the early minutes of play. The winners led 34-20 at half time but the Lightfoots, led by Don Smith, rallied and pulled up to trail by a slim 43-40 score at one point. Then the Wilsons rolled away again to cop the decision.

Joe Theriault and Witt Borden were the big scorers for points. Carl Crews contributed 14 and Gil Blanchet had ten.

Don Smith topped all scorers by hooping 26 points for the Lightfoots. 22 of them in the game's second half. Gord Mutter had 12 and Gary Davis nine.

In a game Tuesday night, Picton Prospects defeated Northern Electric 54-32.

BELLEVILLE - LIGHTFOOTS (58): F. Newsome 2, D. Smith 26, M. Caswell 7, G. Reynolds 2, G. Davis 9, G. Mutter 12, B. Marner.

TRENTON WILSONS (70): C. Crews 14, G. Blanchet 10, W. Borden 21, J. Theriault 21, M. Jeffery, D. Burke 3, E. Clarke 1.

Portland Buckaroos set a season attendance record Tuesday night but San Francisco Seals made the most progress on the ice.

The Seals scored a key win by edging Vancouver Canucks 3-2 to move into the third and last playoff position in the Southern Division.

Portland defeated Calgary Stampeders 6-2 before 9,632 fans and Edmonton Flyers beat Spokane Comets 5-1 with 3,170 fans looking on at Edmonton.

The Portland crowd raised the Oregon club's unofficial paid attendance for 34 home games this season to 274,412 and eclipsed Portland's own mark of 263,397, set last season in the regular 35-game home schedule.

night but in the over-all picture it adds up the established fact that senior hockey in Canada has slipped several notches in the last five years. This along with the normal rate of improvement by the European teams has put Canada in the position where our teams are no longer sure bets to win tournaments. Canada's best, and second best, hockey players are playing pro."

Jack Parr, London Free Press: "It wasn't apparent last year or the year before that, it should be now that Canada no longer is away off by itself as the 'major' amateur hockey power of the world . . . There will no doubt be quite a campaign organized to have Canada quit international amateur hockey. What kind of an international image will we reflect if we quit just because we are no longer best. Teams like Japan, Germany, Australia and so on have been coming to these tournaments for years with no hope of even coming close to winning."

Despite Retirement Since '38 Harold Lloyd Is Never Bored

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The important thing in life is to wake up each morning with anticipation about what you are going to do that day. It could be your work; it could be your hobby. But you must have something to look forward to."

This was Harold Lloyd speaking.

The great movie comedian retired from acting in 1938, when he was 45. Except for one brief return, he has stayed retired. But he has never been bored.

The reason is that Lloyd has pursued his hobbies with the same thoroughness with which he made film comedies. He is perhaps the world's greatest hobbyist.

"To be of any use to me, a hobby must obsess me," Lloyd explained in his huge Beverly Hills mansion, one of the last of the great movie showplaces.

"I can only be involved in one hobby at a time, and I never plan ahead. I never know what I am going to do next, but something always turns up."

Lloyd gave me a tour of his home, explaining his obsessions along the way. First stop was the cavernous living room, site of his current hobby, stereo music. Four card tables in the center of the room held specially-made turntables and control boards.

STACKED ALL OVER

Around the room were 20 different speakers; albums were stacked all over the room; a large, concealed closet contained more.

Total: $4,000.

Lloyd displayed a seasonal hobby in an adjoining room, it was a big Christmas tree, 15 feet tall and almost cylindrical.

Actually two trees, some limbs had been added and reinforced with bamboo to hold the weight of hundreds of brilliant ornaments, most the size of a tangerine.

"We put up last year's in December and took it down the following December!" the comedian said. "But I don't think this one will last that long."

He continued upstairs to his photography room, where he has filed 200,000 stereo slides filmed all over the world. His photography phase followed his painting, he said, and that resulted from his study of color. He has been the same story with golf, handball, microscopy, chess, checkers and bowling.

Where does he go next?

"I don't know what it will be," he said. "But I do know that it will be fascinating and I won't be bored."

Asks for Help With Budget

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I often read your column and find it very interesting and helpful. Now I have a favor to ask of you.

Would it be possible for you to send me a budget in regard to an income of $5,500.00, with house payments that amount to $100.00 a month, and old debts that amount to $75.00 a month, incurred in the loss of our business, but which we hope will be paid up in two years' time.—TRYING HARD.

* * *

DEAR TRYING:—I am sending you a booklet which suggests proportions for allocating money on a budget. You will see that amounts differ according to number in family. You would also have to allow for the old debts.

Because of these and other individual variations, I would suggest that your best plan is to discuss budgeting with an agency which is helping people with such matters all the time. This is the Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I need help bad. You see I was married to a man when I was 15. It was awful. My husband would not work or when he did he would drink all the money, so I went to work.

I worked hard to keep my marriage right, but he would come home drunk and fight with me all the time. I left him a year ago.

* *

I met a boy my age and we started to go out together. He asked me to marry him, so I asked my husband for a divorce. But he laughed at me and told me he didn't need a divorce so he wasn't giving me one.

So now I am living common law with the boy. We are very much in love. We would love to be married, but it seems impossible right now. All we can do is hope and pray that soon we can be married.

Now this is our problem. I am going to have a baby. We want the baby to have his father's name, but don't know how to do this. Can I get my Hospital Services insurances in my common law husband's name? He is supporting me completely and that way my baby would have his father's name.—P.M.

* *

DEAR P.M.:—Common law is where both parties are in a position to marry. So this term does not apply to you.

However, if the man you are living with is supporting you, he may obtain a family contract with the Hospital Services, and this will cover your hospitalization.

The child may be registered in his name, if he admits paternity and is supporting you.

* * *

TO FIFTY YEARS MARRIED:—Let me be the first to congratulate you! What do you consider the secret of your successful marriage?

Even though you were married in December, a summer celebration is quite proper, and obviously much more convenient for everybody. The come -and-go tea is often done and gives everybody a chance to have a visit with you.

Serve little dainty sandwiches, cookies, cakes and tea. Friends and relations will want to help, so share the honors when it comes to providing home-made cookies and so on. Be sure others pour and serve, so that you and your husband will be free to chat with all who come.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO MIXED UP:—Would it surprise you to know that one of the reasons girls give in to "free love" is to get back at their parents? Don't get caught in this.

There is nothing abnormal about the way you feel. You are spoiled and so much self-discipline is hard for you.

Write to your friend, explaining about that night and your quarrel with your parents. Then talk to your mother about the nagging. She is worried about you and is trying to prevent trouble.

If you stop defying her and ask for understanding, you may be able to start a new trend of thought and friendship.

* * *

TO YEARNING:—Know what? Right in your own class there are boys who think the same way about the girls. They are far too shy to do anything about it.

Most girls your age are not with boys. But keep on mixing. Enjoy your girl friends and attend school functions. Gradually our teen-agers come out of their shells.

* * *

(Don't let life get you down. Write to Doris for a new look at your problem. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a private reply.)

Grave Problem, Woman Digs For Living!

SHAWNEE, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Paulina Williamson, mother of three, knows how to keep warm in the winter digging graves.

"I prefer to work in the winter because the digging keeps me warm—I'm too hot in the summer," said Mrs. Williamson.

She's been working late at night and isn't afraid of ghosts.

"I wish a couple of them would come along and sit off the edge of the grave while I'm working, so I could have someone to talk to," she said. "It's pretty lonely work at night."

Using a hand shovel and an axe—to cut roots—Mrs. Williamson can dig a grave in about three hours.

She started digging graves in 1956 to supplement the family income.

Her husband, George, a foreman for a construction company, doesn't entirely approve but their three sons say it makes a great subject of conversation.

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—For the third time in its 100-year history, the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry will receive new colors, it was announced Wednesday.

The colors will be presented by Governor-General Georges Vanier at ceremonies which will highlight the regiment's 100th anniversary year.

The presentation will take place June 30 in civic stadium.

Formed in 1862 as the 13th Battalion Volunteer Militia (infantry), the regiment received its original colors from Mrs. Isaac Buchanan, wife of the first commanding officer.

These were carried by the 13th until 1901, when the Duke of York, later King George V, presented new colors.

Jackie Gives Playroom To Children

NEW DELHI (AP) — Art-loving Jacqueline Kennedy presented a portable playroom and art studio to the children of India Wed. and said "the art of children is really the same the world over."

"So, of course, is our feeling for children," the U.S. president's wife added in the first brief speech of her nine - day visit to India, "in a world where quite enough divides us, it is good to plumb a feeling and an emotion that unites us all."

The portable, eight - sided playroom-studio was a gift from the International Council of New York's Museum of Modern Art and the Asia Society. The prefabricated structure equipped with art materials is still on its way to India, and Mrs. Kennedy delivered a token color photo album of the little building to Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister Nehru's daughter.

The room is designed so teachers can watch children's reactions from outside the room without being observed by the tots. The idea is to keep the child's creative impulse from being inhibited by the presence of adults.

Hunt Missing Plane With 107 Aboard

Believed Down In Pacific Ocean Near Guam Island

93 U.S. Army Personnel On Way to Fight Reds

MANILA (AP) — An armada of U.S. ships and planes, criss-crossing 75,000 square miles of the western Pacific, today reported no trace of a chartered American airliner missing with 107 persons aboard.

The four-engined, super-constellation of the California-based Flying Tiger Line disappeared between Guam and the Philippines on a flight from California to South Viet Nam.

Traves Air Base said the plane carried a crew of 11 Americans, 93 U.S. Army personnel and three south Vietnamese. Four women were among the crew.

It was the third major airmishap this month. The loss of a Marine jet would be the third worst disaster in aviation history involving a single plane.

The plane took off from Guam at 8:37 p.m. Thursday carrying fuel for about nine hours flying for the 1,600-mile, eight-hour hop to Clark Air Force Base, north of Manila. It was last heard from 80 minutes later when the pilot sent a routine radio message to Guam from about 270 miles west of that U.S. island base.

DECLARED MISSING

The Clark Field recalcitrant confusion centre declared the airliner missing this morning. A U.S. Navy spokesman said it is believed the plane went down closey to Guam than to the Philippines.

U.S. bases in the western Pacific marshalled a task force of surface ships and air forces, navy, marine and coast guard planes.

Search searchers scoured an ocean area stretching 750 miles east of Guam and 90 miles wide along the transport plane's route. Cloudless skies and calm seas were reported.

The airliner, piloted by Capt. Gregory P. Thomas, 46, of Red Bank, N.J., and Capt. Travis Bell of northern California Tuesday.

It was assumed in Saigon that the 93 U.S. Army personnel aboard the plane were to join U.S. forces helping the government's fight against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Two of the worst disasters in aviation history involving single three days of each other early this month.

On March 1, an American Airlines Boeing 707 jet crashed in Jamaica Bay, killing all 95 persons aboard. On March 3 a chartered British airliner crashed in Morocco, killing 72 West African Republic of Cameroon and all 111 persons aboard were killed.

William Adams Canada's Most Wanted Criminal

OTTAWA (CP) — William Adams, 40, of St. Catharines, sought since 1949 in connection with his father's murder, is Canada's most wanted criminal, the RCMP said today.

Adams, born in Timmins, has been on the RCMP's list of most wanted criminals since 1953. He has worked as a crane operator, machinist and salesman.

Also on the list is Donald William Jones, 28, wanted by Kingston police for robbery with violence. He is considered "dangerous."

Jones escaped from Kingston penitentiary last April 2. Police believe he rode out of the prison underneath a coal truck used to have made his escape by swimming across Portsmouth Harbor when the truck stopped at a water-side coal dump. He has not been heard or seen of since.

Prison authorities said Jones was one of 40 prisoners who escaped from the four federal penitentiaries in Ontario here last year. He is the only one of the 40 still at large.

By trade, the Ottawa - born man is a stationary engineer and mechanic. Police said Jones was also known under the alias of Charles Burgess, Ronald Allison and Anderson.

A revised list released today contains the names of six men.

The others, in the order they stand on the list, are:

John Frederick Meagher, 31, of Toronto, wanted by the Metropolitan Toronto police for escaping custody in 1956 while en route to court to face charges of armed robbery.

Roy Edward Holowaty, 36, and Donald Edward Kelly, 28, both wanted for escaping from the Saskatchewan penitentiary at Prince Albert Nov. 12, 1961, the men, both serving 10-year terms for robbery with violence, may be armed and are considered dangerous.

Roger McLean, 37, wanted by Quebec Provincial Police for escaping custody Dec. 5, 1961, and wounding with intent. McLean was convicted in Ottawa Nov. 22, 1962, charges of armed robbery and sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary. Mc-Lean is considered "extremely dangerous," is escaped from Montreal where he is known to have several charges.

Donald Steven Jones, 28, alias Charles Burgess, alias, Ronald Allison, Anderson, wanted by Kingston police for escaping custody. He is considered "dangerous." By trade the Ottawa-born man is a stationary engineer had mechanic.

FLEMING PLEADS WITH OPPOSITION TO END DELAY

Wants Estimates Passed Quickly

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming pleaded with opposition MPs Thursday to end the "delay" in passing his latest budget as supplementary spending-estimates for the fiscal year which runs out March 31.

He claimed that some suppliers' accounts already are overdue and "certain employees cannot receive their mid-March pay" because Parliament has not voted the necessary funds.

The appeal touched off an uproar of protests from Liberal members, Mr. Fleming had to leave for a meeting and missed most of it.

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) called it "another big bluff by the minister of finance" and challenged the government to name the suppliers and employees involved.

DEBATE SAME ITEM

Then, in obvious defiance of Mr. Fleming's request, the opposition spent the rest of the afternoon and all of the evening debating the same supplementary spending item it has been on since Tuesday night.

The item, under the labor department, was the topic again today.

The latest set of estimates, involving 61 items totalling $115,457,429 is the fourth supplement, the first having been introduced since Mr. Fleming tabled the main 1961-62 estimates a year ago. A fifth and final set lies ahead.

Only seven days of debate the House has passed 22 of the 61 items, which range over various government departments. And some key departments, like national defence are still to come.

Traditionally the opposition makes much use of spending debates because of the opportunity they afford for criticizing cabinet policies.

DEMAND DETAILS

Mr. Pickersgill and Lionel Chevrier (PC—Montreal Lasalle) demanded details about who got the $115,000.

The finance minister was not in the House but his parliamentary secretary, Mark Bell (PC—Calgary) called the request "unusually ridiculous."

Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming) said with a grin: "I suppose Mr. Bell will ask civil servants to get down to the bank and get their cheques, just in case."

William M. Benidickson (L—Kenora-Rainy River) complained that Mr. Fleming did not present the current estimates until Feb. 8. They were for put up for debate until Feb. 27. Then the session began until March 2.

The financial critic added that it is common for a finance minister to keep a "little" money in contingency reserve.

Dante's Inferno and Trinity Church Negotiate Love Thy Neighbor Pact

TORONTO (CP)—Dante's Inferno, where souls writhe to the torment of jazz, and the Church of the Holy Trinity, where the music is infinitely more reverent, have been pitched into a love thy neighbor pact.

Leon Wolfe, co-proprietor of Dante's, a late night and early-morning jazz and pizza den on downtown Yonge Street, was charged with creating excessive noise by pushing jazz thru 60-watt hi-fi speakers outside to lure clientele inside.

The music disturbed churchgoers and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frank, spiritual head of the congregation catching the music on Trinity Square across the road, complained to police.

Court Frank Kolbay testified in magistrate's court Wednesday he penetrated the gloom of Dante's last Thursday and complained. He advised Mr. Wolfe he would be summonsed to court, the constable testified, on a charge laid under a city bylaw.

"What did you find when you went to the club?" asked Magistrate James Butler.

"I could hear no noise outside the club, nor was there any noise inside the premises," replied the officer.

"What time was it?" pressed the magistrate. "About 10:12 p.m.," answered Constable Kolbay.

"But he's charged with making noise after 10:00 p.m." exclaimed Magistrate Butler. "That's right," responded the witness.

"The charge is dismissed," grumbled his worship.

The proprietors of Dante's, who open their inferno at 10 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and seal it at 3 a.m., and Archdeacon and Mrs. Frank, joined in amiable conversation about a compromise.

Red 'Cosmic Ship' in Orbit, Have 'Invulnerable' Missile

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev claimed today that Russia has developed an invulnerable "global missile," following up an announcement that a Soviet "cosmic ship" was orbiting the earth.

Khrushchev said United States radar systems would be useless against the "global missile" since it could strike from any direction.

"So as people say, you can expect fi through the door and it comes through the window," the Soviet leader said.

He claimed there was no defence against the missile which could "fly in any direction and land at any spot." The weapon is made the U.S. as militarily vulnerable as any country in the world, he said.

The huge U.S. investments in radar protection would be useless against the new rocket, Khrushchev claimed.

Khrushchev made the announcement of the launching of the "cosmic ship" — the same phrase used to describe the globe-girdling vehicles that carried Russia's two spacemen into orbit — while interrupting a speaker, at an election meeting attended by 6,000 persons in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses.

He said the ship had gone up at 3 p.m. Moscow time (7 a.m.).

Tass news agency said it was "not an artificial earth satellite launched with a view to continuing the Soviet program of space research." There also was no announcement whether a man or other living being was aboard.

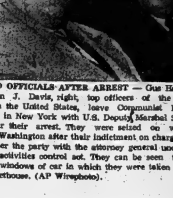
Moscow radio said the satellite was unmanned and was orbiting the earth every 93 minutes at heights of 135 to 610 miles.

Engineers' Brotherhood Sets Early Date for CNR Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR said today it has been told its 2,700 engineers will go on strike April 2 if a new labor contract is not agreed on before then.

A statement issued by CNR President Donald Gordon and N. J. Macmillan, executive vice-president in charge of operations, called the decision "most regrettable."

It said the CNR must immediately consider warning shippers of possible embargoes on freight.



This action "in itself would have serious effects on our business," the statement said.

G. J. Travers, assistant chief of the union in Canada, was expected to give details of the strike threat at a news conference scheduled for later today.

Although the union's 4,500 members had authorized a strike against both the CNR and the privately-owned CPR if necessary, the CPR if reported not involved in the union's strike call.

The CPR and its engineers are reported to be on the verge of signing a new contract.

PICTON COUPLE FLACED ON SUSPENDED SENTENCE

A Picton man and his wife were each placed on suspended sentence for a period of one year in city court Thursday afternoon when they pleaded guilty to a charge of shoplifting, from a local chain store.

James Covey and his wife, Mildred, pleaded guilty to the charge. The theft consisted of a leather jacket and several pairs of rubber boots, under $50.

Inspector J. McLauchlan told the magistrate that the two accused persons were arrested near the foot bridge, at the rear of Eaton's store.

To Seal off Fire Hydrants Unless Somebody Pays Rent

TRENTON—"There's no two ways about it, somebody's got to pay for those hydrants in Murray Township," said Reeve Mount Park sub-division, across the town's border in Murray.

At yesterday's regular meeting of the commission, chairman Charles Hilton and commission members Clifford A. Baker and Mayor James MacDonald, considered a letter from township solicitor R. S. Gaisley, which stated in effect, that the township had no interest in paying the rental fee. Mr. Gaisly will be sent a copy of a commission resolution which reads, in part, "inasmuch as the township of Murray has refused to assume responsibility for providing hydrants to residents in the Westmount Park sub-division, and whereas the commission charges a rental fee of $60 per year on each hydrant, somebody's got to pay for those hydrants in Murray Township."

At least, that's the general feeling of Trenton's Public Utilities commissioners.

Last month, commission secretary Jim Page was directed to write to Murray Township council, requesting a rental payment of $60 a year, per hydrant, supplied to the Westmount Park sub-division, across the town's border in Murray.

Last month, commission secretary Jim Page was directed to write to Murray Township council, requesting a rental payment of $60 a year, per hydrant, supplied to the Westmount Park sub-division, across the town's border in Murray.

Mayor MacDonald insisted that the resolution would hold good only until such time as a decision on annexation in the area had been reached. He said if the area were annexed, the town would then take over the annual rental payment. If annexation does not take place, (a decision on this by the Ontario Municipal Board is pending) the payment fee will be reschedueled and the sub-division or the residents themselves may find themselves paying a higher rental.

Members of the commission feel that they can't justify charging the same rent for the hydrants if they supply the service free to out-of-towners, as they do the township residents whose homes are adjacent to the hydrants, would get rebates on their insurance.

Kiwanis Follies '62 Attracts Large Opening Night Crowd

TRENTON — Kiwanis Follies, '62 produced and directed by Bill Lund made its bow to Trenton audiences Thursday night.

The largest opening night crowd ever . . . as far as the Kiwanis Follies are concerned goes . . . alternately rocked and rolled with the hilarious antics of the Rondesauntettes and brought the roof of the high school auditorium down with thunderous applause.

General audience reaction was overwhelming. Chorus work, overheard in the hall, during intermission: "They get better every year."

And they do. The comedy is hilarious; the songs are presented in a more professional manner; the dances lead to toetapping and the part of the audience.

Messrs. Long and Cowgill are no respecters of persons and . . . or institutions. The much talked about plan for "togetherness" of the established churches, comes in for a wonderful roasting. Nothing or nobody . . . is sacred. From the ruling head of the United Church conference to Pete' Lawford's brother Bob, everything and everybody in the news comes in for a spoofing.

Woven in with the laughs are sweet songs; patriotic songs; new songs; old songs, all handled with finesse.

Everyone in the show is a "star", but honorable mention for a job well done, should go to Trenton's "Mr. Showbiz," Bill Long; the versatile talents of Burke and Bannon and the charming Miss Judy Lynn Bee Knight, who this year has added choreography to her many talents.

Gals in the cast, who alternate as chorus girls, solo songsters and background scenery, include Glenda Jeffery, Nora Lee Van Bascom Ione Bee, Judy Lynn Bernadette Logan Iris Hawker, Dianne McGuire, Carol Ann Bannon, Dianne Graham and Joan McAdam.

The boys . . . Doug Bannon, Bob Burke, Tom Fraser, Tim Perry, Ken Hall, Bob Hamilton, Al Hall and Roy Hawker . . . strole on and off stage, going through what must be the fastest costume changings in the show.

The inimitable Mr. Long, calls the shots, sings and dances, directs the show with obvious gusto from the orchestra pit, and occasionally, at the piano to go and back to piano again; singing along with the chorus girls, dancing at the jokes he must have heard a thousand times.

Mrs. Blaine Young of Glen Miller has done her usual outstanding job with the costumes. Scenery is credited to Bud Bresnahan.

A first this year is a four-piece orchestra, organized by Gerald Hamilton.

General chairman for the Follies is Ken Hall. Everything and the behind the scenes chores have been taken over by Bob Hamilton, Bill Long (stage manager); Moe Jeffery, (property manager); Bud Lilley (lighting); Al Perry and Ted Snider, (publicity); Nick Pisani (ticket sales); Dick Bennet (house manager) and Al Weaver (program manager).

Proceeds from the show are used to assist the Trenton Kiwanis Club in its many benevolent projects.

$12,225 Debit Is Shown By Town's 13th Hydro Bill

TRENTON — The Trenton Public Utilities Commission meeting yesterday, considered the thirteenth bill for supply of power to the town for 1961, which had arrived from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission. This shows $13,-225.89 due over and above what the commission had paid for supply in the 12 months' interim bills for the year. It exceeds last year's 13th bill by approximately $10,000. Last year, the Trenton commission asked that the interim payment rate be increased, to be in line with the thirteenth bill.

Commissioner Baker pointed out that in the past 5 or 6 years the commission had gone into debt approximately $10,000, on the 13th bill with the October body to a debit balance of $12,000.

Utilities manager Jim Page and Commissioner Baker will seek an early meeting with Ontario hydro officials to find out how other municipalities stand.

The commission awarded a contract for the supply and installation of two aluminum doors for the filtration plant to the Flynn-Seal Company at the asking price of $580.80 per door.

Aldermen of Trenton will supply and install a large ventilation blind for the filtration plant at a cost of $46.80 to the commission.
